$800,000 OF CONTINENTAL BONDS WENT TO O'NEIL

W. S. Fitzpatrick Tells Oil Investigators They Were Turned Back to Prairie Oil Co.

SENATE MOVES TO REARREST STEWART

Calls on District Attorney to Act When Standard Magnate Is Released by Habeas Corpus Writ.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—While Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, was forcing his release from custody of the Senate today, the Public Lands Committee uncovered the trail of an additional $800,000 in Continental Liberty bonds, tracing them from James E. O'Neil, missing witness in the Fall-Sinclair conspiracy trial, to the treasury of the Prairie Oil & Gas Co.

After the Continental company's activities had been brought to light in the trial of the Teapot Dome civil suit at Cheyenne in 1925, O'Neil made a hasty trip from Paris to Montreal to make restitution of these bonds to the Prairie Oil & Gas Co., which in turn paid them out in ordinary business transactions. Part of them were sold and postpaid to the Prairie Pipe Line Co. in settlement of debts.

This testimony was given to the committee by W. S. Fitzpatrick, who succeeded O'Neil as chairman of the board of the Prairie Oil & Gas Co. and to whom the bonds were delivered after these two had conferred for two days at Montreal.

At the conclusion of Fitzpatrick's testimony the committee expressed its appreciation of his frankness in testifying, a frankness which Chairman Nye said "has been unusual in these hearings."

Tied Up by Sinclair Trial.

The bonds are now held with coupons intact in the treasury of the Pipe Line Co., Fitzpatrick said, because O'Neil had asked that they remain uncashed while Harry F. Sinclair was in difficulties with the Federal authorities.

With the discovery of this $800,000 of the Continental Liberty bonds, the committee now knows what became of $1,033,000 of the $3,000,000 in profits the Continental made by selling oil at an advance of 25 cents a barrel to the Prairie Gas and the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Co. The other $233,000 passed from Sinclair to Albert B. Fall after the lease of Teapot Dome.

Senate Act Promptly.

By obtaining a writ of habeas corpus Stewart froced his release from custody by the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate while that body was waiting to try him for refusal to answer questions put by the Teapot Dome committee. Stewart gave $1000 bond signed by Robert F. Fleming Jr., president of the Riggs National Bank, and was ordered to appear for a hearing Tuesday. Justice Jennings Bailey of the District of Columbia Supreme Court issued the writ.

The Senate at once passed a resolution offered by Walsh (Dem.) of Montana, directing the President of the Senate to certify to the District Attorney of the District of Columbia, the committee's report concerning Stewart's refusal to answer questions asked by the committee concerning the disposal of Liberty Bonds held by the Continental Trading Co. Ltd.

Another resolution by Walsh providing for the employment of counsel to represent the Senate in any proceeding relating to Stewart was referred to a committee.

May Order Re-Arrest.

Although Stewart gained his liberty it is pointed out that under the usual procedure in such a case the District Attorney might order his arrest when the Senate proceedings were certified to his office, and take the case before the grand jury. Even then Stewart would be entitled to bail, however. District Attorney Gordon was unwilling to forecast his course in this regard.

The writ was obtained 15 minutes before the Senate convened with galleries and floors jammed and with all arrangements made for receiving and sentencing Stewart.

MACHINE GUN USED TO GUARD SCHOOL

Protection for Building Fired on in Mining District at Broughton, Pa.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 4.—The school house in the mining town of Broughton, closed when shots were fired into it several days ago, will reopen Monday under the protection of a machine gun manned by an Allegheny County Deputy Sheriff, Robert H. Braun, Sheriff, announced today.

The Sheriff said the situation in the mining village was quiet. He felt that a machine gun would go far toward preserving the quiet and protecting the pupils. He said he did not expect any further trouble.

The Broughton shooting, United Mine Workers' leaders charged, was done by non-union miners who, in addition to shooting into the school house, also fired shots into barracks occupied by striking miners and their children. Officials of the Pittsburg Terminal Coal Corporation, owners of the Broughton mines, said non-union men were not involved.

According to Justice of the Peace J. M. O'Rourke, Hampton Matthews, Negro, a non-union miner, made an affidavit that he participated in the shooting because coal and iron police gave him $25 to start the trouble. Coal company officials said later that they had obtained a statement from the miner saying the officers did not pay him and that force was used to make him sign the affidavit. Today O'Rourke denied that the Negro was abused.

THREE IN ONE FAMILY KILLED, TWO HURT WHEN CAR UPSETS

Driver, Who Was Unhurt, Says Machine Skidded Into Ditch.

By the Associated Press.

KANKAKEE, Ill., Feb. 4.—Three members of one family were killed, another probably fatally injured an da fifth hurt today when the automobile in which they were riding skidded into a ditch and overturned near St. Anne, when it tried to pass a truck.

The dead are Mrs. William German of Dalton, Ill.; a son, Bennie, 6, and a girl known only as "Curly," about 4. William German, the husband and father, is expected to die adn Jimmie, another son, about 10, is seriously injured.

The family was riding in a touring car owned and driven by Henry Bykhuiven of South Holland, a friend. Mrs. German and the girl died a few minutes after the car overturned and the boy died as he was being taken to a hospital. The family was on the way to Milford. The driver, who was uninjured, said the car skidded on the slippery pavement and went into the ditch.

ANOTHER LINDBERGH TROPHY

Parachute That Twice Saved His Life to Be Exhibited.

The parachute with which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh twice jumped from disabled airplanes as a pilot on the St. Louis-Chicago air mail route, is to be donated to the Missouri Historical Society by the Robertson Aircraft Co., Harry B. Perkins, secretary, announced yesterday.

The parachute will be the central decoration in an air mail booth at the Auto Show opening tomorrow and afterward will be placed among the Lindbergh exhibits in Jefferson Memorial.

92 ARRESTED IN WHOLESALE RAID UPON HANDBOOKS

140 Detectives Descend on 64 Places Whose Operators Are Booked on 'Suspected of Gambling.'

RECORDS OF BETS HELD AS EVIDENCE

Action Follows Supreme Court Decision Upholding Police in Trapping Bookmakers.

It was post time at race tracks in New Orleans, Havana, Cuba and Tijuana, Mexico, yesterday afternoon, but it was raid time in St. Louis, for 140 detectives descended upon 64 alleged bookmaking establishments within a few hours after the State Supreme Court had upheld police methods in such raids.

Ninety-two proprietors and clerks of shops of various sorts were arrested and booked by the police as "suspected of gambling." They were released on bonds of $200 each. Hundreds of racing forms, or records or horse performance, and tabs, or records of purported bets, were seized.

This evidence will be examined by police officials and the Circuit Attorney's office then will be asked for warrants charging gambling, a felony, against as many as possible of those arrested. Chief of Police Gerk, who ordered the raids, admitted that prosecutions in the State Court might be difficult and that many of the cases might end in Police Court on misdemeanor charges of possession of gambling apparatus.

Tom Kearney Among Them.

Among those arrested are Tom Kearney, proprietor of a cigar store at 407 Walnut street and Joseph J. Foster, owner of a news store at 410 Washington avenue, both long known as bookmakers.

The Supreme Court decision upheld the police practice of trapping bookmakers by placing bets to obtain evidence. However, no reports that yesterday's raiders placed bets in order to make cases were received. Chief Gerk and Chief of Detectives Kaiser declared the raids had been planned for some time as a result of an increased number of complaints by wives and employers of horse and dog-race gamblers. Yesterday, the department heads asserted, just happened to be an opportune time, many criminals having been got out of the way by arrests on Friday, and spare detectives being available.

Customers Not Molested.

Augmenting the hedaquarters detective force were special officers called in without warning from outlying districts. They were assembled at Police Headquarters shortly before 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Officials detailed them in twos and threes, and sometimes fours, to raid specified establishments, most of them downtown. They swooped down on the places when the trade was briskest—coinciding with the parades of racers to the posts at New Orleans, Havana and Tijuana.

Shops ostensibly set up to sell cigars and cigarettes were the places chiefly raided. Others were pool rooms, bootblack stands, pressing shops and office building suites. The raids were ended generally by 2:30 o'clock. Numerous customers were in the shops, but they were not searched or molested.

Chief Gerk said he had Detective-Sergeant Stewart, head of the Gambling Squad, prepare a list of suspected handbooks last Wednesday. It showed 152 bookmakers, of whom 76 are downtown, and including some who do business "in their hats."

Chief of Detectives Kaiser declared the number of persons here gambling on the races is on the increase weekly. Police officials said the Supreme Court decision would bring continued activity against bookmaking.

ALIENIST THINKS SLAYER HICKMAN FEIGNED DELUSION

Dr. P. E. Bowers Testifies at Sanity Hearing He Found Conclusive Evidence of This.

SKIN WRITING TEST MADE ON DEFENDANT

Stripped to Waist in Court While Doctor Marks Body With Thumbnail to Prove Health.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 4.—Defense counsel's cross-examination of Dr. Cecil Reynolds, the prosecution's alienist witness in the sanity trial of William Edward Hickman, today brought a reiteration from Reynolds of his testimony that he found "not the slightest trace of any illusion or hallucination" in Hickman.

"Delusions of divine guidance," which Hickman asserted controlled him when he abducted and killed 12-year-old Marian Parker, were not affecting the youth, Dr. Reynolds testified. By "watchful waiting," he said, he found them to be absolutely absent. He added he had been informed one of the "defense alienists was overheard deliberately coaching Hickman in this 'divine guidance' delusion."

Jerome Walsh, defense attorney, took up the entire first court hour hammering at the testimony of the witness. Many of the questions, Reynolds asserted, were so vaguely or poorly stated that they "could not be answered in any manner."

Reynolds admitted under Walsh's attack, that he had not attempted to determine by direct questioning if Hickman was ruled by "delusions of divine guidance." He explained that direct questioning and suggestion were the most "impossible methods of obtaining the truth."

Declares Hickman Sane.

Dr. Paul E. Bowers of Los Angeles, the State's next witness, described himself as a surgeon, specializing in diseases of the brain and nervous system, and a professor on these subject at Loyola College. He testified that after making a thorough physical examination of the defendant, talking with and questioning him on four occasions, and observing his daily conduct during the trial, he "would say that he was sane."

Bowers testified the prisoner had no organic or nervous disease whatever, and that the physical examination proved him to be entirely normal in health.

Bowers said Hickman had denied to him that divine guidance had directed the murder. He quoted Hickman as commenting, it "wouldn't have been a very kind providence" that would direct such a crime.

Evidence that Hickman knew right and wrong was declared by Dr. Bowers to have been instanced in reply to his questioning on love and marriage. He testified Hickman said people get married because they love each other and care for a family.

"Couldn't they love and have a family without marrying?"

Hickman replied:

"Yes, but that would be contrary to law and the rules of society."

Bowers testified he found no hallucinations and no true delusions, but conclusive evidence of an attempt to feign delusions. Admission was made by the witness that rial testimony of Hickman's family history indicated "psychopathic parents" and "bad heredity," which "often constiutes a predisposition to insanity." That testimony was drawn under cross-examination. Bowers added, however, that it did not necessarily result in insanity.

Skin Writing Test.

Hickman was stripped to his waist in the courtroom that the witness might demonstrate for the jury that the youth's skin was not in the diseased condition which is indicated by "skin writing."

Bowers then drew with his thumb nail, a large letter "H" on Hickman's chest and back. He had testified that if the disease was present the red marks drawn would remain more than three minutes.

The defense contended the lines were observable after that period, and Dr. Bowers admitted there was present a slight indication of a "diffused" skin-writing condition. He declared the "diffused" condition was not proof of disease as the traisings had not remained in raised form. He said the three minute test merely indicated a temporary condition, possibly from

U. S. INTERVENTION POLICY RAKED BY TEN NATIONS AT HAVANA CONFERENCE

THREAT TO TAKE G.O.P. CONVENTION FROM KANSAS CITY

Arrangement Committee to Meet Thursday to Discuss City's Failure to Provide Facilities.

ONLY 2000 ROOMS LISTED, NEED 4000

Cleveland Mentioned as Place Most Likely to Be Selected if Original Choice Is Reversed.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Political Washington was keenly interested today in the possibility that the Republican national convention will be taken away from Kansas City, Mo., because of the failure of the hotel keepers of that city to make available a sufficient number of rooms.

Cleveland was mentioned as the city most likely to get the convention should the Republican National Committee reverse its previous decision in favor of Kansas City.

Strong dissatisfaction with the room situation was voiced at a recent New York meeting of Chairman Butler and other members of the committee directly concerned with the making of arrangements. The number of rooms which had then been listed with the committee as available for officials, delegates and newspaper men was less than 2000 as compared with an estimated minimum requirement of about 4000. In asking for the convention to Kansas City boosters had promised a total of 9000 rooms.

Notice was immediately served upon the Kansas City committee arranging for the convention that more rooms would have to be forthcoming.

A meeting of the Arrangements Committee of the National Committee will be held here Thursday. The room situation will be the chief topic discussion.

Several Congressmen complained loudly today that they had been unable to get rooms at Kansas City, and declared if the shortage were not remedied they would endeavor to have the convention taken elsewhere.

GIGOLOS MUST BE LICENSED

Police Declare Professional Dancing Partners Menace to Morals.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—Because many of them have proved to be as light fingered as they are light footed, the gigolos, the professional dancing boys of Paris, are to be licensed like taxi chauffeurs.

By a new police order, every gigolo must register and secure a card bearing his number, description and photograph. Minor offenses will be noted on these cards, and if the total mounts high enough, or if the youths just can't learn to keep their fingers out of their partners' pocketbooks, they will be banned from the waxed floors of the dance places.

In announcing the registration of the gigolos, police described them as a menace to morals and a phase of low life introduced by foreigners. The action was brought about by the frequency of cases listed on the records under the general heading "pocketbook stolen by dancing partner."

NEW MOVE IN VARE INQUIRY

Senate Committee Again Tries to Obtain Certain Ballot Boxes.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The Senate Campaign Funds Committee today asked the Supreme Court to review the refusal of the Federal courts in Pennsylvania to order Delaware County to deliver ballot boxes in the last senatorial elections in that State.

The jurisdiction of the committee was challenged in the Federal District Court which held that the question was one for legislative determination. The ballots were cast in the Vare-Wilson election, which has been contested.

Contrasting Views at Havana On Policy of Intervention

DR. VICTOR MAURTUA of Peru, who presented the report on fundamental rights and duties of nations to the Pan-American conference at Havana, asserted that this "Is an age of interdependence and solidarity among nations. * * * Independence is not an absolute right but is limited by the duties of international co-operation. * * * In the American continent especiall, international co-operation has a special physiognomy. * * * It is based, however, on internal sovereignty and the external independence of nations."

SENOR HONORIO PUEYRREDON of Argentina declared the sovereignty of states consisting of "the absolute right to entire internal autonomy and complete external independence," must be consecrated in law and practiced in fact or "international juridical harmony no longer exists. * * * Diplomatic or armed intervention, permanent or temporary, is an attempt against the independence of states without finding its justification in the duty of protecting the rights of nationals since the same right could not be exercised in their turn by weak countries should their subjects suffer from convulsions in strong countries."

KELLOGG STARTS TODAY ON HIS VISIT TO CANADA

Secretary and Wife Will Be Guests of U. S. Minister During Stay.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Secretary of State Kellogg announced he would leave here at noon tomorrow for Ottawa on a good will visit to Canada, but said he did not expect to make any address or discuss international questions with Canadian officials. Kellogg, accompanied by Mrs. Kellogg, will be the guest of United States Minister William Phillips. They will remain in the Canadian capital until Thursday afternoon and Phillips has arranged various social functions for their entertainment, including a reception in the House of Parliament and a sleigh ride.

Viscount Willingdon, Governor General of Canada, and Premier MacKenzie King, who recently visited Washington as the guest of the Canadian Minister, Vincent Massey, will join in welcoming the Secretary of State.

305 DRUGGISTS ORDERED TO LEAVE CONSTANTINOPLE

Only Reason Given by Ministry Is That Free Clinics in Anatolia Need Pharmacists.

By the Associated Press.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 4.—All but 85 of the city's 390 druggists must pack up their pills and start for the wilds of Anatolia Monday or else give up business altogether.

On that day a drastic law passed at the last session of Parliament goes into effect, limiting pharmacists to one shop for every 10,000 population. There are 850,000 people in Constantinople.

"My ministry has opened 150 free clinics in various parts of Anatolia, where medical science never permeated before," Dr. Refik Bey, Minister of Hygiene, told the Associated Press. "But the Government can't afford to open drug stores, too, so, realizing that there are more pharmacies in Constantinople than in all the rest of Turkey, we decided to limit the number and force druggists to move into Anatolia."

A number of druggists, undesirous of either going to Anatolia or shutting up shop, are evading the law by consolidating.

$1,500,000 GIVEN RECEIVERS

Judge Makes Award for Services to C. M. & St. P.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—Judge Wilkerson of the United States District Court today awarded $1,500,000 to the receivers, counsel, trustees and others for services in connection with the receivership of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad, recently dissolved.

The list is headed by H. E. Byram, Mark W. Potter and Edward J. Brundage, receivers, who were awarded $100,000 each as salary for that office. They received additional money for other duties.

Interior Department Bill Passed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The Senate today passed the Interior Department appropriation bill, carrying $274,400,000, the fourth of the regular supply bills to be disposed of this session.

FRENCH AIRMEN FLY FROM MEXICO TO NEW ORLEANS

Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Lebrix Make 1100-Mile Nonstop Flight in 10 Hours.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 4.—The French flyers, Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Lebrix, arrived in the United States today, landing at New Orleans on their flight from Mexico City at 5:16 p. m., central standard time.

The flyers left Mexico City at 7:10 o'clock today, central standard time, in their plane, the Nungesser-Coli, completing the 1100-mile non-stop flight in slightly more than 10 hours. They will go from New Orleans to New York.

Costes and Lebrix, the first flyers to make a non-stop crossing of the South Atlantic, flew from France to South Africa, thence to South America, Central America and Mexico, touching United States soil for the first time here today.

Police had difficulty restraining a large crowd of persons from rushing upon the plane when it landed. The flyers did not emerge until the Nungesser-Coli had been wheeled for some distance to a concrete runway.

First to greet the flyers were Mayor Arthur J. O'Keefe of New Orleans, Maurice de Simonin, French Consul here, and Andre LaFarge, local attorney.

After posing for photographers, the flyers entered an automobile with the Mayor and started to their hotel.

The flyers, through an interpreter, said they encountered no difficulties on the trip, although they bucked stiff head winds for a short time.

PAIR, RECONCILED AFTER SEPARATION, END LIVES

Tennessean and Wife Leap Hand in Hand From Bridge Into Holston River.

By the Associated Press.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Feb. 4.—The story of a husband and wife who had been estranged, then reunited, only to leap hand in hand to their deaths into Holston River was told today in dispatches from Bluff City.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Barry, 45 and 40 years old, respectively, were said to have leaped from a bridge into the river near Bluff City, in Eastern Tennessee. Their bodies were recovered.

They had lived near Elizabethton until a short time ago, when they separated. Barry went to Virginia, but returned recently and effected a reconcoliation with his wife. The cause of what authorities said undoubtedly was a suicide pact was not learned.

ARGENTINA CALLS FOR LAW AGAINST MEDDLING

Storm Breaks After Hughes' Indorsement of Report Sanctioning Acts of Washington.

MEXICO JOINS IN OPPOSITION

Delegates Say That Maurtua Findings Fail to Provide Protection for Weak Countries.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA Feb. 4.—A series of international principles proclaimed by the United States as forming the basis of its policy in the Western hemisphere were criticized, attacked and denounced at the Pan-American Conference today by the delegates of 10 countries.

The attack, which has been brewing ever since a report on the fundamental rights and duties of nations, prepared by Dr. Victor Maurtua of Peru, was published Thursday, broke with stunning suddenness today as soon as Charles Evans Hughes, head of the American delegation, had finished a speech giving the Maurtua report the full and unconditional support of the American Government.

Following each other without delay in short speeches remarkable for a lack of oratorical flourishes, speaker after speaker arose to pour a greater or lesser measure of censure on the Maurtua proposal.

Argentina, Mexico, Guatemala, Salvador, Santo Domingo, Honduras, Colombia and Uruguay joined with varying degrees of intensity in assailing the principles approved by the United States.

Opposes Intervention.

Gustavo Guerrero of Salvador, chairman of the committee on public international law where the discussion took place, abandoned the chairmanship so as to be able to participate in the debate. Sounding the keynote of the remainder of the debate, he was on his feet hardly before Hughes was through speaking and delivered a speech in which he finally proposed that the recommendations of the jurists' conference at Rio de Janeiro be substituted for the Maurtua proposal.

The jurists' report unconditionally condemns the intervention of one state in the internal affairs of another while the Maurtua report expounds the principle that the independence of countries is correlated with their duty not to "interfere with or violate the rights of other states."

In presenting his report Dr. Maurtua asserted that the principles included in it contained the fundamental rights of all states which are above treatties since they do not let in the power of states to contract away. He declared that this "is an age of interdependence and solidarity among nations."

Says Independence Is Limited.

"Independence is not an absolute right, but is limited by the duties of international co-operation," he said.

"In the American continent especially," he continued, "international co-operation has a special physiognomy. It is more intense than in the rest of the world. It is based, however, on internal sovereignty and the external independence of nations."

Those countries which are most jealous of their independence, he

WAGES FIGHT ON WATERED STOCK IN BRIDGE PROJECTS

Congressman Cochran Demands Specific Provisions to Protect Investors in Such Securities.

100 MEASURES NOW PENDING IN HOUSE

St. Louisan Would Limit Bond Issues Against Structures to Cost Plus 10 Per Cent.

BY CHARLES G. ROSS.
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—In the face of importunities by a score of interested Congressmen, Representative John J. Cochran of St. Louis stood pat today on his determination, announced yesterday in an effective 10-minute speech in the House, to block the passage of any bridge bill that does not contain a specific provision protecting the investing public against watered securities.

It has long been the practice of the House to pass bridge bills—bills authorizing the construction of bridges over navigable streams—by unanimous consent. Hundreds of measures of this sort have been put through the present session and about a hundred more are due to come up Monday.

Cochran served notice that unless his demand for protection of the public should be met he would object to every one of these measures except only those dealing with railroad bridges which come under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission and those sponsored by municipalities, counties and states.

Hits at Unrestricted Grants.

What Cochran is hiting at is the unrestricted grant of power to individuals and private companies to build highway toll bridges. He pointed out that in the bills now before Congress there is no limitation on the amount of bonds that may be sold to the public by promoters for the construction of bridges. He proposed as a uniform amendment that bonds issued against the building of a bridge by a private concern should not be allowed to exceed the cost of construction plus 10 per cent and that prior to the issuance of any such securities the Secretary of War should determine the permissible amount.

One of the bills for which Cochran has whetted his knife would authorize E. M. Elliott and a associates to build a bridge across the Missouri River from the end of the Olive street road into St. Charles County. It was introduced by Representative Niedringhaus of St. Louis.

Cochran said that efforts also had been made in St. Louis to create sentiment for the building of a bridge from Carondelet across the Mississippi River to Dupo, Ill., but that this project had not yet come before Congress.

Cochran read into the record an editorial from the St. Louis Post-Dispatch entitled "Missouri a Helpless Spectator," which set out that holding companies for public utilities, according to authoritative opinion at Jefferson City, are beyond the control of both the Missouri Public Service Commission and the State "blue-sky" department.

No Law Against Watering.

"There is no law either in my State or in the Federal statutes," said Cochran, "which would prevent a promoter from issuing $4,000,000 in securities for a $2,000,000 project. I have had cases called to my attention in which individuals without doing more than promoting the projects have made a great deal of money out of the right given them by Congress to build bridges. They assign their rights to others before the actual construction commences.

"Some of the promoters live in states hundreds of miles from the location of the bridge. They are interested from a monetary standpoint only and there is now no check whatever on their financial operations.

"Congress must extend some safeguard to the people who buy the bonds. I want the people of my State to be protected, especially when men from other states come there to sell securities for projects not only in Missouri but throughout the country. Money for the building of bridges in all parts of the country is obtained by the sale of bonds through investment bankers in St. Louis. And if the bonds are such that the investment bankers won't handle them they can be peddled to the public by solicitors.

"If securities exceeding the value of a project are issued it is manifest that the investor runs a grave risk of losing his money through depreciation of the bonds.

For Bridges People Want.

"I have no objection to the building of bridges that the people want. All that I ask is that the public be protected against improper financing.

"A gentleman came to my city the other day and offered to build a bridge. He was looking for the co-operation of people in the city. He said he was backed by a certain firm in New York that had decided to set aside $25,000,000 or $50,000,000 for the construction of bridges. I have no objection to this or any other concern doing the work at a reasonable figure and under reasonable safeguards for the investing public."

Representative Newton of Minnesota, a member of the committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, interrupted to say that it was the practice of that committee before reporting a bridge bill favorably to require a written statement from the member in whose district the bridge was to be located. "I will say to the gentleman," retorted Cochran, "that I have personally prepared bills—not since I have been a member of Congress but when acting as Secretary to representatives and Senators—and that at no time has the committee ever asked for a written expression of any kind in connection with any of the bills I have prepared and not one of the bills I prepared ever failed to pass under the unanimous consent agreement."

Newton explained that the practice of requiring written indorsements has been put into effect during the present Congress.

Cites Water Power Act.

Cochran likened the situation to that which existed several years ago with respect to water power. It was the custom then to pass by unanimous consent all manner of bils granting the right to build dams across rivers for the purpose of generating electric power.

Finally Representative Henry T. Rainey of Illinois began to object. President Wilson called Rainey to the White House and commended him. The upshot was the appointment by Mr. Wilson of a commission out of whose labors grew the present water power act.

"I am going to object to these private bridge bills from now on," warned Cochran. "If you pass them, you will do so over my objection, and as you know," he added significantly, "I spend my time on the floor while the House is in session."

More Continental Bonds Traced

art if he denied to the Senate itself the information he had twice declined to furnish its oil committee.

Spent Night in Custody.

While the committee was hearing the story from Fitzpatrick Stewart had surrounded himself in his hotel suite with a battery of legal advisers. He had spent the night in the custody of a deputy sergeant-at-arms of the Senate after his arrest by direction of the Senate by unanimous resolution late yesterday.

The decision to seek a writ of habeas corpus was reached with barely time for its execution before the Senate met at noon. The court was in recess over the week-end, but attorneys found Justice Bailey, and promptly laid their application before him.

Stewart, through his counsel, asserted that the questions at issue were not pertinent to any legislation which Congress must pass, that they constituted an attempt to investigate personal affairs of citizens of the United States; that they were not within the jurisdiction of the Senate under the resolution empowering the oil investigating committee to act.

He also contended that the procedure violated the Constitution, especially the fourth and fifth amendments, and particularly the provision that no person shall be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law.

The writ was issued forthwith and a Deputy Marshal served it upon John McGrain, the Senate deputy standing guard over the oil operator. McGrain immediately surrendered his prisoner, who was taken at once before Justice Bailey, and fixed next Tusday for the hearing, and admitted Stewart to bond.

Senate Disappointed.

While the court was acting Senate officials had completed their plans for receiving Stewart, who was to have been marched to the bar for such punitive action as might be decreed should he reiterate his refusal to testify.

City police had augmented the Capitol force and guarded the lanes through the Capitol grounds to the Senate wing over which Stewart was scheduled to pass. Photographers, with flashlights ready, were banked around the entrance where the oil man was expected.

In the Senate chamber members were in their seats and a triple fringe of members of the House and Senate officials was ranked about the walls. The galleries had long before been choked with spectators.

But all were doomed to disappointment. As the gavel of Vice President Dawes opened the session Davis S. Barry, the sergeant-at-arms, appeared at the main entrance doors, without his prisoner.

"Mr. President," said Barry, "acting under instructions of a warrant issued to the sergeant-at-arms by the President of the Senate, Robert W. Stewart was taken into the custody of the Senate. He has applied for and obtained a writ of habeas corpus, which is returnable Tuesday, Feb. 7."

A sigh of disappointment ran through the galleries and evidences of resentment were reflected in the scowls of numerous Senators, some of whom subsequently voiced their indignation.

Fitzpatrick's Story.

W. Samuel Fitzpatrick, chairman of the board of directors of the Prairie Oil & Gas Co. testifying before the Teapot Dome Committee disclosed that in May, 1925, O'Neil former head of that company, stole back from France, where he had been in hiding for two years, met Fitzpatrick and other officers in Montreal, Canada, and turned over to them $800,000 in Liberty bonds, representing his share of the Continental's illegitimate profit. O'Neil's action was prompted by a belief that his death was near, and a desire to make restitution, the witness said.

As has been told, Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall received $268,000 in Liberty bonds and cash for secretly leasing the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve to Harry Sinclair. The bonds were purchased out of profits made by the Continental Trading Co., a dummy concern which bought 33,333,333 barrels of oil at $1.50 a barrel and resold it at $1.75 a barrel to the Prairie and to the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Co., the latter being owned by Sinclair and the Standard of Indiana.

It has been known that Sinclair, Stewart and O'Neil participated in the deal, and it has been charged that they organized the Continental as a means of extracting an $8,000,000 profit at the expense of their own companies. Actually $3,000,000 was made before the Continental was abandoned. All of it was invested in Liberty bonds, part of which were traced to Fall.

O'Neil Returned $800,000.

Fitzpatrick, a little homespun man with the amiable manner of a country Judge, told his startling story with every appearance of candor.

"Can you," inquired Senator Walsh bluntly, "give us any information as to what became of the Liberty bonds purchased by Continental Trading Co.?" "All I know is that $800,000 of them came to Prairie Oil and Gas Co. through James E. O'Neil."

"How was that?" inquired Walsh. "Well, he told me they were his share of profits of the Continental. He said he had always felt they belonged to the company and to save them."

At Walsh's admonition to go ahead and tell what happened, the little chairman proceeded with this narrative: "In May, 1925, I received a telegram from Mr. O'Neil at Montreal asking me and Judge Flannery, our general counsel, to meet him there at once. We did. He told us he had had a share in the profits of the Continental Trading Co. He said he had always felt that this money belonged to the Prairie and he wanted to make restitution. He said he had always kept the bonds intact, intending to return them. Some of the coupons had been cashed by mistake so he gave some additional bonds to make up that deficit.

Made No Income Return on Bonds.

"He said he had made no income tax return on the bonds because he had always intended to return them to the company. The doctors had told him that he had only 18 months or two years to live and he wanted to make things right while he could.

"He asked us a favor not to cash the coupons. He said that Mr. Sinclair was on trial at Cheyenne and he didn't want to do anything that might injure him. That is to say O'Neil thought that if the coupons were cashed the bonds might be traced by the Government, thus leading to the disclosure of evidence which would be used against Sinclair.

"I asked him whether the bonds were mixed up in Teapot deal. He raised his hand and said he would swear before God that he never knew anything about Teapot Dome."

Walsh shot back: "Then how could the cashing of these coupons possibly injure Mr. Sinclair? If they had no connection with Teapot Dome why was Sinclair's name lugged in?"

"I don't know, Senator," said Fitzpatrick frankly. "I didn't ask him and he never gave any explanation of it. As a matter of fact I asked him if there was any more he wanted to tell me about it and he said, no, there was not.

Making Restitution.

"As I understand it," said Walsh, "he wanted to make restitution of the profits which he had taken at the expense of his own company?" "That was it," said the witness.

"And were you satisfied that this $800,000 represented what O'Neil had made out of the deal?" "I believed it absolutely."

Walsh thereupon made some rapid calculations and showed that up to the time O'Neil turned over the bonds the Prairie had paid in profits to the Continental more than $1,200,000.

"That's true, Senator," said Fitzpatrick, "but he gave me every reason to believe that he was not alone in the Continental. I did not understand that he got all the profits made out of the Prairie."

At this point Fitzpatrick recalled that Clark Koontz, president of the Prairie Pipe Line Co., a subsidiary of the Prairie, was also present at the Montreal meeting. He said O'Neil gave Koontz an order on his son, Wayne O'Neil, who lived in Brooklyn, for the bonds. Koontz and Fitzpatrick went to New York and Koontz got the bonds and turned them over to Fitzpatrick.

"I took them back to Independence and called my board of directors together," the affable witness continued. "I told them what had happened. I also told them that in my opinion this represented all the profit that Mr. O'Neil had got out of the deal and that I had accepted it as full settlement."

Part of the bonds were sold, he said, and part given to the Prairie Pipe Line Co. in payment of obligations. He admitted that the Pipe Line Co. deliberately refrained from cashing the coupons in order to protect O'Neil.

"Brought Up" by O'Neil.

"You want to understand," he said, "that every one of us loved Mr. O'Neil. He made all of us—brought us up, gave us the position we now hold. We still love him. This is the only transaction in which he ever engaged that seemed the least bit questionable. So when he told me it was all he got, I believed him. He showed a disposition not to talk about it, and I didn't press him, because I didn't want to know any more about this business than I had to."

Here Fitzpatrick remembered that Koontz had visited O'Neil in France a few months earlier, and upon his return had told Fitzpatrick that O'Neil wanted to see him.

"As soon as I heard that," the little chairman said in his homely manner, "I had the feeling that sooner or later the thing was going to happen which did happen at Montreal."

"On what was that feeling based?" asked Senator Bratton.

"Well, sir, it made me suspect that maybe after all he had been in the Continental Trading Co., and knowing Jim O'Neil as I did, knowing his religion, and knowing the state of his health, I didn't believe that he would go to the grave with a dollar in his pocket that belonged to the Prairie Oil & Gas Co. I believed that if he had any money that belonged to the company we would get it before he died. And we did."

Committee Impressed.

The impression made by the witness on committee and spectators was remarkable. His devotion to O'Neil and his determination to be honest in his testimony were equally apparent. These, coupled with his quaint mode of expression, gave remarkable color and flavor to his appearance.

As he left the stand Senator Walsh said: "On behalf of the committee, Mr. Fitzpatrick, I want to thank you for your candor and for the assistance which you have given us in our endeavor to unravel these matters. We realize that you have been frank under circumstances which have been painful and embarrassing."

"I want to indorse that sentiment," added Chairman Nye. "During this investigation the committee has not been accustomed to the frankness which you have displayed here, and the committee appreciates it."

The little man was almost overcome. His face flushed, he started to speak, and then, apparently fighting back tears, mumbled an almost inaudible "Thank you."

Before Fitzpatrick's departure, however, Walsh took pains to ascertain from him the address of O'Neil's son. Undoubtedly the son will be called to explain when, where and how he came into possession of the bonds which he was keeping for his father. It is the juiciest new lead which the committee has uncovered.

Both Sinclair and Stewart have contended, however, that the Continental was organized by Harry M. Blackmer, head of the Midwest Refining Co., now a Standard subsidiary, and that Blackmer forced them to pay a profit of 25 cents a barrel on the oil.

Blackmer is also in Eprope, like O'Neil, a fugitive from a Subpena. Fitzpatrick's testimony shattered that defense, revealing that O'Neil was a party to organizing the Continental, and that others were associated with him.

Fitzpatrick explained that the $800,000 represented the principal and accrued interest of O'Neil's "split" from the Continental's profits. This would indicate that his original share was one-fourth of $3,080,000 profit massed by the Continental. Consequently, it would appear that four men were in the Continental.

Who Was the Fourth Partner?

There is evidence now that Sinclair, Blackmer and O'Neil were in it. Stewart vehemently denies that he was the fourth man, and many are disposed to accept his denial. That leaves the identity of the fourth partner a mystery.

At any rate, the $3,080,000 was converted into Liberty bonds and divided by the partners. Sinclair used a part of his share to bribe Fall. That leaves certain interesting questions. Sinclair still had more than $500,000 of his share left. Was it necessary for him to use part of the remainder in bribing other officials in order to get Teapot Dome? Was part of it contributed to the Republican National Committee, as has been reported? O'Neil, according to Fitzpatrick, made full restitution of all he received out of the deal. What did Blackmer and the mysterious fourth partner do with their shares—pocket them all? And who was the fourth partner?

Fitzpatrick bluntly admitted that O'Neil, in turning over the bonds, asked him not to cash the coupons until all court proceedings against Sinclair were ended, because he feared the bonds might be traced, and evidence obtained which might convict Sinclair. With equal bluntness, Fitzpatrick admitted that the request had been granted, and that the coupons had not yet been cashed by the Prairie company.

Rumors of political contributions in conection with the Teapot Dome lease have always alluded to the payment of the large deficit sustained by the Republicans in electing Harding and Coolidge, in 1920. Some reports have placed the deficit as high as $1,800,000. The money was raised by Will Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee, and by Fred Upham, the treasurer. Upham is dead. Hays was once asked if he had ever received any Sinclair stock on this account, and he said he had not. He has never been asked about bonds.

KELLOGG WILLING TO BAR SUBMARINE BY WORLD TREATY

Secretary of State Explains That All Nations Would Have to Be Included in It, However.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Secretary of State Kellogg today advised the House Foreign Affairs Committee that the United States Government would be "willing to sign a treaty with all powers of the world prohibiting the use of submarines entirely."

Kellogg's views were set forth in a letter to Chairman Porter in response to a request for an expression on a resolution by Representative Frothingham (Rep.) Mass., to prohibit the construction of submarines.

"There is no objection to the resolution," Kellogg said, "provided it expresses the opinion of Congress that submarines be abolished and their construction prohibited by all the nations of the world.

"Of course, it would be impossible for one country to abolish submarines and leave any other country free to operate and build them."

After a study of the resolution Kellogg recommended that it read as follows:

"That it is the opinion of the Congress of the United States that all nations of the world should unite in prohibiting the use of submarines and discontinuing the construction thereof in every country. That the Government of the United States continue to use efforts to bring about these results."

D. H. Reed Named U. S. Clerk.

DANVILLE, Ill., Feb. 4.—Douglas H. Reed, insurance man, Benton, Franklin County, was appointed United States clerk for the Eastern District of Illinois here today by Judge Walter C. Lindley, in the United States District Court. The appointment takes effect March 1.

U. S. Intervention Policy Raked at Havana Congress

added, should be keenest for international co-operation, solidarity and respect for law.

Hughes in his address on the report expressed unqualified approval of the principles expressed in it, lauding them as a forceful expression of the collective duties of nations. He expressed the opinion that the Declaration of Principles expounded by Dr. Maurtua were a "Magna Charta of the western hemisphere," and that they set forth the fundamental principles controlling the policies of this hemisphere.

Hughes scarcely had sat down, when Senor Guerro opened the attack against the Maurtua report saying that it has ignored completely the Rio de Janeiro jurists' recommendations. These recommendations contain a specific article reading: "No state may intervene in the internal affairs of another."

Senor Honorio Pueyrredon of Argentina declared that the sovereignty of states consisting of "the absolute right to entire internal autonomy and complete external independence," must be consecrated in law and practiced in fact or "international juridical harmony no longer exists."

All Intervention Opposed.

"Diplomatic or armed intervention, permanent or temporary is an attempt against the independence of states without finding its justification in the duty of protecting the rights of nationals since the same right could not be exercised in their turn by weak countries should their subjects suffer from convulsions in strong countries," he said.

Aquiles Elodurl, Mexican delegate, continuing the general attack against the Maurtua report, charged that the proposed code did not guarantee the security of small nations while strong countries, by virtue of their strength, need no guarantees.

Carlos Salazar of Guatemala, criticised the report saying that its recommendations were too vague and in general couched with excessive abstraction, while the same criticism was made by Jacinto De Castro, of Santo Domingo, who said that a more exact definition of sovereignty was necessary.

Much applause followed all the speeches.

Mexico City Newspaper Bitterly Assails Maurtua Report.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 4.—El Universal today criticized editorially the report of Dr. Victor Maurtua, Peru, to the Pan-American Conference, which declares that intervention under some circumstances is justified.

It is necessary, the editorial says, to make the Pan-American Conference hear the voice of protest raised throughout this continent against Maurtua's recommendations.

Maurtau's name must be linked, says the paper, with those who trade in American freedom since no better program could have been drafted by an imperialistic committee under the leadership of politicians and financiers.

The paper sees the Peruvian proposal as a maneuver intended to show the extent of the diplomatic influence of the United States and to check action by other countries expected to move for the ratification of the Rio Janeiro jurist conference's recommendations which flatly disavow the right of one state to intervene in the internal affairs of another.

The paper says the proposal is perilous, fallacious and inacceptable because behind the right of intervention is the right of conquest and it is a thousand times better to have an open declaration of war than a conditional recognition of the shackling of a country under the guise of autonomy.

The paper believes Latin American countries will disown their delegates if they, forgetful of the extent of their mandates, pass the Peruvian recommendations which would breed continental unrest.

E. M. Irwin Seeks Re-Election.

By the Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Ill., Feb. 4.—Dr. E. M. Irwin, Republican, of Belleville, Congressman from the Twenty-second District, will be a candidate for re-election, according to telegrams sent to friends. He will be opposed in the primary by Pliory Hiles, an Edwardsville attorney. The district comprises Bond, Madison, Monroe, St. Clair and Washington counties.

MARINES FLY FROM MIAMI TO MANA

Plane Lands in Nicaragua After Making 1000-Mile Trip Across Caribbean.

By the Associated Press.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 4.—Lieut. George H. Towner, United States Marine Corps, and two companions arrived in a Marine Corps monoplane at 4:15 p. m. from Miami, Fla.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 4.—Lieut. George H. Towner and two companions, who landed in Managua this afternoon, took off in a Marine land transport plane at 8:15 o'clock this morning, and, turning the nose of their craft southward, soon faded into their moonlit path.

At 2 o'clock, Eastern Standard time today, the Tropical Radio Corporation's station here reported receipt of a wireless message from the plane that the flyers were over Tela, Honduras, two and one-half hours from their goal.

Earlier messages stated that the plane passed off Corrientes, Cuba, at 9:45 a. m., and over Carmel Island, off the coast of Yucatan, Mexico, at 11:25 a. m.

The plane carried 600 gallons of gasoine. Despite its great weight it was lifted easily with the aid of a stiff northeast breeze, rising about two-thirds of the runway to get into the air. Radio communication was perfect from the start.

Second Lieutenant James R. Hugh, as radio operator and navigator, pilot, and Corporal Robert W. Towner, mechanic, were Towner's companions.

Of the two previous attempts to bridge the 1000-mile passage, one made by Maj. L. M. Bourne was successful. Maj. E. H. Brow[illegible] the first to try the route, was forced down at Tela, Honduras.

Chicago-to-South America Plane Lands at Key West.

KEY WEST, Fla., Feb. 4.—Capt. Joseph F. Donnellan, Chicago to South America flyer, arrived here this afternoon, after flying from Miami in an hour and 45 minutes. He plans to take off with the first American mail and passenger plane tomorrow morning for Havana and thence to Yucatan.

SUNDAY FUNERALS ARE DISCONTINUED EXCEPT NEGROES'

Agreement Reached Between Undertakers and Chauffeurs, Who Also Get Increase in Pay.

GOES INTO EFFECT AFTER TODAY

Majority of Jews Withdraw Objection That It Would Restrict Them to Five Days a Week.

There will be no more Sunday funerals in St. Louis after today except for Negroes. An agreement to that effect was reached Friday between the Mound City Undertakers' Association and the Chauffeurs' Local Union, No. 405.

Negro undertakers were not included in the agreement as they are not members of the association and employ nonunion drivers.

The proposal by the union that Sunday funerals be discontinued met with almost unanimous approval from the 110 white undertakers in the city when presented. Three Jewish members of the association protested on the ground that their religion does not permit burial on Saturday and that the rule would reduce their business one week to five days. When other members of the association voted for the proposal, two of the objectors withdrew their opposition and the third is expected to abide by the agreement.

The rule against Sunday funerals has operated successfully in Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Cincinnati and other large cities, Herman Rindskopf, president of the association, said. Chauffeurs in all cities where the rule is in effect agree to work on Sunday in the event of an unusual number of deaths through storm, epidemic or other causes creating an emergency. Under the previous agreement here, drivers were given a day of rest each week on days other than Sunday.

The chauffeurs also were granted a wage increase of $1.50 a week, bringing their weekly scale to $32.50 for this year and an additional increase to $35 a week effective next Jan. 1. The contract is to continue for three years. About 200 drivers, most of them employed by the larger concerns which supply vehicles to other undertakers, are affected by the agreement.

WILBUR SEEKS BONUS INCREASE FOR MEN ON SUBMARINES

Navy Secretary Recommends That Maximum Be Raised From $20 to $30.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Granting of increased bonuses to enlisted men serving on submarines has been recommended to the House by Secretary Wilbur. Under a proposed bill, which the Secretary transmitted, the present maximum bonus for undersea craft duty would be increased from $20 to $30 a month and the average monthly bonus made $15.

The Secretary said the measure would "increase the efficiency and morale of the submarine service."

Double pension in all cases where an officer or enlisted man of the navy and marine corps dies or is disabled as the result of a submarine accident would be provided under a bill introduced by Senator Steck (Dem.) of Iowa.

BILL FOR FEDERAL HOME LOAN

Copeland Measure Would Give Favorable Terms to Borrowers.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Establishment of a Federal home loan bank system to encourage home ownership and to stimulate the buying and building of homes is proposed in a bill introduced today by Senator Copeland (Dem.), New York.

It provides for the establishment of banks under the supervision of a commissioner in the Treasury Department and for the issuance of currency on first mortgages up to 75 per cent of the value of the home. The borrower would be required to repay loans in equal semi-annual payments in 10, 15 or 20 years, and also would be required to pay semiannually an interest charge of 1 per cent a year on redeemed currency. An appropriation of $200,000 is carried in the bill to provide for establishment of the proposed system.

SUNDAY FUNERALS ARE DISCONTINUED EXCEPT NEGROES'

Agreement Reached Between Undertakers and Chauffeurs, Who Also Get Increase in Pay.

GOES INTO EFFECT AFTER TODAY

Majority of Jews Withdraw Objection That It Would Restrict Them to Five Days a Week.

There will be no more Sunday funerals in St. Louis after today except for Negroes. An agreement to that effect was reached Friday between the Mound City Undertakers' Association and the Chauffeurs' Local Union, No. 405.

Negro undertakers were not included in the agreement as they are not members of the association and employ nonunion drivers.

The proposal by the union that Sunday funerals be discontinued met with almost unanimous approval from the 110 white undertakers in the city when presented. Three Jewish members of the association protested on the ground that their religion does not permit burial on Saturday and that the rule would reduce their business week to five days. When other members of the association voted for the proposal, two of the objectors withdrew their opposition and the third is expected to abide by the agreement.

The rule against Sunday funerals has operated successfully in Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Cincinnati and other large cities, Herman Rindskopf, president of the association, said. Chauffeurs in all cities where the rule is in effect agree to work on Sunday in the event of an unusual number of deaths through storm, epidemic or other causes creating an emergency. Under the previous agreement here, drivers were given a day of rest each week on days other than Sunday.

The chauffeurs also were granted a wage increase of $1.50 a week, bringing their weekly scale to $32.50 for this year and an additional increase to $35 a week effective next Jan. 1. The contract is to continue for three years. About 200 drivers, most of them employed by the larger concerns, which supply vehicles to other undertakers, are affected by the agreement.

WILBUR SEEKS BONUS INCREASE FOR MEN ON SUBMARINES

Navy Secretary Recommends That Maximum Be Raised From $20 to $30.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Granting of increased bonuses to enlisted men serving on submarines has been recommended to the House by Secretary Wilbur. Under a proposed bill, which the Secretary transmitted, the present maximum bonus for undersea craft duty would be increased from $20 to $30 a month and the average monthly bonus made $15.

The Secretary said the measure would "increase the efficiency and morale of the submarine service."

Double pension in all cases where an officer or enlisted man of the navy and marine corps dies or is disabled as the result of a submarine accident would be provided under a bill introduced by Senator Steck (Dem.) of Iowa.

BILL FOR FEDERAL HOME LOANS

Copeland Measure Would Give Favorable Terms to Borrowers.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Establishment of a Federal home loan bank system to encourage home ownership and to stimulate the buying and building of homes is proposed in a bill introduced today by Senator Copeland (Dem.), New York.

It provides for the establishment of banks under the supervision of a commissioner in the Treasury Department and for the issuance of currency on first mortgages up to 75 per cent of the value of the home. The borrower would be required to repay loans in equal semi-annual payments in 10, 15 or 20 years, and also would be required to pay semiannually an interest charge of 1 per cent a year on redeemed currency. An appropriation of $200,000 is carried in the bill to provide for establishment of the proposed system of banks.

Chief Gerk Encouraged.

"The decision is encouraging, and will help us greatly in putting the handbooks out of business," said Chief Gerk. "Heretofore encouragement has been given only to the bookmakers.

"The police have never stopped making gambling raids, but warrants in handbook cases were almost invariably refused, and handbooks multiplied until today one can go into almost any cigar store and make a bet."

On the other hand the bookmakers are confident the law against receiving bets will not be any more effective than the prohibition law. "But we may have to do business more under cover from now on," said one.

In Court Since 1925.

The Supreme Court decision in the case of Kennett Stollberg, St. Louis cigar store proprietor, affirmed his $1000 fine and conviction for being custodian of a bet on a horse race. This case has been hanging fire since May 8, 1925.

On that date a policeman, in civilian clothes, walked into Stollberg's store, 1728 Olive street, and, under the name of J. Harris, bet $2 on Swope, a horse entered at the Pimlico track in Maryland. The bet was made with marked bills, and the policeman received a receipt.

Immediately thereafter, without waiting for Swope to run his race, and lose it, other policemen entered Stollberg's store and arrested him. They found on him the marked bills and 37 memorandum tabs on race bets, similar to the receipt given J. Harris. The police did not have a search warrant.

Defense Based on Police Trick.

In his trial and on appeal, Stollberg's attorneys relied on the sole contention that he was trapped by police into making a bet, so that he might be prosecuted, and that the police had not acted in good faith. For this reason the State's evidence was not admissible, it was asserted.

Last June Division No. 2 of the State Supreme Court denied this contention and affirmed the conviction, and yesterday the court en banc did likewise, making it final. It appears that Stollberg must pay the fine or go to jail.

Judge W. T. Ragland, author of the opinion delivered yesterday, held that there was no merit in the contention of the defense. He ruled that the evidence showed Stollberg had become custodian of a bet, and that the secret purpose of the police in placing the bet was immaterial.

"It is hornbook law," Judge Ragland wrote, "that the meeting of minds which is essential to the formation of a contract is not determined by the secret intentions of the parties or either of them, but by their expressed intentions, which may be wholly at variance with the former.

"Accordingly, when Stollberg accepted the policeman's offer there was a meeting of minds and a contract resulted, and the money which Stollberg took into his custody pursuant to the terms of the contract was a bet or wager."

SEIZURE FOR LIQUOR TAX URGED

Federal Suit in Minneapolis Involves Farm Valued at $35,000.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 4.—Seizure of a $35,000 farm near here by the Federal Government under provisions of an old revenue liquor tax law was asked today in a suit filed in United States District Court.

The suit charges that 1500 gallons of alcohol were distilled on the farm, that no revenue was paid on the liquor and that the business was carried on with intent to defraud the Government of liquor taxes. Federal officials said the suit marked the first time the law, enacted before prohibition, has ever been invoked in this Federal district. The farm is owned by Cornelius J. Mulchay.

MUENCH ACTS TO DISMISS TROLLEY HOLDING CO. PLEA

Argues That City Utilities Co. Has No Authority to Operate in State, as It Has No License.

HOLDS TRANSFER OF STOCK UNNECESSARY

Contends That Firm Will Be Beyond Control of Public Service Commission if Change Is Permitted.

Dismissal of the application of the City Utilities Co. to hold 35,000 shares of the preferred stock and 170,000 shares of the common stock of the St. Louis Public Service Co. was asked yesterday by City Counsellor Muench of the Missouri Public Service Commission. Such a holding, approximately 49 per cent of the outstanding voting stock of the Public Service Co., would deliver practical control to the holding company.

Counselor Muench declares that the holding company, organized by J. K. Newman and controlled by him and the North American Co., is a foreign corporation and, as such, is required by State law to obtain a license to do business in Missouri. No such license has been obtained, Muench asserts. Hence, he concludes, the holding company is without standing in the law and the Public Service Commission is without authority to consider it in the light of a properly accredited corporation.

Stresses Need of State Control.

Muench further asserts that the holding company can function fully under its charter whether it owns 42 per cent of the Public Service common stock or not. As evidence, he cites that the holding company already has obtained a loan of $1,000,000 for the Public Service Co.

He again presses home the point that the Public Service Commission was created for the express purpose of protecting the public, particularly the investing public, and that hence it should do nothing that would weaken its control of the Puvlic Service Co.

Shifting of control of the operating company to a holding company, Muench points out, would enable the holding company to issue securities and not only the commission, but every other State agency, would be powerless to pass upon them or to forbid their issuance.

Never Qualified Under Law.

Under the law, City Utilities Co. is permitted to hold 10 per cent of the common stock of the Public Service Co. If it desires to hold more than 10 per cent, it must obtain the permission of the Public Service Commission. In seeking that permission in a formal application, the holding company pleads that it wants to be in a position to render financial and engineering assistance to the operating company.

Muench not only raises the technical point that the holding company, by its failure to obtain a license, is without standing before the Commission, but, by its own acts has shown that is already is in position to serve its subsidiary without further stock ownership.

FRANCIS WILSON ANNOUNCES FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Platform Declaration for Democratic Nomination Does Not Touch on Subject of Prohibition.

PLEDGES FIGHT AGAINST WASTE

Declares Public Sentiment Is Against High Cost of Government—Made Canvas of 90 Counties.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PLATTE CITY, Mo., Feb. 4.—Francis M. Wilson, former United States District Attorney in Kansas City, announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor this afternoon at a meeting of the Platte County Democratic Committee in Platte City, the home of the Wilson family for more than 50 years.

His platform declaration dealt with the necessity for a business-like administration of state affairs, his pledge being that if elected his administration would be "simple, businesslike, economical, just and free from favoritism."

Although the Wilson candidacy has the approval of the Democratic organization in Kansas City, and of William L. Igoe, Democratic nominee for Mayor in St. Louis in 1925, the two cities in which the prohibition question is considered of particular importance, Wilson said nothing about it in his opening statement. He said, however, that he would discuss issues of public concern during the campaign.

Text of His Statement.

His statement follows:

"Some time ago the chairman of your committee suggested that it would be becoming for me to make formal declaration concerning the governorship before my home organization, the Platte County Democratic Committee. Pursuant to this thoughtful intimation, it is my pleasure to announce to you and the Democracy of the State generally, that I will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor of the State of Missouri at the approaching August primary election.

"This conclusion is not reached hastily, but is the result of months spent in visiting about 90 counties of the State and consulting with hundreds of Democrats and citizens in all walks of life. Personal contact appealed to me as the correct method in endeavoring to ascertain facts concerning general political and economic conditions bearing upon the highly important undertaking of seeking the governorship.

Finds Feeling Against Waste.

"In my travels over the State I found the people thoroughly aroused over what they believe to be the waste, extravagance and inefficiency attending the administration of our State government. There is widespread feeling that we have in Missouri unnecessary and overlapping boards and other State agencies with a multitude of useless and superfluous inspectors, deputies and other employes.

"In the opinion of the people with whom I talked, these conditions are responsible, to a very large extent, for the alarming increase in the cost of administering State government. They have noted with genuine concern, the ever-increasing demand for more revenue and have likewise observed the absence of sincere effort to meet this most serious condition.

Where Tax Burden Falls.

"This amazing increase in the tax burden has fallen on the whole citizenship, business man, farmer and wage earner. It is quite noticeable in the increase in recent years of the valutions for assessment purposes on town and city lots and farm lands without adjusting such valuations to income, or reduced values, but appear to have been arbitrarily and wrongfully ordered without equitable inquiry and examination into these matters.

Particularly apparent in this in farm lands. Thousands and thousands of acres in counties visited would not bring their assessed value at any sale.

"The people are heard to say that under Republican control of the affairs of the State, there has been great waste of public funds and a lack of business-like control of public expenditures.

To Discuss Issues Later.

"I have mentioned these things because in my journey through the State, they were the principal subjects of comment. I will discuss them, and other issues of public concern during the primary election compaign.

"I believe that my experience of four sessions in the State Senate and as Prosecuting Attorney and United States Attorney for approximately 12 years, and as an officer of the United States Court, acting as one of the receivers for the Kansas City Railways Co., for 6 years, will be useful and valuable to the people in administering the affairs of my State.

"If elected Governor of my native State, my administration will be simple, business like, economical, just and free from favoritism.

"I enter this campaign without pledges, either direct or indirect, to any individual, group or interest, and I will make no promises or pledges except such as are made publicly to all the people of the State."

Has Had Long Public Career.

Wilson has had an extensive public career in Missouri. He is 60 years old and was born in Platte County. He served as City Attorney of Platte City and Prosecuting Attorney of Platte County. He twice was elected to the State Senate, and was named United States District Attorney in the Western District of Missouri by President Wilson, filling the position in a manner to bring the commendation from the Attorney-General that the record of the office was the highest in the country.

Completing nearly eight years as District Attorney, he was appointed one of the receivers of the Kansas City Railway Co. Through economies in management the receivers were able to turn over to the company organized to operate the railways nearly $3,000,000 in cash.

Wilson will have as opponents State Senator Alfred L. McCawley of Carthage, who filed his declaration Friday, and State Superintendent of Schools Charles A. Lee, who recently announced his candidacy.

LINDBERGH FLIES TO SANTO DOMINGO ON HIS BIRTHDAY

Hundred Thousand Enthusiastic Spectators Greet Him at End of 250-Mile Jaunt From San Juan.

By the Associated Press.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, Feb. 4.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today celebrated his twenty-sixth birthday by making a 250-mile air jaunt from San Juan, Porto Rico, to this city, where fully 100,000 enthusiastic spectators witnessed his arrival.

The American air hero, now steadily drawing nearer to the end of his good will argosy that has carried him to the Central American States and around the curve of the Antilles which border the Caribbean, came to earth at 2:25 o'clock this afternoon. His next hop will carry him to Port-Au-Prince, Haiti, and thence he will fly to the Pan-American conference at Havana. Then he will make a bee line for home in a non-stop flight to St. Louis.

Although so far as the Colonel was concerned, his birthday was just another good day for flying, today was one of tremendous interest to the inhabitants of the Dominican Republic. Hundreds of automobiles were lined up at the landing field and the thousands of spectators massed about the flier gave him a tremendous ovation. President Vasquez was on hand to receive the Colonel and the various ministers, diplomats, consuls and military figures greeted him.

SPEEDING UP TRAFFIC SLOWS UP BUSINESS

Complaint of Chicago "Loop" Merchants Against the New No-Parking Ordinance.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—Chicago is in a turmoil over the city's new "no parking" ordinance, which keeps all vehicles moving in the downtown business district. While expressions of favor have come from motorists and pedestrians, hundreds of merchants have rallied in an assault on the rule.

Many of the merchants insist that business has been hampered by the regulation. Hotel men, restaurant owners and store proprietors have joined in the protest.

While Chicago's streets are no narrower than those of most cities, traffic congestion has resulted from the concentration of the business district within an area of approximately 40 square blocks, surrounded by elevated railway tracks. From the latter feature the district takes its name "the loop."

Traffic Is Speeded Up.

The drastic order against parking, considered the most far reaching made by any American city of size to speed up its traffic, is praised by Commissioner of Police Michael Hughes.

Traffic, he says, is moving at least 30 per cent faster and danger of accident has been minimized. He calls the experiment an unqualified success.

In the early days of the order, 600 policemen, mounted, afoot and on motor cycles, rode hard on motorists and if one stopped for long he was told to keep moving.

The rule permits private cars to stop three minutes and trucks half an hour. Parking is permitted in the evenings and on Sundays and holidays, as before.

Since the order was adopted business men say that they have had to stand and watch their customers whisked by their doors by an order that doesn't permit them to stop and trade.

Shops Losing Business.

One merchant has pronounced business the worst since the war. The secretary of the Chicago Hotel Men's Association says the ordinance is driving people away from the hotels and shops. The average shop, he adds, "has lost $200 daily since the ordinance went into effect. Out of town visitors are staying away."

One restaurant proprietor forecasts a general exodus of "loop" tenants to outlying districts on May 1 unless the order is revoked.

The merchants suggest that restoration of the ordinance providing half-hour parking is the remedy.

NEW JOHNSTON CITY ROAD

By the Associated Press.

MARION, Ill., Feb. 4.—A contract has been let by Lake Creek Township to Columbo & Co. of Johnson City for $80,900 for the building of seven miles of nine-foot concrete road connecting Johnson City and Pittsburg. Work will start as soon as the weather permits. A contract will be awarded by the Commissioner of East Marion Township for a concrette road connecting Marion with Pittsburg.

The building of these two roads will give Pittsburg its first hard-surfaced road and will form a second loop for motorists in Williamson County.

"HELL FIRE" DAVIS WRITING BOOK ON VARIED CAREER

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SELIGMAN, Mo.—L. L. Davis, 88 years old, world traveler, veteran newspaper writer, big game hunter and Indian fighter, for six years a recluse in the Ozark mountain wilds, is writing a book. In a little shack four miles almost straight down hill from Seligman, where the sun rises at 8 o'clock in the forenoon, and sinks to rest, so far as that section is concerned, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the old fire eater scribbles away with shaky hand, piecing together the dramatic and tragic events of his strenuous life.

"Hell Fire" Davis—that is what the old war horse was called in at least one community in which he resided several decades back, hadn't lived what might be called the simple life before he took up his abode at the hermitage in the cellar of the Ozarks.

As a correspondent at large for a metropolitan newspaper many years ago, he traveled from one end of the earth to the other. He spent one winter in Siberia, frozen up in a yacht in the Arctic ocean, and another in the South seas, basking in the sunshine of a tropical climate. He served eight years in the army, acting as a scout in some of the fiercest campaigns against the Indians, escaping torture almost miraculously by attacking with his bare hands and killing Lame Buffalo, one of the most dreaded warriors of the West with his own knife in hand to hand encounter at night.

In the border trouble between Missouri and Kansas during the Civil War, Davis was shot in the face in a political row but promptly killing his adversary.

CASE AGAINST E. G. LEWIS WILL BE RESUMED TUESDAY

Wheeling (Mo.) Man Tells of Investing $700 in Promoter's "Personal Loan" Campaign.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 4.—The case against E. G. Lewis, Henry L. Kramer and William Ahrens, jointly charged with using the mails to defraud in the furtherance of Lewis' oil and real estate developments, was continued until Tuesday by Federal Judge Paul J. McCormick yesterday.

Nearly 200 letters, circulars and checks have been entered by the Government so far in its presentation of the case and more than 40 witnesses have been subpenaed.

The court closed with J. H. Patterson of Wheeling, Mo., on the stand. Patterson testified that he had invested approximately $700 in the Lewis "personal loan" campaign, $85 of which he had borrowed from a Wheeling bank at 8 per cent. His loan to Lewis was at 7 per cent, but Patterson testified, the Lewis literature promised "big bonuses."

CONFESSES HE WAS HIRED TO KILL EX-PREMIER OF ALBANIA

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, Feb. 4.—Claiming that he had been commissioned to murder the former Albanian Premier Hassan Bey Pristina, who is now living in Vienna, Ibrahim Lica, an Albanian, today threw himself on the mercy of the Vienna police. He asked protection, saying that two other Albanians who had been charged with the same mission would shoot him because he confessed his part in it.

He asserted that Achmed Bey Zogu, President of Albania, gave him money and a revolver for the purpose. He claimed he threw the revolver into the sea on his way here.

AMERICAN LEADS GERMANS TO TRY NEW ECONOMIES

Reparations Agent General Forcing Action by Gentle Pressure Creating Public Criticism.

STEPS TAKEN TO REFORM REICH

Plan Is to Abolish Most of Tiny States, Each of Which Maintains Complete Government.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BERLIN.—Seymour Parker Gilbert, the young American citizen who as reparation agent general is is often called the "financial kaiser of Germany," bids fair to become a second Bismarck by forcing a complete reorganization of the German Reich.

He is accomplishing this not by a policy of "blood and iron," by which Bismarck forged the German empire, but by the gentle pressure of public criticism of governmental extravagance.

This criticism, reaching the ears of the world and especially those of Germany's creditors, has given a mighty impetus to the latent movement for unification and centralization — the concentration of all governmental functions in the national government and the abolition of all or most of the tiny states which were created for the convenience of dynasties now swept away, but which still sport the luxury of complete state governments, with presidents, prime ministers, cabinets, parliaments and even ambassadors, though some of them have not enough inhabitants to fill a good-sized town.

Take First Steps.

The first concrete step in this direction has been taken by the formation of a non-partisan "League for the Reorganization of the Reich," headed by Dr. Hans Luther, former German chancellor, and including most of the prominent political, intellectual and business leaders of Germany, ranging from monarchists to Socialists.

The purposes of the league are to study how far such a centralization can be carried, and how it is to be brought about. Its motto, remarkable in consideration of the fact that there is no such thing as a German citizen, but only citizens of Prussia, Bavaria or other states of the German federation, reads: "I have only one fatherland, and that is Germany."

The present movement is a domestic counterpart to the "Larger Germany Movement" that aims at the union of Germany and Austria which all political observers believe is ultimately inevitable. And the two movements together mark the final culmination of a century-long process of unification of the German tribes whose division and internal dissention has been largely responsible for their own miseries and those of most of Europe.

Unify Principalities.

During the middle ages, following the break-up of the empire of Charlemagne, there were literally hundreds of such tiny German principalities, and long after France and England had become unified and ordered states these German principalities were still fighting against one another and inviting foreign aid against their domestic foes. Napoleon swept away a lot of them; also Bismarck, who reduced their number to 25. The revolution of 1918, which abolished the dynasties, also abolished a few of the smallest states, and a few more gave up their existence voluntarily, joining bigger states.

There are still 18 states left in the German Federation. Of these, Prussia alone contains nearly two-thirds of the area and the population of the whole Reich.

Three of the states are free cities and there are eight states ranging in population from 700,000 down to a mere 50,000. But these eight states support 23 ministers with a mighty bureaucratic apparatus and each has its own diet. Most of them cannot live from their own means and must be supported by the national Government.

Criticises Expenditures.

The expenditures of thees numerous states, together with those of the municipalities, have been objects of Gilbert's severest criticism.

In times of stress, like those of 1923, when Bavaria almost seceded from the Reich, these states are, moreover a positive danger to the existence of the Reich.

Bavaria, whose political leaders are monarchists to the core and would like to restore the Wittelsbach dynasty with "King" Rupprecht at the head, remains the chief obstance to such unification. Prussia and most of the other states are willing enough to abdicate their sovereignty, but Bavaria fears that once it is an integral part of a centralized Germany, the chances of the Wittelsbachs will have gone forever.

Nevertheless, the realization that something must be done had been reached by many Germans before Gilbert's criticism. Otto Braun, Prussian Premier, said early last year.

"A totally impoverished German any which moreover is oppressed by heavy war burdens cannot permanently afford the luxury of such an expensive and impractical organization."

But other pressing problems, tradition and the strength of established institutions kept this realization from gaining ground till Gilbert's criticism especially that of his famous October memorandum, forced action. The Germans, however, would be the first to deny that Gilbert influenced them.

'DON'T SWEAR' CLUB FORMED

Rock Island Employes in Oklahoma Organize First Unit.

SHAWNEE, Ok.—While various movements for the betterment of mankind are being sponsored throughout the nation, it has remained for a group of Rock Island railway employes at Shawnee, Ok., to start something in a personal way by the organization of a "Don't Swear" club in their home town. The first meeting to organize the initial group, which it is hoped will spread among railway employes generally, was held in the supreme court room of the City Hall at Shawnee, Ok. The organizers and charter members of the initial club are J. L. Coss, assistant chief dispatcher; W. M. White, conductor; O. K. Curry, chief clerk to the superintendent; R. S. Barnes, engineer, and W. H. Halsey, chief clerk to the master mechanic.

Commenting on the new club, Dispatcher Coss, who is the sponsor for the movement, says: "In the early days of railroading, it was presumed that swearing was an important requirement. But times have changed; we are all more enlightened now, and this unnecessary part of speech is being fast eliminated, although there is still room for improvement. We know that swearing is not necessary in our every-day work on the railroad, and certainly it does not sound well and often is embarrassing. In my opinion, a 'Don't Swear' club will meet with the approval of a vast number of railroad employes, and be applauded by a multitude of the general public." condition.

2 sides of your door

THE air on two sides of your door is radically different! Outside it is teeming with life and energy—because it's moist and moving. Inside it is dull and sluggish—chalk-dry and stagnant.

Air in the average home is as dry as in the Sahara Desert—by actual test. Most heating systems bake moisture out of the air. Dry air is dangerous. It draws moisture from the walls and furniture—from your skin and tender tissues of your throat—making you easy prey to colds. Now comes the greatest achievement in the heating industry's history—the Holland Vaporaire—positively the only home heating system that supplies circulating warm air with proper humidity (moisture in the air) constantly and automatically! An even flow of clean fresh air moves gently through every room, distributing between 3 and 25 gallons of vaporized water each day—holding an even temperature at floors and ceilings—and completely changing the air in your home every thirty minutes! The cleanest heating system ever built. Saves from 20 to 30 per cent in fuel and is priced within reach of every family.

URGES CHURCH UNION FOR SMALLER TOWNS

Dean Swift Says Move Would Require Tolerance Among Protestant Sects.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—The radio is one of the church's strongest competitors and is the main influence for the unifications of Protestant churches in small towns and villages, in the opinion of Dean Carl B. Swift, head of the School of the Bible at Drury College.

Dean Swift is in favor of a unified Protestant religion. "By uniting the large number of churches in the small towns there results better conditions in every respect," he said.

"In some of the little towns where there are churches for every little group of people it is impossible for each church to be in sound condition. It is no wonder that the members of such communities like to sit at home on Sunday morning and listen over the radio to their favorite preacher."

Eight Churches in Town of 600.

Dean Swift says that these little towns are over-churched. For example, he told of a little town within 25 miles of Springfield where there are only 600 persons and eight churches.

"Of course the unified situation cannot come about without a certain amount of tolerance and agreement. The members of the unified church can retain their denominational identity, but will be united in creeds and doctrines. No particular creed will predominate, no particular church will be the leader. It will be a good example of educated co-operation.

"Differences among Protestant religions at the present time are superficial and not fundamental. Education will solve all of these and unification will bring about a bettering of present conditions."

Would Benefit Youth.

Swift believes that a united church would aid the younger generation. He said they like good music and beautiful architecture. "The young people are together in school, they mix in every-day society, and there is no reason why they should not be stronger in religion. It is almost entirely through the younger generation, however, that a change can be made. Education of the younger generation will bring about more free-thinking and free-acting."

Dean Swift is of the opinion that Springfield is too large a town for the uniting of churches. He said that conditions here did not warrant it. There is a growing tendency to bring to Springfield more churches.

MORE THAN 8000 MILES OF GAS PIPES IN TEXAS

Fields of Louisiana and Panhandle of Oklahoma Furnish Part of State's Supply.

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex.—More than 8000 miles of main gas pipe line have been laid in Texas, and the mileage still is growing rapidly, according to the Texas Public Service Information Bureau here.

The Lone Star Gas Co., with upward of 3200 miles in Texas and Oklahoma serving 200 cities, the Dixie Pipe Line Co. with 750 miles, the Houston Pipe Line Co. with more than 400 miles, the La-Tex with 400 miles, the Houston Gulf Gas Co. with more than 600 miles, and the West Texas Gas Co., a subsidiary of the Prairie Oil and Gas Co., with 250 miles are sharing in rapid development of gas lines.

In West Texas, East Texas and South Texas development of gas has been greatest. Fields in Webb and Duval Counties, the numerous wells of Louisiana, the extensive fields in the Panhandle, Southern Oklahoma and West Texas give their quota of the billions of feet of gas coursing along the lines to the cities and towns of Texas.

Loses 10,000 Eggs When Power Fails.

SHELBYVILLE, Ill., Feb. 4.—Because of a breakdown of the Shelbyville electric light plant, Peter Taylor, a Shelby County chicken raiser, lost 10,000 eggs in his incubators during hatchings. Fans in the incubator were operated by electricity and the break in power occurred at a critical period in the hatching.

BOND GIVEN FOR DOG IN SHEEP-KILLING CASE

Owner of "Kaiser Bill" Appeals From Death Sentence Passed by Kentucky Justice.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MT. STERLING, Ky.—"Kaiser Bill" is still alive, but death's shadow has not been removed. Circuit Judge Henry R. Prewitt has ruled he has not jurisdiction to try the case, coming up from Magistrate's Court in which "Kaiser Bill," German police dog owned by Mrs. Henry Gay, wealthy society woman, was given a death sentence on a charge of having killed and maimed sheep. The State Court of Appeals has ruled that a Circuit Court has not jurisdiction in a case carried directly to that tribunal from a Magistrate's bench.

The next fight for "Kaiser Bill's" life will be made in the Court of Appeals, the State's tribunal of last resort, since the ruling of Judge Prewitt leaves the death sentence as it was—still hanging over the dog.

Mrs. Gay says "Kaiser Bill" is not allowed out of the house and says she is afraid he will be poisoned. She said many dogs in the neighborhood of her home have been poisoned recently and that several persons have told her that an attempt would be made by unknown persons to poison the dog.

The statute under which "Kaiser Bill" was sentenced to death, the Judge said, is in Chapter 10 of the Acts of the Kentucky Legislature of 1908 of page 25. According to the law, when proof that any dog is mad, or had been bitten by a mad dog or has wounded any sheep, the Justice of Peace before who the dog is tried shall order the dog killed, the Judge said.

Defense Attorney White said: "The effect of the judgment of the Circuit Court, dismissing the appeal, is to leave in effect the judgment of the lower court directing the Sheriff to execute 'Kaiser Bill.' I have taken an appeal to the Court of Appeals from the order of the Circuit Court, executed a bond and all proceedings in the prosecution are thereby settled until the matter is acted upon by the Kentucky Appellate Court."

In the meantime, the dog will remain in the custody and possession of the owner, Mrs. Henry Gay. The appeal will come up before the higher court in the regular way.

Commonwealth's Attorney W. C. Hamilton, who prosecuted the case and asked the appeal dismissed, said, "The case against the dog is novel only from a point of resistance. There is a statute in force providing for the destruction of all sheep killing dogs. The sheep raising industry has gained such proportions that it must be safeguarded. I am glad the case is over."

"When the case comes up in the Appellate Court at Frankfort the interests of the State will be looked after by J. W. Cammack, Attorney-General.

Mrs. Gay said: "I thought the appeal would be granted and "Kaiser Bill" would be given an opportunity to prove his innocence."

DISCIPLINARY BODY AT IOWA STATE COLLEGE ABOLISHED

President Highes Assumes Complete Responsibility of Criticisms.

By the Associated Press.

AMES, Ia.—Following criticisms of the Governing Committee, disciplinary body at Iowa State College, President R. M. Highes said he would personally take over the functions of the board.

In announcing that he would supercede the committee, composed of Prof. C. B. MacDonald, chairman, and Prof. C. F. Coover, the president called attention to the fact "that a great deal of criticism has been directed at the Governing Committee, and I feel that I should assume complete responsibility."

Criticism has been aimed particularly at Prof. MacDonald, whose investigation into disappearance of alcohol stocks from the college chemistry building eventually led to a raid by State and county agents on the Sigma Chi fraternity house, in which six students were arrested and a small quantity of alcohol confiscated. Charges against four of the six were dismissed, while two were suspended.

FARM PROBLEM MUST BE SETTLED, SAYS ROOSEVELT

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 4.—The time has arrived to call a halt on side-stepping of the farm problem, Col. Theodore Roosevelt declared in an address delivered last night at a banquet given by the Republican Service League. People of the United States, regardless of where they live, should demand of their political representatives that a conservative farm program be put forward, he said.

Roosevelt upbraided Americans for being too careless, too lazy, or too indifferent to meet great public questions.

"One of the many problems they have side-stepped is the agricultural condition which affects directly 30 per cent of our people."

Referring to prohibition, Roosevelt asserted that either a stringent attempt should be made to enforce the law, or it should be modified to make prohibition possible.

40,000 HORSES SLAUGHTERED IN ILLINOIS PLANT LAST YEAR

Abbatoir at Rockford Buys Many Wild Horses; Most of Meat Shipped to Europe.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ROCKFORD, Ill.—From a small plant started shortly after the close of the World War, the Chappel Brothers Abattoir of this city, which during the year just closed slaughtered 40,000 horses, has grown to a plant of huge proportions. Incidentally, the plant is the only institution of its kind in the United States.

Carloads of wild horses captured by wild horse hunters of the Western plains, are shipped to the plant here. Broken-down steeds, whose working days are over, are received at the plant and given a merciful death.

The wild horses, it is said, are being secured for about $2 per head, while broken-down Dobbin will bring in $5 to $10 to the owner. These animals are collected from a wide area and shipped to the plant.

While the bulk of the horse meat is shipped to Europe, [illegible] ican circuses and animal [illegible] a large quantity of the flesh [illegible] ers of dogs too purchase the [illegible] product.

HEARINGS ON $14,000,000 FOR VETERANS' BUREAU CLOSED

Director Hines Details Needs of Appropriation to House Hospitalization Subcommittee.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The House Veterans' Hospitalization subcommittee today concluded its hearings on the Luce bill to appropriate $14,000,000 for the Veterans' Bureau.

Frank T. Hines, director of the bureau, outlined the bureau's hospitalization program, which provides a $500,000 appropriation to change the Fort Lyons (Colo.) hospital from a tubercular to a neuropsychiatric institution. Other changes in the program of the bureau included the addition of 17 beds to the Excelsior Springs (Mo.) hospital, and 200 other beds at the Atlanta (Ga.) institution.

Director Hines said he favored an American Legion plan to purchase land in the vicinity of the hospital at Legion, Tex. for the purpose of erecting on it houses to be leased for small sums to families of veterans.

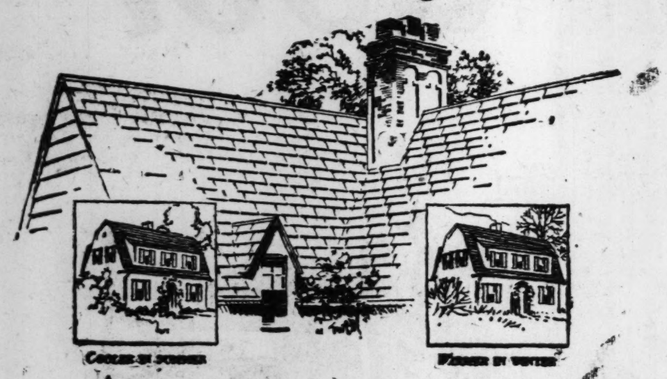
CORK

in these shingles!



A ROOF that merely sheds water is a lazy loafer nowadays.....

Modern house-covering has to shed the sizzling heat of the summer sun as well!

And it has to keep the warmth in in winter!

In short, it has to be heat-insulated...any architect or builder will tell you that.

So you'll be glad to know that Carey Cork-Insulated Shingles carry their own insulation, for they are weather-proof slate on the outside and heat-proof cork on the under side!

Which means that, for one price, in one operation, and at one labor cost, you can have a beautiful, weather-tight roof that is climate-tight, too.

Come in and let us show you these thick, rugged shingles in a variety of colorings. Next August, when the sun is hot and your bedroom cool, you'll be glad you did.

FEW FRENCHMEN DIE POOR AND VERY FEW WEALTHY

All but About 1 Per Cent Leave at Least Enough to Pay All Their Debts.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS. — Few Frenchmen die poor, but very few of them die wealthy, according to recent statistics on fortunes in France.

One thousand dollars, or about 25,000 francs, is the average fortune devised by will. Division of the estate among the heirs which is nearly obligatory under the Napoleonic Code, still the basis of French law, has made France the country of many but small property owners.

All but 1¼ per cent of the people who die in France every year leave enough to pay their debts. Fewer than 1000 fortunes of more than 1,000,000 francs are left.

HEARINGS ON $14,000,000 FOR VETERANS' BUREAU CLOSED

Director Hines Details Needs of Appropriation to House Hospitalization Subcommittee.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The House Veterans' Hospitalization subcommittee today concluded its hearings on the Luce bill to appropriate $14,000,000 for the Veterans' Bureau.

Frank T. Hines, director of the bureau, outlined the bureau's hospitalization program, which provides a $500,000 appropriation to change the Fort Lyons (Colo.) hospital from a tubercular to a neuropsychiatric institution. Other changes in the program of the bureau included the addition of 175 beds to the Excelsior Springs (Mo.) hospital, and 200 other beds at the Atlanta (Ga.) institution.

Director Hines said he favored an American Legion plan to purchase from the Government a tract of land in the vicinity of the hospital at Legion, Tex, for the purpose of erecting on it houses to be leased for small sums to families of veterans.

TWO FIRES DO $2300 DAMAGE

Film Operator Burned When Blaze Occurs in Projection Booth.

Two fires Friday night caused damage estimated at $2300. One occurred in the projection booth of the Palm Theater, 3010 Union boulevard, after the audience had departed. Edward Baker, the operator, was burned about the hands trying to extinguish it. A movie film was damaged $600 and orchestra instruments stored there, $500.

The other fire was in a six-family apartment house at 3101-05 Fair avenue. Apparently caused by an overheated furnace, it did $1200 damage to the building and furnishings of two apartments.

Army Chaplain, Ousted, Dies.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Announcement was made today by the War Department of the death of Chaplain Edmund E. N. Savageau at Sternberg General Hospital, Manila, on Feb. 2. No details of the circumstances of his death were announced by the department. President Coolidge early this week accepted the chaplain's resignation for the good of the service. He was 37 years old and had served in the navy as chaplain during the war before being commissioned in the army in 1925. His father lives at Escanaba, Mich.

$1,500,000 IN FEES IN ST. PAUL RECEIVERSHIP

Each of Three Receivers Gets $100,000 and Counsel Is Awarded $250,000.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—A million and a half dollars in fees and salaries today were ordered paid by the Federal Court to the receivers and organizers of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad. The receivership for the road recently was discharged.

Judge Wilkerson awarded $100,000 to each of the receivers, H. E. Byram, Mark W. Potter and Edward J. Brundage. They also were awarded smaller salaries for other duties.

The largest single item is $250,000; O. W. Dynes, $20,000; Winn-Wardwell, Gardiner and Reed of New York, counsel to the trustees in the receivership and foreclosure litigation.

Others are: H. H. Field, general counsel to the receivers, $20,000; O. W. Dynes, $20,000; Winston, Strawn & Shaw, special counsel, $19,000; Hornblower, Miller & Garrison, New York, $30,000; W. K. Sparrow, special finance officer, $35,000; Stewart & Shearer, New York, $75,000; Taylor, Blanc, Capron & Marsh, New York, $40,000; Bankers' Trust Co., $25,000; White & Chase, New York, $40,000, and the United States Mortgage & Trust Co., $30,000.

The funds are to be paid within 10 days.

Hollywood (Fla.) Suit Settled.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 4.—An action brought by the Highway Construction Co. of Cleveland, O., against J. W. Young and others, developers of Hollywood, Fla., in Circuit Court at Fort Lauderdale yesterday, has been settled out of court. Abe Aronowitz, local attorney for the plaintiff, declared today in denying that the suit was an application for receivership.

NAMES FOR FURS AGREED ON

May Mean Abolition of Colned Trade Names.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Representatives of the fur industry yesterday agreed to adopt a sytem of naming and marking furs under which the correct name of the animal from which the pelt was obtained will be stamped plainly on the skin.

This move was made at a meeting of fur industry representatives and the trade practice conference department of the Federal Trade Commission. The plan will be forwarded to the commission at Washington and, provided it meets with approval, will be adopted as standard by the industry and enforced by the commission. Coined trade names such as "Hudson seal," which is the skin of the muskrat dyed to the color of seal, and names designed to cover up the fact that rabbit fur is dyed to simulate other fur, are practices, against which complaints have been made to the Federal Trade Commission.

Motorist Hurt in Collision.

A skull fracture and lacerations of the head were suffered by George E. Gardner, 27 years old, of 2542 Hoard avenue, Jennings, when his automobile and another collided at Kingshighway and Easton avenue Friday night. City Hospital physicians said he was intoxicated. Police declared he had ignored a stop signal.

JOCKEY, STRUCK BY AUTO, DIES

Joseph Freal, Once Widely Known, Was Penniless.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 4.—Joseph Freal, 63 years old, one-time internationally known jockey, is dead as the result of injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile 10 days ago. He was penniless, although he once had a fortune. Freal lived in Ohio as a boy and started riding horses at county fair races. He rode in England, Canada, Australia and Mexico.

He returned to America with a fortune, much of which he lost at the betting stands. Later he was beaten and robbed of the remainder of his wealth.

COOLIDGE CALLS IN CABINET OFFICERS ON FLOOD CONTROL

Mellon, Hoover and Dwight Davis Consulted by President to Discuss $296,000,000 River Plan.

GEN. JADWIN DENIES OUTSIDE INFLUENCE

Before Senate Committee, Chief of Army Engineers Takes Full Responsibility for Report.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—President Coolidge held a two-hour conference late today with three of his Cabinet members to determine what could be done to aid the progress of the administration's $269,000,000 Mississippi River flood control plan in Congress.

The Cabinet members were Secretaries Mellon, Hoover, who was the President's personal representative in the flood district, and Davis of the War Department. They were joined at the White House by Maj.-Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chief of army engineers and author of the plan. A general discussion of flood legislation was said to have taken place, but it was announced at the White House that no conclusions had been reached.

Although the Secretary of the Treasury was at the conference, there was nothing to indicate that the discussions had centered on the controversial issue of the plan's 20 per cent contribution by the valley States. The President was understood to have indicated previously that he was willing to explore further into that question.

Demands Appearance of Hoover.

The appearance of Secretary Hoover and Secretary Davis of the War Department before the Senate Flood Committee was demanded again today by Senator Willis (Rep.) of Ohio, although Gen. Jadwin assumed full responsibility for the administration flood control program.

As acting chairman of the committee, Senator Willis twice has demanded Secretary Hoover's appearance. Chairman Jones, however, has been reluctant to call the Commerce Secretary, who served as personal representative of President Coolidge in the flood district.

"If there is any embarrassment in calling Mr. Hoover because of political reasons," Senator Willis said, "or because he and I may be opposing candidates in Ohio, I will be glad to withdraw from the hearing while he is here, but I think he should be called."

Senator Jones has held the view that one Cabinet officer should not be called to testify about matters entirely under the supervision of another member of the Cabinet.

Denies He Was Influenced.

Gen. Jadwin today denied any influence by Hoover or Davis in his flood control report after the committee unanimously voted that he should answer questions about that phase of his program.

police as "suspected of gambling."

"I would like to put into the record," he said, "any conversations I had with them, they would make good witnesses themselves."

The committee action forcing an answer from Jadwin followed a statement by Senator Hawes that the State of Missouri "not only will refuse to pay the $5,000,000 asked, but will refuse to pay even $5."

"It is not altogether a question of the money involved," the Missourian said. "It is the principle of the thing."

Says Cairo Still is in Perial.

Criticism of proposals for flood protection of Cairo, Ill., in the plan, prepared by Gen. Jardwin, was voiced in reports of two Illinois State officials submitted to the House Flood Control Committee. Another official, L. D. Cornish, Assistant Chief Engineer of the Illinois Waterway Division, however, held that the plan would provide safety for Cairo and that the states should pay part of the cost.

The two officials, William F. Mulvihill and M. G. Barnes, supervisor and chief engineer, respectively, of the division, said that Cairo was still in "Imminent danger of inundation." They also disagreed with the Army chief in his recommendation that the Valley States should bear 20 per cent of the cost of the work.

The House Committee adjourned today until Wednesday. After it resumes its meetings, the Committee is expected to report its bill within two weeks.

Files for State Treasurer.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 4.—Herman Lufcy of Bloomfield, County Treasurer of Stoddard County and publisher of the Stoddard Tribune of Bloomfield, today filed his official declaration with the Secretary of State as a candidate for the Republican nomination for State Treasurer. Lufcy is the second Republican candidate to file for the office. State Senator Larry Brunk of Aurora, secretary of the Workmen's Compensation Commission, filed recently for the Republican nomination.

By the Associated Press.

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 4.—Clarence D. Chamberlin and Roger Q. Williams, whose big Bellanca monoplane crashed at Byrd Field here today when they attempted to take off for a third attempt to break the world's endurance record, were making plans tonight for their fourth effort at the mark of Johann Risties and Cornelius Edzard, German holders of the record.

A. R. Martine, financial backer of the flight, talked to Joseph Bellanca, designer of the plane, soon after the crash. He said that the wreck of the plane wolud be sent to New York for repairs, after which it would be brought back to Richmond for another try. Chamberlin and aviators who gathered to witness the take-off today unanimously blamed the short runway for the crash. Chamberlin said that he realized he could not get away when he reached the point where the ground observers signaled he must rise. He said he forced the plane into the air and signaled to Williams to release the gasoline, in order that they might come down again without injury to the plane.

As the big monoplane rose, the tail skids were seen to hit a railroad track at the end of the runways and turn suddenly to the right as it rose. Chamberlin said he shut off the motor and the plane came down, crushing the right wing, tearing off the under carriage and breaking the propeller. He said he was aware of the danger in coming down with the 460 gallons of gasoline aboard and thought emptying the tanks would insure their safety.

The two men were quickly out of the plane and, after waving to the crowd that surged on the field, began to inspect the wreckage. Williams was smiling and told the spectators: "We'll make it next time."

Martine was obviously disappointed but emphatic in his praise of Chamberlin and Williams, accrediting the New York-to-Germany flyer with preventing serious injury or death to the flyers by his skill. He also expressed confidence in the Bellanca plane.

STATE MOVES TO HAVE EXCESS INSURANCE PREMIUMS REPAID

Calls on Companies to Report by March 15 Policies Affected by Court Decision.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 4.—The State Insurance Department yesterday made its first move toward obtaining payment of approximately $10,000,000 in premium refunds to holders of fire, lightning, hail and windstorm insurance policies in Missouri, required under court decisions affirming a 10 per cent rate reduction ordered by the department Nov. 15, 1922.

Companies were ordered to make a full report to the department on the policies in effect from Nov. 15, 1922. It called for the name of policy holder, the policy number, the situation of the property insured, the dates and term of the policy, the amount of insurance rates, the premium collected, and the name of the agent writing the policy. The order required the information to be furnished by March 15.

The department has not worked out a plan for compelling payment of the refunds, if the companies resist payment. The reduction order, applying to about 160 companies, was fought through the courts for five years.

BUILDING AND LOAN MEETING

St. Louis League of Associations to Hear Several Speakers.

The annual meeting of the St. Louis League of Incorporated Building & Loan Associations will be held at the City Club Wednesday. At an afternoon session there will be an address by Dr. Horace F. Clark, educational director of the American Building, Savings & Loan Institute of Kansas City, and an open discussion of questions of current interest in the business.

A banquet at 6:30 p. m. will be addressed by Dr. Clark and K. V. Haymaker of Chicago, director of the building and loan section of the Financial Service Syndicate. Secretaries, directors and active members of local and out-of-town associations will attend the gathering to the anticipated number of 200. Hugh H. Stewart is president of the organization.

BARBER SHOOTS SELF TO DEATH

Frank Lanzona, 28, Ends Life With Revolver.

Frank Lanzona, 28 years old, a barber, shot and killed himself at his home, 1462A Benton street, during the absence of his wife and three of their four children yesterday morning.

Lanzona's body was found by his 6-year-old daughter, Camelia, who was sick in bed in an adjoining room and who heard the shot. Lanzona shot himself through the right temple. His revolver containing an empty cartridge, was found beside his body. No motive could be assigned by Mrs. Lanzona.

Open Verdict in Ottenad Killing.

An open verdict of homicide was returned after an inquest yesterday in the death of Louis Ottenad, 41 years old, 606 Roosevelt place, who was slugged Tuesday night in a hallway of a saloon at 9401 South Broadway where he was a bartender. Constable Pfeiffer testified he had been able to find no clew to the identity of the slayer.

COMPENSATION LAW IN EFFECT SINCE NOV. 2, 1926

Decision of Supreme Court Will Force Consideration of Large Number of Claims for Accidents.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 4. — The Missouri workmen's compensation law, ratified in a referendum at the general election of Nov. 2, 1926, became effective as soon as the polls closed that day and not a piecemeal over a period from Nov. 16, 1926, to Jan. 9, 1927, as contended by the Workmen's Compensation Commission, the Missouri Supreme Court en banc ruled today.

The Court held invalid a law providing that measures referred to the people and ratified shall not become effective until the Governor issues a proclamation announcing the official vote and declaring them in effect.

The decision also will bring under jurisdiction of the commission a large number of claims for accidents occurring between Nov. 16, 1926, and Jan. 9, 1927, which the commission heretofore has refused to entertain, on the ground the law did not apply to them.

The Court's decision, written by Judge W. W. Graves, upheld a constitutional provision that referred laws shall become effective as soon as approved by a majority of the voters, "and not otherwise."

Discussing the law providing such measures shall become effective with the Governor's proclamation, Judge Graves held that if the Legislature could postpone the effective date until the vote had been canvassed and the result proclaimed by the Governor, the right reserved to the people to propose and adopt laws would be subservient to the Legislature instead of independent of it.

"The law is adopted or rejected at the time the vote is cast, and not when the official canvass is made," he said.

He held that the interval prescribed in the law for the liability sections to become effective had lapsed when the referendum was held, "and was a dead letter so far as determining the effective date of the law under the Constitution."

Assessment of No Par Value Stocks at $100 Valid.

A State law placing an arbitrary valuation of $100 a share on the no par value stock of corporations in Missouri, for the purpose of assessing the State corporation franchise tax, was declared constitutional by the Court en banc. The ruling was in a suit by the State against the Pierce Petroleum Corporation in St. Louis, to collect franchise taxes.

Similar attacks on the validity of the law, made by defendants in several franchise tax suits filed by Attorney - General Gentry against corporations, are disposed of by the decision.

The court held, in effect, that the Pierce Corporation must pay the tax on an assessment of $100 a share for the no par value stock allotted as Missouri capital, instead of the book value, as tendered by the company, which is a Delaware corporation. The tax is 50 cents on the $1000 of outstanding capital and surplus.

The contention that the law was unconstitutional and discriminatory, on the ground it did not apply equally to corporations with par value stock and those with no par value stock, was overruled by Judge W. T. Ragsland, who wrote the opinion.

He held the constitutional requirements as to uniformity and equality of taxation were met by the law, in that it applied equally to all corporations in like conditions. He held the Legislature was authorized to make such classifications for taxation, and that the classifications in the law were reasonable.

Blanket Assessment Increase in St. Louis Overruled.

A blanket increase of 20 per cent in the assessment of several classes of personal property, attempted in 1924 by the St. Louis Board of Equalization, was held unconstitutional in an opinion written by Judge Atwood.

The blanket increase was applied on that item on the tax bill known as "all other personal property." Suit to restrain Collector Koeln from collecting taxes under it was brought by the Columbia Terminals Co., whose assessment on wagons, vehicles and other equipment was increased from $189,401 to $227,320, and whose tax bill was increased from $4916 to $5851. The city won the case in the St. Louis Circuit Court on a demurrer. This decision was reversed by the Supreme Court and the case remanded for trial.

The higher court held that as the increase was not applied to property owned by minors and estates of deceased persons, it was discriminatory and in violation of the constitutional provision that all taxes must be uniform on the same class of subjects. It overruled points raised by the Columbia Terminals that the increase was illegal because made without notice to taxpayers, and without hearings having been held.

Supreme Court to Hear Dr. Horton's License Case in April.

The Supreme Court advanced the appeal of the State Board of Health from a decision by Circuit Judge Hall of St. Louis restoring to Dr. R. B. Horton of Purdy, Mo., his license to practice medicine in Missouri. The court will hear the appeal at the April term.

Dr. Horton's license was revoked by the State Board of Health last May, when the board found him guilty of having fraudulently misrepresented his educational qualifications in his application for examination for a physician's license. Several witnesses testified Horton had solicited money from unqualified medical students, for his purported influence with the Board of Health in having them accepted for examinations.

The case was taken to St. Louis Circuit Court by Horton's attorneys for review. Judge Hall reversed the decision and restored Horton's license.

Had the case taken its regular turn, the appeal would not have been heard by the Supreme Court for a year or more. Judge W. W. Graves dissented from the order of the court advancing the case, according to an entry made on the court minutes. His son, W. W. Graves Jr., is attorney for Horton.

Mineralized Water Routs Chicken Lice
Tablets Dropped Into Drinking Founts Also Make Fowls Grow Faster and Increase Egg Yield.

Any poultry-raiser can easily rid his flock of lice and mites, make them grow faster and increase their egg yield by use of a remarkable mineral which can be given in the fowls' drinking water or used externally. The method does away with all bother of dusting, greasing, fumigating and moistening. Fowls may be dipped in the mineral solution if so desired. There is no mess or soiling the plumage. Soon after the mineral is used the fowls are rid of lice and mites. These tablets also act as a tonic conditioner. Fowls quickly regain health, they grow faster and the egg yield frequently is doubled. Chickens like the mineralized water freely. No flavor or odor is imparted to the eggs or meat. This remarkable conditioner, egg tonic and lice remedy is prepared in tablets known as minoke mineral. It costs only a trifle, and is sold under absolute guarantee. Any reader of this paper may try it without risk. The directors of minoke mineral are so confident of good results that to introduce it every poultry-raiser they offer two big $1.00 packages for only $1.00, send money—just your name and address—a card will do—to the Poultry Products Dept. L. St. Joseph, Mo., and the two $1.00 packages, enough for 50 gallons of water, will be mailed. Pay the postman $1.00 and postage on delivery. Use the mineral according to directions, and if you are not delighted with results in every way—if your chickens are not healthier and laying more eggs, and entirely free from lice and mites—your money will be promptly refunded on request. Don't hesitate to accept this trial offer, as you are fully protected by this guarantee.

If You Were DYING TO-NIGHT

and I offered you something that would give you ten years more to live, would you take it? You'd grab it. Well, fellows, I've got it, but don't wait till you're dying or it won't do you a bit of good. It will then be too late. Right now is the time. Tomorrow, or any day, some disease will get you, and if you have not equipped yourself to fight it off you're gone. I don't claim to cure disease. I am not a medical doctor, but I'll put you in such condition that the doctor will starve to death waiting for you to get sick. Can you imagine a mosquito trying to bite a brick wall? A fine chance!

A Rebuilt Man

I like to get the weak ones. I delight in getting hold of a man who has been turned down as hopeless by others. It's easy enough to finish a task that's more than half done. But give me the weak, sickly chap and watch him grow strong! That's what I like. It's fun to me, because I know I can do it, and I like to give the other fellow the laugh. I don't just give you a veneer of muscle that looks good to others. I work on you both inside and out. I not only put big, massive arms and legs on you, but I build up those inner muscles that surround your vital organs—the kind that give you real pep and energy, the kind that fire you with ambition and the courage to tackle anything set before you.

All I Ask Is 90 Days

Who says it takes years to get in shape? Show me the man who makes such claims and I'll make him eat his words. I'll put one full inch on your arm in just 30 days. Yes, and two full inches on your chest in the same length of time. Meanwhile, I'm putting life and pep into your old backbone. And from then on, just watch 'em grow! At the end of the thirty days you won't know yourself. Your whole body will take on an entirely different appearance. But you've only started. Now come the real works. I've only built my foundation. I want just 60 days more (90 in all) and you'll make those friends of yours who think they're strong look like something the cat dragged in.

A Real Man

When I'm through with you, you're a real man, the kind that can prove it. You will be able to do things that you had thought impossible. And the beauty of it is you keep on going. Your deep, full chest breathes in rich, pure air, stimulating your blood and making you just bubble over with yim and vitality. Your huge, square shoulders and your massive, muscular arms have that craving for the exercise of a regular He-Man. You have the flash to your eye and the pep to your step that will make you admired and sought after in both the business and social world. This is no idle prattle, fellows. If you doubt me, make me prove it. Go ahead! I like it. I have already done this for thousands of others and my records are unchallenged. What I have done for them, I will do for you. Come, then, for time flies and every day counts. Let this very day be the beginning of new life to you.

What I Have Done For Thousands I Can Do For You

I'LL MAKE YOU STRONG
I'll Put One Inch on Your Arm in 30 Days
I'll Put Two Inches on Your Chest in 30 Days
I'll Give You a Physique to Be Proud of I'll Add Many Healthy Years to Your Life
I'll Make You the Popular Idol of Your Gang

Dear Mr. Liederman:

While I was in the Navy I read a lot about you and some of the books you have written, but it was not until I left the good old ship that I had the opportunity to personally investigate your methods of training.

I can readily say you have the finest course of physical culture that I have ever seen. Your method of teaching is inimitable and I can heartily recommend it and every one of your exercises to anyone who wants to build up his body and obtain the punch.

You are welcome to add this letter to your numerous others to help you make the world realize the value of exercise. No one will go wrong in taking your course and I hope you will always continue your good work.

SUITS OVER $150,000 ESTATE SHIFTED AGAIN

Actions by Foster-Daughter of Late Capt. Henry King Now Before Judge Mix.

Two suits over the estate of Capt. Henry King, who at his death 21 years ago was managing editor of the Globe-Democrat, have been added about among divisions of the Circuit Court since last October. The latest transfer, within the past week, was made by Judge Falkenhainer, who sent the case to Judge Mix. It was transferred previously from Judge Hartmann to Judge Falkenhainer.

Capt. King's estate was valued, soon after his death, at $150,000 but has increased in value. Mrs. Bessie King Selleck, who is plaintiff in the present suits, was Capt. King's foster-daughter, and his will left her one-third of the income from the estate for life.

She sued the other heirs, who are Harry L. and Albe W. King, grandsons of Capt. King, in their capacity as trustees of the estate, and sued also the third trustee, her former husband, Dr. Nelson J. Hawley. She is now the wife of Elroy V. Selleck, lawyer, who is representing her, together with former Judge B. J. Klene.

In one suit, she demands absolute possession of securities in excess of $50,000, which have accrued to the estate as stock dividends. The trustees hold that these accretions are part of the trust estate. In the other suit, she alleges that about $11,000 is due her, in addition to what she received, as income in the two years after Capt. King's death. She is said to be receiving about $6000 a year at present, each of the two grandsons receiving an equal one-third of the income.

H. A. Loevy, attorney for the trustees, filed a bill of exceptions yesterday to Judge Falkenhainer's action in transferring the case. He wishes it remanded to Judge Falkenhainer. The judge held that error had been committed in sending the case to his court, since Mrs. Selleck's affidavit for a change of venue from Judge Hartmann was not in proper form. Judge Mix now sits in the division where Judge Hartman was last fall, and the case has thus gone to him.

LEGAL AID ATTORNEY FIRED IN G. O. P. ROW

Charles Crowder Had Meant to Quit Compensation Job; Accuses Senator Brunk.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 4.—Charles Crowder, legal aid attorney of the State Workmen's Compensation Commission, who recently announced he would resign to seek the Republican nomination for Prosecuting Attorney of Cole County, because he did not think he was entitled to stay on the State payroll while campaigning, was dismissed today by the commission for "unsatisfactory services." This action provoked a lively exchange of charges and counter charges.

Crowder charged his dismissal was instigated by Senator Larry Brunk, secretary of the commission and a candidate for State Treasurer, because of Brunk's alleged objections to Crowder making public the reason for his resignation, which was to be effective April 1. He said Brunk did not want to have to explain why he had not resigned.

He asserted Brunk was carrying on his campaign for the Republican nomination for treasurer from the commission office and had not indicated he would resign. Brunk denied the charge of using the commission office for his campaign.

Gov. Baker recently stated that any appointees in departments under his control, who were seeking elective offices, would have to resign when they started their campaigns.

The commission stated Brunk had nothing to do with the dismissal, that Crowder's services had been unsatisfactory, and that he had been using the office postal permit mailing machine to send out his private letters, contrary to a commission rule.

The commission also stated Crowder had sent out numerous letters to industrial concerns against which compensation claims had been filed, using commission letterheads, soliciting employment to represent them before the commission on claims after April 1.

In one of the letters, held by the commission, Crowder proposed a schedule of fees, ranging from 25 cents for filing documents up to $25 for a case taken to the courts, and $150 for handling a case in Supreme Court. Among the proposed fees was $1 for general legal advice on the compensation law. The letter suggested an annual retainer of $12.

A side issue in the controversy was a suit filed by Crowder in a justice of the peace court here to compel Brunk to turn over to him one of these letters, which had been improperly addressed, and was returned by the post office. The envelope bore only the commission return mark and was opened. Brunk held it for submission to the commission, because of use of the postal permit machine to mail it.

EXTORTION KIDNAPING PLOT IS FRUSTRATED

Youth Who Wanted Money to Marry Taken by Police Ruse.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—An extortion and kidnaping plot, involving his uncle and 8-year-old niece, has been frustrated, police said today, with the arrest of Max Cohen, 21, the nephew.

The youth explained he needed money to marry Miss Gale Kozak, 20, of Michigan City, Ind. After his arrest he begged his uncle, Ignatz Victor, for leniency, but the relative said he would insist the youth be punished by the law.

Young Cohen made the first demands upon his uncle four weeks ago, police said, when he named $10,000 as the amount. Victor, trailed by detectives, had made and tried to keep several appointments with Cohen, but each time the man failed to appear.

Later a telephone message warned Victor not to attempt to deliver the money with detectives and threatened to kidnap and kill Victor's daughter, Erma.

Last night the youth telephoned his uncle again. Police instructed Victor to keep the man in conversation, and the two haggled over terms. It was agreed that Victor was to meet the youth within an hour and pay him $5000. As young Cohen hung up the receiver, police, who had traced the call to a drug store telephone booth, arrested him.

BODY OF WO BARTON FRENCH TO BE TAKEN EAST FOR BURIAL

Woman Fails to Prove That She Was His Third Wife.

By the Associated Press.

SANTA FE, N. M., Feb. 4. — Plans went forward today to send the body of W. Barton French, scion of a wealthy New York family who committed suicide here last Wednesday, to Richmond, Va., when the young woman who appeared here yesterday and declared she was French's third wife failed to produce proof of a marriage.

The young woman told authorities she and French were married in Albuquerque on Jan. 4, last by a Rev. Father Good. Felix Baca, County Clerk at Albuquerque, said today no such marriage was recorded and Catholic church officials said they had no record of a Father Good being in the Albuquerque district during the last three or four years.

Burial of French in Richmond, Va., was ordered by his mother, Mrs. Seth Barton French, who cabled local authorities from her home in Southern France yesterday.

J. P. ROOTE'S FUNERAL TODAY

Funeral services for J. P. Roote, an attorney of Oklahoma City, will be held this morning from an undertaker's chapel at 4449 Olive street with burial in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Roote, who was 57 years old, died at Oklahoma City last Wednesday of heart disease. He was born at St. Genevieve, leaving there a number of years ago. During the World War he served overseas with the rank of Colonel. Surviving is his widow.

LOWDEN ASKED TO ADDRESS MISSOURI G. O. P. EDITORS

All State Candidates Also Invited to Speak at State Convention Saturday.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 4. — Former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, Republican Presidential candidate, and other prominent Republicans, have been invited to address the Republican Editorial Association of Missouri at its annual meeting here next Saturday, it is announced by Charles W. Fear, Secretary. The meeting will precede the annual Lincoln day banquet of the Missouri Young Republicans' Association here Monday, Feb. 13.

Acceptances for addresses have been received, Fear said, from George H. Williams of St. Louis, former United States Senator; Gov. Baker, Dr. James Stewart, secretary of the State Board of Health and a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor; Henry S. Caulfield of St. Louis, also a Republican candidate for Governor, and O. J. Page of Springfield, majority floor leader of the House in the 1927 Legislature and mentioned for the United States Senate.

All Republican candidates for state offices have been invited to speak, Fear said.

POLICE ASKED TO SEEK GIRL WHO DISAPPEARED NOV. 18

Parents Offer $500 Reward for Information of East St. Louis High School Student.

Police have been asked to search for Miss Josephine Schwartz, 17 years old, of 815 North Twenty-fourth street, East St. Louis, who disappeared Nov. 18 from the East St. Louis High School, where she was a student in her third year. She did not return home from school that day to get her clothes or personal effects.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Schwartz, who conduct a grocery at 1758 Bond avenue, said yesterday they would pay $500 reward for information of her whereabouts.

Miss Schwartz was a studious girl, according to her parents, and speaks German and Hungarian. They said they could not account for her disappearance. Five other daughters live at home.

Hotel Sneak Thief Gets $120.

BAKING ISN'T THE BOTHER IT USED TO BE

Without giving the matter a second thought, any woman would select a modern gas, electric or coal stove in preference to an old fashioned "mud oven" that our grandmothers used. She can see a big improvement. It is just as plain as day. Now, there has been just as great an improvement in baking powder as there has been in stoves and it is more important too. Because you can bake in almost any sort of an oven, but you can't produce the finest of bakings without the best of baking powder. Many women do not realize how much has been accomplished in the production of leaveners, because all baking powder looks like baking powder.

CALUMET
THE WORLD'S GREATEST BAKING POWDER

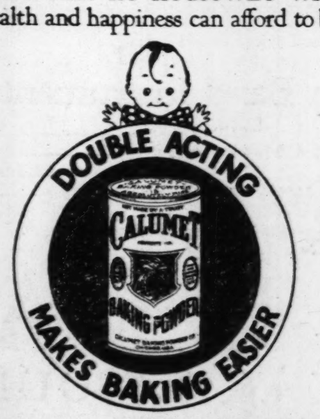
To the sight, Calumet is merely ordinary baking powder. But in results, in baking ease and certainty it proves itself superior to all other leavening mediums and supplies baking convenience that no housewife who values her time, health and happiness can afford to be without.

Calumet is Double Acting. Contains two leavening units. One begins to work when the dough is mixed; the other waits for the heat of the oven, then both units work together.



Makes Baking Easier because it abolishes failures and guarantees the finest success that anyone can possibly have. Contains only such ingredients as have been officially approved by U. S. Food Authorities.

BRIBE INQUIRY INTO THREE HUNG JURIES

U. S. Investigation Ordered Into All De Mayo Prohibition Trials at Kansas City.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 4.— An investigation of all three Federal Court juries which disagreed in the case of Frank DeMayo and Robert Carnahan, charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws, will be made immediately, R. R. Brewster, Jr., assistant United States District Attorney, announced today.

Charges of jury tampering in connection with the third trial, which ended in a hung jury Jan. 28 when but one man held out for acquittal, were filed against three men yesterday by Roscoe C. Patterson, United States District Attorney.

The charges followed the story of D. W. Mathews of Lawson, Mo., foreman of the jury, that he had been approached before the trial with offers of $500 and $1000 to influence the jury.

Those charged were Manny Akers, under indictment for manufacturing liquor, and an alleged employe of DeMayo, and A. W. Jarman and Jewell Hartman, Lawson, Mo., barbers.

POTENTIAL TONNAGE SURVEY STARTED ON MISSOURI RIVER

Hope to Complete Check From St. Louis to Yankton, S. D., in Two Months.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 4. — A survey of the potential tonnage for a Government barge line on the Missouri River got under way today with the arrival here of W. S. Smallwood and L. P. Nickell, transportation experts of the Department of Commerce in Washington. The survey will include cities on the river between St. Louis and Yankton, S. D., and will require from six weeks to two months.

"We will call personally on every shipper of size," said Smallwood. "There will be no regional meetings because, while that might expedite our work, it would not be keeping the shippers' information confidential, a thing we are pledged to do."

Smallwood said he had been instructed to confine his survey to river cities because of the speed that must be made to get the findings back to Congress for use at the present session. Formulas have been worked out, he said, that give an accurate idea of the total tonnage from the river figures.

Milk, Not Beer, for Munich Babies

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—The popular feeling that Munich children are best nursed on Hofbrau is beginning to lose its point. Milk is slowly supplanting beer even in the Bavarian capital, hitherto the paradise for lovers of malt and hops concoctions. A milk station has been established in the central railway station of Munich. Within a short time, the number of daily patrons frequenting this drinking emporium has risen to 2500.

URGES DEMOCRATS TO RECOGNIZE NEGROES

J. L. McLemore Suggests Ways to Swing Race to That Party.

The policemen manning the Laclede avenue district should be replaced with Negroes from the Captain down, and a Negro should be nominated for Congress from the Twelfth district, the Democratic City Committee was told yesterday at its headquarters at Seventeenth and Locust streets.

These moves, declared the speaker, Joseph L. McLemore, a Negro attorney, would bring many Negroes to the Democratic party and might actually change the balance of political power in St. Louis. McLemore spoke as a representative of the Associated Colored Democratic Ward Clubs.

McLemore declared that with 40,000 votes among the Negroes, a few thousands drawn over to the Democratic ticket, would have defeated Miller for Mayor and asserted that Mayor Dever of Chicago was elected the first time largely because he cultivated the Negro vote.

At the meeting Michael Rudolph was elected committeeman from the Ninth Ward, and James W. Griffin from the Twenty-fifth Ward, both succeeding members who died. The ward meetings to select 305 delegates for the State convention at St. Joseph Feb. 28 will be selected at meetings to be held in all wards Feb. 18.

JOHNSON INSISTS ON EARLY ACTION ON COAL INQUIRY

California Senator Presses Resolution for Investigation of Pennsylvania Situation.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—A very early hearing on the Johnson resolution asking an investigation of the suspension of operations in the bituminous fields of Pennsylvania was promised in the Senate today by Chairman Watson of the Interstate Commerce Committee.

Watson made the statement after Senator Johnson, (Rep.), of California, author of the resolution, had demanded immediate action.

Senator Heflin, (Dem.), of Alabama, proposed that the Californian ask the Senate to discharge the committee and order the investigation, and Senator Johnson said he would if action was not forthcoming soon. The California Senator read a telegram from Representative LaGuardia, (Rep.), of New York, who is inspecting the strike region describing conditions as "distressing."

SUPREME COURT REFUSES TO SETTLE ANNEXATION DISPUTE

Declines to Accept Jurisdiction in Case Brought by Olive City Property Owners.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 4.—A writ of quo warranto sought by Attorney-General Gentry to test the legality of the annexation of Olive City by University City was denied today by the Supreme Court en banc. In effect the Court declines to accept jurisdiction.

Gentry filed the suit last month, as a friendly test case, at the request of property owners protesting against the annexation. The special election on the annexation question was held April 5 last. It was contended the annexation was invalid on the ground the law under which it was held did not apply to cities of the class of University City.

German Army Less Formal.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Feb. 4.—As a further step in the democratization of the German Army, Gen. Wilhelm Heye, commander-in-chief of the defense forces, on his return from the United States, issued an order that in future a General—on or off duty—was to be addressed as "Herr General," and that the former appellation of "Your Excellency" was to be dropped as being obsolete.

CHANGE IN SMOKE CAMPAIGN

Personal Instruction in Firing to Be Given to Alternate Householders.

By offering personal instructions in smokeless and economical methods of firing furnaces to every other householder throughout the city's residential area instead of every one, the Citizens' Smoke Abatement League plans to reach its goal of effectiveness with reduced effort. The change has been ordered.

League inspectors in one district tried the new plan first, and it was found that smoke reduction resulting from their work compared favorably with that under the more thorough method. Circulars showing firing methods, and other abatement papers, however, will be distributed to all householders.

Convicted of Ohio Holdup Murder.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
FINDLAY, O., Feb. 4.—After deliberating five hours, a jury today returned a verdict of murder in the first degree against John Leslie, 28 years old, of Detroit, charged with having slain Peter Grant, a night watchman, during a store robbery here last January. Mercy was recommended, saving Leslie from the electric chair.

GREEK CABINET RESIGNS OVER CONTRACT FOR ROADS

Troops Kept in Barracks but Reports of Military Disaffection Held Untrue.

By the Associated Press.

ATHENS, Feb. 4.—On the resignation of the Greek Government yesterday wild rumors were current, including familiar stories of military disaffection.

The garrison was kept in barracks, but this may be merely precautionary, and not necessarily indicative of trouble. The Royalist newspaper published an alarmist supplement.

In the meantime the political leaders are conferring over the Cabinet crisis, which, it is stated, was brought on by a disagreement over a contract for the construction of roads.

COTTON MAN'S MOVE IN $1,000,000 SUIT FAILS

Texan, Accused of Alienation, Seeks Change of Venue in Vain.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WACO, Tex.—Pio Crespi, millionaire cotton baron, who has been sued for $1,000,000 heart balm by Willard Wigley, who alleges Crespi alienated Mrs. Wigley's affections, has lost the first round of a legal battle which already has several sides. Mrs. Crespi obtained a divorce from her husband, while Willard Wigley and his wife also were divorced. The romance of Crespi and Mrs. Wigley, it is stated here, began at the old Huaco Country Club.

Crespi sought by legal action in the Fifty-fourth District Court here last week to have the suit by Wigley removed to Dallas County, where Crespi now resides. The Court took up first the question of whether "alienation of a wife's affections" constitutes, legally, a trespass. The statutes read that a suit involving a trespass shall be tried in the county in which the act is committed.

A plea of privilege had been filed by attorneys for Crespi, seeking to remove the case to Dallas. Former Attorney-General M. M. Crae of Texas is one of the Crespi attorneys. The plea of privilege, however, has not yet been heard. The matter opened up legally recently when Crespi attorneys filed the plea of privilege to have the case removed to Dallas County, but attorneys of Willard Wigley filed a controverting affidavit, which in turn brought about the filing of the special demurrer by Crane and the hearing which has just been held before Judge Richard I. Munroe.

Judge Munroe overruled the demurrer filed by defense counsel, and Crespi lost the first point, but the plea of privilege will be heard soon, when Crespi hopes to make headway in his effort to get the case removed to Dallas County.

None of the principal figures in the muddle attended the hearing.

Child's Assailant Hanged.

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Feb. 4. Wesley Homer Swain, 45 years old, of Parkersburg, W. Va., convicted in November of last year of criminal assault on a 5-year-old Parkersburg girl, was hanged last night at the West Virginia State penitentiary.

Swain protested his innocence to the end. The child has since fully recovered.

OUTDOOR VACATION IN WINTER RECOMENDED FOR HEALTH

Izaak Walton League Says Such an Outing Is Equal to One or Two Weeks in Summer.

CHICAGO.—An outing over the week-end in winter is equal to a two-week vacation in summer, says a notice sent out by the Izaak Walton League of America to its chapters in all parts of the United States.

"When muscles are becoming stale and the lungs half dead from artificial heat and lack of exercise, recreation in the outdoors is of special value, and should be indulged in whenever possible," the statement declared.

"Get out in winter, especially if you have snow, and give yourself some fresh air and exercise when you need it most. Outdoor recreation is perfectly comfortable in winter, as the experiences of many who prefer to camp out in the snow rather than to brave the mosquitoes and sultry nights of summer prove.

"Our fear of cold weather comes from the fact that we emerge from heated offices into cold blasts, and before the body has an opportunity to dry and the blood to get in circulation we duck shivering into a car or another building. The experience of many outdoorsmen proves that a person can go direct from the city life into the woods in winter and camp out and travel on snowshoes or skiis day after day with no punishment from cold weather, but actually with as great an enjoyment, if not greater, than in summer.

"Many people who have tried winter camping find that they prefer it to summer camping and an increasing number are vacationing in the woods, either in tents or cabins, and these are not cranks or fresh air fiends but merely people who have learned that winter those who are not afraid to brave the phantom danger or unpleasantness that is suposed to lurk in zero weather."

ACCUSED OF TRYING TO BRIBE JUROR IN BOOTLEGGER'S TRIAL

Foreman in Kansas City Case Says He Was Approached by Friend of Frank Demayo.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 4.—Charges of attempted bribery of prospective jurors were made by Roscoe C. Patterson, Federal District Attorney, yesterday, after the third trial of Frank Demayo, accused leader of a huge bootlegging ring, ended as two others have—in a hung jury.

Manny Akers, under indictment for operation of a still; Jewell Hatman and A. W. Jarman, Lawson, Mo.—were named in the informations filed by the District Attorney.

The accuser of the men was D. W. Mathews, foreman of the last Demayo jury, who said Akers approached him with an offer of money if the trial resulted in a disagreement. Demayo denied knowledge of either Akers or the alleged bribery.

J. R. Crenshaw, Lawson, another prospective juryman, who was not chosen, however, said he also was approached by Akers with a $500 offer.

KANSAS CITY PLANS TO BUILD CITY HALL TO COST $3,000,000

Proposal Is for 10-Story Structure to Be First Unit of Civic Center Group.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Kansas City is considering a new city hall, plans for which have been submitted by a committee of architects, and are receiving much favor.

The new hall would house all of the city departments. The building would consist of 10 floors, with about 24,000 square feet floor space to the story, and be built at an approximate cost of $3,000,000.

According to plans, the new hall would be situated near the heart of the downtown section, and would serve as the first unit of a civic center group; a government building, postoffice and courthouse to be constructed later, with perhaps a new library building in the future.

WOMEN VOLUNTEER TO TEACH IN ARKANSAS HIGH SCHOOL

By the Associated Press.

ARKANSAS CITY, Ark.—Five women who volunteered their services as teachers at meager salaries are credited with the continued operation of the high school in this most unfortunate of Arkansas' flood-stricken cities.

These five women compose the faculty of the high school, whose enrollment has fallen off greatly the last two years. At the end of the term, only two students will sit on the platform as graduates and receive diplomas.

The flood waters of 1927 wrought havoc to this city, not only destroying much property, but also greatly reducing school revenues because of tax delinquencies. Then followed the failure of the Desha Bank and Trust Co. here, in which were a large amount of school funds.

Closing of the high school was threatened until the five volunteers, all residents of the city, came forward. They are Mrs. P. E. Cunningham, principal; Miss Margaret Matthews, Mrs. Fay McCain, Mrs. Lucille Dickinson and Mrs. Ethel R. Lacy.

Now Ready to Serve You!

COLONIAL BAKING CO.

Our building is now complete and we are ready to introduce to the people of St. Louis our new, big bakery. It is a bakery built to make bread of a finer quality—bread of a quality not to be surpassed—and it is quite up to the expectations outlined in advance.

A desire on my part to enter business in St. Louis with my son, Albert F. Welle, Jr., prompted the establishing of this bakery—a bakery in keeping with the importance of our great city, the city where both of us grew up, and so far have lived our lives.

The bakery we have built has fittingly been referred to as 'St. Louis' Most Modern Bakery." It is so because it is one of the finest bakeries ever built and embodies the very latest and best ideas yet developed in baking engineering.

Numerous new ideas have been adopted in the construction and equipment of the Colonial Bakery. It is acknowledged to have no superior from the standpoint of design and construction for sanitation, economy and convenience for operation.

Colonial Bread

—is made only of materials which we have had carefully tested by the latest laboratory methods—the best of flour, yeast, milk, shortening, sugar and salt—the very kind the most particular housewife would desire to use if she baked her own bread.

Vast stretches of snowy white walls and ceilings, spotless floors and gleaming machinery reflect the spirit of cleanliness, orderliness and exactness which rules throughout the bakery.

Altogether, we are proud of our attainment in building a bakery such as we visioned, proud of this new building as we throw open its doors. More proud are we to feel that it is a St. Louis institution, located among and for the people we have known for many years and who have welcomed our new venture with unlimited courtesy and co-operation. Of this, we are deeply appreciative and hope to merit your consideration and patronage by a close adherence to the highest ideals of service.

For the present the Colonial Bakery will serve only South Side merchants, it being our policy to so gauge the baking and distribution of our products that the service we render may be truly distinctive, as will be the quality of our bread.

PRIEST LOSES LONG FIGHT TO STOP PAYMENT FOR PRINTING

Supreme Court Overrules Previous Decision in Case Brought by the Rev. John Fugel.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 4.—The long fight in the courts by the Rev. John Fugel, Catholic priest and newspaper publisher in Vienna, Maries County, to prevent payment of $206,000 to Missouri newspapers which published the constitutional amendments voted on in the 1924 election, was decided against him yesterday by the Missouri Supreme Court, in an opinion by Judge Blair.

Father Fugel opposed the letting of the contracts to the newspapers on the ground that Secretary of State Becker, instead of letting the publication to the lowest bidder in each county, arbitrarily picked the newspapers and proposed to pay them an exorbitant price.

An injunction against awarding the printing, obtained by Father Fugel in the Boone County Circuit Court, was set aside by the Supreme Court because no bond was posted. In the few hours that elapsed while his attorneys were obtaining the bond, the contracts were sent out. This second case was decided in the lower court against the State officers, but Judge Blair overruled it, holding that an injunction would not lie in the case, as the contracts had been made before the injunction was obtained. The Court did not pass on the question of the right of Becker to award the contracts without obtaining bids.

COSTA RICAN ACCUSED OF RANSOM DEMAND

Writer Wanted $25,000 for Return of Missing Smith College Girl.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—A Costa Rican, alleged to have written a letter demanding $25,000 ransom for the return of Miss Frances St. John Smith, missing Smith College student, was questioned by police today. The suspect, a painter of Yonkers, N. Y., was arrested after he had picked up a decoy package hidden in a vacant lot.

Although the prisoner said he was Vivian Collins, 27 years old, the ransom letter bore the signature of Robert Brown. It was sent last Thursday to Miss Anna W. Gramm, grandaunt of the 18-year-old heiress, at the Smith home here. The writer stated that he and his sister were holding Miss Smith as a prisoner and that she would be liberated upon payment of the reward money of $10,000 and two railroad tickets to San Francisco. The ransom letter read in part:

"When Miss Frances heard me talking about Mr. J. Hopkins Smith (the girl's uncle) searching in Springfield, she let out a scream and wanted to know if Uncle James knew about what happened there. I tell you we nearly lost her on account of that, and it put my sister in bed, so I had to take care of both of them.

"Little did I realize late Saturday afternoon, the 4th of January, when I offered to give Frances a lift I was getting my sister and myself in such serious trouble for doing good, for we were both sorry for her."

The writer disclosed he had previously written a ransom note from Springfield, Mass. It was on Jan. 13 that the Smith College freshman disappeared from the school at Northampton, Mass.

Following the alleged kidnaper's instructions, postal inspectors placed the decoy package in a vacant lot near Van Cortlandt Park, in the northern part of New York City. Collins, the Costa Rican appeared at the appointed time, seized the package and left in an automobile. The postal inspectors gave chase in a commandeered automobile and captured him. Collins denied that he wrote the ransom letter.

The parents of the missing girl are in seclusion at their home here. It was said today that ransom letters are being received daily, som coming from as far away as Chicago.

NEGRO BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN MURDERED BY ROBBER

Frank Rattler Known to Have Carried $274 at Time He Was Shot.

Robbery is believed to have been the motive for the murder of Frank Rattler, 33 years old, of 5101 St. Clair avenue, St. Clair County, a Negro, whose body was found in a ravine at Forty-second street and Alton and Southern Railroad crossing in East St. Louis at 2 a. m. yesterday. He had been shot in the back of the head and his right hand still clutched a revolver in his pocket.

Rattler, a stationary fireman, was known to have saved $274 when he left his place of employment at 5:30 p. m. Friday. This was missing. The dead man's shoes had been removed and the bib of his overalls cut away apparently in the robber's search for the money. Another Negro who was employed with Rattler and who knew of the money in his possession was arrested for investigation when it was learned his wages had been garnished the day before.

Radio Teacher Killed by Car.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 4. — Frederick C. Ryan, radio instructor at the Sweeney Automobile and Electrical School here, was fatally injured today when struck by a street car in front of the school building, near Union Station.

"I CAN, BUT I WON'T," FARIS' REPLY TO PLEA FOR LENIENCY

Federal Judge Refuses to Grant Request of Bootlegger for Reduced Sentence.

After Federal Judge Faris had consented yesterday to order Harry W. Bloss, a bootlegger, confined to St. Charles jail rather than at Warrenton, Bloss decided he might ask the court another.

"Can you cut my sentence from three months to one, Judge?" he asked.

"I can," the court replied. "But I won't." Bloss formerly operated a bar at Taylor and Enright avenues.

Frank L. Novak, another bootlegger who pleaded guilty, also asked that he be sent to St. Charles, but the court remarked: "There is something suggestive about everybody wanting to go there," and sent him instead to Warrenton.

There have been frequent instances of leniency to Volstead act prisoners at St. Charls.

Grocery Manager Robbed of $61.

Armed with a revolver, a robber held up Jack Hall, manager, and a clerk, at a Kroger grocery at 5600 Lotus avenue yesterday morning and obtained $61.33 from the register. He made the employes go into a rear room, while he escaped in an automobile.

SALESMEN NEED MISSIONARY SPIRIT, SAYS BARNHART

Vice President of Surety Company Declares Seller Must Visualize Needs of the Buyer.

Five fundamental principles of successful salesmanship were outlined by W. L. Barnhart, vice president of the National Surety Co. of New York, in an address at the luncheon meeting of the Sales Managers' Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce Friday.

These principles, Barnhart said, are finding the man who needs the goods, finding the best goods to meet the need, love of work, expectancy and ability to meet the customer on his own ground.

"Just as the missionary sees the need of the heathen, so a salesman must visualize the purchaser's needs," the speaker said. "It is not essential that the customer know he needs the goods. All that is necessary is that the salesman should know it. The missionary spirit is the starting point of salesmanship."

The ability to meet the prospect on his own ground, Barnhart pointed out, is the ability to talk business in a subtle way. "If a man expected to get business from me," he declared, "he must talk about my business, my home, my city and other factors of interest to me."

Government by Commission.

BOXING has been legalized for more than six months, in Missouri; but the only battling here seems to be confined to the two fight commissions, State and city.

The City Commission, it appears, has systematically played the part of obstructionist. In a recent statement, the board sought to throw the burden of the city 5 per cent receipts tax on the promoter.

It asserted that "it (the city board) has no power to abolish the tax," but it went on to recommend that the public refuse to pay the 5 cents per dollar added to each ticket.

The commission may not have the power to abolish the tax, but it could do better still—abolish itself. It had the power to have introduced a bill altering conditions of the old ordinance. It could just as readily have introduced a bill repealing the City Commission law, for which there no longer is any need!

The City Commission is not working in the interest of the game or of the fans, so far as its recent acts seem to disclose. Shorn of any power save that of taxation, its plea of "needing the revenue for the city" would appear insincere. If it really sought revenue only, would it single out the least productive of all sports on which to impose a tax?

How Come?

THE American Bowling Congress is soon to hold its twenty-eighth annual championship tournament, Kansas City being the host. A record entry of 2440 teams has been received. This means that about 12,000 persons will bowl 108,000 games during the tournament.

That is almost as many games as are rolled during an entire season in all the leagues of St. Louis. A singular fact is that in 27 A. B. C. tournaments there has been only one perfect score recorded; whereas in St. Louis about fifteen 300 scores have been rolled during the current campaign!

Are the St. Louis alleys rutted? The pins bad? Or are the bowlers so much improved that they have risen above even the A. B. C. class?

You tell 'em, Bo. For our part, we'll let the Kansas City tournament results tell the story.

SQUAD STILL INCLUDES 7 INFIELDERS

With Maranville Available for Relief Duty, Heine Schuble Probably Will Be Sent to Farm or Optioned Out for a Year.

By W. J. McGoogan.

Jim Cooney, shortstop, has been sent by the Cardinals to the Boston Braves in a straight cash transaction, Sam Breadon, president of the club advised his office here by wire from New York yesterday. The amount received for Cooney was not stated.

This is the second time Cooney has been a member of the Cardinals and has been disposed of. He came here for the first time in 1925 from Milwaukee and during that winter was traded to the Chicago Cubs for pitcher Victor Keen. Chicago sent him to Philadelphia last year shortly after he had turned a triple play unassisted in the morning game of last Memorial Day.

Cooney remained with the Phillies for the balance of last season and was traded to the Cardinals at the winter meeting of the National League in New York last December. In the same deal the St. Louis Club acquired Catcher Jonnard and Outfielder Mokan along with Cooney for Pitcher Jimmy Ring and Catcher John Schulte.

All of the players acquired by the Cardinals in that transaction have now been disposed of, Jonnard and Mokan going to Houston and Cooney to Boston.

Brothers Now Teammates.

Cooney probably will welcome his transfer to Boston as he will find on the same team his brother, John Cooney, a pitcher.

Seemingly it was the Cardinals' intention, when they made the deal with Philadelphia for the shortstop, to use him on some other team in their organization but apparently they were unable to obtain waivers on him and the sale to Boston resulted.

Seven infielders now remain on the Cardinal roster, without taking into consideration Wattie Holm, listed as an outfielder but who is capable of filling a position on the inner defense. They are Jim Bottomley, first baseman, Frankie Frisch, second baseman, Walter Maranville, Tommy Thevenow and Heine Schuble, shortstops and Lester Bell, third baseman.

Schuble Likely to Go.

If Manager McKechnie follows the plan of the two preceding Cardinal managers, Hornsby and O'Farrell, he will carry six infielders, which would leave one player now listed on the roster as an infielder to be disposed of, and it is probable that one will be Schuble.

Heine came to the Cardinals in time of great distress to the infield last year and did fairly well, but he is very young and needs further experience, so it would not be at all unlikely for him to be sent out to one of the Cardinals' minor league teams or on option to a foreign club for this season.

It is expected that Maranville will be able to plug any gap at shortstop or at second base that should occur this year. He came to the Cardinals late last year and was hurt in a collision with Or-

Only Two Games in Muny League Today

ALL Municipal Soccer League group races have been completed except one, and that will be concluded this afternoon. The Brandts and the St. Thomas teams battle for the championship of Group No. 1 at Carondelet Park in the first game of a double-header. In the second game the German Sports Club and the Spanish Ideal Club will meet. Dick Wall is the referee.

Managers of divisional club winners will meet at the Park Department offices tomorrow at noon to draw for opponents in the elimination series which starts next Sunday.

PELTZER LIKELY TO RUN AGAINST HAHN FEB. 29

German Runner, Limited to Three Races in U. S., Expected to Pick New York Meet.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—German athletic authorities definitely determined today that Dr. Otto Peltzer would run three races in this country and no more, but they did nothing to aid in solving the problem of where the world's half-mile record holder's competitive appearances would be made.

With the victory tucked under his belt in his first race—the 1000 yards at the Millrose games — and slated for another appearance in the Illinois A. C., track and field carnival at Chicago Feb. 1, Dr. Peltzer must sort over the many invitations he has received in an effort to pick the spot for his third and last joust against America's middle distance stars. He was in Boston tonight as a spectator at the B. A. A. meet.

Two Meets in Mind.

Although he had come to no definite decision, Peltzer indicated today that the choice lay between the New York Knights of Columbus meet at Madison Square Garden, Feb. 29, and a meet at Los Angeles, Feb. 22.

It was generally believed, however, that the German star would pick the K. of C. games for his farewell since he would get an opportunity there to match strides with Lloyd Hahn, Boston A. A., speedster, in the mile. Peltzer has expressed a desire to meet Hahn after he has had a chance to accustom himself to indoor racing, at which he is a novice.

Limited to Three Races.

German authorities, in announcing that permission for Peltzer to run in more than three races would be impossible because of the regulations of the International Amateur Athletic Federation, made no mention of the 21-day limit within which their champion may compete and still receive expenses. Peltzer, it was believed, may decide against the long trip to the West Coast in favor of the K. of C. meet, even though he would have to pay his own expenses in the latter.

The cable from German officials advised Peltzer at the same time to "fulfill the wishes of the American Amateur Athletic Union as much as possible." Just what interpretation was to be placed upon this "advice" remained undisclosed. The A. A. U. consistently has emphasized that Peltzer would be the sole judge of where he should run. Whether this announced "hands off" policy would be continued in the light of the German communication remained a question.

FIRST PLACE AT STAKE IN UNIVERSITY CITY SOCCER LEAGUE TODAY

First place is at stake in today's soccer doubleheader in the University City League. In the first game the Arts Toggerys and the Trumbulls will meet and in the second and feature contest, the Slatterys will oppose the St. Johns eleven. Victories for the Trumbulls and St. Johns teams will change the league leadership.

BEN MILLERS OPPOSE CHICAGO CLUB IN NATIONAL SOCCER CUP MATCH

Winner of Today's Game Here Reaches Western Semifinal — Visitors Defeated Tablers, 4-1.

By Dent McSkimming.

St. Louis soccer faces another test today. In a national championship cup game at Sportsman's Park, the Ben Millers, sole St. Louis survivors of four local entries, will oppose the Canadian Club of Chicago. The winner will advance to the western semifinal round and the loser will be eliminated from the competition.

Were it not for the fact that the Ben Millers have always excelled themselves when playing a national cup game, there would be few brave enough to predict a victory for St. Louis. But, in the past, when admittedly outclassed by opponents who had learned their soccer in Europe, the Millers have repeatedly triumphed, and it would not be surprising to see them repeat today.

Even Break With Sparta.

There are several reasons why the Canadian Club should be conceded a very good chance to win, however. One is the showing the team has made against the best clubs in Chicago. They have played against Sparta three times this season, winning one game, losing one and tying the other. Against the Bricklayers, last Sunday, they were beaten after a hard game, 3 to 2. Another reason is that they beat the Tablers of St. Louis, 4 goals to 1 in a first round national cup game.

The Tablers and their supporters, who numbered about 50, brought back from Chicago reports that the Canadian Club did not win fairly, having perpetrated many outrages under the protection of a biased referee. These reports reached the ear of W. E. Barker, president of the local league and in order to forestall any trouble at the park today he requested of Chief Gerk a special detail of 50 patrolmen.

"I am not afraid of what the players may do," said Barker yesterday. "I think Referee Kavanaugh can handle the players and precent unduly rough play, but there is danger that an over-zealous spectator may cause trouble. We will permit no spectator on the playing field and we will take other steps to insure fair play."

Millers Lose Nash.

Benny Nash, clever inside left forward of the Millers, will not be in the game. He has been sick since last Sunday and will be replaced by Vinucent "Mickey" O'Hara, a youngster who has been playing outside right. Syl Curran will take up the wing position in place of O'Hara.

The visitors have appeared here before, playing as members of the defunct Western Intercity League last season. They were a fair club at that time, but have added considerable strength in the meantime, and are now little short of Chicago's best. Jock King, a big blond fullback, is better known here as a former star of the Gillespie, Ill., team.

Some of the outstanding stars of the club are Duncan Thompson, who will probably play inside left; Bill Adams, center halfback; McAvoy, left halfback; Vic Neate, one of the finest goal-tenders in America, and Alec Young, the center forward. Almost every member of the team was born in Scotland.

Starting time will be 2:30 p. m. The admission price is 75 cents.

Molla Mallory Wins Tourney For 8th Time

Defeats Miss Eleanor Goss, 6-4, 6-0 in Final of Brooklyn Competition.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, eight times national women's tennis champion, today captured the Brooklyn Heights Casino invitation tournament singles for the eighth time. Se overwhelmed Miss Eleanor Goss, New York veteran, in the final round, taking eight games in a row, to win by scores of 6—4, 6—0, after a close fight in the first set.

Mrs. Mallory played at the top form, sending her hard forehand drives close to the net and placing them accurately in the corners, where Miss Goss always had trouble returning them. The backhand weakness, which cost Molla several games in the earlier rounds, was not in evidence.

Previous to this year, Mrs. Mallory won the event five times in succession, from 1916 to 1920, and again in 1922 and 1925.

BASEBALL STARS PLAY HANDBALL TO GET IN CONDITION FOR YEAR

St. Louis baseball players connected with major and minor league clubs have turned to handball to keep in condition during the off-season. As a result, at least half a dozen athletes can be found going through the paces daily at the North Side Y. M. C. A.

Among this number are Charley Grimm, first baseman of the Cubs; Andy High, third baseman, Braves; Freddie Hofmann, Red Sox catcher; Johnny Schulte, Phillie catcher; Oscar Siemer, catcher for St. Paul; Walter Holke, Indianapolis first sacker; Oscar Roettger, outfielder-pitcher with St. Paul and Gene Hawken, who belongs to Vicksburg.

WORLD BIKE SPRINT CHAMPIONSHIPS ARE AWARDED TO AMERICA

Stecher Arrives Here in Fine Physical Condition

World's Wrestling Champion Has Built Himself Up to 225 Pounds in Preparation for Bout With Lewis Feb. 20—Challenger Due Here This Week.

By Dent McSkimming.

The arrival here yesterday of Joe Stecher, world's champion wrestler, two weeks in advance of his title match with Ed "Strangler" Lewis, definitely settled at least one question. Stecher presented visible proof that he is in remarkably good physical condition. If Lewis, upon his arrival here late this week, displays the same sort of evidence of sincere training prospective spectators will have assurance of a promising bout.

Stecher is heavier than usual. He has built himself up to 225 pounds, a circumstance which appears to minimize Lewis' advantage in weight. It is expected that the Strangler will go something close to 230 pounds.

"I have gotten more out of my preparation for this bout than I ever got out of a course of training before," said Stecher as he rested at the Broadview Hotel in East St. Louis yesterday. "Only once before in my career did I work so hard to get into shape. That was a year ago, when I was to have met Lewis at Los Angeles, but the match never came off."

"How is it that you are able to take on weight while training?" Stecher was asked.

Food and Sleep Body Builders.

"I could never have done it if I had been engaged in actual matches," he replied. "That's the reason we called off all bouts since Dec. 20. By keeping regular hours in my training camp at Dodge, Neb. I had the advantage of plenty of restful sleep and good food. When a fellow's on the road, wrestling here and there, he soon grows tired and drawn and he loses weight. I always take on weight when I train at home.

"I expect to keep the weight I have now and enter the ring at 225 pounds. That will give me the strength I need in meeting a heavier opponent and will help me if the match is a long one."

Navy Swordsmen Win.

By the Associated Press.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 4.—The Naval Academy swordsmen defeated Syracuse here today, 13 to 4. The Midshipmen took the major laurels, with dueling sword and foil, but Syracuse gained a tie in the saber bouts.

GALAHAD'S STRING OF VICTORIES ENDS AT FIVE

Reuter Colt Out of Money in Fifth Event at New Orleans—Winner in Feature Pays $21.52.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 4.—R. N. Nicholas' Patsy Jane, paying $21.52 for a $2 ticket, scored in a driving finish in winning the Edgewater Gulf Handicap, which featured the race card at Fairgrounds here today. Algol, under a poor ride by Ambrose, landed second money, with W. Knapp's Under Cover third.

The start, which was out of the starting gate, was poor. Algol was crowded a bit, and Ambrose took him back until he was many lengths behind the leaders. Meanwhile, Patsy Jane was running like a blue streak out in front and appeared not to tire. In the stretch Pichon, who had the mount, used the whip freely on her and the filly held on to win by a length and a half. Algol was second by a nose.

Witchmount Out of Money.

Twelve platers competed in the first race, a mile and sixteenth gallop, for older horses, and it was won by Scampaway, which was a heavily played favorite. Nonchalant was second and Sweep Net third. Scampaway jumped away to the lead, made all the pace, and just lasted to win by a head, while Nonchalant took the place by a head.

The form players suffered a severe setback in the second event, when Witchmount, heavily played favorite, failed to land in the money. The winner turned up in Candy Pig, with Floranada second and Navigator third. Candy Pig and Arrogant ran head and head for a half mile, then Arrogant tired. Candy Pig drew away to win by two lengths from Floranada second and Navigator third, a half length back.

Candy Pig paid $16.14 straight.

Florence Mills in Form.

Florence Mills, running one of her good races, scored in a sensational finish in winning the third race, a mile and sixteenth gallop. She stepped the distance in 1:44 4-5, which is just one-fifth of a second slower than the track record.

Florence Mills' race was somewhat of a surprise, as in her previous race she was defeated by many lengths. Florence Mills rushed right to the front, made all the pace and won in a drive by a nose. Sanford took the place by a length and a half from Florian.

U. S. Racquets Title Is Won By Englishmen

C. C. Pell and Mortimer, Americans, Had Held Honor Since 1915.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Clarence C. Pell and Stanley G. Mortimer of New York today lost the national racquets doubles title they have held since 1915, when they were defeated in the final round by the English team of J. C. F. Simpson and C. N. Bruce.

Playing sensationally, the British team won, three games to one, 16—18, 15—8, 15—11, 15—8.

Miss Van Wie Beats Glenna Collett At Pinehurst in 22-Hole Match

By the Associated Press.

PINEHURST, N. C., Feb. 4.—Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, defeated Miss Glenna Collett of Providence, R. I., one up on the 22nd hole in the final round of the women's mid-south golf tournament here this afternoon.

Miss Van Wie came from behind to square the match at the 14th and force her experienced opponent to extra holes.

Miss Van Wie dropped a 12-foot putt on the 22d hole for a par three to take the match.

Today's victory was her second in three meetings with Miss Collett. Her first win came three years ago, when they met in the Florida east coast tournament at St. Augustine. In the second meeting at the North and South Tournament for women here last year, Miss Collett was the winner.

Patsy Jane, away fast, opened a wide lead, saved ground and held on gamely in the drive. Algol was checked back at the start, trailed the field to the stretch, where he came wide and finished fast and was second by a long stride. Under Cover ran a good race. Rosinante had plenty of speed but weakened in the last furlong.

$2 mutuels paid: Patsy Jane, win $21.50, place $5.22, show $2.06; Algol, place $2.04, show $2.30; Under Cover, show $3.20.

JUSTICE F.'S PRICE DROPS TO 3 TO 1, FOR COFFROTH HANDICAP

CARLARIS' ODDS NOW 7 TO 1 DUE TO HEAVY PLAY

Winner of Tijuana Derby and Coffroth Handicap Two Years Ago Develops Strong Following.

By Clement Glaub.

Justice F's fine race in the New Orleans Handicap, Friday, caused his future book odds on the Coffroth Handicap to take another drop. The latest price quoted against William Daniels' crack English thoroughbred by Tom Kearney, local "Big Store" operator, is 3 to 1 to win, 2 to 1 to place and even to show.

Justice F. probably will be shipped to Tijuana for the Coffroth Handicap, following the running of the Mardi Gras Handicap, at the Fairgrounds, Feb. 21. He will have plenty of time to work over the Tijuana course for the Coffroth, for the race is to be run March 18.

Carlaris Well Played.

W. T. Anderson's Carlaris, also an English colt, continues to be heavily played in the future book. He is now quoted at 7 to 1. Last week his odds were 8 to 1. Carlaris is nearing his 1926 condition, when he won the Coffroth Handicap and the Tijuana Derby.

Jock, Edward B. McLean's sterling colt, which finished second to Justice F. in the New Orleans Handicap, is held at 15 to 1. Other horses quoted at that figure are: Watkinson, Masked Marvel, Wooldridge and Handy Mandy. Crystal Pennant, Herodian and Rip Rap are held at 20 to 1, and War Eagle and Doctor Wilson are quoted at 25 to 1.

Ten Horses at 1000 to 1.

Many horses are held at from 100 to 1000 to 1. Ten thoroughbreds are held at the latter figure. They are: Clarifier, Johnny Callahan, Tecate, Richfield, Referendum, Major Mallon Lawley, Gold Star, Friar's Hope and First Mission.

Black Maria, Display, Gray Lag and Pompey are considered doubtful starters and no odds are quoted against them.

Reigh Count 4 to 1 Derby Choice.

Reigh Count, outstanding 2-year-old colt of 1927, is the favorite in the future book odds on the Kentucky Derby at 4 to 1. Sortie, Victorian and Misstep are next at 10 to 1. CANADIAN SKATING MEET POSTPONED

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—The Canadian amateur speed skating championships, originally scheduled for today, have been tentatively postponed until Feb. 17 and 18, it was announced today. Because of the fact that these latter dates conflict with several American speed skating events, a further change may be made.

St. Louis Olympic "Hopes," Their Coach and Trainer

20 Girls in New Athletic Club Training for Olympic Tryouts

Catherine Maguire, Dee Boeckman and Others in Headlight Organization Work Out Daily at Coliseum Under Instructor.

By Gerald Holland.

St. Louis' hopes of representation on the United States Women's Olympic team have been brightened considerably by the activities of the newly-formed Headlight Athletic Club which includes most of the leading girl athletes of the district in its steadily-increasing membership.

About 20 girls have been training daily for the last three weeks at the Coliseum under the direction of Harry Riddick, a runner of prominence some 20 years ago. Lately the club has had the advantage of occasional instruction by Loren Murchison, famed sprinter, who was recently discharged from the hospital after weathering a near-fatal attack of spinal-meningitis that definitely ended his brilliant track career.

Outdoor Practice Soon.

To date, the daily workout has been limited to an hour of light conditioning exercises. When weather permits, Riddick will hold outdoor practices. The first major event for the club will be the Western Amateur Athletic Union indoor meet at the Coliseum, in which the new organization will be well represented. The second will be the Western A. A. U. outdoor meet late in May, when the district candidates for the Olympic team will be selected and entered in the national trials at Cambridge, Mass., in June.

The club's leading candidate for a place on the Olympic team is Catherine Maguire, who as women's national high jump champion, is almost certain to make the trip abroad. Miss Maguire retained her title of 1926 in the national meet at Eureka, Cal., last year, when she broke her own record with a new mark of 5 feet and ½ inch.

Other Members of Club.

Other promising members include "Dee" Boeckmann, all-around athlete, who has been performing well in the high jump and short sprints; Olga Becker, another versatile athlete; Violet Brauning, Western A. A. U. titleholder in the 220-yard dash, and Margaret Kern, who has been showing consistent improvement in training for the short distances.

Most of the other girls in the club are novices but should profit by training with the more experienced athletes. All the members, however, are likely to show the advantage of daily systematic practice in this year's track and field events.

St. Louis Squash Players Lose Six Of Seven Matches

Jack Gordon Only Member of University Club Team to Win in Cincinnati.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 4.—The University Club of St. Louis gave up the St. Louis Racquet Club's squash trophy to the squash team of the Cincinnati University Club, after losing six out of seven matches on the local club's court this afternoon.

Every match was close and crammed with thrilling plays, but the only set taken by St. Louis provided the most spectacular play. J. W. Gordon of St. Louis, defeated J. B. Benedict of Cincinnati, 15—13, 15—4.

Cincinnati now holds the edge in the series, with three victories in the five years of competition. The Queen City team won in 1924 and 1925, while St. Louis won in 1926 and 1927.

Summary of results:

Middleton Decamp, Cincinnati, beat J. H. Farish, St. Louis, 15-9, 15-8.
C. L. Harrison Jr., Cincinnati, beat Roland Hoerr, St. Louis, 15-11, 15-10.
J. W. Gordon, St. Louis, beat J. B. Benedict, Cincinnati, 15-13, 15-4. F. H. Mitchell, Cincinnati, beat Paul Goessling, St. Louis, 15-11, 15-10.
H. D. Whitaker, Cincinnati, beat Russell Murphy, St. Louis, 15-1, 15-6.
J. M. Decamp, Cincinnati, beat J. M. Francineus, St. Louis, 15-7, 15-5.
R. E. Ives, Cincinnati, beat Louis Denning, St. Louis, 15-12, 15-12.

DOWN THE STRETCH

Chance Play to Belmont.

THE good horses Chance Play and Sun Edwin, owned by the Log Cabin Stable, have been shipped to Belmont Park to begin training for their spring stake engagements. Chance Play is a 4-year-old and Sun Edwin a 3-year-old. The horses will be in charge of Trainer John I. Smith. Sun Edwin is a candidate for the Kentucky Derby and was purchased by the Log Cabin Stable from his breeder, W. S. Kilmer. Among his stake victories are the Whirl and East View. Chance Play has won the Jockey Club Gold Cup, Saratoga and Toboggan handicaps and other stakes.

After filling his engagement in the Mardi Gras Handicap, at the Fairgrounds, Feb. 21, William R. Coe's Herodian will be sent to Nashville to join the other horses Trainer John Lowe is looking after at the Cumberland track. Herodian is being trained for the Mardi Gras by B. B. Williams, who has charge of the Bloomfield Stable's horses. The latter's string will accompany Herodian to Nashville. The decision to ship Herodian to the Tennessee course leaves Coe without a representative in the $85,000 added Coffroth Handicap, to be run at Tijuana March 18. Herodian was one of the favorites for the race, being held at 25 to 1.

American Horse Favored.

HOWARD BRUSE'S Billy Barton continues to rule the favorite in the future book on the Grand National Steeplechase, to be run over the Aintree course, Liverpool, March 30. His odds are quoted at 10 to 1. Bright's Boy, owned by Stephen Sanford, also an American, is second favorite at 12 to 1. Mrs. M Partridge's Spring, winner of the event last year, is held at 16 to 1 Spring recently won the Surrey Steeplechase over a distance of three miles, under an impost of 175 pounds.

Riders Suspended.

JOCKEY A. ROBERTSON, promising apprentice, was suspended for 10 days by the stewards of the Havana-American Jockey Club for foul riding while astride Baby Gar in the second race Friday. Robertson, who started his riding career at Havana, is regarded by many horsemen as a finished rider. He is second on the list of winning jockeys. J. Craigmyle was also suspended for 10 days by the stewards. He was found guilty of foul riding on Thursday.

Jerome B. Respess, Kentucky sportsman, has signed Jockey Kenneth Horvath, leading rider at Havana last year, to ride for his stable. Horvath is riding at Havana at present and will leave for this country about the middle of next month. He will report to the Respess stable for the opening of the Lexington meeting.

To Race on Mondays.

BEGINNING Monday the Havana-American Jockey Club will hold racing every day of the week in order to provide Havana visitors with some amusement, it was announced Friday. It has been a practice of the Jockey Club to race only six days of the week, Monday being the off day.

BUDDY TAYLOR TRAINING FOR SANGOR BOUT

Pair Will Meet in Chicago, Feb. 9 — Preliminary Events for Card Now Arranged.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 4.—Promoter Jim Mullen has completed his fistic cards, scheduled in support of the bout between Bud Taylor and Joey Sangor at the Coliseum, Thursday, Feb. 9. The preliminary card will consist of six 5-round bouts.

Mastro to Meet Mahoney.

The semi-windup will be fought between Earl Mastro and Jimmy Mahoney of Scranton, Pa. The weight is 122 pounds.

Joey Medill and Marty Silvers, the former of Chicago, the latter a New Yorker, will meet in another feature number at 132 pounds. Smiling Sprenger, who gave Earl Mastro a great fight recently, will meet Frankie Baumanh of Brooklyn in another preliminary at 119 pounds.

Pat Delaney of St. Paul, brother of the late Jimmy Delaney, will face Eddie Ballatine, Chicago 147-pounder, in a welterweight fray. Johnny Nasser, Bud Taylor's Terre Haute youngster, will clash with Young Dencio, fighting Filipino, at 114 pounds. Jimmy Black of Los Angeles, Tom Jones' Negro featherweight, will tackle Warren Levy in the curtain-raiser at 126 pounds.

Buddy Taylor has started working at Mullen's Gym. He has ordered a big crew of sparring mates.

Tickets for the show are priced at $1.10, $2.20, $3.30, $5.50 with ringside boxes at $7.70.

Dragon Victor In Big Race at Havana Track

Moboz, Favorite, Beaten a Length and a Half—15 to 1 Shot Wins.

HAVANA, Feb. 4.—Dragon, racing for the Shapoff Stable, won today's feature attraction at Oriental Park, when he took the Hotel Vanderbilt purse, fifth event on the program. Moboz was favorite, but Dragon beat him by a length and a half, King Solomon's Seal was third. Charm ran wide all the way.

The biggest upset of the day came in the fourth race, when Five Sixty won by a nose from the favorite Hanky Rice. Five Sixty paid 15 to 1, but scored a lucky victory.

A light rain, which fell Friday night, had little effect on the racing strip, and a good crowd attended.

BROWNS OBTAIN COLLEGE OUTFIELDER

Morris Badgro, an outfielder, who starred with the University of Southern California last year, has been signed by the Browns, and will be taken sotuh on the spring training trip, according to announcement last night by Bill Friedl of the Browns.

Badgro was purchased on recommendation of Jimmy Austin. It was not stated in information received whether Badgro is a right or left handed hitter.

STATE COMMISSION TO KEEP HANDS OFF ST. LOUIS BOXING TANGLE

"IT'S ALL UP TO LOCAL BOARD" CASTLEN SAYS

Commissioner Believes Only Relief From Double Tax Must Come Through Change in City Ordinance.

By Damon Kerby.

The State Boxing Commission will continue to hold aloof from the local boxing situation, it was indicated today by the St. Louis member of the State board, Maj. Harry W. Castlen, in comment on the recent statement issued by the City Commission, in which it charged the State commission with trying to disrupt and bring discredit on the local commission.

"We have not tried to force the city commission to do anything in the past, and we will not in the future," Maj. Castlen said. "The State commission realizes that the city board must work out its own salvation, and whatever action is taken by the city commission is up to that group alone, as far as the State commission is concerned."

With both a state and city commission, with the accompanying double tax, the fight promoters face a situation that is extremely difficult to get around financially, but Castlen pointed out there is nothing the State commission can do to relieve the condition in St. Louis.

Prescribed by Law.

"The State commission is controlled by State law, and we are obligated by law to charge 5 per cent commission on fights within the State," Castlen said. "We have to collect that amount, no matter how many additional taxes are being collected."

The city commission, under the local ordinance, is required to collect 5 per cent levy for the city, but Castlen pointed out that the municipal law is more flexible than the State law, and that it would therefore be much easier to take off a municipal tax rather than a State levy.

While it was stated by members of the City Commission that the city is interested in retaining the tax principally as a revenue source, proposition, Castlen said that the State is interested in collecting a State tax only to pay the expense of the State Commission, which was formed to govern boxing throughout the entire State.

"I don't know what has been received in revenue from boxing in St. Louis in the past, but from present indications the sum will be extremely modest in the future," Castlen said.

Commissioners Not Salaried.

Under the State law, only the secretary of the State Commission receives pay for his services, and then only when he is actually engaged in the business of the group. Receipts must be kept for every penny expended when funds are paid out by the State Board.

Boxing is thriving in every center of the State, with the exception of St. Louis, where the game is hampered by the double commission problem, according to Castlen. Successful shows are being promoted in Kansas City, Springfield, Joplin and other Missouri cities which have no city commission.

Members of the State Commission, besides Castlen, are Chester Brewer, chairman, who is director of athletics at the University of Missouri, and the Rev. Burris Jenkins of Kansas City.

Valley Regatta Is Expected to Go Over the Top

$10,000 Fund to Bring Speedboat Event Here Seems Assured, E. C. Koenig Says

Ed. C. Koenig, speedboat owner and one of the committee of local business men interested in bringing to St. Louis the 1928 regatta of Mississippi Valley Powerboat Association, announced yesterday that the success of their efforts seemed to be assured.

"We need $10,000 to guarantee holding the event here and now see our way clear to raising the needed funds. We have until next Tuesday to complete our canvass and by that time the fund should reach the required total.

"If we got the award the event will be held July 3, 4 and 5 on the Mississippi between the Municipal and the Eads bridge.

"The program of events will be made up by the powerboat association but it can be promised in advance that many of the boats which will race for the Gold Cup and President's Cup at Washington next September will have appeared in the races on the Mississippi.

"We are counting on the cooperation of the city officials and expect to have part of the levee closed to traffic during the races, each day. Grandstands will be provided, but no spectator's barges will be allowed on the river.

"The event would be the greatest of the kind ever held on the Mississippi and we expect it to attract scores of thousands of persons to the city."

In any event, the Browns are going to a fine training camp this year, according to Secretary Willis Johnson, and there will be every opportunity for the men to show what they can do.

Early Bird Gets the Work.

Jimmy Austin is to leave his winter home at Laguna Beach, Cal., this week for Florida, to be on the ground to get everything ready for the first squad when it arrives there on Feb. 20. He will supervise the grooming of the ground and the preparation of the clubhouse. He will have all the trunks unpacked and the uniforms laid out for the men to slip into as soon as they arrive.

Johnson says the park is a fine one, with a concrete grand stand.

Going a little farther than the spring training season, the Cardinal office is getting ready for the opening of the National League season, by disposing of their boxes to patrons who care to make reservations for the whole season at $50 per seat. However, holders of these box-seat reservations must pay their regular admission price of $1.10 per seat each time they attend a game. Last year the club sold about 600 seats under this plan and present indications point to about the same number of full-season reservations th is year.

Herman Layne Released Outright by Pirates.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 4.—Outright release of Herman Layne, outfielder, to Indianapolis of the American Association, was announced today by the Pittsburg National League baseball club. Layne had been with Indianapolis under option.

satti in a game at Chicago shortly after his arrival.

During Maranville's previous history in the National League with Boston, Pittsburg, Chicago and Brooklyn he was regarded as a player who was wont to stray off the reservation.

But he is a changed man now; he realizes that he has but few years of baseball left—his age is given as 35 years—and he is desirous of taking full advantage of his remaining time. In a recent conversation with a Cardinal official he said he had not had a drink for eight months.

The Outfield Scramble.

From present indications there will be quite a scramble among the outfielders for berths during the training at Avon Park. Unlike the infield, which seems to be pretty well set, the Cardinal outfield situation is all up in the air.

There are nine outer gardeners listed on the roster. They are Blades, Douthit, Hafey, Holm, Clark, Martin, Peel, Roettger and Williamson.

Of these, Blades, Douthit and Hafey form a veteran combination, but there is a question mark over each one. Blades and Hafey have been suffering from physical ailments and, while they both appear to be on the road to full recovery, only the stress of playing will tell their true condition. Douthit showed brilliant form both in batting and in fielding in 1926, but last year his hitting fell away off, his average for the season being only .262.

So there would appear to be a splendid chance for the youngsters, Martin, Roettger, Williamson and Peel, to break in.

The Call of the Farm.

It has been the Cardinal policy to carry six outfielders. If that is the case this year, three of the men who go to Avon Park will have to be placed elsewhere.

Outfield worries are not peculiar to the Cardinals. The brows of the Browns' officials are furrowed with care over their outer defense. They have only four outfielders now and one of them is an untried semi-pro from California.

The Browns' outfield at present consists of Manush, Schulte, McNeely and the youngster, McCoy. Obviously another one or two must needs be added to the club.

Business Manager Bill Friel said today that he had deals pending, but whether any of them go through or not remains to be seen. He said the doubtful physical condition of Oscar Melillo and Bill Mullen, infielders, stands in the way of any trades he may want to make. For if another club wants an infielder for an outfielder he can't make the deal until he finds out just how these two men will stack up, to determine whether or not the Browns can spare an infielder.

Both of them say they are feeling fine and expect to burn up the league this year.

In any event, the Browns are going to a fine training camp this year, according to Secretary Willis Johnson, and there will be every opportunity for the men to show what they can do.

Cards Are Second Choice in N. L.; Browns 100 to 1

THE Cardinals are second choice at 5 to 2 to win the 1928 National League pennant, according to prices arranged today by a local betting commissioner. The Pirates at 2 to 1 are first choice. The Yankees are 7 to 10 in the American, with the Browns being held at 100 to 1.

than his company—in New York, at least.

The theory doesn't appear to fit in with a lot of the facts, but there it is, for what it's worth.

Of the trade, the writer personally thinks New York made a great move to build up the Boston Braves.

Of the Moore case, the writer doesn't think at all.

He can only remember that the newspaper men of St. Louis say they have never been told an untruth by Hornsby, who says he doesn't owe Frank Moore one cent."

And the jury said the same thing.

May Not Be True.

JACK DEMPSEY'S failing eyesight may be merely a manifestation of Rickard's displeasure at Dempsey's refusal to fight in June. It was Tex who broadcast the announcement that Dempsey "was through," not Jack.

A California friend here yesterday, on a visit from the Pacific Coast, where he talked to Jack, Otto Floto and other boxing authorities, told the writer there was no mention of trouble with Dempsey's eyes a week ago and that Dempsey then was expecting to fight Tunney.

Dempsey himself has said that he had a slightly strained eye muscle, but did not make a definite retirement statement. He said he expected his eye to be O K, but that he would not be ready to fight Tunney in June.

That he expected to fight Tunney eventually seemed evident between the lines of his recent utterances.

Promotion, not eye trouble, is probably behind the heavyweight fight hitch. It will surely be a sad day for the heavyweight gate receipts when Dempsey passes out of the picture.

Fancy drawing $2,500,000 with Tunney and Heeney, Uzcudun, Stribling or Sharkey as the principals.

It takes a big-league imagination to forecast it.

NAVY-PRINCETON GAME AT FRANKLIN FIELD

By the Associated Press.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 4.—Definite announcement that the Navy-Princeton football game at Philadelphia on Nov. 24 will be played at Franklin Field, was made tonight by Commander Jonas Ingram, director of athletics at the Naval Academy.

Other arrangements for the game, which has been scheduled by Navy as a substitute for the Army clash this year, were not announced.

"Bud" Westhus Latest of St. Louis' Long String of Great 3-Cushion Players

Youngster Has Remarkable Native Ability and Superior Stroke —Observers Expect Him to Reach Championship Heights.

The startling success of Allen Hall, young St. Louisan, in the American 3-cushion billiard league in the East has again called the attention of America's billiard followers to the fact that St. Louis is one of the most prolific nurseries for 3-cushion players in the world.

Although he has been playing as a professional only since the season of 1925, when he was "drafted" to take the place of Pierre Maupome in the National League, Hall has created a sensation in the East by consistently leading a league composed of such players as Willie Hoppe, Otto Reiselt, Johnny Layton, Augie Kieckhefer, Clarence Jackson, Harry Wakefield and Alfred DeOro.

Hall is the latest of a succession of great players who mastered the three-cushion game in this city, his most famous predecessors being Jimmy Layton and Bob Cannefax, both of whom have held the world's three-cushion championship.

There Are More Coming.

And the end is not yet in sight for today, before Hall has reached the peak of his game (he is only 28 years of age) there are other St. Louisans clamoring for attention and eager to win laurels. Two of these who are especially promising are Dr. L. P. Macklin and "Bud" Westhus.

Macklin will defend his national title in a challenge match against William Primeau at Detroit, Monday and Tuesday.

Dr. Macklin has made rapid strides in the past two years. He was little short of equal to Hall when the latter competed in his last St. Louis amateur championship tournament and he has improved his game at least 10 per cent in the last year. He holds the national amateur championship and he recently defeated Gene Deardorff, city champion, in a 100-point match. The title was not at stake on that occasion but there is little doubt that the next time the opportunity is presented, Macklin will dethrone Deardorff.

Westhus a Coming Champion.

Westhus, a former St. Louis University football star, is a younger man than either Dr. Macklin or Hall. By reason of the natural advantage of a superior stroke, Westhus is regarded by some observers as the most promising young player in St. Louis today and there are many who believe he will cut as big a figure as any of his illustrious predecessors.

Westhus will represent Charles C. Peterson's rooms in the Mid-West championship tournament at Indianapolis next week. He needs only the experience of tournament competition and the confidence which tournament victories instill to bring his game to championship caliber. The strides which he has made in the space of one year are the best possible assurance that he has unusual native ability. He utilizes the diamond system in planning his shots, in which respect he is following the lead of other successful players. Willie Hoppe is the only successful professional player who does not use the "system."

How Hall Beat Hoppe.

In a recent interview printed in a New York daily, Allen Hall thus answers the question: "How is it that you have defeated Willie Hoppe in four straight matches?"

"I don't attempt to play 'safety' against Hoppe. He is the greatest safety player in the world and any man who tries a deliberate safety game against him will lose in a series of matches," said Hall. "I play a counting game against Hoppe, shooting always to make the point without regard to the position of the balls in the event I miss. Thus far this has proved a winning system."

Charles C. Peterson will give an exhibition of fancy shots before 350 cadets at the Western Military Academy at Alton on Feb. 29. He is appearing at the school at the invitation of Col. Ralph Jackson, commanding officer.

Jake Schaefer, world's champion 18.2 balkline player and Welker Cochran, former title holder, are seeking facilities for an exhibition match here. Peterson has offered them his theater for next week. Willie Hoppe and Allen Hall probably will play a 306-point three-cushion match at the same room the last week in March.

Pocket Billiard Event Arranged

National Championship to Be Decided in Tourney Starting March 5.

The national championship at pocket billiards will be decided in a tournament to be held at Chicago, starting March 5 and closing March 17, according to an announcement yesterday from the National Billiard Association of America. Ten players will compete and the first four to finish will be eligible to play in the world's title tournament announced for October.

Entries for the national close Feb. 15 and the starting fee will be $150. The winner of the competition will receive $1200 and a gold medal, in addition to a salary of $250 as long as he holds the honors. Other prizes range down to $200 for seventh place.

The winner in the world title event will be forced to defend his championship in December and February and he will receive a salary of $500.

Entries can be made with the National Billiard Association of America, 629 South Wabash, Chicago, Ill.

Motorbus Club to Hold Show Feb. 15

Out-of-Town Rival Sought for Stillman, Local Amateur Middle Star.

The next amateur boxing show of the People's Motorbus A. C. will be held at the Armory, Grand boulevard and Market street, Feb. 15.

Dave Knost of the Motorbus club, Western A. A. U. junior heavyweight champion, is still in a bad way for opponents. His two fights since last year's championships were in the nature of setups. There seems to be a dearth of amateur heavyweights in the Western district.

Matchmaker George Wilsman is corresponding with officials of clubs in Cincinnati and Indianapolis endeavoring to find an opponent for Al Stillman, Western A. A. U. junior middleweight champion. By his kayo of Frank Powers, senior title holder for five consecutive years, Stillman has swept the last of the local boys from his path.

The flyweight and featherweight divisions are attracting more entries than in other years, indicating strong competition in the coming W. A. A. U. championship tourney, March 5.

VALLEY FAVORS LONGER TRIAL OF NEW RULES

Ahearn, Conference Representative on Football Committee, Will Vote to Continue 1927 Code.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MANHATTAN, Kan., Feb. 4.—Mike Ahearn, the veteran athletic director of the Kansas State Agricultural College, is in the East to confer with possible successors to Charles Bachman, head of football coach of the Aggies, but before Mike returns he will "sit in" at the annual meeting of the football rules committee, of which he is a member and the Valley country's representative. Ahearn would not give the date of the football meeting before he departed, declaring that he had been requested to maintain secrecy in regard to the time of the meeting.

Ahearn is well fortified with expert football opinion from this part of the country and will place numerous letters of suggestions from Valley experts before the rules committee. Ahearn was extremely reticent in regard to the football meeting.

"What is the consensus you have assembled in regard to the lateral pass and muffed punt rules?" he was asked.

"If the letters I have represent the sentiment of the Valley on the two questions," he replied, "I believe the rules will remain as they are, at least for another year. The consensus seems to be that they be given another trial."

So without doubt Ahearn will cast a vote favoring another season of tryouts for the radical changes of 1927, that being the prevailing opinion of the Valley as it has come to the Valley's football rules committee representative.

What the committee will do in regard to these questions depends, of course on the votes of the other district representatives. Asked if the vote of the coaches last month in favor of eliminating the "safety first" rules that guard the muffed punt and the lateral pass plays would have any effect on the committee, Ahearn replied that it would if the vote among the committeemen was close. However, if a big majority of the sectional representatives favored the retention of the 1927 code it was the opinion of the Valley's delegate that the vote of the coaches last month in New York would be passed over.

The Valley's rules committee delegate likes the rule that protects the catcher of a punt. He likes the rule which says that the kicking team, if it recovers a muffed punt, shall not run with the ball but shall retain possession of it at the point of recovery.

Ahearn, however, would amend the rule so that, in the case of a punt blocked back of the scrimmage line, the kicking team, if recovering the ball, might be allowed to run with it.

TEXAS OPEN, DELAYED BY RAIN, WILL START TOMORROW MORNING

By the Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 4.—Chafing under a two-day delay caused by rains, some hundred-odd professionals assembled here for the annual Texas open golf tournament watched the skies anxiously tonight, hoping for clear weather tomorrow.

Weather forecasts indicated that the rains would continue at intervals Sunday, but the course dried considerably today and the committee in charge of the event hoped that the first 18 holes could be played tomorrow. In that case another 18 holes would be played Monday and 36 holes Tuesday.

I OFTEN wonder why they call
That indoor pastime "basket" ball.
The only reason that we ask it,
Is that they never use a basket.

I also wonder why they call

Beneath their arms the players stick it,
And run with it but seldom kick it.

No Chance.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. Then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

WIGGINS IN TOP FORM FOR BOXING REVIVAL HERE TOMORROW

SPEEDY HEAVY MEETS PIVAC ON COLISEUM CARD

Indianapolis Boxer Makes Good Impression in Four-Round Workout at National Gym.

Chuck Wiggins of Indianapolis, who will meet Tom Pivac in the main event of the boxing show at the New Coliseum tomorrow night, is in good condition for the bout following a brick workout at the National Gymnasium yesterday afternoon.

The Indianapolis boxer is the chief attraction for the first professional boxing show scheduled in St. Louis since the new boxing law went into effect last July. The card is sponsored by the Fred W. Stockham Post of the American Legion.

Wiggins made a good impression on a gathering of about 75 fans who watched him in his initial workout in St. Louis. He carries but little excess weight, tipping the scales at 187 pounds, while his best fight condition is 185 pounds. He plans to get rid of the extra poundage in another workout this afternoon, also at the National Gym.

Wiggins Shows Speed.

Pivac, in opposing Wiggins, may encounter some difficulty in keeping the pace set, as Chuck is shifty and is able to maintain a good clip through 10 rounds. He shadowboxed for three rounds before meeting a couple of local boys for four rounds, going two rounds with each lad.

As his first opponent, Wiggins met Joe Baker, who carries a fairly healthy punch. Wiggins exposed his face to the attack, and the solid blows landed by his sparring partner only brought laughs from Wiggins.

Following the two rounds with Baker, Wiggins met M. P. Payne, a local Negro lightweight. It was in this session that Wiggins displayed agility worthy of a lighter boxer.

Wiggins relies more upon his boxing ability, rather than a punch to win for him, while Pivac, his opponent, is a graduate of the local amateur ranks, where the punch is the big weapon. Pivac has a record of 26 knockout victories in 34 amateur and professional bouts.

Wiggins a Veteran.

Wiggins, although not yet 20 years old, was fighting top notchers when Pivac was still in knee trousers. Wiggins has met most of the good big men in the ring today, and many who have passed on, including Harry Greb and Mike Gibbons. Other opponents of Wiggins have included Champion Gene Tunney, Tommy Loughran, Jeff Smith and Johnny Risko. Most of these men he has met several times.

Wiggins, like Battling Levinsky and Jack Delaney, believes in doing his heavy training in the ring, and consequently he is one of the busiest boxers now before the public. The bout with Pivac will be his 251st contest. Last year he appeared in 48 bouts.

His last fight, prior to coming to St. Louis, was with Bob Lawson, Negro heavyweight, in East Lansing, Mich., about 10 days ago. Wiggins gained the decision.

Maley Also on Ground.

Arthur "Sailor" Maley of California, who will oppose Jimmy Maloney of Chicago in a bout of 10 rounds preceding the final event, also worked out at the National gymnasium. Maley went through about the same program followed by Wiggins, but he failed to impress.

Walter "Red" Roland and Morrie Greenberg, lightweights, both former amateurs, will meet in a six-round preliminary.

A middleweight preliminary is also scheduled between Clarence "Kid" Shaulters of Scott Field and Ted Roberts of Jefferson Barracks. Vic Windle and King Krumferich, of Belleville, will open the program.

Ticket prices of from $4.20 down to $1.05 will prevail.

FAIRMOUNT TRACK STAKE BLANKS TO BE ISSUED TUESDAY

Stake blanks for the coming spring meeting of the Fairmount Jockey Club at Collinsville, Ill., will be issued Tuesday, it was announced yesterday. The blanks are for the $25,000 Fairmount Derby and a number of $5000 stakes and handicaps. The spring meeting opens May 26 for a 37-day stand.

C. Bruce Head, general manager of the Fairmount track, intends to start on a good-will tour of the Southern race tracks in behalf of Fairmount Jockey Club. He will leave in about 10 days and his first stop will be at New Orleans, where he will confer with J. B. Campbell, racing secretary at Fairmount, who fills the same position at the Fairgrounds track at New Orleans.

Head has received many applications from owners for stall room for the spring meeting at Fairmount.

It was also announced that work on the new race track on State street in East St. Louis, will start as soon as the weather permits. In a short time a corporation will be formed, officers elected and a name chosen for the track.

Lavigne Knocks Out "Iron Man" Dick Burge In "Fiercest Fight Ever Held in England"

Terrible Right to Jaw in 17th Round Caves in Englishman's Knees and Falls, Weeping.

By George (Kid) Lavigne,
Former lightweight champion of the world, who defeated Young Griffo, Joe Walcott, Dick Burge and others.
(As Told to E. P. Rucker.)

No. 13—Memoirs of a Savage Ring

(Copyright, 1928.)

As we shaped up for the start of our famous fight in London, I suddenly realized how much Dick Burge, the British "Iron Man" of the ring, had on me in height, reach and weight.

I saw I had to win by beating Burge at his own game, terrific, incessant fighting.

He was a better boxer than Joe Walcott and it would never do for me to attempt to box him. I would have been cut to pieces.

I decided to carry the fight to Burge all the way, as I had done with Walcott.

In those days I was tireless. The minute's rest between rounds freshened me up as much as five minutes in later years. I felt that night as if I could sock like a heavyweight, as I probably could.

Burge Fires a Broadside.

What a slamming Burge gave me for 10 or 11 rounds! Perhaps it might be more correct to say what a slamming we gave each other, for I landed plenty of solid shots.

In the first round Burge caught me several terrible cracks on the head, and I saw the Milky Way. I said, "You're starting off well, Dick. I'll try to get even."

Burge laughed. A little later I sent one smoking hot into his kitchen, and he bent over like a bear.

"Now it ain't goin' to be so funny," I said.

Kid "Rocked Time and Again."

I quote now from press reports cabled from London:

"There was not a time during the contest that both men were not fighting just as hard as they could. During the early rounds the height, weight and reach advantage possessed by Burge seemed to be an obstacle almost too great to be overcome.

"The American fighter was rocked time and again by Burge's hard swings, and several times fairly lifted off his feet by vicious uppercuts. The harder he was hit the harder he fought. Lavigne lowered his head so that his chin rested on his chest, and bored in relentlessly without seeming to care how many times he was hit, so long as he was landing his fists on his opponent.

"The pace was so fast in the first five rounds that the spectators shook their heads and said it could not last longer than 10 rounds."

In the tenth round I discovered that Burge's strength was going. My belts to the body were showing results. But in the thirteenth he came out evidently under instructions to do or die. He started a red-hot offensive. I was feeling stronger than when the fight opened.

The crowd stood up on their seats, yelling like mad. I broke ground for a minute and let Burge shoot his bolt.

Four rounds later came the end, which the same press dispatch described thus:

"Then came the seventeenth and the end. A terrible right swing to the jaw closed the battle. Burge was not knocked out the way ordinary men are. He was standing up bravely before his opponent when his knees began to sag. He sank to the floor in the center of the ring as limp as a rag, beaten but not disgraced. After Dick's head cleared a bit, tears rolled down his cheeks, and he cried like a child. Other strong men wept with him.

"All England mourned the defeat of Burge, but all who saw his colors lowered said that the victor was the greatest fighting machine England had seen in action."

Lavigne Is Tempered Steel.

Another newspaper account said:

"It was the fiercest and most gruelling battle that has been staged in London for years. Lavigne proved himself to be tougher than the man who was given his unusual nickname because he was considered the toughest, hardiest and gamest boxer in the world. Hereafter all who saw today's battle between Lavigne and Burge will say that if Burge is an iron man, Lavigne is highest tempered steel."

I met Dick Burge often after the fight, before I left London. He was a good fellow.

On my return to New York I learned that Jack Everhardt had been clamoring for a return match with me. He had recently beaten Billy Ernst, had knocked out Horace Leeds, and had fought two draws with Griffo. A match for 25 rounds was promptly arranged.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Feb. 4.—Wayland Dean, pitcher, who deserted the Chicago Cubs last season to play independent baseball here, was notified today of his reinstatement by Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis.

STATE BASKET MEET MARCH 16 AT COLUMBIA

16 High Schools Will Compete, Including First and Second Teams in St. Louis League.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 4.—Final details of arrangements for the State high school basketball and track championships, to be held at the University of Missouri here under the auspices of the Missouri State High School Athletic Association, were worked out at a meeting of the Board of Control of the association here today.

The basketball tournament will be held March 16 and 17, with 16 teams competing, and the track meet will be held May 5, open to all high schools in the State.

The rules adopted today governing the basketball tournament provide that the winner and second place teams of St. Louis and Kansas City, the city champion of St. Joseph, the winner of a tournament to be held at the Missouri School of Mines at Rolla and first and second place teams in each of the five State Teachers' College tournaments shall compete for the State title. The tournament is to be a double elimination affair, which will make possible the naming of first, second, third and fourth place teams, with team and individual trophies to each.

The Teachers' College district tournaments are to be limited to 16 teams, to be chosen either by sub-tournaments or by comparative scores.

Plans for Track Meet.

Competition in the State-wide track and field tournament has divided into three classes, instead of two, as in the past, with Class A, comprising schools of more than 500 students, Class B, made up of schools between 150 and 500, and Class C, of those under 150. The new arrangement puts the larger schools in a class by themselves, and, it is believed, will materially increase the number of medium-sized schools entering the meet.

In Class A there are only about 20 schools, including those of Kansas City and St. Louis, St. Joseph Central, Springfield, Webster Groves, Joplin, Independence, Carthage, Cape Girardeau and possibly Moberly and Poplar Bluff.

How Schools Will Qualify.

Each class will have an entirely separate meet, with separate teams and individual trophies, and separate records will be established for each class. Each class winner will be regarded as winner of a State championship in its class, and no team will be permitted to enter a class above its enrollment.

Class A schools, because of their limited number, need not qualify in primary meets, but Class B and Class C athletes must finish first or second, with Class A competitors disregarded, in an approved meet to qualify for the championships.

Jess Willard Was Only Champ Who Gave Up Title While Sitting in Corner

Resume of Records Also Shows That Dempsey, His Conqueror, Was Only Heavyweight Titleholder to Lose Crown on Decision.

By Frank G. Menke.

The purpose of this story is to supply a few facts that may serve as settlers of arguments concerning the outstanding incidents in the realms of swatology.

It's a tale that deals with the ultimate or the exceptional things which embrace the fight racket.

The first known method of fighting with fists was about 900 B. C. when Thesus, a son of the King of Greece, introduced a sport. The gladiators then fought with the caestus, which was a contraption of leather strips over the hands, the whole thing either being studded with spikes, or in the latter years, loaded with iron or lead.

Figg Introduced Bare Knuckles.

In 1719, James Figg, of England, introduced bare knuckle fighting. In 1740, Jack Boughton wrote the London Prize Ring Rules which almost completely governed the game until along in 1876 when the Marquis of Queensbury rules began to get recognition.

The last bare knuckle champion in any division was John L. Sullivan, who won the title from Paddy Ryan in 1882. James J. Corbett was the first of the Queensbury champions.

Until about 60 years ago, there was only one distinct class in pugilism—the heavyweight. Then Yankee Sullivan, an Irishman, fought Hammer Lane in London, and called himself "middleweight" champion. From time to time, other divisions were created.

Longest battle in which heavyweight title changed hands—Willard-Johnson, Havana, 26 rounds.

Longest bare knuckle battle (England)—Mike Madden vs. Bill Hayes, 1849—6 hours, 13 minutes.

champions, Jess Willard was the only one who surrendered title while sitting in his corner. Jack Dempsey is the only Queensbury title-holder who lost his crown on decision.

Other facts are:

Shortest battle in which heavyweight championship was won—Dempsey-Willard battle, Toledo, 3 rounds.

Of the modern heavyweight

Longest bare knuckle battle (America)—J. Fitzpatrick vs. James O'Neill, 1860—4 hours 3 minutes.

Longest bare knuckle battle of record—6 hours 15 minutes. J. Kelly vs. Jonathan Smith, Melbourne, Australia, 1853.

Longest Glove Fight—7 hours 19 minutes, 110 rounds. Andy Bowen vs. Jack Burke; draw, New Orleans, La., 1892.

Largest Number of Rounds Ever Fought—Jack Jones vs. Peter Tunney, Cheshire, England, 1870, 276 rounds.

Shortest Glove Fight on Record—When Battling Nelson knocked out William Rosser, in two seconds, 1902. On March 17th, 1897, Tom Hawkins knocked out Martin Flaherty in four seconds in Canon City.

Shortest Bare-Knuckle Fight—Head vs. Cannon, Carbondale, Pa., May 23, 1886, 30 seconds.

Last Bare-Knuckle Championship Fight in America — July 8, 1889, John L. Sullivan defeated Jake Kilrain in 76 rounds.

First Battle for Heavyweight Championship Under Marquis of Queensbury Rules—March 11, 1892, in New Orleans, when James J. Corbett defeated John L. Sullivan in 21 rounds.

Largest Side Bet Ever Made on a Fight — $22,500. Jack Dempsey beat Wolf Bendoff in 27 rounds at Port Elizabeth, South Africa, July 29, 1899.

Heavyweight Purses (in battles where titles changed hands):

1892—Sullivan-Corbett ... $
1897—Corbett-Fitzsimmons ... $
1899—Fitzsimmons-Jeffries ... $
1908—Johnson-Burns ... $
1910—Johnson-Willard ... $
1915—Johnson-Willard ... $
1919—Willard-Dempsey ... $
1926—Dempsey-Tunney ... $

The receipts for the 1926 Dempsey-Tunney fight stood as a world's record until 1927 when the return meeting for the second time drew around $2,650,000.

Miss Anne Wallace's Engagement Is Announced at Dinner

Debutante of Last Season, Granddaughter of Late Samuel Kennard, Will Marry Chapin S. Newhard in June — Betrothal Made Known at Party Given by Miss Gertrude Catlin.

ONE of the most interesting bits of news given to society during the year was the announcement Friday night of the engagement of one of its most attractive young women, Miss Anne Kennard Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brookings Wallace of 4976 Pershing avenue, and Chapin Slater Newhard, son of Mrs. Grove F. Newhard of 5564 Delmar boulevard and the late Mr. Newhard. The announcement was made at a dinner party given at the Bogey Club by Miss Gertrude Catlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel K. Catlin of 41 Westmoreland place in honor of four of this season's buds, Miss Martha Pettus, Miss Dorinda Kennerly, Miss Martha Sluder and Miss Florence Jones.

Miss Wallace was one of the most popular debutantes of last season. She served as a special maid of honor to the Veiled Prophet Queen and became a member of the Junior League and the former Imperial Club. On Dec. 17 of that season she was presented to society at one of the most elaborate dinner dances given at the St. Louis Country Club—a Palm Beach party, with interior of the club simulating an out-of-door restaurant of the Spanish type with Spanish haciendas about and quantities of Southern moss festooned from artificial trees.

Miss Wallace attended Mary Institute and is a graduate of Westover School in Middlebury, Conn. The following year she traveled abroad. She is a granddaughter of Mrs. Samuel M. Kennard and a grandniece of Mr. Robert S. Brookings.

Mr. Newhard is a graduate of Brown University and is a member of the Racquet and University Clubs. He is an executive of Bitting & Co., investment securities.

The wedding will take place in St. Louis next June. Guests at the party in addition to Miss Wallace, Miss Catlin and the four debutantes, included Miss Eleanor Gamble of Paris, who came to St. Louis for the wedding of her uncle, Mr. Allan Preston Gamble, to Miss Margarette Turner, Miss Josephine Bates, Miss Eugenie Edmunds and Warren Chandler, Miss Catlin's fiance, Mortimer Price, Edward Durham, Fred Krug, Frederick Newhard, Whitelaw Terry, Sproule Love, John K. Wallace, George W. Niedringhaus Jr. and Noel Carpenter.

Miss Dorothy Dick's Engagement Announced

MISS Dorothy Dick, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Carl F. Dick of 5540 Delmar boulevard, entertained a group of close friends at luncheon yesterday at which announcement was made of her engagement to William Garfield Hollands Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Hollands of Hornell, N. Y. The party was in honor of her guests, Miss Dorothy Dinan of Mount Vernon, N. Y., and Miss Gene Truitt of Kansas City, both of whom came to St. Louis for the affair.

Miss Dick is an alumna of Hosmer Hall and Wellesley College. After her graduation last June she spent the summer in Europe. Mr. Hollands is a graduate of Dartmouth College. The wedding will take place in the early fall.

Two of the debutantes, Miss Alita Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Davis of 13 Westmoreland place, and Miss Martha Pettus, daughter of Mrs. Charles Parsons Pettus of 33 Westmoreland place, will sail Feb. 24 on the Olympic to spend six weeks in Paris and London.

They will be joined in Paris by Miss Anne West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen T. West, who is traveling in Europe with Mrs. Arthur B. Shepley and her daughter, Miss Mary Merwin Shepley. Mrs. Shepley and her party had planned to remain until April, but instead she will sail with Miss Shepley Feb. 29 for New York. Miss West will be the guest of Miss Helen Morton of Paris, daughter of Mrs. Isaac W. Morton of 43 Portland place until Mrs. Davis' arrival.

Coolidges' Reception For Congressmen

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—President and Mrs. Coolidge held their Congressional reception Thursday night and its representation of every phase of social and political life gave ample testimony that this annual White House event is not what it used to be.

In past years the Congressional set turned a cold shoulder to the party, often going to the extreme of sending butlers and maids to represent their households. That practice waned, however, to an extent that was clearly evident this time when Senators and Representatives almost unanimously requested extra cards for their guests.

Members of Congress began attending the Congressional reception in force a few years ago when the White House dropped its custom of inviting them to all other social events and now it is by far the most interesting and democratic of the season.

On Tuesday night the President and Mrs. Coolidge met a group of distinguished Hoosiers at the home of the Postmaster General and Mrs. New, who gave their annual Presidential dinner. Mrs. New operates a moving picture machine with great success and she fairly bewildered the company, especially pleasing the President by giving a motion picture show of bird life, following the dinner.

Prizes for Poem on Missouri.

The State Department of Fine Arts of the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs has offered prizes for the two best poems on "Missouri." The department will also award a painting to the club that has presented the best art program. Mrs. Frederick B. Hall, State chairman of the Department of Fine Arts, will receive the poems and programs which should be signed by a nom de plume, with the name of the writer in a sealed envelope.

Webster College Carnival Plans

PLANS are being completed for the carnival which the students of Webster College, Webster Groves, will give next Saturday and Sunday afternoon and evening at the college. Miss Edith Glosemeyer is general chairman of the affair and the sub-chairmen are Rosamond Smith, Marta Brown, Eileen Fleming, Pearl Broderick, Ann Carr, Elizabeth Corrigan, Mary Powers, Cathryn Hummert, Marie Reynolds, Thelma Coyne and Juanita Abell. The carnival is to be given by the students to help defray a part of the expense of the new $300,000 Residence Hall, now under construction.

There will be a card party Saturday afternoon and evening and Sunday afternoon and there will be attractive prizes for each table. Dinner will be served both days to the visitors. The students will be attired in costumes and one booth will be decorated to represent a huge valentine and the girls in charge will wear quaint old-fashioned gowns. Another booth will be a replica of an Oriental bazaar and the girls there will wear Oriental costumes. The young women serving in the dining room will be attired as French maids, and those assisting at the card party will represent gypsies.

The college buildings will be turned over to the guests, and the general decorations will be those of the Mardi Gras, with confetti, balloons, noisemakers and gayly attired girls. Special transportation facilities will be provided. The college is situated on Lockwood and Plymouth avenues.

Charity Society Luncheon.

The Gertrude Charity Society will give a Valentine luncheon Wednesday at Hotel Chase. Mothers and Daughter's day will be celebrated. Dr. Leon Harrison of Temple Israel will speak on "Blessed Be Drudgery." A short play will be given by members of the society. Mrs. Harry Quicksilver is the presiding officer of the organization.

Palm Beach Winter Season at Height

By the Associated Press.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 4.—With almost every ocean boulevard house occupied, hotels overflowing and all fashionable establishments having house guests in a continuous list for February and March there is more entertaining than ever before. Especially is this true among the cottagers, many of whom have enlarged their facilities for the purpose.

The latest fad is the sun mask to prevent sunburn. The more beautiful bathers, along with the plainer ones, look alike with these masks on. Only one day last week was it too cold here for bathing.

Society at the tennis matches this week at the Ponciana, overflowed lined up solidly for Mrs. George Sloan, Miss Barbara Phipps and Miss Genevieve Fox against the Cuban net stars. Miss Fox defeated Senorita Lila Camacho of the Cuban team. Twelve-year-old Jock McLean, son of Edward McLean of Washington, playing with Paul Heston, professional, defeated Paris and Mario Avellaneda.

The yacht basin and Lake Worth present the appearance of a white city bobbing upon light blue waves. Among new arrivals is "harmony," the Thomas Fortune yacht, with its new owner, William H. Todd, Brooklyn, and a large family party living aboard. The House boat "Mary Ann," belonging to Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Thompson of Atlantic City, N. J., is due from Stuart.

Tourist Taxes Pave Streets

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—Building owners and paving streets with funds collected to beautify Paris has aroused national criticism of the "taxe de sejour" charged on hotel bills in 160 towns of France. Enghien-les-Bains, a suburban town north of Paris, where the casino is closed, used its tourist taxes for a sewer. Other towns have diverted their beautification funds into all sorts of municipal funds so as to lighten local taxation.

Reviving Strindberg's Plays.

LONDON, Feb. 4. — Madame Strindberg will emerge from retirement to act in a production Everyman Theater will make of her late husband's "Dream Play." Robert Loraine, following the great success he had with Strindberg's "Father," is preparing a production of the same playwright's "The Dance of Death." This is one of the most violent of Strindberg's 50-odd plays but critics predct a hearty reception for it this season, as most of the successes now running in London turn about murder and extreme violence.

SIMPLE HOME MIXTURE DARKENS GRAY HAIR

Cincinnati Barber Tells How Any One Can Prepare It in 5 Minutes.

Any man or woman can easily look twenty years younger by simply darkening their gray, faded, or streaky hair. This is now easy to accomplish with a recipe given by a well-known Cincinnati barber.

Simply take a half-pint of water, add one ounce of bay rum, ¼ ounce of glycerine and a small box of Barbo Compound. Shake and it is ready to use. These ingredients can be bought at drug stores at trifling cost.

Applied to the hair twice weekly this delightful mixture quickly gives the desired shade. It is easy to use, is not sticky or greasy, will not color the scalp and does not rub off.

SAMPLE COATS
Presented in Three Groups for Monday

$25

THIS lowest of three surprising groups of the newest Coat fashions for Spring presents a versatile array of soft sports or dress woolens and silks in more than three score charming models.

They show both the furred and the "furless" mode, some with bows and fringed throws, some with belts, others emphasizing the ingenious ways in which the collar can be trimmed with the new shades of fur.

The Smartness of This Group Foretells the Qualities to Be Expected in the Other Groups

THE buttoned Coat, leaving one's hands free, and the "tawny" shades of light, fluffy or flat Spring Furs are the outstanding features of the sample Coats which are greatly underpriced at $39.

Soft finished sports and dress woolens of a dozen textures in the newest grays, middy blue, beige tones and black, also stunning modes in black satin or silk with sharply contrasting or harmoniously blending fur treatments.

NUGENTS February SILK Sale

An Early Season Sale Bringing New Styles in these Hundreds of New Arrivals in Spring

YOUR ST. LOUIS

How Well Do You Know It?

$2,500,000.00 FOX THEATRE

The new FOX THEATRE now being erected on Grand Avenue at Washington, is concrete evidence of Mr. William Fox's confidence in the future of the City of St. Louis.

The new FOX THEATRE will be the second largest theatre in the world, costing upward of two and a half million dollars and displaces the FOX THEATRE at Washington, D. C., now holding second position.

The largest theatre of course being the famous ROXBY THEATRE in New York City. All three of these theatres being part of the mighty FOX CHAIN of motion picture theatres, controlling more than three hundred theatres, extending from coast to coast and representing an investment of several million dollars.

The new FOX THEATRE will be the last word in construction, and with it's balcony, which is the largest suspended balcony in the world, will seat 5,100 people.

Every day this space will be devoted to some one particular manufacturing plant or industry which is contributing to the dynamic growth of St. Louis.

EXPORTING MANOR HOUSES

British Practice of Selling Them to Americans Protested.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—The old manor houses of England are disappearing, and their fine old oak-paneled rooms are being sent to America. Such is the statement of Sir Martin Conway, in pleading that the Government should take steps to prevent the shipment to America of parts of old mansions.

A. R. Powys, secretary of the Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings, declares that there should be some system by which the public might be given a chance to secure ancient buildings whose demolition or sale is contemplated because the owner has fallen on bad times. The Grange at Broadhembury, Devon, has just been torn down, and a paneled room sent to the United States.

MAJOR TO TALK TO GUARD

Instructor at Fort Leavenworth School Will Speak at Meeting.

Maj. T. H. Middleton, an infantry officer detailed as instructor at the army school at Fort Leavenworth, will be the speaker at the monthly meeting of National Guard Reserve, and regular army officers on Feb. 20 at the First Regiment Armory.

Maj. Middleton, winner of the D. S. M. in the World War, will discuss the disposition of a battalion of infantry in the attack of a division in open war, stressing the use to be made of the air service.

Millionaire's Children Guarded.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—The Lake Forest, Ill., estate of Charles H. Schweppe, Chicago millionaire, has been turned into the semblance of a fortress, it was learned today, as a precaution against the kidnaping of the Schweppe children, John and Jean. Guards were stationed at the Lake Forest estate last spring after Schweppe learned of a plot to kidnap the children.

TWO SCOUTS TO BE CHOSEN FOR CAMERA HUNT IN AFRICA

George F. Putnam, Explorer, and Son To Select Boys for Tour Next Summer.

Two St. Louis scouts may have a chance to go big game hunting in Africa with a camera next summer, according to a recent announcement from National Boy Scout headquarters. George F. Putnam, an arctic and tropic explorer, an honorary scout himself, is to select two United States scouts 14 or 15 years old, to accompany him and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnston and museum collectors, on an expedition to Africa during the coming vacation.

The selection of the scouts will be made on merit, among the qualifications necessary being an excellent record in scouting, and scouting achievement; high record in attendance and deportment at school; evidence that the objectives of scouting have been put into practice in his daily life; the presenting of five compositions written in school; submission of a 500 to 1000-word theme telling why he wants to make the trip, and ability as a black-and-tan sketch illustrator.

Judging of the scouts will be done by Putnam and his son, David, a 14-year-old scout, who has accompanied his father on several expeditions. About two of these trips, to Greenland and to the Sargasso Sea, David has written books being one of the youngest "best seller" authors in the country.

Further information about the trip may be obtained from Educational Director Puffer of the local Scout Council.

Edison Has Prize Cocoanuts.

By the Associated Press.

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 4.—Thanks to pointers several years ago from his old friend, the late Luther Burbank, Thomas A. Edison today became the champion cocoanut grower of Florida. Edison's personal exhibit at the South Florida Fair here took two first prizes, one for the best cocoanuts in the State and one for the largest cluster. Edison, who now is trying "out-Burbank," the great plant wizard in producing rubber from vines, takes considerable time from his experiment to work with a variety of plants.

IF BACK HURTS FLUSH KIDNEYS
Drink Plenty Water and Take Glass of Salts Before Breakfast Occasionally
When your kidneys hurt and back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.
The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acids and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.
Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.
Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

Leaves Hair Twice as Beautiful
In a few minutes time, your hair is soft, silky and radiant with life, color and lustre.
To have beautiful, fresh looking hair is simply a matter of proper shampooing.
While your hair must have frequent and regular washing to keep it beautiful, it cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali in many soaps soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.
That is why discriminating women everywhere, now use Mulsified Coconut Oil Shampoo. This clear, pure, entirely greaseless product brings out the real beauty of the hair and cannot possibly injure.
Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather which cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily, removing every particle of dirt and dandruff.
It leaves the hair soft, silky and easy to manage and makes it sparkle with new life, gloss and beauty.
You can get Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo at any drug store. A four-ounce bottle lasts for months.

Dr. G. Henry Mundt of Chicago addressed the St. Clair County Medical Society Thursday evening at St. Mary's Hospital. Dr. Mundt is the 1928 president of the Illinois Medical Society. A number of local physicians entertained Dr. Mundt at the Hotel Broadview at dinner before the meeting.

IF BACK HURTS FLUSH KIDNEYS

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

AMERICAN RETAILERS CONVENE NEXT WEEK

More Than 2000 Merchants Expected to Attend Sessions Here.

More than 2000 merchants from all parts of the United States are expected to attend the ninth semi-annual convention of the American Retailers' Association, which will open tomorrow at Hotel Statler, and will continue for a week.

The first official meeting of the delegates at a luncheon Tuesday, will be addressed by the Rev. Billy Sunday. Educational talks on merchandising will be given Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. Attendance at these sessions is not limited to members of the association. Any retail merchant who happens to be in St. Louis may attend. T. K. Kelly of Minneapolis will arrive by airplane from Kansas City to address the convention on that date. At the semiannual banquet Thursday night Henry Justin Allen, former Governor of Kansas will speak.

AUSTRALASIAN EXPEDITION FILMS TO BE SHOWN FEB. 14

Travel Motion Pictures to Be Presented by Contemporary Club Without Lecture.

An experiment in presenting a travel motion picture without the usual accompanying lecture will be undertaken at the 147th regular meeting of the Contemporary Club at the Coronado Hotel at 6:45 p. m. Tuesday, Feb. 14.

The attraction will be Sir Douglas Mawson's Bird, Animal and Travel Motion Pictures, comprising a pictorial account of the Australasian Antarctic expedition. Scenes of animal and bird activities in their native haunts, raging blizzards, stormy seas and towering icebergs will be presented in the manner of the current picture shows.

The expedition, which is said to have been one of the largest in the history of exploration, was made up of 66 university graduates. The trip lasted 27 months and cost $360,000. The pictures were taken 10,000 miles from America and 2000 miles from the nearest human habitations.

COUNT KEYSERLING TO TALK ON MORALS

Philosopher and Unique Literary Figure Was Exiled by Soviet Government.

Count Herman Keyserling, one of the unique literary figures of the timesc, will visit St. Louis this week to lecture next Friday evening at Hotel Chase, under the auspices of the Junior League.

Expatriate Russian nobleman, founder of the School of Wisdom at Darmstadt, Germany, Keyserling's personality has lent a flavor to his abstract and sometimes profound writings. His subject for Friday night's lecture will be "Do Freer Morals Increase Happiness?" In the field of socia lethics he espoused the cause of monogamy, and his compilation of "The Book of Marriage" gave him a wide reputation in the United States. He is the author of "Travel Diary of a Philosopher" and "The World in the Making."

The Count lost his estates in Esthonia during the soviet revolution. Since that time he has supported himself by teaching, writing and lecturing. He is at present on an extended lecture tour of this country, mostly under the auspices of girls' schools, social organizations and churches.

"Eyes Like Cossack Captain."

A New York interviewer described the Count as follows: "He looks the part. He is a tall man, broad-shouldered and loosely knit. His great dome of a forehead, bald on top but festooned at the sides with blond hair, is that of a philosopher. The intense, blue eyes, gleaming beneath a strong brow, might be those of a Cossack Captain. Their fire seems to be lighted from within and not from external obects over which they roam. The nose is long and aquiline.

"The upper face has in it something of the Teuton, but even more of the Slav. The lower face is almost Oriental. The thin mustaches, the long, sparse goatee and the smile are those of a Chinese mandarin. The thousand wrinkles which crinkle his face when he laughs suggest the immemorial wisdom of the East. * * * He is intensely restless, talking rapidly and rather loudly, gesticulating nervously and laughing almost continuously.

Facts Mean Little to Him.

The School of Wisdom at Darmstadt is as strange as its founder. Students do not attend classes or listen to lectures except once or twice a year. The rest of their time is devoted to meditation. Count Keyserling holds that all beliefs will work themselves toward a single fundamental truth if the period of introspection is observed with sincerity. His lectures are reported to deal much with abstract speculations.

Count Keyserling has told interviewers in this country that facts mean little to him. He dwells "in a realm of spiritual facts." A perusal of his "Travel Diary" has demonstrated this to American readers. The Count admits writfing a whole chapter on India after visiting there one day. Locale means little to him since he soon launches forth into metaphysical and somewhat hazy spheres. "The Book of Marriage," in which he described marriage as "a statee of tension," contains contributions from other European thinkers.

Predicts Life of Recluse.

The Keyserling lectures cost their sponsors $1000 each. Count Keyserling's contract obliged him to refuse an invitation to address Washington University students free of charge while he is in the city. The Count is said to be chary of interviewers. At one time he had decided to go into a monastery and he says that some day when he is no longer needed in the world of action he will become a recluse.

Tickets are on sale for the lecture at $2. The Count while in St. Louis will be the guest of Mrs. Harry Langenberg of 40 Westmoreland place. He will go next to Columbia, Mo., to address students of Stephens College.

DR. HELLER ON AVERSIONS

Washington U. Dean to Discuss Literary Values.

Dr. Otto Heller, dean of the Graduate School of Washington University, will discuss "pet literary aversions" Tuesday night at 8:15 o'clock, speaking to members of the Washington University Association in the auditorium of the Medical School, Euclid and Scott avenues.

Informally, Dr. Heller will voice objection to popular opinion of such authors as Dreiser, Chesterton, Cabell, Anatole France and Blasco Ibanez.

Peter Pan is Coming to St. Louis

A night wind blows—a window rattles—the night lights burn low and dark shadows scud across the sky—poised in the air, high above the earth is the figure of a boy and perched on his shoulder is Tinker Bell, the most diminutive of fairies—soon they will arrive among the children of the earth!

Peter on his arrival will bring with him a new symbol of health and gladness—

not a book

To Observe Ibsen's Centenary.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Ibsen's centenary will be commemorated in England by a series of lectures arranged by the British Drama League. George Bernard Shaw, Desmond MacCarthy and Miss Elizabeth Robins, the famous portrayer of Ibsen roles 20 years ago, will be among the speakers. The actual date of the centenary of the famous Norwegian dramatist's birth will be March 20.

MOTHER!

Look at Child's Tongue if Sick, Cross, Feverish

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, don't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless, "fruity laxative;" they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

BRIDLE SPUR HUNT CLUB ON DENNY ROAD OPENED

First Fox Hounds Arrive and Uniformed Chase Will Be Held Next Month.

The Bridle Spur Hunt Club on Denny road, organized by a group of horsemen to bring the sport of fox hunting to St. Louis County, was opened yesterday with an informal gathering of most of the 50 members and a number of guests.

August A. Busch Jr. is president; Stewart McDonald, first vice president; Donald Bixby, second vice president, and Edward L. Bakewell, secretary-treasurer. Members include Marion and Wooster Lambert, Louis Hager Jr., Percy Orthwein and Dozier Gardner.

The club consists of 12½ acres lying between the estates of Bakewell and Adelbert von Gontard, who is master of hounds for the club. There is a modern clubhouse, built last year by Bakewell as a residence, a swimming pool, stables and kennels. Tennis courts and clay bird traps are to be added. About $150,000 was spent by members in purchasing the property and making improvements.

Fourteen American fox hounds, the first of a pack of 30 dogs purchased from a North Carolina breeder to arrive, were the center of interest yesterday. The dogs are in charge of a professional huntsman and members are planning their first hunt next month. Plans call for a uniformed hunt, with all accoutrements over neighboring estates and farms, the club paying for the privilege where requested. Members must supply their own mounts, the club furnishing onyl the dogs, and, in the event of the scarcity of game, the fox.

ELABORATE plans for the flight of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh over his old run on the Chicago-St. Louis air mail route, are being made by Frank H. Robertson, president of the Robertson Aircraft Corporation, who expects the return of the trans-Atlantic flyer to the air mail service, if only for one trip, to give a substantial impetus to the public patronage of the flying postal service.

Lindbergh cabled Robertson last week that he would arrive in St. Louis from Hanava Feb. 13, and would fly the mail north from St. Louis Feb. 20, covering the route on which he jumped twice with his parachute in one winter from fog-bound mail planes.

Robertson has asked the Postoffice Department to authorize a special cancellation stamp for letters sent on Lindbergh's flight, and business houses in the cities on the route will be circularized with the news that Lindbergh has returned to his job for old time's sake. It is probable that Feb. 21 the flyer will return with another load of mail from Chicago, so that his trip is of interest not only to users of the mail service on the Chicago-St. Louis route, but patrons of every other route in the country.

Reception for Lindbergh.

Beyond the announcement that he contemplates a nonstop flight from Havana to St. Louis, Col. Lindbergh has made no definite statement of his plans, but it is presumed he means to land at the flying field on the afternoon of Feb. 13. Harold M. Bixby, president of the Chamber of Commerce, has announced that a special committee of the new Air Board will be chosen to plan a suitable reception for the flyer.

Ball Buys a New Plane.

Philip DeC. Ball, owner of the Browns and the first St. Louis business man to take actively to the airplane as a mode of everyday travel, has purchased a new Ryan brougham with all the latest refinements, including brakes, and will go to San Diego, Cal., with his pilot, Frank T. Dunn, probably during the coming week, to bring the plane back to St. Louis. Ball's first plane, in which he and Dunn have covered more than 20,000 miles, is to be sold to the Robertson Aircraft Corporation to be used in carrying passengers at the field and in occasional trips on the mail route, especially on days on which passengers are booked.

Ball is one of the backers of the B. F. Mahoney Aircraft Corporation, maker of the Ryan plane, which is now winding up its business in San Diego, preparatory to moving to St. Louis where work on its airplane factory at Lambert-St. Louis Field will be begun within a few weeks.

Johnson Buys Speedier Craft.

Oscar Johnson of 28 Portland place, one of the wealthy young St. Louis sportsmen who have taken to aviation, has already outgrown his first airplane, a Waco-Ten with OXX-6 engine. He and his pilot, Elmer Dempsey, drove to Wichita by automobile last week to get a new plane, a Travel-Air, equipped with Whirlwind motor and capable of a high speed of about 140 miles an hour. Johnson purchased the new ship through Clyde Brayton of the Parks Air Lines, trading in the Waco in part payment. The Travel-Air sells for about $9700.

Johnson's new ship will be the second open-cockpit Whirlwind job at the field, the other, a Ryan, being owned by "Casey" Lambert, who got his start on an Eaglerock and changed to the faster plane when he got to know the thrill of high-speed flying.

Von Hoffmann Gets New Ship.

A new Eaglerock combination wing, with OX-5 engine, was received yesterday by the Von Hoffmann Aircraft Corporation from a pilot of the Alexander Aircraft Co. of Denver, Colo., who ferried the ship to Lambert Field. At the same time, the Von Hoffmann concern was notified it had received its last OX-5 job. The old reliable motor, behind which hundreds of war pilots received their first training, is becoming a rarity. Virtually the entire remaining stock of motors, 1142 in all, was sold recently by the Robertson Aircraft Corporation, which had cornered the market, to the new Curtiss-Robertson Aircraft Manufacturing Co., for approximately $400,000.

In the motors sale the Robertson Aircraft Corporation agreed to condition the motors before turning them over. Frank Robertson is making arrangements for a conditioning shop at the field in which the work will be done. It is estimated it will be two years before the engines are all worked over. Meanwhile the Curtiss-Robertson Aircraft Corporation will take them over as fast as they are completed for installation in the "Robin," a cabin monoplane to be made at the field in a factory alongside the Mahoney plane.

In its notification from the Eaglerock makers the Von Hoffman Aircraft Corporation was informed that future Eaglerocks would be powered with radial engines to be selected by the purchaser, who will have his choice of Ryan-Halske, the new Fairchild Caminez, Anzani or Detroit Air-Cat motors. A new engine, recently completed and test run at Denver with satisfactory results, will also be added to the power plant list.

To Cut Mail Schedule.

Frank Robertson and "Bud" Gurney, chief air mail pilot, are in Wichita looking for suitable planes to replace the DH's now used in postal service. The choice is likely to be between Laird, Travel-Air and Stearman. The new planes are to be Whirlwind-equipped and will substantially shorten the mail schedule between St. Louis and Chicago.

Equipping Guard Flyers.

Capt. H. H. Young, regular army instructor of the Thirty-fifth Division Air Corps, has been directed to go to Buffalo, N. Y., to call for a new Curtiss-Falcon which will be ready for delivery Monday. Capt. Young will ferry the plane to St. Louis for the National Guard Squadron. Later another Falcon will be completed, and before the summer encampment the squadron expects to have received five Consolidated Aircraft Company all-purpose planes with Whirlwind motors.

Philip Love's Schedule.

Philip R. Love, former flying mate of Lindbergh in the air mail service, flew his Fairchild monoplane to Kansas City Thursday. He will return to St. Louis this afternoon. For this week he plans a trip to Louisville. Love is a member of the sales force of the Fairchild Airplane Manufacturing Co. of Farmingdale, N. Y.

Plane Exhibit at Auto Show.

The Von Hoffman Aircraft Corporation is to have an airplane exhibit at the automobile show which will open tomorrow at the Union Market. A Ryan brougham and an Eaglerock will be included in the display. Seven men, including John Campion and Milt Girton, two of the company's flyers, will be on hand to explain the operation of the planes.

Makes Tour By Air.

Campion, incidentally, has been piling up a fine flying-time record during the past several weeks. After trips to Tulsa, Ok., and New York, in a Ryan brougham, he took over an Eaglerock and made a tour of Central and Northern Missouri in a preliminary campaign to sell airplanes in the smaller cities. Despite bad weather and tight landing fields, Campion made the tour without incident, returning to the field last Sunday.

Sells Two Planes.

Besides the Travel-Air purchased by Johnson, Brayton of the Parks Air Lines, sold a Standard last week to a former student, and an Eaglerock to Fred Hagenmair. With the latter Brayton made a cross-country training trip to Springfield, Ill., Friday. Like other instructors at the field, Brayton made much of the clear weather of the past week, spending several hours in the air daily in his school ship.

Love Loses His Laundry.

Phil Love's visit to St. Louis last week was hot without its discouragements. He put up with "Boots" Dempsey and forgetting his key one afternoon left on the doorstep of Dempsey's apartment a bundle containing most of his washable wardrobe. When he returned someone had stolen the bundle of laundry.

Gives Away Lindberg's Coupe.

Lindberg's Ford coupe, in which Love had a half interest, was donated last week by Love to the Thirty-fifth Division Air Corps, with the proviso that it be placed at the disposal of visiting flyers who drop in at the field. Lindbergh used the car in his trips to St. Louis from the field before he became a celebrity.

H. C. Draper in New Post.

H. C. Draper has been appointed manager of the Von Hoffman Aircraft Co., with headquarters at Lambert-St. Louis Field.

H. T. Bussmann to Speak.

H. T. Bussmann, vice-president of the Bussmann Manufacturing Co., will speak on sales conferences at the weekly meeting of the St. Louis Electrical Board of Trade at Hotel Statler Tuesday noon.

Injunctions in Coal Strikes Trample on Rights of Miners, Two Members of Senate Say Provisions Forbidding Meetings and Prohibiting Hiring Attorneys or Furnishing Bond, "Clearly Unconstitutional," Norris Asserts.

By BASIL MANLY.
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.

THE extraordinary injunctions issued by State and Federal Courts in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio in connection with the present bituminous coal strike have aroused a deep-seated sense of injustice not only among the United Mine Workers but throughout the ranks of organized labor in all parts of the country. They have given the American Federation of Labor an issue that it will strive to inject into the presidential campaign of 1928, particularly in those States where the labor vote is strong.

"These injunctions contain the most drastic restrictions upon human rights and liberties that I have ever seen asserted by any American court," declared Senator George W. Norris (Rep.) of Nebraska, after examining the copies which the writer brought back from the strike regions. Senator Norris, a former Judge, now is chairman of the powerful Senate Committee on the Judiciary, to which all legislation affecting Federal Courts is referred.

"Clearly Unconstitutional."

"If some of the provisions of these judicial decrees had been embodied in laws by Congress or any State Legislature, they would have been declared unconstitutional by the highest court of the land," said Senator Norris. "Any law attempting to declare, as these injunctions do, that men may not provide attorneys or furnish bonds to assist their fellowmen in resisting eviction from company houses, would be so clearly unconstitutional that it could pass no Legislature, however biased, and would be held invalid by any competent court.

"The original and only valid purpose of injunctions is to protect property from imminent and irreparable damage. That is a legitimate and proper purpose to which they should be restricted.

"These injunctions, however, are not directed primarily to the protection of the coal companies' property. They are designed rather to prevent the strikers from exercising the rights which the constitutions of the Nation and the States have conferred upon every American. Their prohibitions are even more drastic than those customarily enforced under martial law. I doubt if any military commander during the World War sought to impose upon the inhabitants of conquered territory more severe restrictions than are contained in some of these edicts. They enslave the workers and bring needless suffering upon their wives and children.

Predicts a Reaction.

"In my opinion the corporations that applied for these injunctions overshot their mark. When their terms are known, they will inevitably create a reaction among all fair-minded people that will finally result in imposing effective restraints upon the powers of the courts to issue injunctions.

"The Shipstead anti-injunction bill now is before Congress. Such injunctions as these are bound to win support for such legislation, even among those who are friendly to the courts and have no desire to restrict their authority."

To understand the resentment of the mine workers, let us consider the terms of the injunction issued by Federal District Judge Benson W. Hough at Steubenville, O., Sept. 10, 1927, in response to the application of the Clarkson Coal Mining Co., and other corporations in the Southern District of Ohio. This injunction is directed not only against union officers and members but "all persons to whom notice of this order shall come."

Terms of Injunction.

This decree prohibits:

1. Displaying signs or banners containing any words or language designed to intimidate or insult employes or prospective employes, who are at the mines or desire to go to the mines, or on any highway or railroad station, within a radius of 10 miles from any of them.

This prohibition applies even to signs erected on property owned or leased by strikers. Use of the words "scab," "rat," "yellow dog," and like terms is specifically forbidden.

2. Interfering in any way with the coal companies or their agents in making or carrying out any contract of employment which any of them may desire to make, or has made, with any person.

"Persuasion in the presence of three or more persons congregated with the persuader is not peaceful persuasion and is hereby prohibited," declares the decree.

Gatherings Are Forbidden.

3. Gathering or loitering in groups "upon, along or about any public road, railroad, railroad station, or train, or place of any kind near any of said mines," or, used by employes in going to and from work wherever located, or for the transportation of men under contract.

Ordinary neighborly and social meetings are permitted by the Court, provided they "shall not be conducted with the purpose or effect of violating the provisions or spirit of this injunction."

4. Maintaining more than three pickets at any one picket post, which must be clearly marked and registered with the United States Marshall. These picket posts must be 100 feet or more from the company's plant.

Every picket must be a citizen of the United States and speak the English language.

The strikers do not object to the limitation on the location of picket posts or the number of pickets. They do, however, strenuously object to the provision requiring all pickets to speak English. A large part of the strike-breakers speak no English, this limitation makes it difficult to talk to them.

Order to U. S. Marshal.

This injunction is remarkable in that it makes the Marshal for the Southern District of Ohio responsible for its enforcement and directs him, together with his Deputies and such other persons as he may employ at Federal expense, to police the coal companies' properties, "especially at such times as the plaintiff or intervenor shall be ready to engage in mining operations." Information is not available regarding the cost to the Federal Government of thus policing private property in the State of Ohio.

The injunction issued by U. S. District Judge F. P. Schoonmaker at Pittsburg is similar in its general terms but contains in addition the remarkable provision referred to by Senator Norris.

This section prohibits the union, its officers, members or any other person from furnishing bonds, attorney's services, court costs or any other assistance to persons threatened with eviction from company houses or from furnishing aid in litigation regarding the possession of such houses.

Free Hand on Evictions.

Some of the strikers have lived in company houses 20 years. Sometimes a wife, an aged mother or a child is ill and would be endangered by eviction in the dead of winter. No matter. Under the terms of this injunction, the

UNDER THE SURFACE IN CUBA

Political Unrest Increases and Even "Revolution" Is Whispered in Protest Against "Dictatorship" of President Machado Assassination of Armando Andre, Opposition Newspaper Director, a Mystery That Inspires Silent Speculation.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.

CUBA will bear watching. Within the next year, news more vivid and important than any yet produced by the meeting of diplomats in the current Pan-American conference may come out of the internal political conditions of the island. Underneath the placid surface that the tourist sees—the surface so alluringly compounded of soft sunshine, Bacardi rum, the races and the casino—there are stirrings of political unrest. The word "revolution" is whispered.

The surface of events is placid. It is fair to the eye of the casual beholder, for a very simple reason—it has been steam rollered. Gerardo Machado, the President of Cuba, rules as a virtual dictator. That fact, at least, stands out as verifiable from a mass of conflicting testimony.

Benefits of Regime Are Pointed Out.

It is said on his behalf that he is a benevolent dictator; that he has made Cuba unsafe for bandits and safe for United States capital; that he has reformed the judiciary; that he has contributed greatly to the material progress of the island. New buildings at the University of Havana; the handsome Maine monument, rushed to completion in an incredibly short time so it might delight the eye of President Coolidge; the splendid Avenida de las Misiones, up which the two Presidents made their imposing progress on the occasion of Coolidge's visit; a new capitol nearing completion—these are pointed to as evidence of the beneficent and business-like administration of Machado.

The fact remains that Machado, benevolent, or otherwise, exercises powers beyond the dreams of even the most ardent Hamiltonian in the United States. Bill Vare in Pennsylvania, the Anti-Saloon League and the power lobbies, and the Judge in the Sacco-Vanzetti case are all pikers compared with Machado.

Machado may be, as the supporters of his administration assert, good medicine for Cuba in its present formative state. He may be the worst possible medicine. The first-hand acquaintance of the writer with Cuba was too brief to warrant him in passing judgment on that point. What he does wish to do, as a reporter, is to record emphatic dissent from the view that all is politically serene in Cuba.

Machado Makes Use of Coolidge Speech.

That is the view which President Coolidge, unwittingly perhaps, helped to propagate in the United States by his references in his Havana speech to the "stability" of the Cuban Government and the power of the people to give a "genuine expression of their public opinion at the ballot box." Coolidge's speech, incidentally, now is being used as a campaign document in Machado's effort to extend his term of office.

The serenity that we had been led to expect—we Americans who went as observers to the Pan-American Conference—was not lacking, but it was soon seen to have a highly artificial quality. The serenity was too serene. It was too good to be true.

Could it be that in such a volatile land as Cuba there was no opposition to Machado, no newspaper to question any of his policies? One was impelled, naturally to make inquiries.

In official circles one was met with eulogies of the President. He had given Cuba, it was said, the greatest administration it had ever had. Ninety per cent of the people were for him. The newspapers merely reflected the public sentiment. Suppression of newspapers? It was true that some had been put out of business. No, not because they had opposed the President, but because they had been scandalmongers. The President demanded a clean press, that was all.

Supporters Uphold 6-Year Term Plan.

The proposed extension of Machado's term? Ah, that but proved the unselfishness of the man. Under the pending reform bill, he would receive only two years in addition to his present term of four years. By running for re-election, he could easily get another four-year term. Thus, by putting through the reform measure, he was really not adding to his tenure of power but was foregoing two years.

Gradually the other side of the story came out. It began to come out, so far as this observer was concerned, in reply to questions about the closing of the University of Havana, where the Pan-American conference is being held. We found there a group of fine buildings, but no professors and no students. The official version was that the University had been closed for the period of the conference.

That was true, but it was not all of the story. There had been meetings of students to protest against the two-year extension of the presidential term. The students had been accused of Communism, Bolshevism—all the crimes in the orthodox political calendar. Riots had occurred between the students and the police. The trouble had reached a climax last November, when the students, after one of their indignation meetings, had torn down a tablet in praise of Machado, which had been erected on the grand stairway leading to the University grounds. Machado thereupon had closed the university. It was the second time that he had thus suppressed a student rebellion.

Opposition to Machado Widespread and Deep.

So, it appeared, there was an undercurrent of feeling against Machado after all.

Further inquiries disclosed that this feeling was not confined to a few ebullient students of liberal views, but was widespread and deep. One reason that more is not known about it in this country is that the opposition press has been effectually silenced. Sinister tales may be heard in Havana about editors who have been "compelled to travel for their health" or, in extreme cases, disposed of even more drastically.

The name of Armando Andre, director of the oppositionist paper, El Dia, is mentioned with expressive shrugs of the shoulders. Andre was shot down one midnight at the entrance to his home, soon after Machado came into power. The police did not solve the mystery of his death. Spokesmen for the Government denied to the writer that the assassination was political.

One must take with a grain of salt the attacks upon as well as the eulogies of Machado. The Latin-American temperament expressed itself in superheated terms. Listening to a political argument for or against Machado, one gets the impression that details are being intensified in order to produce a given effect on the hearer. But even when the statements of Machado's opponents are heavily discounted for this reason, there is left a large residuum worthy of attention.

Keeps Newspapers in Line With Favors.

It is clear that in one way or another he has laid a heavy hand on newspapers which have opposed him. It is charged, and there is good reason to believe, that certain newspapers are kept in line through the bestowal of favors, such as the granting to their proprietors of profitable lottery ticket selling concessions. There is something definitely disquieting in the fact that the handsome and expensive Reporters' Club in Havana was made possible through Government largess.

PRESIDENT MACHADO.

Soldiers Shut Off Meeting to Organize Nationalist Party and Drive Anti-Extensionists From Hall.

We had only recently a concrete example of the power of Machado over the Havana press. A number of newspapers prior to the Pan-American Conference had been attacking American "imperialism." Machado served word that this would have to stop, and it did stop.

The opposition to Machado is centered against his effort to keep himself in power two years beyond the end of his present term without the necessity of going through the formality of an election. Machado was inaugurated in May, 1925, and under the constitution as it now stands, he will remain in office to May, 1929. He would be eligible to run for another four years. There has been put through the Congress, however, at the instance of Machado, a so-called constitutional reform bill which extends the presidential term to six years and forbids anyone to hold two consecutive terms. The bill is so drawn as to apply to the incumbent, so that if it is approved Machado will serve till May, 1931, and will then be ineligible for re-election. The bill would extend the terms not only of the President, but of all the present Senators, Representatives, Governors, Mayors, Councilmen—in fact, all elective officers.

Delegates Will Vote on Proposed Amendments.

It has been published in the United States that the proposed constitutional amendments can take effect only after being approved at a plebiscite. But this plebiscite as it will be held in Cuba will be something different from what is generally understood by that word. Delegates will be elected on March 5 to a constitutional convention, and this convention will approve or reject the amendments.

Nominally there are two major political parties in Cuba, the Conservative and the Liberal. Machado, ironically enough, comes under the classification of Liberal. In point of fact, Machado's opponents charge, the parties have both been brought under the thumb of the President, so that when the people vote for delegates to the constitutional convention, they will be voting in all cases for Machado's men. This amalgamation of parties, which is worthy of a Pennsylvania politician, appears to have been achieved by the happy device of letting all office holders share the benefits of the proposed extension of power.

"The President and his friends," in the language of one of the opposition, "re-elect themselves without expense, without worry, safely, surely, without recourse to anything as problematic as an election. Something decidedly new in politics."

Does Away With Chance For an Opposing Party.

Not only has the President brought the existing parties into line, but, according to the opposition, he has so amended the Crowder electoral vote as to make virtually impossible the formation of an opposing party. This is one of the main grievances set out in a published manifesto by some of the leading men of Cuba—men whose names give dignity and weight to the anti-Machado movement.

Among the signers are Enrique Jose Varona, former Vice President of Cuba, and former Secretary of Public Instruction, sometimes described as the leading intellectual of Cuba; Dr. Carlos Mendieta, a hero of the revolution against Spain and a former member of the Cuban Congress; Domingo Mendez Capote, former President of the Senate; Cosme de la Torriente, who has been Secretary of State, Ambassador to the United States and president of the Assembly of the League of Nations, and Conrado W. Massaguer, the famous cartoonist, the proprietor of two Havana periodicals, Carteles and Social. Names such as these are sufficient answer to the charge that Machado is being opposed only by disgruntled "Bolsheviks."

The opposition to Machado charges that he is "Wall Street's candidate." This theme is developed in a political handbill signed by Varoni, Mendieta, Torriente, Massaguer and others of the protesting group. Surprise is expressed at the tone of a speech made by Thomas W. Lamont of the House of Morgan, at a

Naval Race Begun by U. S. The Stuff Wars Are Made of, Says Ex-Premier Lloyd George

Plunkett's "Inevitable War" Speech Punctured by Coolidge, He Thinks, but Geneva Failure Sowed Seeds of Disaster.

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE,
War-Time Premier of England.
LONDON, Feb. 4.

WHEN the misunderstanding between Britain and the United States wrecked a naval agreement between the two greatest naval powers, there was an uneasy feeling abroad that the seeds of a great disaster to the cause of peace and good will amongst men had been sown. All that has happened since tends to confirm that sinister impression.

I do not wish to attach too much importance to speeches like that delivered by Admiral Plunkett. Men whose trade is war must necessarily be on the look-out for someone to fight and they would naturally prefer to choose a foe worthy of their prowess. Nicaragua is barely a cocktail that stimulates the appetite before a carouse. It is just what a raid on the northwest frontier of India is to a British General. Moreover, in every country, it is part of the business of the fighting staff to work out plans for defense against all conceivable enemies. Their minds get absorbed in these brilliant schemes. They gloat over their efficiency and, like every inventor, yearn to put their machine to a test. In the secrecy of their department, the possible war soon becomes a likely war and the likely gradually glides into the inevitable war.

How Wars Are Born.

It is at first discussed in whispers behind locked doors. Then at clubs where gather together men whose patriotism is above any suspicion of being tempered by discretion. The next stage is always the after dinner speech. In the days of Napoleon III, speeches of this kind, breathing the doom of England, were frequently delivered by swashbuckling colonels in the French army. They were promptly answered by men animated by the same patriotic ardor and gifted with the like intellectual equipment on this side of the channel. Lord Palmerston appeased the excitement in England by building a few more ships, revamping some dilapidated, useless facts and enrolling a few harmless volunteers. Mr. Gladstone protested vehemently against the wanton extravagance of this surrender to the fools.

President Coolidge, in a few words of calm and withering irony, rebuked the outburst of the naval orator. An Admiral who indulges in oratory is as dangerous as a politician meddling with a naval gun. The peccant officer now seems to have repudiated his own speech. This might well end that particular incident. But it would be idle to pretend that it has not produced an unpleasant sensation, not only throughout the British Empire but in every country in Europe. The fact that it came simultaneously with the announcement of a $700,000,000 or $800,000,000 program of additional naval construction gave it a significance which, without exaggeration, must be called tremendous in its effect. Senator Borah interpreted world opinion—certainly outside the United States—concerning the situation thus created when he stated that "if anything could possibly bring on war between two great nations, it is these enlarged naval programs together with declarations from navies of the respective countries that war is inevitable."

A Nasty Shock.

The impression produced by Admiral Plunkett's speech and the enormous expansion projected for the United States navy was all the more staggering because English opinion, for at least two generations, has ruled out of the ambit of possible catastrophe any armed conflict with America. It was and still is as remote from British minds as that crash with the moon which Sir Oliver Lodge fixes at a few hundred million years hence. The announcement made by that eminent man of science was received with laughter by his unperturbed audience. A British speaker who declares that war with the United States is inevitable would be greeted with the same hilarity. He would be promptly admonished to sign the pledge.

We have been so accustomed to refer all our disputes with the United States to arbitral tribunals that no resort to violence on either side is ever contemplated as within the realm of human probability. That is why this naval race comes as a nasty shock. And when one Admiral admits that the new scheme of naval construction was planned in reference to the British navy and another Admiral says that war between the two countries is inevitable, the Briton is like a man roused from his sleep to gaze at the shuddering spectacle of a great planet, rushing with incredible velocity straight for his world. There is no indignation, no excitement, but pure bewilderment. Some, like Lord Robert Cecil and the official critics of the administration, are disposed to blame the Government for allowing the Geneva conference to break up without some arrangement, were it only temporary, being effected.

The Venezuelan Affairs.

I recollect, 30 years ago, when Secretary Olney wrote what was regarded here as an unnecessarily truculent message on the Venezuelan frontier dispute, having a conversation on the subject with a prominent American citizen whom I met at Buenos Aires. He was a Democrat and a strong supporter of President Cleveland and I asked him whether the United States really contemplated declaring war against Britain on the question of Venezuela. His answer was "If war were declared on that issue, I do not believe you could recruit a corporal's guard to fight." That statement was unwarrantable, for when countries are actually engaged in the bloody business of war, the patriotic spirit is roused and there will always be plenty of young men forthcoming to fight for the flag. But what he meant was that the idea of war with Britain was so repellant to the mind of the average American that the Government would hesitate to draw the sword. That certainly was the sentiment of Britain and when Lord Salisbury accepted arbitration of that dispute he had behind him the unanimous support of a relieved nation.

A Peaceful Project.

Since then, the relations between the two countries seemed to have improved. The echoes of the war of independence were becoming fainter and fainter as the years rolled on (except, perhaps, at Chicago) and the fact that war was waged against American liberties, not by the British people, but against the advice of the most cherished leaders of the British people, by a small, aristocratic junta was becoming better known and was readily acknowledged.

The Irish quarrel, which roused much antipathy against England in American breasts, had been settled forever by the concession of free self-government to Ireland. Americans and Britons had fought side by side in a colonial war for international right. There were no differences to embarrass good relations between these two great English-speaking communities. On one common boundary between the States and the British empire, we had the unwonted spectacle of

A Bit of Politico-Religious History.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE attack of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals upon the candidacy of Gov. Smith reminded me of a bit of politico-religious history in which I think you may be interested.

I was a member of the Illinois Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church when it met in annual session at Decatur in September, 1920, on the eve of the national elections. "General" Wilson of that board spoke to the conference in public session in favor of the election of the Harding ticket, as favoring temperance, prohibition and public morals. His denunciation of Gov. Cox, the Democratic candidate, was particularly vicious and unwarranted, calling him "low, loose and liquid for 20 years." Of course he knew he was speaking to a Republican crowd for the most part, but he was also speaking in the guise of a flaming prophet of civic righteousness. Now I am sure the "General" is familiar with the unsavory revelations of the Harding administration, public and private, but I wonder if he has a conscience.

The selection of the colorful "Ohio gang" over the Ohio Governor is a fair sample of the reliability and moral acumen of that board.

To the same purpose, it strikes me that a Christian minister can do better than take his moral leadership and his ideals of right, public or personal, from the Anti-Saloon League, which decidedly needs housecleaning. The league's stand for Small and Smith in Illinois is of a piece with the Methodist board's campaign for Harding.

The people of Texas are so dumb they have to mark the automobile licenses "front" and "rear," so that, as one newspaper says, they can tell which way their cars are facing.

Take That, Gabriele!

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I AM sure that in printing the article headed "D'Annunzio on Women" you expected to hear from us (the wasted rib). After studying the article fully, I am fully convinced that the heading should have read "The Thoughts of a Jealous Man."

Are we to be compared to animals? For only animals are chloroformed at the end of their usefulness. Who was the helping hand from the beginning of time? Who helped to settle this country? Who was standing side by side in the settling of the Wild West? Who cheered the boys Over There? Aye, but no one has ever established a statue to the memory of the great women. Man has been "cock of the walk" for so long that it is very painful to the vanity in man to acknowledge equality or defeat. Women are seated in every station in life. Do not judge us by one, judge us as a whole. We were created equal, but man has used woman as a stepping stone to greater things and left her sticking in the mud. As a whole we measure up equally, mentally and physically. Women are showing their equality in every station of life. Watch out for the new woman, for she is bound to leave no stone unturned in establishing a place for women.

D'Annunzio, you depended on the popularity of the famous Eleonora Duse to bring independence to yourself, and once having independence you cast her aside and made her the laughing stock of her friends. Are these the doings of a man who is proclaimed a genius or of a man soured on the world? Jealousy has long been the downfall of many a brilliant mind. A DAILY READER.

STEWART'S REFUSAL TO ANSWER.

As a witness before the Senate Public Lands Committee Robert W. Stewart has given a disturbing exhibition.

He has presumed to oppose his personal judgment as to the propriety and pertinency of certain questions against the judgment of the Senate Committee acting by authority of the United States Senate.

The two questions are:

1. Do you know of anyone who received these bonds that the Continental Trading Company is reported to have dealt in?
2. Have you discussed any of these bond transactions with Mr. Sinclair, or has he discussed them with you?

Stewart tried to evade the first question with a righteous disavowal of having himself received any of these bonds, or profited in any way from the Continental's transactions. The attempt failed. When the examiner, Chairman Nye, sharply informed the witness that he had not answered the question, Stewart declined to answer further. So with the second question.

In consequence Stewart spent Friday night in the custody of a Deputy Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate. He is now in contempt of the Senate and is facing the possibility of a term in a common jail.

As to the questions in point. They are the very heart of this investigation. The purpose of the present hearing, authorized by the Norris resolution, is to ascertain what became of the profits of the bogus Continental Trading Co., which are estimated to be some $3,000,000. It is known that a pittance of this profit—$233,000—was given by Harry Sinclair to Albert B. Fall a month or so after Fall had leased Teapot Dome to Sinclair. The balance of more than $2,500,000 is still unaccounted for. Various rumors as to its disposition have been current, among them that some of the money went to defray the Republican National Committee's deficit after the Harding campaign.

There are four men presumably able to furnish that information—Sinclair, Stewart, Blackmer and O'Neill. Those men were the Continental Trading Co. Indeed, Sinclair and Stewart might be called the Continental, because it was their personal guarantee that made that company a going concern, so to speak. Anyhow, as everyone knows, Blackmer and O'Neill have fled the country. Sinclair, with Fall, is a defendant, charged with conspiring to defraud the Government. So Stewart alone is an available witness, and Stewart refuses to testify.

Stewart was once a lawyer. It is difficult to believe, however, that he is following his present course as a lawyer. Rather, is it not Stewart, head of the great Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, and one of the country's biggest business men, who is defying the United States Senate? Has the power of his money turned his head, warped his judgment, destroyed his sense of civic obligation and led him to believe that he can affront the law, the Senate and public opinion?

Those are the questions which Mr. Stewart's deportment has posed. The Post-Dispatch has no anxiety on this score. We have never subscribed to the cynical philosophy that "You can't convict $100,000,000." Equality before the law may be an idealistic aspiration that frequently staggers under the bludgeonings of wealth and power; but, essentially, it does prevail. Justice has not failed to brand the mighty wrongdoers of those tragic Harding days. It is a long procession—the Daughertys, Falls, Dohenys, Sinclairs and that marauding band of Continentals. What if they have escaped the ignominy of stripes! Their character is gone. Public opinion has passed the sentence of degradation upon them.

Is this the company with which Robert W. Stewart will choose to identify himself?

MORE INSANITY ROT.

After rummaging around the highways and byways of Missouri and Arkansas, William Edward Hickman's attorney presents, among other opinions, the following tidbits to prove his client insane:

1. The maternal grandfather wouldn't work. (No competent philosopher would accept this as an indication of mental weakness.) 2. The maternal grandmother was frail and given to tears. (There are thousands of charming old ladies in the same boat.) 3. Hickman's mother was loath, on occasion, to take medicine, and (4) she at times rejected the amenities of the bath. (Both of these counts are at best but mild eccentricities the like of which any lady should be permitted in a democracy), and (5) the same Mrs. Hickman was once discovered dancing a jig in the midst of her housewifely duties. (Surely no worse a fancy than a song at shaving time, and not nearly so dangerous.)

That the Hickman barrister is a meticulous historian seems obvious, but that such evidence is proof of mental weakness in the Hickman ancestral strain is of a piece with contending the Hon. Charles Evans Hughes is a bolshevist because he wears a beard.

It seems that Col. Stewart of oil renown practiced law years ago with Senator Walsh. And it also seems that Senator Walsh never practiced lawlessness with Col. Stewart.

HAVE YOU A GROOVED SWING?

"The result of my observation," writes Bobby Jones, "has been to convince me that to follow the same arc up and down is a practical impossibility," and again, "I don't believe it can be done." Bobby had just been viewing a slow motion picture of himself in action and was surprised to find that his swing was not "grooved," that his hands "hitched" several inches at the top of the backswing while his hips made a queer contortion, and that at the moment of impact he was standing almost on tiptoe in violation of the rule about "sitting back" on the heels.

Only Hagen and Armour approximate the "grooved" swing, which means to have the club rise and descend in the same arc, and they don't come any too close to it. Thus one of the most frequently stressed axioms of golf books is tossed to the bunkpile. One doesn't need a "grooved" swing if Bobby Jones can win the British open, National amateur and Southern open in one season without it. The books are wrong and anyone who has spent an anguished summer trying to put their advice into practice may be permitted a sly leer of satisfaction.

Bobby's statement comes opportunely, for there never was a time when standardization threatened so ominously to take all the individuality out of golf. The Johnsons and Smiths are all trying to be Vardons and Vailes and sublimating their precious personalities before the heresies of books. It is our contention that golf, like art, is a medium of self-expression and should therefore be a distinctly individual thing and unless we break away from the shackles of the experts, we are mere mimics.

MARSHAL HAIG'S BOOK.

Rumor is busy with a history of the World War which the late Earl Douglas Haig is believed to have written. One version has it that the book is not to be published for 50 years; another that the manuscript has been intrusted to members of the Marshal's family, with implicit instructions as to its publication. Speculation as to the content of the work describes it, variously, as a "secret history of the conflict," again, as a frank book of memoirs.

That the author was wholly within his proprietary rights in fixing the date of publication or directing whatever disposition of it he chose may not be disputed. But from the standpoint of contemporaneous equity a question may be raised. It was the people of today who fought that war, who paid the price in the bitter terms of death and grief and immeasurable sacrifice. Their relation to it has a vital quality which posterity can never know. To the world of 50 years from now the war of a decade ago will be history. Historians will tell about it, perhaps, with a vividness, candor and fairness the elder disciples of Thucidydes never attained. Our Ludwigs, Stracheys, Guedellas are forerunners of a brighter, braver school. But the skill of their whole lineage, plus the blazing genius of Carlyle, cannot implant in the reader of 1978 the anguish, suspense and agony which the readers of 1928 experienced.

The inside story of the war is, to be sure, already a hackneyed tale. Gibbs' "Now It Can Be Told" was the disappointing lamentation of a fine gentleman, a Sir Galahad of the pen to whom war was a nausea and whose indictment flickered out in pastel vagaries. Montague in his "Disillusion" pilloried the hypocrisy of propaganda and struck a manly note for a judgment of justice to gallant soldiers under all flags. The professional wrecker of reputation has had his iconoclastic say. But official authority has been silent. That is a voice we should all so like to hear. And, next to that of Foch, the voice of Haig might command rapt attention. Legally the book belongs to the Haig estate. Morally, spiritually and humanly it belongs to the generation that suffered the blood atonement.

MAKING IT MEAN SOMETHING.

To Germany's Foreign Minister, Dr. Gustav Stresemann, goes the distinction of calling the bluff of those statesmen who have been conjuring with the phrase "the outlawry of war." By indorsing the proposal of the United States to accomplish this, he has injected a bit of realism into the question, to the infinite embarrassment of all the conjurers.

For France and the United States to outlaw war would seem like the Soviet Republics and Tierra del Fuego doing it. But for France and Germany to outlaw war would be something else again. It would be something worth-while, and whether or not it happens may easily determine whether the panacea of outlawing war ever becomes anything but a football for statesmen.

THE GREAT WHITE HOUSE MYSTERY.

Our learned President is wrapping the shroud of silence about him in still more impenetrable folds. Soon the task of hauling them aside and getting down to a flesh and blood President will be beyond anybody but an Egyptologist. It is scarcely necessary to add that flesh and blood is a combination which Americans peculiarly treasure in their public men.

The President sired and summarily executed the "White House spokesman." He ordered that no question in the weekly conference with reporters should be mentioned if he failed to answer it. Now he has swept his shroud about the conference itself, so that no newspaper man may even say it occurred.

We suggest that the correspondents bid for a return to presidential favor by anticipating the logical next step and altogether ceasing the direct reference to him. Surely there would be a fine tang of the elusive, the grand and inscrutable, in Washington correspondence beginning, "It was learned by oracular utterance in an address tonight at the annual dinner of—"; "Accompanied by a flock of battleships, a high Government authority set out on his mission of peace," or, "Hand-shaking has affected the right wrist of the Mystery Man of the White House."

With a little practice and ingenuity, any correspondent, provided he has a good foundation in the evasions already enforced by presidential silence, can invent his own phrases and probably improve upon these suggestions.

WHO THE WAHABIS ARE.

We should like to illuminate a dispatch from Irak telling how the Wahabi tribesmen raided an Arabian settlement, killed many inhabitants and stole camels and cattle. The Wahabis are named for a prophet called Wahab, who was to Islam what, say, Oliver Cromwell is to Christianity. In other words, the Wahabis are Puritans. They do not drink, chew, swear or gamble, and cigarette smoking is a heinous offense. They get their pleasure from massacring their brother Mohammedans who are not as strict as they. In 1922 they descended on a village and killed every man, woman and child. On that occasion, though they invoked Allah in loud and piteous tones, they were caught by an avenging band, and defeated. No prisoners were taken. This time, too, they were overtaken by a punitive force and severely drubbed. It is plain Allah isn't sold on Wahabi-ism.

LAWRANCE WINS THE PRIZE.

Among aviators there will be no quarrel with the National Aeronautic Association for its award of the Collier aviation trophy for 1927 to Charles L. Lawrance in recognition of his devotion in developing the radial air-cooled airplane motor.

The terms of the award specify that it is to be given annually for "the greatest achievement in aviation in America, the value of which has been demonstrated by actual use during the preceding year"—so that as its recipient for 1927 Lawrance was an outstanding figure.

Radial engines developed by his painstaking research spanned the Atlantic and Pacific during 1927, made possible the Lindbergh national tour and the present Central American trip, and set new standards for aviation. Indeed, it is probably safe to say that the most important mechanical factor in making 1927 the greatest year for flying since the first flight of the Wrights in 1903 was the development of the radial power plant.

MR. COOLIDGE: PIPE DOWN!

STOP THE WAR IN NICARAGUA!

An Appeal to Mr. Coolidge From the Former American Minister to Nicaragua.

(Copy of letter addressed to President Coolidge by Horace G. Knowles, former American Minister to Rumania, Bulgaria, Serbia, Nicaragua, Dominican Republic (Santo Domingo) and Bolivia. Acknowledgment received Jan. 21, stating that it had been referred to the State Department, which is responsible for the past and present situation in Nicaragua—for its action or inaction.)

To the President of the United States:

IN THE light of the magnificent gesture Mr. Hughes made to all Latin-America in his brilliant speech at Havana; as evidence of your approval of what Mr. Hughes promised; as responsive to the feelings and opinions of Americans who deplore the loss of life and serious wounding of many marines; and to avert the probable loss and wounding of others (to say nothing of the hundreds of Nicaraguans that have been killed and wounded), all having occurred under your administration:—may I suggest for your consideration the immediate cessation of the war being aggressively waged by our marines in Nicaragua?

Such an order would be a laying down of the revolver which Will Rogers says is being used by your left hand while you are shaking the hand of Latin-America with your right. That trite criticism by your friend Rogers is being printed and cartooned throughout Latin-America and Europe. I wish it were putting you and our country in a better light. May I refer to the remarkable letter addressed to you a few days ago by John S. Hemphill of Ferguson, Mo., who lost a hero son recently in Nicaragua, appearing in the current number of The Nation (Reprinted from the Post-Dispatch—Editor's Note.) It will surely find a place in our history. I wish you were able to write such a reply to that distressed father as did Lincoln to that mother that lost several of her sons in the Civil War. As to the withdrawal of the marines, that can be arranged later. The important thing now, is to STOP THE WAR.

IF YOU disapprove and would nullify the effect of Mr. Hughes' speech in Latin-America and Havana, the surest way to do it is to continue the war in Nicaragua. Mistakenly or not, Latin-America considers Sandino a patriot, and believes he is fighting for a principle and the cause not only of Nicaragua, but of all Latin-America. There are many of your countrymen that hold the same opinion. To continue hunting and fighting him makes him a hero in the eyes and hearts of all Latin-Americans, and to kill him would be to martyrize him. His death would be ceremoniously mourned in every city, town and hamlet of Latin-America, and every newspaper would eulogize him now, and on every anniversary of his death. Their histories would tell of his life, fight and death. He would be a symbol that would keep alive the ill-feeling of the Latin-Americans toward us, just as the Morro of Arica keeps alive the hatred of the Peruvians toward the Chileans and makes it difficult for you to find a satisfactory plan of settlement of the Tacna-Arica question. That would tend to solidarity of Latin-American ill-will toward us. We have everything to lose and nothing to gain by killing Sandino.

IF WE are going to withdraw our armed force from Nicaragua as we did from Santo Domingo, then why not end the war at once, play the part of a real big brother, send a Morrow to pacify or make terms with Sandino—I believe I could do it in 24 hours—send medical aid to his wounded men, and make some kind of reparation for the innocent non-combatant men, women and children killed and injured and the homes destroyed by our marines. That would be in harmony with the good-will assurances in your Havana speech, and the pledges of new friendships made by Mr. Hughes in his speech. I am sure such action by you would be applauded by your countrymen, by every Latin-American, and throughout Europe. It would be considered as a good piece of team work with Lindbergh, and would surely place your delegates at the Pan-American Conference in a pleasant and advantageous position. It would do more than anything else to keep discord out of the conference. I beg of you to try it, Mr. President. It cannot possibly hurt you or your country.

The widowed mother of a marine in service in that country, who was on the firing line when last she heard from him asks, if it be your intention to continue the war in Nicaragua, if you would be willing to send your son down there to take the place of her son. She says, if she must lose her only son in battle, she prays it will be in a more worthy cause than ours is in Nicaragua.

With great esteem, I am, dear Mr. President, Sincerely yours,

HORACE G. KNOWLES.

SMALL CHANCE FOR REED.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

SENATOR JAMES A. REED of Missouri has long been known as a receptive candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. He has had his lightning rod up inviting the bolt. Now he is adopting a more direct and aggressive strategy, with the chairman of the Missouri Democratic State Committee in charge of his campaign for delegates to Houston.

Senator Reed's position differs from that of Gov. Albert Ritchie of Maryland, another receptive candidate, in that he doubts the domination of the Democratic convention by Smith sentiment. Gov. Ritchie, who is in every sense a man of presidential size, sincerely believes that the nomination is assured to Gov. Smith. Senator Reed would undoubtedly throw his strength to Smith if and when it becomes clear to him that his own nomination is impossible.

It is difficult to conceive of any conditions under which the Democratic party would make James A. Reed its nominee. If the ultra-dry elements at the Houston convention should unexpectedly prove strong enough to block the nomination of Smith they would find a much easier task in blocking the nomination of Reed, whom they dislike as much as Smith, and for the same reason.

Senator Reed's intellectual gifts are not questioned. His experience in Congress might well be counted in his favor. He is a sturdy and resourceful campaigner. No one could better carry on from the platform the attack on corruption in public office which besmirched the record of Republican administration after the party was returned to power at the 1920 election. But admitting all this, there remains small chance of Senator Reed's success as an aspirant for the nomination.

I'm told that I'll remember at the moment when I die
My deeds of virtue, though I did them good deeds on the sly;
I'm told what evil things I did I'll look on with regret.
Perhaps because there are a few I've not committed yet;
If so, long life awaits me, as I rather hope it would,
And I defer the big parade of all my deeds called good;
One memory is plenty for this humdrum life of mine—
The glamorous remembrance of my nights with friends and wine.

I do not claim my manly deeds were all with honor bright,
I only say the other kind possess a fairer light;
I often help my fellow man, and yet I am afraid
Fond memory reverts to times 'twas I that needed aid;
Ah well, when death's cold finger wants to beckon me away,
That time will serve for me to put my good deeds on display;
Till then, I've other memories, and that's a hopeful sign—
The glamorous remembrance of my nights with friends and wine.

Call in an Expert.

The trouble with symposiums on marriage is that experts never are asked for their opinion. Mencken and Nathan generally contribute to such discussions, and what does either of them know of marriage? Nothing! Shaw says no man can tell the truth about marriage until after his wife dies. Then he is too busy looking for another to bother about the matter. The contributions to the discussion are clever, even brilliant, but they add no light on an absorbing question. Why not ask in qualified experts? Recently the press carried an item about a Turkish pasha who has seven wives and twenty-three children. There, mesdames et messieurs, is an expert whose word would carry weight in all languages, including the Scandinavian. But of course he is so busy supporting the seven wives and twenty-three children that we presume he would not have the leisure to give an opinion. But if an opinion is needed, he is our idea of an expert.

dinner given for Machado during the latter's visit to New York last year.

Speech by Lamont Arouses Surprise.

Declaring that Lamont "mixed in the politics of Cuba" by encouraging Machado in his ambition to remain President, the proclamation continues: "Actions such as this by Mr. Lamont would have no significance for us if it were not for the fact that the Morgan House has negotiations with our Government and with important commercial houses in Cuba—negotiations which have provoked so much criticism in the world against the capitalism of Wall Street."

The proclamation attributes to Machado the unlawful suppression of political meetings in various parts of the Republic and the arbitrary detention of a group of students of their way to Dr. Varona's house. Measures of force, it is charged, were used against the students.

Another characteristic manifesto against Machado, also circulated as a handbill, is signed by Aurelio Alvarez, who was an officer in the Cuban army of liberation and has been president of the Senate and of the National Conservative party. The situation in Cuba is described in this document as a theatrical farce, fast turning into tragedy.

"Our Congress," says the protest, "does not legislate. It takes the proposals of the palace and approves them in accord with the will of the Executive. As things are going, the basis of our Constitution no longer exists. Liberty of the press is a myth. Since the assassination of Armando Andre, it has been forced to accommodate itself to a brutal reality. The criticism which is necessary to all countries and particularly to Cuba in its formative period cannot make itself heard, so much has it been intimated. Very recently we had the example of the Heraldo de Cuba, which was suppressed without reason or right in a period of apparent peace.

Calls on Citizens to Change Conditions.

"Workers' organizations have been destroyed, and prominent members of the proletariat have lost their lives in a tragic manner. The elemental duty resting on citizens is to change the situation in which we find ourselves. No matter what government may come in the future, it will be better than this."

The group opposed to Machado has tried to organize a new party, the Nationalist, but has been met everywhere, its members say, with repressive measures. There was, for example, the affair last October at Matanzas. A number of the Nationalists, headed by Dr. Mendieta, went there to hold a meeting which had been authorized by the Mayor. What happened was described to the writer by one of the group, whose credentials from a Havana newspaper enabled him to take snapshots of some of the scenes.

They found a troop of cavalry near the theater where the meeting was to be held. Inside were men with rifles. An army Major stood on the platform with four or five soldiers behind him. He had with him a Sergeant-stenographer who was prepared to make notes on the proceedings.

Col. Mendez Penate started to speak. He said that the sole purpose of their coming was to organize the Nationalist party, as they were entitled under the laws to do. He told of the difficulties they had encountered.

"At Los Palacios, Batabano and other cities," he said, "we have been persecuted. A Captain and Lieutenant from the army followed us wherever we went."

Army Officer Rises and Closes Meeting.

At that point the officer in command declared that the speaker had no right to refer to the army, and stopped the meeting.

After the crowd had got out into the street, someone cried out, "Abajo la prorroga" (Down with the extension), whereupon, according to the writer's informant, the cavalrymen fell on the crowd with broadside strokes of their sabers.

Other meetings, it is declared, have been suppressed by similar measures of terrorism. The result has been the almost complete muzzling of the Nationalists. One of the braver of the Havana papers dared recently to print a mild letter opposing the extension of power. The editor was threatened with suppression for six months if he repeated the offense.

On the eve of the conference, the Cuban Government turned back at the Port of Santiago two Hatilans who were seeking to go to Havana to tell the conference what they thought about the American intervention in their country. Thus the Cuban President co-operates with the United States to keep the conference peaceful.

Machado in Power With Army of 18,000.

Will Cuba itself continue to wear the aspect of peace? The chances are that it will. The enemies of Machado assert that at a popular election he would be overwhelmingly defeated. Machado, however, is firmly in the saddle. He controls an army of 18,000. The opposition knows, moreover, that with the Platt amendment in effect a revolution would mean the landing of American Marines, and it knows, too, that the United States policy is not to recognize a government set up by a coup d'etat.

A revolution, in all human probability, would be futile; this is the logic of the matter. But sometimes, as history shows, men who believe that they are politically oppressed are not guided wholly by logic.

Platt Amendment Gives U. S. Power to Intervene in Cuba.

The Platt amendment, so-called, was in reality an appendix to the Constitution of free Cuba, adopted Feb. 21, 1901. The appendix, adopted in June of the same year, was written by Senator O. H. Platt, of Connecticut, and reads as follows:

"1. The Government of Cuba shall never enter into any treaty or other compact with any foreign Power or Powers which will impair or tend to impair the independence of Cuba, nor in any way authorize or permit any foreign Power or Powers to obtain by colonization or for naval or military purposes, or otherwise, lodgment or control over any portion of said island.

"2. That said Government shall not assume or contract any public debt to pay the interest upon which, and to make reasonable sinking-fund provision for the ultimate discharge of which the ordinary revenues of the Island of Cuba, after defraying the current expenses of the Government, shall be inadequate.

"3. That the Government of Cuba consents that the United States may exercise the rights to intervene for the preservation of Cuban independence, the maintenance of a Government adequate for the protection of life, property and individual liberty, and for discharging the obligations with respect to Cuba imposed by the treaty of Paris on the United States, now to be assumed and undertaken by the Government of Cuba.

"4. That all the acts of the United States in Cuba during the military occupancy of said island shall be ratified and held as valid, and all rights legally acquired by virtue of said acts shall be maintained and protected.

"5. That the Government of Cuba will execute, and, as far as necessary, extend the plans already devised, or other plans mutually to be agreed upon, for the sanitation of the cities of the island, to the end that a recurrence of epidemic and infectious diseases may be prevented, thereby assuring protection to the people and commerce of Cuba, as well as to the commerce of the Southern ports of the United States and the people residing therein.

"6. The Island of Pines shall be omitted from the boundaries of Cuba specified in the Constitution, the title of ownership thereof being left to future adjustment by treaty.

"7. To enable the United States to maintain the independence of Cuba, and to protect the people thereof, as well as for its own defense, the Cuban Government will sell or lease to the United States the lands necessary for coaling or naval stations, at certain specified points, to be agreed upon with the President of the United States.

"8. The Government of Cuba will embody the foregoing provisions in a permanent treaty with the United States."

a frontier without forts. There was no cloud on the horizon in that quarter. Canada is on the best of terms with her great neighbor.

Where was the friction to come from? On this side of the Atlantic, our imagination was quite unequal to the task of discerning a possible casus belli with America. Hence the baffled surprise with which we find ourselves landed in a competition for building ships to fight each other.

If the conflict of armaments goes on, there is no knowing what the outcome may be. When two great nations set their minds and hearts on measuring their fighting strength against each other in terms of guns and torpedoes, the whole of their relationship is vitiated by this unwholesome rivalry. Can no one stop it—and stop it in time? The future will judge those who started it, on either side, as sternly as the present has already judged the authors of the policy of blood and iron which landed the world in the horror of the Great War.

Admiral Plunkett's Speech Which Lloyd George Discusses.

The Plunkett speech, to which Lloyd George refers, was delivered at the National Republican Club, New York City, Jan. 21. The stenographic report of his remarks on the imminence of war contained this sentence: "If I read history correctly, and what we are doing today, we are nearer war today than we have ever been in our history because we are too damned efficient."

Just preceding this remark the Admiral was recorded to have told an anecdote of meeting a German biographer and telling him, "Don't worry, my friend, the penalty of efficiency is war. When a nation becomes too efficient the rest of the nations combine and pull her down."

The Admiral then asserted that American business men have awakened to the fact that we must build a merchant marine and stop having our trade competitors deliver our goods, and added:

"There never has been and there never will be a great nation in this world that isn't great on the sea. Just so long as you make that your policy, and you follow it through, you are going to have war. I don't care whether it is with Great Britain or some other nation, you are going to have war just as surely as you are sitting in this room with me, if you dare to contest the control of the sea with your goods, not with your guns.

"It is competition, gentlemen. It is economic in its origin and as long as we proceed along the lines we are traveling today war is absolutely inevitable."

Admiral Plunkett is commandant of the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Rights of Miners Trampled on, Say Two Senators

union lawyers cannot go into court to stay eviction until the emergency is passed; they cannot offer bond. Out the family must go, and no friend dares offer aid.

Drastic as are the provisions of these Federal injunctions, they are eclipsed by the extraordinary edict issued by the Honorable J. M. Langham, Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, Indiana County, Pa. Three brief clauses suffice to indicate its character. They prohibit the strikers:

From erecting or causing to be erected or maintaining billboards for the purpose of displaying signs warning men to stay away from Rossiter.

From congregating on the Magyar Presbyterian Church lot, or any other lot, lots, place or places, at the time the employes of the plaintiff enter the mine and come out of the mine.

From singing song or songs in hearing of the employes of the plaintiff of a threatening or hostile nature.

Former Justice Roused.

The unprecedented provisions of these and other recent injunctions have aroused the fighting spirit of Senator Robert F. Wagner (Dem.), New York. As a former Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, his analysis of these judicial decrees should command especial attention.

"The courts," Senator Wagner told the correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, "have been announcing for generations that laborers had the right to unionize and deal with their employers collectively. That right presumably once meant something, but it has since been nullified by the combination of an antiunion promise and an injunction. Certainly the courts must know that the unorganized employe is in no position to refuse to consent to an antiunion promise. He must have his job. It is only after he is organized that he can resist successfully the exaction of such a promise. The injunction makes organization impossible and turns the asserted right of unionization into a mockery.

U. S. Courts Held at Fault.

"The Federal Courts have been largely responsible for the growth of government by injunction. They have taken refuge in the decision of the Supreme Court known as the Hitchman case. That case was decided by a divided court and went further than any previous decision of that court, and has since been repudiated by the New York courts.

"The injunctions that have been issued recently by the Federal courts go far beyond the holding of the Hitchman case. I have seen a Federal injunction where the union was enjoined from peacefully persuading men not yet employed to join the union and not to seek employment with a company where a strike was in progress.

"I have seen a Federal injunction, issued in a district inhabited by a foreign-born population, stating every picket was required to be a citizen and able to speak the English language. I have seen injunctions issued by Federal Judges where the union was enjoined from advertising meetings. I have seen injunctions issued where the United States Marshal was directed by the court to do police duty. I have seen injunctions where the union was enjoined from assisting the striking miners in defending themselves against eviction by the company from the homes, where they were enjoined from signing appeal bonds, or depositing security to enable striking miners to appeal decrees of eviction against them.

"No wonder labor is clamoring for a curb on the power of Federal Judges to issue injunctions. Labor is convinced that it has not been receiving a square deal in the courts and these injunctions have been substantiating their assertion."

ENTERTAINMENT PLANNED FOR WISCONSIN VISITORS

Governor Heads 150 Officials and Citizens to Visit St. Louis Feb. 20.

A luncheon, a dinner and a sightseeing tour have been arranged by the Chamber of Commerce for the entertainment of a delegation of 150 public officials and private citizens of Wisconsin, headed by Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman, who will visit here in a special train on Feb. 20, during a 15-day trip through 12 middle western and Southern states.

Headquarters will be at Hotel Statler. Provision will be made for public inspection of exhibit cars showing Wisconsin farm and creamery products and fish and game. The Wisconsin Legislature authorized the tour.

The party will arrive at 7 a. m. from Evansville, Ind., and depart at 3 a. m. the next day for Springfield, Ill.

PEOPLE OVER 40

People over 40 have to be careful of their blood pressure. It's at this age, due to our abnormal living habits, that our blood pressure begins to slip up on us. And high blood pressure shortens life—may cut it off suddenly.

Modern living puts too great a pressure upon the vital organs, especially the liver. The liver becoming weak and sluggish fails to cleanse the blood of the poisons formed in food waste. The whole system then becomes toxic, with stomach, kidneys, heart and blood vessels affected.

The liver occasionally needs a little help, and there's nothing better for this, as physicians agree, than ox gall. Ox gall is a remarkable natural stimulant for the human liver, promoting its normal active functioning so essential to real health. Dioxol tablets are genuine ox gall in dainty and tasteless form, each tablet representing 10 drops of pure ox gall. To be sure of getting the genuine ox gall, be sure of getting Dioxol. They cost less than 2c each at good druggists, and a few bring a delightful change.

NEW TRIAL FOR YOUTH UNDER LIFE SENTENCE

Case of Slayer of Policeman Remanded to St. Louis Circuit Court.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 4.—Albert Gregori, sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of Police Sergeant Robert E. Woody in St. Louis, obtained a new trial by the Supreme Court's decision today that the Juvenile Court, where Gregori was convicted, had no jurisdiction because an amendment to the juvenile offender law, changing the age limit, was unconstitutional. The conviction was reversed and the case remanded for new trial in St. Louis Circuit Court. The amended law had no bearing on whether or not Gregori killed Sergeant Woody.

In this ruling the court unanimously adopted an opinion written by Commissioner Walter N. Davis and rendered in Division No. 2 of the court last March. The amendment to the juvenile offender law was passed by the Legislature in 1923. It gave juvenile courts in counties of more than 50,000 population jurisdiction over minors less than 18 years old. In counties of less than 50,000 population the limit remained 17 years. Davis held the difference in age limit in the law prevented uniform application of the criminal laws in all counties of the state and was an unreasonable distinction between person: and classes.

Gregori was 17 years old when charged with the crime, and was tried Nov. 17, 1925. The indictment against him, charging first degree murder, had been transferred from Circuit Court to Juvenile Court, because the amendment brought him under the 18-year limit.

Sergeant Woody was shot and killed in 1924 when he and another officer attempted to arrest Gregori and three companions in a stolen automobile. Others charged with the murder were Edgar Silvey, 21; Clay Cratty, 24, and Nicholas Hare, 24. Silvey and Cratty were convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. Hare obtained immunity when he testified for the State.

Conviction of J. G. Wolfner Under Blue Sky Law Reversed.

The conviction of "Julian G. Wolfner of St. Louis under the State blue sky law for alleged false statements to the Blue Sky Department in an application for a stock-selling permit, was reversed by the court en banc and remanded for new trial, because of defects in the information.

Judge W. T. Ragsland, who wrote the opinion, held the information failed to charge any facts tending to show that the statement or application was a "false paper" within the meaning of the law. Wolfner's sentence of seven years in prison was the most severe ever imposed under the Missouri blue sky law.

Wolfner's prosecution resulted from the failure of the Standard Crate & Filler Co. of Jefferson City, a wood products promotion in which Jefferson City investors lost thousands of dollars. He was one of the officers of the company and had charge of stock sales.

Judge Ragsland ruled the evidence failed to show, and the information failed to charge, any facts tending to show that the alleged falsities of the application had any bearing on solvency of the company, or determination of whether its plan of business was fair and equitable. For these reasons the information was insufficient, he said.

3 Held up in Store; $206 Taken.

Three men with revolvers held up two men clerks and a woman customer in the dry goods store of Morris Deutsch, 1915 Park avenue, and escaped with $206 at noon yesterday. Jacob Duetsch, son of the proprietor, another clerk and the woman were ordered into a back room. The robbers fled in an automobile.

OVER 40 MAKES OF CARS WILL BE ON DISPLAY

Annual Exposition Starts at 11:00 A. M. — Ryan Airplanes and Motorboats Added Attractions.

St. Louis' twenty-first annual automobile show opens at the Union Market Building tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. Every make of automobile represented in St. Louis by a distributer or dealer, all but one of the lines of motor trucks, a completely equipped automotive shop with movable tools and 5000 feet of displays of automotive accessories and supplies will be there to invite the public eye.

Two additional attractions, boasted of by no other recent automotive exposition, will be an airplane exhibit—including one of the type used by Col. Charles Lindbergh in his trans-Atlantic flight—and a motor boat display.

Three Floors of Displays.

The three floors of the Union Market Building, which occupies the entire city block from Lucas avenue to Morgan street and from Broadway to Sixth street, contain 135,000 square feet of floor area. Taking out the wide 10-foot aisles which have been placed by the show management, 106,000 square feet of exhibition space will be utilized by exhibits incident to the automotive industry.

The show, is inclusive of 44 makes of automobiles and 14 makes of trucks and some of the exhibitors will show as many as 15 different body styles.

The price range of cars at the show starts with the new Model T Ford, Star, Chevrolet and Whippet cars as the low-priced lines, and goes through all the price ranges up to the McFarlan, the Packard, Imperial Chrysler, Pierce-Arrow and finally to the Rolls-Royce, which is priced at $19,500.

The most complete and inclusive automobile show ever held in St. Louis is promised by Capt. Robert E. Lee, manager of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association, and generalissimo of the St. Louis automobile shows for the past 21 years.

1928 Lines Novel.

"In all the 25 years of the history of the automobile business the manufacturers have not offered the attractive and novel lines such as are being displayed this year," says Lee. "Every make of car has something startling to announce and this is entirely in addition to the very considerable lowering of prices which has taken place. If there is such a thing as a price war in the automotive business it will be revealed at the St. Louis Automobile Show because the competing cars in the various price classes will vie with each other in displaying the most for the money."

Lee for the past week has had an army of men in the great building erecting partitions and wind brakes, additional wiring systems and decorations which are changing the dull, lifeless concrete building into a bower of beauty, a fit setting for the striking motor cars of 1928.

On the first floor the scheme of decoration will be carried out in a variation of corn colors, on the second pink dominates the color scheme, and on the third blues of various sheens are the motif. The various exhibitors will have scattered through their exhibit spaces palms and ferns which will serve to lend an outdoor garden effect akin to the tropic stretches of Gulf Ports resorts.

Price Classes Together.

Exhibit space on the several floors of the show building were allotted by the Show Committee with a view toward maintaining the interest of the great crowds expected to visit the show. Cars have been scattered over the various floors, but in the main cars of similar price class have been

NEW HIGH SALES RECORD SET AT CHICAGO EXHIBIT

Critical Interest, Predicated on Desire to Buy Cars, Supplants Curiosity of Former Years.

By ROBERT HENRY HALL, Automobile Editor.

Chicago threw open its portals to the automobile world the past week and witnessed—at the twenty-eighth annual automobile show to be held in that city—one of the most gorgeous display of motor cars ever assembled there under one roof.

The show was held in the old Chicago Coliseum. Its doors were opened at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Jan. 28, and for an hour thereafter two long lines of humanity fought their way through the double entrance to view the 300 automobiles on exhibition. All that afternoon and night the Coliseum was crowded. One did not walk from booth to booth, but pushed and was pushed. Crowds held up well, too, until very closing hour yesterday.

Private Ford Showing.

There is nothing new to say of the Chicago show which, being part of the National Automobile Shows exhibit, seemed to have exhausted its secrets in New York several weeks before. Cars of all makes were on display, except, of course, the domestic and foreign custom jobs, which were given a private showing at the Drake Hotel. As at New York, the new Model T Ford was conspicuous by its absence, as was also the Chevrolet, both cars being displayed at private exhibits elsewhere in Chicago. But the other leaders of the small price class—the Whippet and Star cars—were there, from stripped chassis to standard models in new dresses of Duco and lacquer and shining garments.

The most gratifying thing of the automotive world fraternity was the interest the public displayed in the various cars. Most show crowds are curiosity bent—at least they have been in years past. But this year at New York and Chicago, and it will be the same at the St. Louis show this week, a critical interest prevailed, predicated on a desire to know the best and to buy it.

The man who last year casually eyed this car and that and passed on to escape the demonstrator, is stopping this year to ply that same demonstrator with questions to get answers answered with regard to the car he'd like to buy.

Floor Sales Doubled.

Sales made this year on the show floor about doubled those recorded last year. There is a hurry and bustle about the sales forces. They know that the ensuing year is to be the big year of automotive history and the man who works quickly is the man to get the business. There was an atmosphere of expectancy at the show. The industry is upon its toes, after the big things predicted to come. For the first time in years, leaders of the industry—presidents of a majority of the big automobile concerns—were at Chicago. They didn't remain at their hotel, either, but were on the show floor actively interested in sales tactics and public acceptance.

Wherever a new car was displayed, there were crowds about it in the Coliseum, at the auxiliary shows, in the hotel lobbies and even on the streets. Comments showed how quick the public is to appreciate improvement in car-building.

Every important hotel lobby housed an exhibit of one or more makes of cars, attractively displayed. Besides these, the Ford Motor Co. held its usual independent exhibit at the armory of the 107th Regiment. The carefully kept up interest in Ford's new

TRIBULATIONS OF AN AUTO SHOW MANAGER

Capt. Lee Recalls Interesting Experiences Since First Exhibit in 1907.

By CAPT. ROBERT E. LEE, Manager, St. Louis Automobile Show and President National Automobile Show Managers' Association.

While it is the boast of all automobile show managers, and we have 24 of them in our national organization, that our particular Automobile Show is the most dignified of all exhibitions, yet there is a good deal of humor connected with its many trials, tribulations and problems. The St. Louis Show, which opens Monday, is the twenty-first annual, but actually during the 21 years we have had 26 shows, there having been held five fall shows during that period.

Just as humorous as anything else connected with an automobile show is the lack of conception that many people have of the amount of space required for an exhibition of motor cars. Hundreds of times I have been asked why the St. Louis automobile trade does not use the Coliseum for its shows. The answer is easily understood. At the Union Market we use 135,000 square feet of space and the Coliseum would afford us about 25,000 feet of exhibit space.

Every year a new show committee is appointed to work with the manager of an automobile show and the first meeting of the show committee is one of great terror for the show manager. He has cause to fear that someone of the new committee will have radical ideas on showmanship.

Some of them have, too. It is the job of the manager, therefore, either to adopt the good suggestions of members of the show committee or to unsell them on the poor ones.

Some years ago one committee-

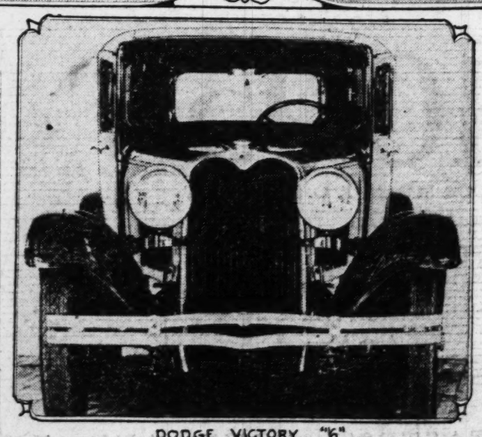
GOLD-PLATED SEDAN A FEATURE OF SHOW

"Honeymoon Special" Exhibitor of 1925 to Show Cinderella's Coach.

Heavily plated with solid gold set off by inlays of mother of pearl, a standard Chandler Royal Eight de luxe sedan, aptly called Cinderella's Golden Coach, is promised as one of the really interesting features of the Automobile Show this week.

The idea of the man who at the 1925 Automobile Show displayed the equally amusing and practical Honeymoon Special, Cinderella's Golden Coach combines beauty and art with that romantic story dear to the heart of every little child, the story of the little waif of other days who fairylike rose from the ashes of poverty to enter the world of riches and every luxury.

The Midstate Motor Co., territorial distributer of Chandler cars and the Wilson Motor Car Co., retail distributer of the same line in St. Louis and county, have charge of the exhibit in point. The idea of displaying the car is credited to Henry Rottersman, president of the former firm.



DODGE VICTORY "6"

The entire body of the Chandler is finished in two shades of solid gold and the belt line around the body is inlaid with genuine mother of pearl, in all producing a striking effect. Radiator shell, lamps, cowl molding, door handles are gold plated, as are the hubs and tire locking rings on the six wire wheels. Fenders, splashers, gas tank, trunk rack and chassis, with other parts, are finished in gold lacquer.

The interior of the car is upholstered with tapestry panels, imported by Rottersman from France, describing the story of Cinderella and her golden coach.

During the Auto Show, Miss Jeanette Rottersman, a Webster Groves high school girl and oldest daughter of Rottersman, will each evening, and after school play the role of Cinderella—a modern one, of course, in a modern coach. She is to be dressed as Cinderella of the story book and will distribute a souvenir booklet which will recall to readers the beautiful fairy

BEAUTIFUL LINES HIDE MANY CHANGES

Greater Power, Speed and Reliability Underlie Sleekness of 1928 Models.

BY THE AUTO EDITOR.

Important improvements in the mechanical details of the new cars are frequently overlooked, it is believed, because public attention is largely concentrated upon such things as more beautiful lines, more artistic color combinations and more luxurious appointments.

With such appealing exteriors to hold the attention of the thousands who inspect the new models, it is small wonder that highly significant changes along mechanical lines have been crowded out of view. But, these changes should be scrutinized by the present motor car owner as well as the prospective purchaser quite as much as the altered outward appearance of the newest creations of the automotive engineer.

Higher Compression.

Higher compression perhaps is the most obvious change. This is a new development to those relatively inexperienced in the ways of the automobile, but to those whose memory goes back to the "old days" it will be seen that the compression of 90 pounds now coming into general use is an idea borrowed from the past. With the new fuels and newer design, however, high compression takes on a new meaning.

Manufacturers are divided on the question of how this compression shall be used. One group simply raises the compression without materially changing the design of the cylinder head. This necessitates the use of special fuel to prevent detonation.

The other group uses redesigned cylinder heads so that high compression results can be obtained with ordinary gasoline. Some of the manufacturers in this group use a patented head which has produced power increases amounting to as much as 40 per cent without increasing bore and stroke. The

BETTER ROADS AID OUTPUT, SAYS OLDS

Reo Chief Delves Into Highway History of the Romans and Greeks.

By R. E. OLDS,
Reo Motor Car Co.

Present-day buyers of cars are expecting a great deal more for their dollar than they hoped to get for that same dollar a decade ago.

The buyer has long since given up the one season or two season idea and expects to keep the car he buys in service considerably more than two years. For one thing, cars do not grow old and sloppy-looking as rapidly as they used to, and the lines do not become obsolete as soon as the designs of days gone by. For this, there are two main reasons. Cars today are built better and the roads over which they run are better roads. Automotive engineers are not entirely responsible for the present happy degree of perfection of cars.

Whereas most of us can remember when scarcely any main highways were of asphalt or concrete, today it is possible to travel thousands of miles at a stretch over well kept, smooth State roads, with scarcely a bad spot. The combination of good cars and good roads has been responsible for the growth of numerous infant industries which would not have existed without them.

Cars that today stand up for several seasons and retain their good looks could not have done it 15 years ago or more when roads were bad.

Some of us, who enjoy the comfort and luxury of riding along smooth, wide asphalted boulevards, undoubtedly are under the impression that the asphalt highway is a comparatively modern invention. As a matter of fact, this type of road dates back to ancient Babylon, and perhaps long before that. Nebuchadnezzar is said to have erected a tablet on a paved highway requesting his subjects to "traverse this street with joy."

In Pompeii today there are remnants of asphalt sidewalk, and it is a matter of record that Pompeii was the first to crown her asphalt streets and raise the center in order to permit drainage.

According to the Highways Information Service research experts, the Roman empire and the early Greeks used slabs of lava in building their roads. The Appian way might have advertised "Lava for Permanence." History, however, says that there was a great gap before paving of European cities came into vogue; the earliest pavement in Central Europe being in Prague in the year 1233. By the end of the fourteenth century, a number of other cities had adopted this style of highway, although up to 1368 Nuremberg had only paths of logs.

Emperor Frederick III, while riding a horse one day in the glorious year 1485 became a front page story when he sunk in the mud up to his neck, and had a narrow escape. Much of the time it was impossible to ride in carriages on these roads, and for centuries it never occurred to the crown, or its subjects, to make any road improvements, as is still true of many vast sections of the globe.

One fault in connection with road building in general, which is noticed in many communities, is that a beautiful highway will be laid, and insufficient funds appropriated for its upkeep. Thousands of miles of good roads have been allowed to deteriorate for the simple reason that as small flaws develop they are not properly repaired, and a small hole in a short time becomes a wide, deep one. Further improvements along this line is merely one of the millennium-like things to which we may look forward.

In the early days of the industry the Reo Motor Car Co. was among the pioneers who battled for good roads. In the Glidden tours, which in their time did much to agitate good road building as well as to develop better cars, Reo was a consistent entrant. Now that countries of both hemispheres are talking about building transcontinental highways many thousands of miles in length, doubtless the motor car will have its field of activity increased in many countries and territories and become a still greater civilizer.

BRODHEAD CO. NEW LINCOLN DEALER HERE

Former East Side Ford Firm Takes Over Franchise of W. H. Owen Co.

Appointment of John Brodhead, former Ford dealer in East St. Louis, and his associates, as exclusive Lincoln dealer in the St. Louis territory to succeed the W. H. Owen Co., was announced yesterday by the St. Louis factory branch of the Ford Motor Car Co. The Owen Co., has given up its Lincoln franchise held since 1924, and will return to the Ford ranks as a dealer. The company is to be temporarily located at 1618-20 Tower Grove avenue, while a new sales and service building in that vicinity is being erected. Owen originally was a Ford dealer.

The Brodhead Co. has taken over the building at 3333 Washington avenue, formerly occupied by the Owen Co. Extensive plans have been put under way by the firm to enlarge the building and to increase its facilities, according to Brodhead. The Lincoln service and sales personnel, which operated under Owen, will continue with the Brodhead Co. Roy F. Kenney, manager for Owen, will continue in the same capacity with the new dealer.

The maintenance department of the Brodhead Co., will be in charge of Eugene A. Weber, well-known in St. Louis and National automotive circles.

John Brodhead is to be president of the firm, R. W. Dittman, formerly vice president of the George F. Dittman Shoe Co., Arthur S. Kendall, vice president of the Crunden-Martin Manufacturing Co., and J. H. Farish of the J. H. Farish Co., are to be associated with him in the business. Only Dittman is to be active, however.

HOW THE VELIE HAS DEVELOPED

Veteran Buggy Manufacturer Started Making Automobiles in 1908.

By JACK HAZELRIGG,
President Laclede Motor Co.,
Velie Distributors.

Twenty-seven years ago W. L. Velie, seeing the future of a business which catered to so vital a factor in human existence, transportation, organized a company to manufacture buggies, surreys, coaches and like means of transportation. Velie's aim was to build the best buggy possible for the money. How well he succeeded is evidenced by the enviable reputation he created in the buggy business. In fact, if you should travel in the farm sections of Illinois, Indiana, Missouri and elsewhere you will come across a number of buggies manufactured by Velie a quarter of a century ago.

In 1908, Velie, foreseeing the need of a faster and more economical means of transportation, organized at Moline, Ill., the Velie Motors Corporation, for the purpose of manufacturing automobiles, an industry which at that time was in its infancy. The same high standards of workmanship which had won for Velie his reputation in the manufacture of buggies, was continued in the new company. Velie still had one definite object in view—to build the best automobile possible for the money. For 20 years this policy has been maintained. During this entire time the company has had the same man at its head and has never reorganized.

Made Trucks During War.

Under the guidance of Velie, the company expanded to include the manufacture of trucks and trailers. Its success in this field won Government recognition and when the United States entered the World war, the factory used its entire facilities for the production of trucks for the United States and British armies. At the close of the war, the Velie Motor Corporation was presented by the United States Government with a medal and certificate in recognition of the service rendered during the war.

After the war, Velie continued the production of automobiles under a slightly different policy than before. Manufacturing space had increased to almost a million square feet and it was possible to begin the manufacture of all the units and parts which went into the Velie automobile, assuring more uniform quality and workmanship.

Low Labor Cost.

The location of the factory is very advantageous, both as to availability of raw material and transportation of its finished product. Also, the labor situation has been very favorable. A great number of people of thrifty European stock settled in Moline and these types have proved to be excellent mechanics and workmen. With the help of Velie the workmen were able to purchase their own homes and thus have reduced their costs of living. As a result Velie has been able to hold down his cost of labor so that he has a much lower labor cost than factories located at Detroit and other important automobile centers. Velie's average cost of labor is only 41c an hour. This exceptionally low labor cost is one of the important factors in his ability to produce a quality car such as he is making at so low a price.

Velie builds his own motor, axles, fenders, running boards, and also has his own complete body shop capable of turning out 15 cars a day.

The precision and care that are used in building the Velie automobile assures the owner of a long life car and a minimum cost of repairs. This is attested to by the fact that 62 per cent of all the Velie automobiles built in 20 years are still in service.

The top floor will be divided between passenger cars and the accessory exhibits and shop equipment exhibits. On this floor the passenger cars to be displayed will include the Cadillac, La Salle, Lincoln, Stutz, Packard, Franklin, Rolls-Royce, Reo, Pierce-Arrow Stearns-Knight and the Buick.

Shop Equipment.

The shop equipment exhibit is to be a completely fitted up repair shop in the north end of the top floor. Six of the St. Louis accessory jobbing houses, Beck & Corbitt Co., Campbell Iron Co., Fred Campbell Auto Supply Co., Fleer-Petty Auto Supply Co., Geller, Ward & Hasner Hardware Co. and Sligo Iron Store Co., have installed this display and will have in operation the automotive equipment lines of 26 manufacturers.

Immediately adjoining this exhibit will be the long line of accessory displays which will extend also along the east side of the floor.

A striking feature of the automobile show this time will be the showing of two Ryan airplanes by the Von Hoffmann Aircraft Co. One of these planes is an exact duplicate of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis and should prove of tremendous interest to the thousands who have never had an opportunity of getting a "close-up" of the Lindbergh plane. This exhibit will be at the east end of the top floor of the automobile show.

A novel display is promised for the Chandler exhibit. These will be a coupe finished in solid 14-carat gold, with a border around the body of real mother of pearl. The interior of this coupe will be hung with real tapestries. This is to be known as Cinderella's Golden Coach.

Open All Week.

The automobile show, as related, will open tomorrow at 11 a. m. and will be in session each day from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m. until it closes next Saturday night, Feb. 11. Concerts by Walter Weber's auto show orchestra will be at 2 o'clock and at 8 o'clock each day. A restaurant and soft drink parlor is to be operated for those who care to spend the day at the show.

There will be no outside exhibits of cars at hotels or other places here other than at the show. A large attendance of visitors from the territory around St. Louis is anticipated and particular preparations have been made for the reception of an enormous number of automobile dealers and garage men from out-State.

The entrance to the show will be at the corner of Broadway and Lucas avenue, and runs up a gradual incline to the first floor, where the box office is to be located. On this, the first floor of the show, will be displayed a number of important passenger cars, such as the Chevrolet, Chrysler, Oakland, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Star, Durant, Studebaker and Velie. Around the outer walls are to be displayed the various makes of motor trucks and light delivery cars, tractors and two exhibits of special bodies. A novel exhibit will be the new light city delivery vehicle, the Pak-Age-Car, which looks like a milk wagon and is powered with a two-cylinder engine, of 4.5 horse-power.

On the second floor of the show cars priced from $1000 to $2000 will be displayed. Included are such cars as the Jordan, Auburn,

The VICTORY SIX

Dodge Brothers New Popular Priced Six Proves Sensational Success ~ ~ Millions Flock to See "The Only Car of its Kind in the World"

Rarely in history has equal public interest featured the announcement of a new motor car.

Since the newspapers and the radio carried the news of The Victory Six into every corner of America, literally millions have inspected Dodge Brothers latest and greatest achievement. Sales, indeed, surpass even the well-remembered reception of Dodge Brothers first motor car, announced in 1914.

There are many impressive reasons for The Victory's instant and spectacular success.

In the first place, the public has discovered for itself that Dodge Brothers announcements, with characteristic reserve, have adhered rigidly to the facts—unprecedented as these facts actually are.

Motorists have found that The Victory IS radically "unlike any other motor car in the world"—HAS introduced more engineering features that are new, and revolutionary and better than any other motor car in a generation—

That the effect of these new principles on performance, comfort and beauty IS astonishing—

That The Victory WILL deliver 21 miles per gallon at 25 miles per hour—WILL travel rough roads at high speed with amazing smoothness—WILL turn sharp corners without the customary sidesway and skidding—WILL leap swiftly ahead of others in traffic.

Quite as important as all this, they have also found that The Victory Six is big inside—remarkably roomy.

Body and chassis built as a single unit, has eliminated the customary body sill, thus lowering the over-all lines with an actual increase in passenger space.

Compare the head-room with any other up-to-date car in its class, and you will find that The Victory equals or surpasses them all; that the seats are wider; that there is more leg-room and space behind the wheel.

Observe also that while 330 body parts and 175 pounds are eliminated by the new construction, The Victory has double steel safety walls (like a battleship)—one of the most significant advances in body design since the invention of the motor car.

CHEVROLET PLANS FOR BIGGEST YEAR

President Knudsen Predicts Unusual Activity in Small Car Field.

By W. S. KNUDSEN,
President, Chevrolet Motor Co.

Promising to lead the way to the greatest year the country has ever known, the automobile business in 1928 should see the biggest of its many big years. Abundant evidence of new prosperity that seems to be in store for the world's greatest industry is noted on all sides.

However, in any commentary on the probable business fortunes it should be borne in mind that forecasts are sometimes misleading and often rendered empty by events beyond view at the time. But, facts in hand, opinions of leaders in various phases of endeavor and general enthusiasm over the outlook combine to provide a measure of confidence over business prospects, not always available at this time of the year.

Leaders in all branches of business are keenly optimistic over the outlook for 1928. Bankers, builders, economists and manufacturers in various fields are preparing for a bigger year and pointing at the same time to the motor car industry as the brightest of beacon lights showing the way to new business levels.

Record Predicted.

Forecasts for the prosperity of general business are buttressed on established facts. There is little, if any, inflation anywhere. On the other hand there is an abundance of credit and great farm purchasing power. All branches of agriculture, cotton, grain and dairy products enjoyed an exceptional year in 1927 and as a result should account for even more buying volume this year. With factory wheels again spinning at a rapid rate, industrial centers should feel the urge of prosperity.

Narrowing down to the automobile industry, leaders in and out of the motor car business generally agree that 1928 production and sales figures should set an annual record. Production for the year is variously estimated between 4,500,000 and 5,000,000 units, with some of our foremost authorities and leaders in the industry choosing the higher figure.

While I am not inclined to favor a definite figure, I am quite confident that when we are in a position to review the record of the current year we shall find it has been the largest and most profitable in the history of the automobile business.

Four Reasons for Activity.

Aside from the added trade activity that promises to be prevalent during the year, four factors immediately concerning the automobile business, seem to me to indicate beyond a reasonable doubt that the industry is invading its greatest year.

1. The replacement market, which should be the greatest in the history of the industry.
2. The two-car family, a trend that started several years ago and was first generally recognized as an important sales factor in 1926.
3. The extended use of smaller cars for commercial purposes.
4. Increased export sales of American cars as a result of the readjustment of business conditions and economic affairs abroad.

Better Small Cars.

Business in the low price field should be particularly active. Volume production in this range is making it possible for the manufacturer to provide greater style and comfort, thereby attracting a type of buyer hitherto uninterested in a car of this class. Speeds are being increased and other advantages built in to the extent that the lower priced car this year vies with any on the road except in the points of size and luxury, and of course, the necessary performance, to accommodate the additional weight.

The bearing that the automobile business has on other industries may be appreciated from the following facts. It ranks first among the manufacturing industries of the country in value of its annual output and uses 11 per cent of the hard wood lumber; 13 per cent of the copper; 14 per cent of the iron and steel; 14 per cent of the lead; 21 per cent of the tin; 25 per cent of the aluminum; 28 per cent of the nickel; 50 per cent of the plate glass; 62 per cent of the leather upholstery; 83 per cent of the rubber; while 80 per cent of the gasoline is consumed by motorists.

We at the Chevrolet Motor Co. are preparing for our biggest year. Plans already in motion for the year contemplate the production of more than 1,000,000 units, several thousand in excess of the 1927 record. Our factory and sales organizations are better equipped than ever and as a result of the spectacular reception accorded the "Bigger and Better" Chevrolet, we have every reason to look forward to our greatest year in 1928.

Another manufacturer has added the welcome feature of prevention of cylinder wall scoring during cold weather starting. Like the car offered with this plan earlier, the latest product is so designed that when the engine is started oil is shot into the cylinders. This action is controlled by the choke rather than by the starter pedal in the latest car to use the feature.

Springs no longer are flat, and special alloys are being used in the metal of the leaves. Flat springs are regarded as excellent when a car is new, but if the devices have more of an arch in them to start with, spring life will be longer and average riding qualities improved.

Longer Springs.

Springs are longer, but there is a tendency to use fewer leaves in the front ones. This is due to difficulties connected with front wheel shimmy. There is more of a camber effect in the mounting of the front springs, another factor assisting in preventing shimmy. Camber is the curving effect of the spring plane with respect to the horizontal line of the axle.

One of the unfortunate developments is the slowing up of progress in the rectifying of engine oil. It is known that if the oil is taken out of the crankcase and boiled it can be rid of the diluent and kept serviceable. Such devices are in use on several makes. But one of the pioneers in the development was forced to give it up because owners would not give the device the slight attention it needed. Owners had been accustomed to draining oil every 500 miles, adding no oil while on the road. With the rectifier, oil draining was not necessary except every 2500 or more miles, but many motorists forget to add oil in between.

TRIBULATIONS OF AN AUTO SHOW MANAGER RELATED BY VETERAN

man insisted upon having a brass band on each of the two floors of the show. The result was that every exhibitor there wanted to hang the show manager after the show opened because the noise of resounding cymbal and tinkling brass was so deafening that it was impossible to sell or even talk motor cars.

Another committeeman insisted on having all sorts of vaudeville acts roaming about the show. He was strong enough with his confreres to put the idea over, with the result that there were clowns and singers and acrobats and contortionists in all the aisles at all times of the day and evening, and the attention of the visitors to the show was so attracted by these vaudeville acts that the motor cars were lost sight of.

In one of the automobile shows in another city a new and untried show committee persuaded the manager to put on a style show every night and every afternoon. The result was a greatly enjoyed display of femininity and fashions, but the motor cars were again lost sight of.

"The Car's the Thing."

Wisdom comes with experience as well as with age, and we have now learned that people go to automobile shows to see automobiles and not to be amused. If they want to be amused they can go to theaters and see the very best talent, which would not be true at an automobile show. They want to look at motor car models and styles and improvements and changes and colors and upholstery, and they do not want to be bothered by vaudeville acts nor brass bands.

Visitors to the automobile show in any city this year will hear hardly any music. There will be an orchestra at the front door to put the visitors into the carnival spirit, but after that "the car's the thing."

We have had a lot of fun in St. Louis finding places to hold our automobile show. We sarted with the Jai Alai Building, on De Baliviere avenue, way back in 1907. Then we held two shows at the Coliseum. At the Jai Alai Building we used to show all makes of cars represented in St. Louis on about 18,000 square feet of space. This year, at the Union Market, we will use 135,000 square feet of space. These figures clearly indicate the monstrous growth of the motor car industry.

In 1910 we held our show at the Armory of the 138th Infantry at Grand avenue and Market street, and what we did to that armory was a caution. I left behind there a very excellent band stand built over the main entrance, now being used as a visitors' gallery. That was the only constructive thing we did, for we had to tear our entire doorways and take down pillars so as to get seven-foot wide automobiles through five-foot doors into the company rooms and officers' quarters. However, we nailed it all back again better than we found it.

Highlands Used for Six Years.

By some magic of the decorators' art we managed to make Forest Park Highlands look like an Automobile Show for six years consecutively. We spent many hundreds dollars on the pavilion but we found it necessary to hold our shows the first week in October each year because it would have been impossible for us to heat of dollars decorating that outdoor all of Forest Park.

The Overland Building used by us for an automobile show before it was turned over to the Willys-Overland, Inc., is ideal for an automobile establishment but not for an automobile show. The first night people got so jammed on the narrow stairways on all the floors that it required an hour or more to disentangle them. On the opening night one of the immense elevators, holding 30 people, was stuck between floors for 30 minutes. I was on the elevator and kept the women from screaming and the men from swearing by telling them alleged funny stories.

The Southern Hotel was our toughest problem. We used that in 1918, 1919 and 1920. To get into the various dining rooms and trunk rooms and offices with our cars it was necessary not only to take out the door sills but in some instances to knock the brick out all around. This we had to replace "as was."

We rented the building the first year from a promoter named Schutt, who had leased it from the Allen estate, and he found himself unable to pay the laborers who were putting down concrete and doing carpenter work and other work preparatory to turning it over to us. The result was that Monday afternoon, just before the show was to open, these carpenters and concrete men served notice that they would either have their money or would stop work. Of course, we could not blame them for this but it put us in the position that we had to advance $5000 to pay them, although we had already paid our rent of $6500 to the promoter. I still have the written evidence, a note, in my desk for this $5000 made payable to the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association. It is not carried as one of our assets.

"Mental Drunks" Recalled.

We discovered a funny thing about the Southern Hotel as we did our work of transforming it into a show building and that was that all of the lower floors and many of the upper floors were reinforced by old railroad rails that had come off, as we were told, the Iron Mountain Railroad when it was a narrow gauge road and used to give solid construction to the Southern Hotel by Thomas H. Allen, who was owner of the building and who had been, I think, president of the Iron Mountain.

STYLE IS THE MAGNET THAT draws
the crowds to NASH

LONG after your visit to the Motor Show you'll remember the style and luxury of the Nash group of fine motor cars. There is beauty and quality in coach-work by Nash certain to make you conscious of its fine character.

The color harmonies will strike you as exceptionally charming. Notice their depth and brilliancy. They are applied by the Nash deep-lustre process—an epochal accomplishment in motor car finish.

Notice the quality in Nash upholsterings—and their wide range of attractive hues—striking two-toned effects in black and mauve, smoke, taupe, turquoise, Baltic Green and many others. These fabrics are chosen from the looms of America's finest textile originators.

Notice, also, the liberal use of straight-grained and knurled walnut and walnut finish paneling—the steering wheels done in solid walnut with their attractive inlaid design—the comfort and luxury of Nash form-fitted seats, tufted and deep buttoned in the European manner. Authentic period patterns for the silvered interiorware add still another touch of style. Every detail is correct.

And furthermore, you'll be amazed at the new reduced prices on these fine cars. It is very difficult to realize that so highly desirable a motor car can be purchased so reasonably. (These sensational Nash price reductions became effective February 1.)

DODGE TO SPEED VICTORY OUTPUT

New Model Put Through 1,000,000 Miles of Tests Before Being Announced.

Due to the volume of Victory Six orders, received since Jan. 5, when this latest Dodge Brothers product was announced, it is estimated by factory officials that a large percentage of the passenger car production during the year will be the Victory models. Plans for 1928 also include an increase in the production of Standard Four equipped with four-wheel brakes and a larger production of Senior Sixes.

In the truck division, due to the fact that Graham Brothers has just completed the most prosperous year in its history, building of trucks and commercial cars in five capacities will continue. The line consists of four and six cylinder motor coaches, commercial cars and trucks of 2-ton; 1½-ton; 1-ton; ¾-ton and ½-ton capacities.

More than a year and a half was required to perfect the Victory Six. Grilling tests during which approximately 1,000,000 miles were rolled up by engineers in both experimental and actual-production models preceded the formal announcement of the Victory. One of the test cars on durability runs was kept going on the highways until its speedometer showed over 100,000 miles; speed performances on the Indianapolis track demonstrated that the car was capable of maintaining nearly 70 miles an hour as an average in thousand-mile grinds.

For months preliminary to the formal announcement, Victory Six models have been subjected to all sorts and conditions of roadwork in all parts of the United States; their drivers taking them 14,000 feet up mountains and far below sea level on western deserts.

Here is the coupe model of the new Dodge Victory Six line.

Dodge Victory 6 "A Car That Can't Be Overset"

Editor's Note: This article, which appeared in these columns Sunday, Jan. 22, is reprinted verbatim, because of the really unique feats performed by the Dodge Brothers Victory Six car in the test which it describes.

"The car that can't 'overset' should be a companion slogan to 'The best car in the world,' now used to characterize the new Dodge Victory six-cylinder car, announced by the Tate Motor Car Co., Dodge distributer here, several weeks ago.

"The car will not overset, it was effectually demonstrated several days ago to a reporter of this section on a test trip through St. Louis County. Accompanying the reporter on this test trip was Harry J. Hesse of the Tate Motor Car Co. sales staff, who acted as driver. The car used was a brougham model.

What It Will Do.

"Here are a few things the new Dodge Victory six-cylinder car is capable of: It turns completely in an area of 19 feet, it can be steered around a corner at 40 m. p. h. without the slightest sidesway; it was driven in a complete circle within the 30-foot confines of a county road at a speed of 35 m. p. h., and remained on all four wheels; it reached a speed of greater than 65 m. p. h. against strong headwinds, and it climbed an eight-mile, 14 per cent grade hill in high, beginning at the base at 3 m. p. h. and reaching the peak at 18 m. p. h.

"The answer to its surprisingly safe turning ability is vested in its almost perfect leverage and the battleship type of construction of body and chassis. The body of the new Victory Six, as stated in these columns some weeks ago, sets not on the chassis but lays over it on each side, flush with the frame and bolted thereto. This not only gives the car a low center of gravity—placing all the weight close to the ground—but also permits a lower over-all height without sacrifice of headroom or road clearance. And it is well to state here that there are only eight major parts in the body of this new car, and they are welded into a single unit. There is not a single joint to squeak or rattle.

"This new Victory Six is a companion car to the Dodge Senior Six, and embodies the same principle of engine design as the higher-priced car, though of course on a smaller basis. The power plant develops 52 h. p. at 3000 r. p. m. and has a bore and stroke of 3⅛x3⅝ inches, respectively. The gear ratio is 4.45 to 1.

"The car also has a smaller wheelbase than the Senior Six, it being 112 inches."

$75,000,000 Cuban Road.

The largest road-building project ever undertaken, representing an investment of $75,000,000 and employing 5000 men, has been started in Cuba. Bisecting the island, the new roadway will extend 700 miles. In length it will double the historic Appian Way laid down in Italy 2000 years ago.

NOT ONLY A STRIKINGLY NEW CAR, BUT, MORE IMPORTANT,

A New

PIERCE-ARROW!

THERE is a new car by Pierce-Arrow. An event sufficiently infrequent to never risk staleness, it has a particular brilliance today. For which there are several excellent reasons:

First, it is the most strikingly new car at the Show.

Again, there has never been a car which so rarely combines Continental ideas of beauty with American ideals of quality and value.

Finally—gloriously youthful addition to a distinguished line that it is—it is first and last a Pierce-Arrow. And that is the highest tribute ever paid an automobile.

Here, briefly, are the most immediately observable changes in the new car, so far as externals are concerned:

The bodies are gracefully low-swung. The lines and colorings are new and ultra-modish. The fenders suggest airplane wings. The roofs are visored.

Also the radiator is much deeper, and there is a streamlined rear apron which masks the running gear completely and beautifully.

The new car has the famous fender headlamps which are so distinguishingly Pierce-Arrow, or, as optional equipment, the bracket type of headlamps.

As to performance: Conservative engineers say that the new Pierce-Arrow is smoother at top speed than most cars of equal power traveling half as fast. Due in part to a lower center of gravity—insuring greater safety.

And perfected distribution of weight, scientific springing, and Houdaille shock absorbers, combine to yield riding qualities of such luxury as to be a revelation —even in a Pierce-Arrow.

You may purchase a Pierce-Arrow out of income, if you prefer. A simplified financing plan makes this a most practical procedure. Your present car accepted as cash up to the full amount of its appraisal valuation.

Five New Models

By material reductions on all La Salle models the Cadillac Motor Car Company now opens the door wide enough to admit to ownership thousands of people who have inspected the La Salle, longed to possess it, but up to this time felt obliged to deprive themselves of that pleasure.

At $2350 the La Salle Sedan, an ideal car for the family or the individual, is, of course, something to marvel at. As are all the other La Salle models at their reduced prices. When you inspect this Cadillac designed and Cadillac built car—when you observe the beauty that has created a veritable vogue—when you recall that its heavy-duty, 90-degree, V-type, eight-cylinder engine, both at the General Motors Proving Ground and in the hands of owners, has demonstrated an inexhaustible capacity for the severest service—then the full measure of this opportunity is brought home to you.

The La Salle line, unusually complete with the addition of five new types, is—at these lower prices—one of those industrial miracles that only a Cadillac, sharing General Motors prosperity as well as its manufacturing resources, could create. And in this instance it had the enthusiastic assistance of 15,000 buyers to help make it possible.

Enjoy the prestige and satisfaction of La Salle now! Only a small outlay is required. Appraisal value of your present car acceptable as cash. The balance payable in terms to suit your convenience.

The La Salle is manufactured completely by the Cadillac Motor Car Company within its own plants.

The Landau Sedan with Sport Equipment, $1375
Body by Fisher

More Style · More Size · More Comfort than you could ever buy at the price

— combined with the impressive performance assured by All-American design

Facts! They count for everything in buying automobiles. Facts about size . . . comfort . . . style. About power, snap and speed. About ruggedness and ability to withstand wear.

And facts account for the success of the All-American Six. Facts found in comparisons with everything else in its field. In dimensions . . . performance . . . features that other cars do not provide. In the roominess, style and luxury it offers at a most unusual price.

Start with its wheelbase . . . point number one in favor of this big, impressive six. Fully 117 inches long with long flexible springs and tires generously oversize. Giving all the riding ease of far more expensive cars.

Next come its Fisher bodies . . . exclusive to Oakland in Oakland's class. Beautiful, low and smart, of course. But even more than that . . . roomy, deeply upholstered, luxurious as well. Designed for an evening's ride or a summer tour. Built for full-grown men who like to stretch their legs.

Then, there's its big, husky brute of an engine . . . a marvel of simple, uncluttered design. With 212 cubic inches displacement . . . 79-pound crankshaft . . . harmonic balancer . . . interchangeable bronze-backed bearings . . . full-pressure oiling . . . gasoline pump instead of vacuum system . . . and the famous GMR cylinder head.

A big, self-ventilating, self-adjusting clutch . . . smooth-shifting transmission . . . deep, rugged, rigidly-braced frame . . . positive, velvet-action four-wheel brakes. Look for these features in other cars of equal price, if you like. But don't expect to find them anywhere except in the All-American Six.

And with them comes a new order of performance . . . the result of All-American design. Speed . . . power . . . change of pace. The smoothness of a monoplane. The silence of a bird in flight.

Here, truly, is value without equal in its entire field. See the car that offers such overwhelming advantages . . . the All-American Six. See it at the Automobile Show . . . or at any of the dealers' showrooms listed here.

W. P. CHRYSLER VIEWS 1928 WITH OPTIMISM

Prosperity Will Continue — Business on Conservative Basis, He Says.

Prosperity in the United States will continue in the opinion of Walter P. Chrysler, president and chairman of the board of directors of Chrysler Sales Corporation.

"There is plenty of evidence that business is fundamentally sound and upon a conservative basis," Chrysler said recently. "Shortages for some time have developed in a number of important industries and this must be interpreted to mean that production must resume. I am confident there is an accumulation of orders which is being released, and which will greatly stimulate the automobile business generally.

General Improvement.

"As business improves for the automobile industry, business will also improve for the steel industry, the railroad industry and the building industry. The automobile industry is not only the largest of all, based on wholesale value of product, but it also is a tremendous buyer of raw materials. And appreciate what the industry means to the steel industry, the railroad industry, the petroleum industry and the rubber industry.

"I don't want to convey the impression that 1927 has not been a good year for the automotive industry. The contrary is true. Taking the average retail deliveries of all makes of automobiles, including Ford, for the first nine months of the last five years, 1923 to 1927, inclusive as a basis, the deliveries for the first nine months of 1927 have been 92.1 per cent of the average compared with 113 per cent for 1926; 99.77 per cent for 1925; 90.8 per cent for 1924 and 102.3 per cent for 1923. It will be observed that the retail deliveries of automobiles in the United States during the past five years have fluctuated between 9.2 per cent below average to 13 per cent above average. The idea that the automobile industry is highly volatile is a popular misconception and the relative stability of the automobile industry as indicated by these figures will compare favorably with any large industry in the country.

"The decrease in the volume of automobiles purchased this year has been contributed to substantially by the temporary withdrawal of Ford cars from the market.

Election Effect.

"There are some people who view 1928 with uneasiness because the coming year is to be presidential year. To me this is curious. Well do I appreciate that economic reactions have been experienced during presidential years, but for the life of me I can find no economic justification for such changes. There is no good reason why a presidential year should have any influence on business. And I for one don't believe it will have any influence during the coming year.

"When one takes a glance into the future and tries to determine what the months ahead have in store for business one must remember that our credit supply is so great and so flexibly available, and the Federal Reserve System is being conducted so efficiently and functions so smoothly, that there is little possibility of depression. The day of the wide swing away from prosperity is over. Then, too, our banks are stronger than they ever were. American industry is in possession of cash and quickly negotiable securities far in excess of those held in former years. Our credit structure is in a healthy condition.

"We in the automobile industry have experienced a good year. Export business is becoming more and more important. We look forward to the time when American companies will be exporting a million cars to countries all over the world.

"American business should gain satisfaction out of the fact that it can look back upon a year of good business and can look ahead with confidence. I look for a very good year in 1928."

line was unmistakeably shown by the crowds which surrounded the exhibit here. Ford has an unquestioned hold on the loyalty of a very large part of the public, not entirely confined to present and prospective Ford owners and dealers.

Auxiliary formal showings included that of General Motors in the Hotel Stevens, where 90 cars and trucks were displayed to advantage and where the show space was crowded continually. The showing marked the occasion of the corporation's first comprehensive public display of its line, outside of its permanent exhibit at Atlantic City.

Chrysler had an additional showing at the Congress. Dodge put on an attractive exhibit near the Coliseum on Wabash avenue and there were two excellent displays of Hudson and Essex cars on Michigan avenue. Willys-Overland's showing at the Palmer House attracted crowds, for the lines are full of present interest, and Graham-Paige was a center of interest at the Blackstone.

At the Drake the thirteenth annual salon was open for eight days, and up to the time it closed last night the show space was comfortably filled with visitors who found that the American custom car has nothing to fear in competition with the finest that European makers have to offer.

CHRYSLER CHIEF

WALTER P. CHRYSLER.

40 BODY STYLES BUILT BY CHRYSLER

"A Type and Price to Fit Every Motoring Need," Is Slogan.

Chrysler cars, distributed in St. Louis by Midwest Motors, Inc., include "a typee and price to fit every motoring need," says L. M. Stewart, president of the local firm.

Forty body types, including 15 custom-built creations for its "72" and 112 horsepower Imperial "80," are offered on four different chassis. Factory prices range from $670 to $6795. Similar appearance, mechanical performance and equipment features are noted in each model.

Body styles of each of the four lines of Chryslers are on display at the Automobile Show.

"The name Chrysler today immediately brings to the public mind certain definite thoughts," points out Stewart. "Perhaps the first is the remarkable performance that has been an outstanding characteristic of every car. A second thought is its pleasing appearance. Following these are reactions which include its long life and durability, tremendous pick-up, power and flexibility, ease of control and remarkable riding comfort.

Number of Improvements.

"The tremendous pick-up, power and flexibility of earlier Chryslers is made even greater for 1928 by the 'Red Head' engine. This engine is standard for a number of our body styles and available at slightly extra cost, for every other car we build. Not only does it increase general operating efficiency, but aids in faster speed, acceleration and greater hill climbing ability."

Since the 1927 shows, rubber spring mountings and engine supports—first designed exclusively for the Imperial "80"—have been adopted for the "72" and "62." Saddle spring cushions now also are found in every Chrysler. New type safety locks have been added.

Heading the Chrysler 1928 line is the new 112 horsepower Imperial "80," announced only a few weeks ago. Longer than its predecessor, its increased spring length combines with other new features to achieve a luxury of riding comfort.

So well distributed are the innovations throughout the entire model that each of its body types becomes practically an individual custom-tailored creation.

New "72" Has Many Refinements.

The illustrious new "72" has an entirely new and more powerful engine, mounted in rubber at both front and rear; seven-bearing crankshaft, now counter-weighted as in the Imperial "80"; longer chassis, fitted with rubber spring mountings instead of metal spring shackles; five-ring aluminum-alloy pistons with Invar struts, said to constitute one of the most important contributions that has been made in recent years to automobile engine progress; and roomier, more handsome bodies.

New features of the great new Chrysler "62" include rubber spring mountings, a built-in crankcase ventilating system, larger and heavier transmission, aluminum alloy pistons with Invar struts, rubber insulated engine supports, ball and trunnion type universal joints and the adoption of a worm and sector steering gear. The steering column on all "62" cars is adjustable to three positions, as in the "72" and Imperial "80." The front seat in its touring car is adjustable to six positions.

As in its sister models, greater roominess and even more ample seating capacity are attained in the new "52" by the use of longer bodies. Outstanding among the features are its speed of 52 miles and more per hour; its acceleration, seating equipment, beauty of external contour enhanced by color harmonies in the latest styles; saddle spring cushion seats; and an unusual handling ease and economy of operation.

The complete line of cars now produced by the Chrysler Corporation is as follows:

"52"—Coupe; roadster with rumble seat; two-door sedan; four-door sedan; touring; de luxe coupe; de luxe sedan.

"62"—Touring; business coupe; two-door sedan; roadster with rumble seat; coupe with rumble seat; four-door sedan; landau sedan.

"72"—Sport roadster with rumble seat; two-passenger coupe with rumble seat; four-passenger coupe; royal sedan; town sedan; crown sedan; convertible coupe with rumble seat; custom-built town cabriolet.

FRENCH SAFETY INCREASES

Automobile accidents are declining in France, according to L'Ouest-Sportif, published at Le Mans. This paper points out that in some departments the figures show an actual numerical decrease and that in all sections there is a decrease in proportion to registration.

"In 1924," says the paper, "there were 1626 unfortunate victims of automobile accidents, representing .022 per cent of the number of automobiles and motor cycles. In 1926 the 2160 deaths represented .021 per cent, that is to say 1 per cent less in comparison with 1924. In other words the number of fatal accidents is developing less rapidly than the number of vehicles registered." The paper further points out that in the departments of the Sarthe motor fatalities in 1926 totaled seven as compared with eight in 1923, though automobile registration in that section has nearly doubled.

16 MODELS COMPRISE BUICK LINE FOR 1928
5-Passenger Town Brougham Most Luxurious Number of New Cars.

Sixteen models, distributed among three series which are designated by their wheelbase lengths, make up the Buick line for 1928, which is to be seen in its usual location at the show. Vesper Buick Auto Co. is St. Louis and territorial distributer of the line.

There are seven models, designed to meet a wide and varied range of requirements, in series 115. Series 129 includes three models, and series 128 the remaining six.

A new car in the line this year is model 47-S, the five-passenger town brougham of series 129. Its mechanical specifications are identical with those of model 47 but nickeled headlamps and several modifications of body treatment including landau hinges and a special handling of the interior, make luxury the dominant note in this model.

A point about its line on which Buick lays heavy stress is the uniformity of engineering and mechanical detail, as well as of comfort and operating ease throughout the entire line of 16 cars. Difference in wheelbase length, and consequently in weight are the principal distinctions between the cars of series 115 and those of series 128.

Thus the 1928 advances which have resulted in Buick's record shattering sales are, without exception, found throughout series 115 as well as in series 128. Among them are hydraulic shock absorbers, front and rear, in conjunction with redesigned cantilever springs on each model; adjustable steering column, with light controls centralized at its top; redesigned steering wheel to fit small as well as large hands; new double lock on steering column, and wider and deeper windshield for greater safety in driving. All closed models, in every series, have rear seat arm rests.

Other Buick features include the vibrationless six-cylinder valve-in-head engine, with counterbalanced crankshaft, torsion balancer, air cleaner, oil filter, gasoline strainer and vacuum ventilated crankcase; the sealed chassis whereby every moving part, from the fan to the rear wheels, is protected against intrusion of dust, water and grit; Buick mechanical four-wheel brakes; Buick cantilever springs; torque-tube drive, and balanced wheels.

There are seven models, designed to meet a wide and varied range of requirements, in series 118. Series 120 includes three models, and series 128 the remaining six.

A new car in the line this year is model 47-S, the five-passenger town brougham of series 120. Its mechanical specifications are identical with those of model 47, but nickeled headlamps and several modifications of body treatment, including landau hinges and a special handling of the interior, make luxury the dominant note in this model.

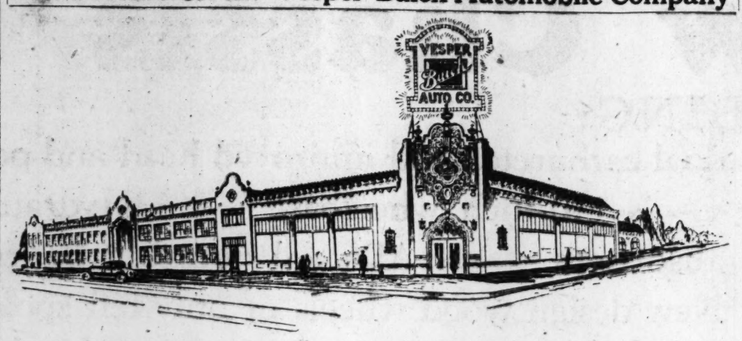
New Home of the Vesper-Buick Automobile Company



This structure, of Spanish design, runs the block on Vandeventer avenue, between West Pine boulevard and Laclede avenue. It is the new sales and service headquarters of the Vesper-Buick Auto Co.

Vast New Vesper-Buick Plant Opened Yesterday

Modern Sales and Service Building Covers Block on Vandeventer Between West Pine and Lindell.

Hundreds of persons thronged the new home of the Vesper-Buick Auto Co., yesterday and last night for the opening of Vesper-Buick's New Home Week, with which the firm is celebrating its latest expansion step. The new building, in conjunction with the maintenance division erected on adjacent property last spring, takes in a whole block on Vandeventer from West Pine to Laclede, and offers complete Buick facilities under one roof.

While the principal motive in planning the new building has been to provide a modern Buick sales and service headquarters for the Vesper-Buick Auto Co., F. W. A. Vesper, the firm's president, stated yesterday the desire to create a genuine addition to the city's architecture also figured prominently. The structure is in Spanish design.

Accessible Departments.

Like the maintenance division, which has been in operation almost a year, the new building is laid out, first of all, for the convenience of the Buick-owning public. All departments with which the public has contact are readily accessible from the street. The parts department, for instance, is reached through a separate door opening on Vandeventer avenue, without climbing stairs or threading devious passageways.

The service receiving department, with its quick service floor, where adjustments and minor repairs are made while the customer waits, are just inside the wide door off Vandeventer avenue, and a comfortable waiting room is provided for the convenience of owners. A parking space for customers' cars is provided on the West Pine boulevard side, between the sidewalk and the building.

The retail showroom, said to be one of the largest in the country, occupies the northeast corner of the new building, at West Pine and Vandeventer. It is 75 by 92 feet in dimensions, permitting a display of 16 cars. All the details of decorations were worked out so as to provide an unobtrusive setting for the Buick line. Walls and columns are finished in plaster of a neutral tint and trimmed with dark oak. Floors are terrazzo, in a vari-colored pattern. Plate glass windows on two sides, supplemented by floodlighting and side and ceiling lights give ample illumination.

Ranged around the retail show room on south and west are the offices of the firm's executives, while above, on a balcony, is the accounting department.

The parts department, which opens directly upon Vandeventer avenue, may also be reached from the south side of the showroom. Its floor dimensions are 75 by 100 feet. Parts are stored in catalogued steel bins, so that any given order may be filled on a moment's notice.

Behind the showroom, along the west side of the new building, is the live storage department, where company cars and new cars awaiting delivery are kept. The new cars receive adjustments, testing and accessory installation on the floor above, where a commodious new car department, with illuminated double wash rack, is provided.

The Firm's History.

The history of the Vesper-Buick Auto Co. parallels closely that of St. Louis itself during the last 14 years. F. W. A. Vesper, who, like President E. T. Strong of the Buick Motor Co., had graduated into the motor car field from the agricultural implement business, and who had already held a high position with Buick, founded the firm in a small building at 3205 Locust street, in June, 1914. A little more than three years later these quarters were outgrown, and the company moved to the building at Grand and Lindell, which at that time was adequate to all its needs. It was believed that this building would answer all needs for many years to come.

Developments in the next few years, however, demonstrated that the motor car's conquest of the world was just nicely under way. Production passed the 2,000,000 mark in 1922, and the 3,000,000 mark in the year after that. Buick was more than holding its own and like other Buick distributers Vesper-Buick was cramped for space. As early as 1921 it had to supplement its space at Grand and Lindell with a maintenance division, situated on the spot now occupied by its new building. Last year this, too, became inadequate and a new maintenance division, the first unit in the present Vesper-Buick home, was erected, on the south end of the Vandeventer avenue block between West Pine and Laclede. Then Vesper proceeded with the plans which have now reached completion.

In the years during which Vesper-Buick registered this steady growth, Vesper has played an increasingly important part in the civic and business life of his city, as well as in the affairs of the automobile industry. He is founder and past president of the National Automobile Dealers' Association, and a past president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, being the first man ever to hold that post two years. During his presidency he furthered the campaign to "Sell St. Louis to St. Louisans," and worked for the $80,000,000 bond issue for civic improvements. The large boards on the side of Vesper-Buick's building at Grand and Lindell were used first to advertise this campaign, and were retained for the firm's business advertising afterward. Mr. Vesper is a director of the National Bank of Commerce, and is a member of the Supervisors' Committee for disposal of the funds obtained under the bond issue. He is a member of various clubs. An expert in the breeding of thoroughbred Holstein-Friesian cattle, he is trying to develop St. Louis as the home of the National Dairy Show, because of its central location.

Associated with Vesper are Walter Vesper, vice president and treasurer, and W. H. Wilcockson, secretary and general manager. Both have had long experience with Buick and are numbered among St. Louis' leading automotive men.

An important Vesper-Buick event, each year, is the annual Christmas party for the firm's employes. The first of these parties, back in 1914, was attended by six persons. More than 100 attended that just past. In the same period, the St. Louis Buick sales organizations. Sales of Buick retail salesman and a sales manager to 100 salesmen, distributed among nine retail Buick sales organizations. Sales of Buick, throughout the Vesper-Buick distributorship area, have consistently led all other cars of more than four cylinders.

Vesper-Buick's New Home Week, which opened yesterday, will last throughout the St. Louis Automobile Show. In addition to music and entertainment features, it will give visitors a chance to view the entire line of 1928 Buick cars. As a special attraction the Buick Rainbow chassis which attracted thousands to the Buick display at the national shows in New York and Chicago will be shipped here from the latter city and be exhibited in the Vesper-Buick showroom all the rest of the week.

See the new, advanced PEERLESS Six-91 at the show

LIKE a choice, rare cameo, this new advanced Peerless stands out in silhouette—rich and distinctive against any background. You can't escape its captivating beauty.

Your eye will be caught by the long, low, flowing lines of the body. You will like the full, sweeping, graceful fenders . . . . the deep, delicate radiator design . . . the wide, hospitable doors . . . the inviting interiors . . . the chaste fittings.

Was ever an automobile more perfectly designed to win the hearts of women today?

And to meet the masculine requirements in a car . . . speed, great power, dependable going for countless thousands of miles.

This new Peerless has been in the making a long, long time. We were ready to announce it only when we knew it possessed a greater value—a more finished performance—a quality beyond expectation.

You'll find this quality instantly obvious when you see the Six-91 at the automobile show. Because even in this day of beautifully finished automobiles, real quality is unmistakable.

Once you've seen the Six-91—once you've ridden in the car, you will realize that here is value far beyond anything indicated by the price.

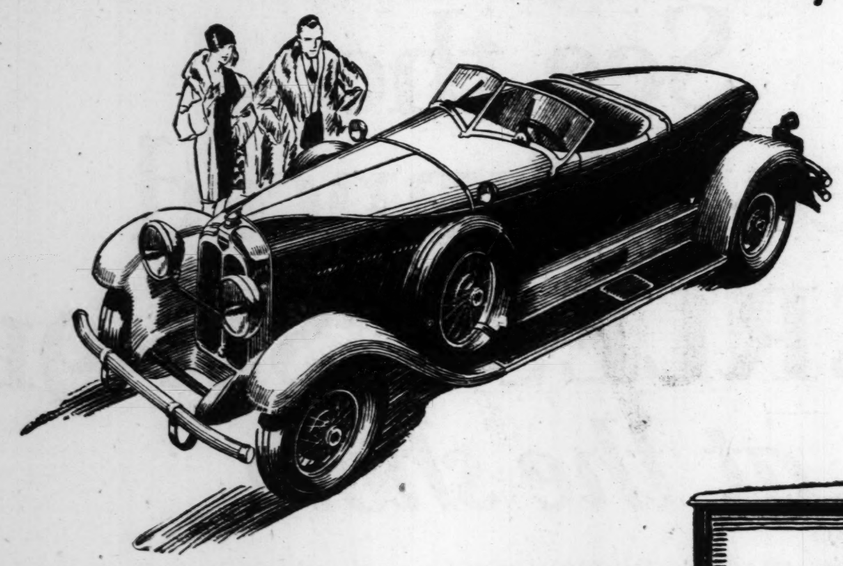
AND—the only new body designs;

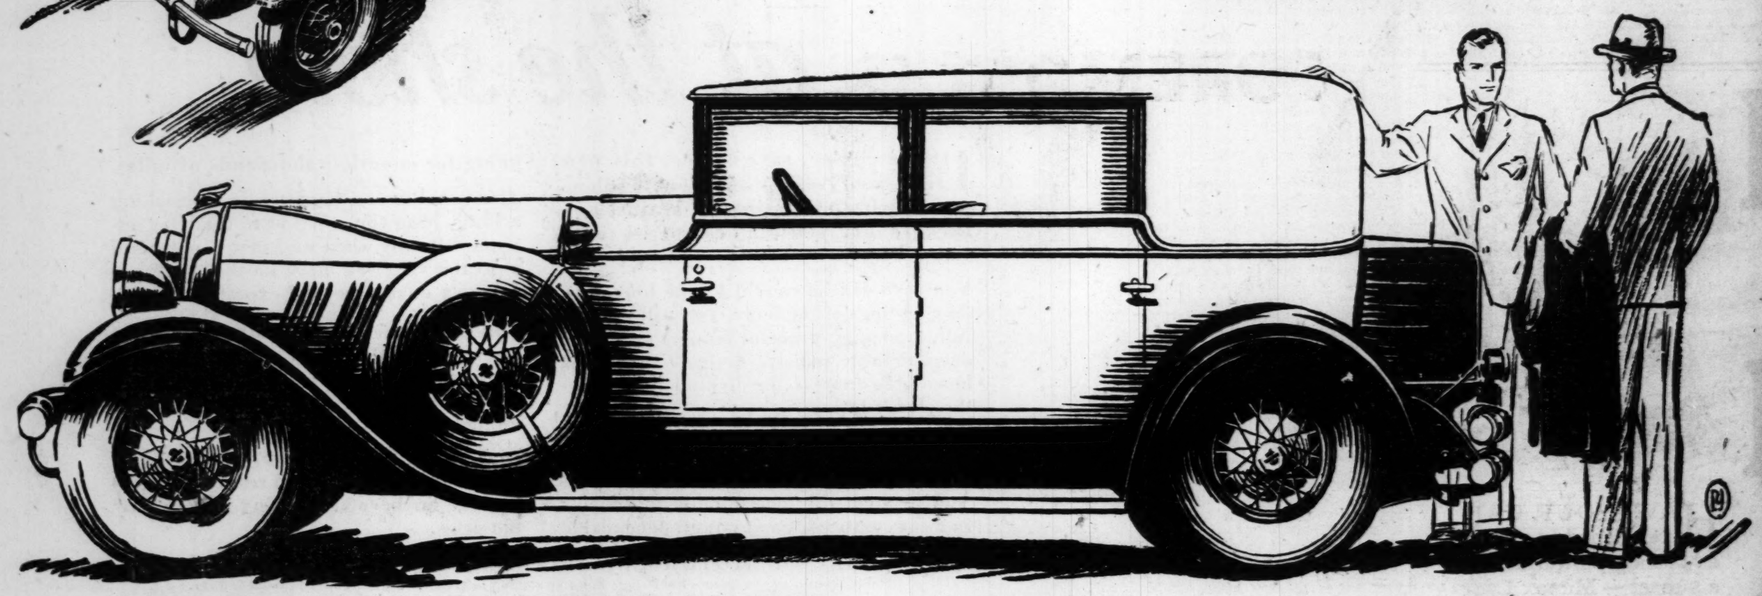


The SPEEDSTER

The Speedster is a distinctly new body design modeled from the famous Duesenberg race cars—a true speedster type. Doors are set at a rakish angle and top disappears completely when not in use. Windshield is of the V type, also set at an angle, offering minimum wind resistance.

The PHAETON SEDAN

The Phaeton Sedan is a new body type heretofore only obtainable on special order from custom coach builders and is just what the name implies—a Sport Touring car easily convertible into a regular sedan.



3½ times as many people bought Auburn cars at the New York Auto Show this year than last.

At Philadelphia 4 times more Auburn sales were made at the Auto Show this year than in 1927.

510% increase in Auburn sales this year over last year at the Buffalo Auto Show.

5¼ times more people bought Auburn cars at the Cleveland Auto Show this year than last year.

In St. Louis we predict a landslide for Auburn this week.

Again Auburn sales will double in 1928 as they have for the past 3 years. The value of the car itself is the reason.

FOREMOST IN Performance

CHRYSLER—offering sensational new values at its sensational new lower prices—is the center of attraction here this week for those who are interested in modern motor car trends.

Four great lines of cars—"52," "62," "72" and New 112 h.p. Imperial "80"—a car and price to suit your needs and means, newly priced from $670 to $3495, f.o.b. Detroit.

Here are Chrysler's extraordinary values, the lowest prices at which Chrysler cars have ever been sold, and the finest cars in the history of Chrysler.

In the brilliant Chrysler exhibits at the Automobile Show, and in our salesrooms, the new and more marvelous Chrysler values will quickly explain Chrysler's advance in the first 42 months of its existence from 27th to 3rd place in sales, as announced at the New York Auto Show—a record unprecedented in even this remarkable industry.

It is clear from the keen interest displayed in the beautiful Chryslers on display here this week, that the preference for Chrysler is accumulating ever greater strength and that the public appreciates the still greater values which Chrysler now provides.

Join the throngs and view the splendid new Chryslers at the Automobile Show or Chrysler salesrooms to see how far Chrysler is foremost in quality, value and smartness. Then, best of all, make arrangement at any of these exhibits for a demonstration to learn by experience just how far Chrysler is foremost in performance.

WHAT QUANTITY PRODUCTION MEANS

President Reuter of Oldsmobile Company Tells How It Has Benefitted All Industry.

BY I. J. REUTER,
President and General Manager, the Oldsmobile Company.

Of all the advantages the automobile has brought to the people, undoubtedly one of the greatest has been the introduction and perfection of quantity production. In fact this one achievement has made possible most of the other advantages, such as universal personal transportation, readjustment of urban life and mobility of business, by bringing the cost of automobiles within the reach of all.

Without quantity production the automobile still would be the "rich man's toy," as it was called a quarter of a century ago. The original cost and expense of upkeep would be so high as to prohibit the ownership of motor cars except by the wealthy. It is doubtful if, under such conditions, the automobile would have attained its present high mechanical efficiency. It requires a large and expanding industry to attract scientific minds to its problems.

The introduction of quantity production has not benefitted its author alone but has made a substantial impression on industry as a whole. Following the success of its use by the automobile industry, quantity production methods have been introduced into many lines of manufacture. Iceless refrigeration, furniture, radios, in fact almost every line of manufacture has adjusted the methods to fit its particular needs, with the result that better merchandise now is being sold at lower prices.

The Human Equation.

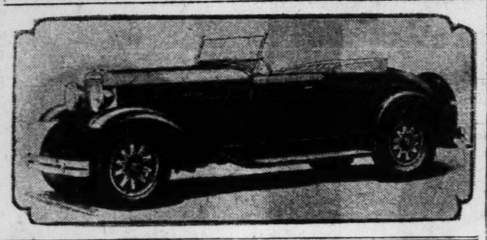
Quantity production has resulted in two outstanding advantages—greater accuracy and lower costs.

Quantity production does more than its name implies. It not only enables the production of merchandise in large quantities at comparatively low cost, but it adds to quality by greatly curtailing that most variable factor, the human equation. To illustrate, it is difficult for an expert to draw free hand a number of lines that are perfectly straight and parallel, but this feat is easily accomplished by an amateur with the use of a ruler. The same applies in the automobile factory where instruments and machines supply the fine dexterity of the expert without deviation.

Historians of the automotive industry credit the introduction of quantity production methods to Oldsmobile early in the present century. At that time the manufacturers and mechanics scoffed at the idea, saying that if each machine was not made as a separate unit it would not run. But thousands of cars were produced, and they ran—in fact some still are running—30 years after their inception.

Broadly, quantity production is a method by which the various component parts of an article are manufactured separately and fed to a production line where the finished article is assembled. This system conserves space, saves time and thousands of wasted steps and operations.

How the New Oldsmobile Six Looks



141 PCT. VELIE EXPORT GAIN

"Many automobile manufacturers, fearing that the unusual prosperity experienced in this country during the past two years is bound to decline, are wisely turning greater and greater attention to export business," says W. L. Velie, president and general manager of the Velie Motors Corporation of Moline, Ill.

"As an example of the increased sale of American cars abroad, let me point to the fact that Velie export sales during the past year have increased 141 per cent over the previous year."

SEVEN JORDAN CARS IN SHOW DISPLAY

Three Are Eight-Cylinder Cars, and Four Are Custom Built Sixes.

Two lines of Jordan cars are to be on display at the Automobile Show beginning tomorrow. One is the Airline eight-cylinder line, of which three models will be shown, and the other is the six-cylinder custombuilt line, complete with four models. The Archer-Mann Motor Car Co., Jordan distributer here, will have charge of the display.

In the eight-cylinder line there will be shown a five-passenger sedan, a coupe, termed the Playboy, it being a two-passenger model with rumble seat under the rear deck, and a five-passenger, two-door Victoria model.

Included in the six-cylinder custombuilt line display will be the four-passenger Blueboy sport phaeton, five-passenger sedan, four-passenger, two-door sport salon, and two-passenger Tomboy convertible coupe with rumbleseat.

Outstanding features of the eight-cylinder line, according to R. B. Mann, vice president in charge of sales of the Archer-Mann Motor Car Co., is the new type of high-powered engine which pushes the car. This power plant develops 80 horse-power at 3200 r. p. m., and is capable of 85 miles per hour speed in high. It has dual carburetion and manifolding and is designed after the principle of airplane powerplants.

The six-cylinder line has a power plant which develops 60 h. p. at 3200 r. p. m., and is capable of 70 m. h. p. speed in high.

Jordan sales in St. Louis in 1927, according to Mann were increased about 40 per cent over those of 1926. This, he stated, was due to the many innovations in Jordan design the past year which brought about the building of a better automobile at less money.

A. E. Archer is president of the firm. His time is devoted to the servicing end of the business.

INCREASE IN AUTO CASUALTIES IN STATE

Collisions at Street Intersections Is Commonest Form of Accident in Missouri.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 4.—The State Highway Department report of automobile accidents on highways and city streets in Missouri during December shows 109 deaths and 1014 injured, in a total of 1085 automobile accidents.

The number of deaths in December increased 27 and of injured 128 over the total in November. Of the 1085 accidents, 234 occurred on State highways and the remainder in cities and towns.

An analysis of the causes of accidents includes the following principal classifications: Speeding, 99; intoxicated driver, 29; careless driver, 156; lost control of car, 40; defective brakes or other mechanism, 35; skidding on paving or gravel, 60; careless pedestrian, 40; collision at street intersections, 165.

Grand Prix Called Off.

There will be no Grand Prix de France automobile race this year. This decision was reached by the Automobile Club de France after consultation with French automobile constructors.

LINCOLN

Consider the Lincoln Ideal
"To Build as Fine a Motor Car as it is possible to Produce"

Then consider that to this ideal is devoted all the genius in engineering and coach-craft which the resources of Ford can command—and used without stint, in time or effort in an unswerving devotion to quality—and far beyond thoughts of price or profit.

And the Lincoln ideal works to an ever advancing standard, always striving toward still higher quality and still greater performance values. The most recent refinements result in increased power and smoothness; lowered center of gravity; still easier and surer control at high speed; still lower, longer body lines.

When ever on display at automobile shows the Lincoln is an outstanding feature, the object of interested inspection and the most enthusiastic praise.

DODGE 1927 PROFITS EXCEED $14,000,000

Combined Truck and Passenger Car Sales for Year Were $173,581,000.

The annual report of Dodge Brothers Inc. to stockholders, just released at Detroit, and supplied this paper by the Tate Motor Car Co., Dodge Distributer here, shows the combined sales of the company for 1927 to be $173,581,526, and profits for the year, after depreciation but before interest and provision for income taxes, were $14,830,475, equivalent to 3.9 times all interest for the year; and after interest and income taxes equivalent to $11.34 per share on the preference stock outstanding.

The remainder of income, after all charges and provision for dividends on the preference stock, was $3,778,926, equal to $1.55 per share on the common stock outstanding.

Cash in banks and marketable securities at the end of 1927 totaled $19,244,862, total current assets were $46,747,526, current liabilities were $15,433,286 and the ratio of current assets to current liabilities was 3.03 to 1.

Earned surplus was increased to a total of $29,350,315 which, together with previously reported surpluses arising on acquisition of assets May 1, 1925, and from the conversion of debentures, provides a total surplus of $51,008,534.

The report reviews the conduct of the business from May 1, 1925, when the transfer from private to public ownership occurred, to the end of 1927, pointing out that during that period a comprehensive development program was undertaken and completed. This program involved the change from the production of a single line of four-cylinder cars in 1925 to (1) a completely revised four-cylinder car of advanced style, economy and performance, retailing at a substantially lower price; (2) the development of two lines of six-cylinder motor cars, one to retail in the $1500 class and the other to retail in large volume in the $1000 class; (3) a very extensive revision and increase of plant facilities.

This period of development also saw the acquisition of 100 per cent ownership of the stock of Graham Brothers, manufacturers of trucks and busses, employing Dodge Brothers motors as power equipment, and the augmenting of this line to cover a wider range of capacities and to include both four and six cylinder equipment.

Instead of shutting down to expedite the carrying out of this program the company developed it gradually, keeping its manufacturing and dealer organization intact and functioning. During the year 1927, the peak of the transition period, sales reached the total of 205,260 cars and trucks.

At the end of 1927 this comprehensive program had been fully carried out. During the transition period business was conducted with current profits ample to meet all fixed charges, provide for preference dividends and to establish a substantial earned surplus.

From the inception of Dodge Brothers business in 1914 to Dec. 31, 1927, a total of 2,027,811 cars, trucks and busses has been produced and shipped, and of that number approximately 35 per cent or 709,524 cars, trucks and busses were produced and shipped by Dodge Brothers, Inc., and Graham Brothers during the two years and eight months following May 1, 1925.

The consolidated earnings of Dodge Brothers, Inc., for the two year and eight month period ended Dec. 31, 1927 (after depreciation totaling $10,612,802, but before interest, income taxes and dividends) were $62,063,289. During that period there was paid out $10,373,328 interest on debentures and short term serial notes, $15,629,687 dividends on preference stock and $6,709,959 income taxes. The balance constitutes the earned surplus at Dec. 31, 1927, of $29,350,315.

During the same period there was paid off $2,750,000 (constituting one-third of the issue) of the short term 5 per cent serial notes issued to pay part of the purchase price of Graham Brothers and $2,699,000 of debentures were retired through the operation of the sinking fund. Through conversion of debentures into common stock, debenture debt was further reduced by $15,025,000.

The report points out that public response to the new Victory Six has been one of genuine approval. At the moment production of this line is in the process of being built to high volume which should be accomplished during the first quarter of the year. As production is brought up to indicated demand, it is reasonable to expect an increasing volume of sales and earnings.

Cord Asks "How Good Is An Auto for the Money"

Auburn Chief Says a Finer Product at Lowest Possible Price, Is Aim of His Manufactory in 1928.

By E. L. CORD,
President, Auburn Auto Co.

A business must succeed or it cannot serve.

Success of a manufacturer depends on the public's approval of his product. At the same time he becomes the trustee of the buyer's confidence. An obligation is placed upon him. He must return to his clientele the benefits of his success and that is done in the form of a better product for less commensurate cost. If he fail in this he has defaulted and has not served.

Since 1924 Auburn has each year doubled its sales. Thousands of dollars in buildings and equipment have been added. The public has given its approval which leads to success. Mindful of its obligation, then, Auburn each year has manufactured a better car more economically.

In financial standing and physical properties Auburn ranks as one of the "big" automobile companies. Its acquisition of the control of the Lycoming Manufacturing Co. at Williamsport, Pa., Duesenberg, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind., and the Limousine Body Co., Kalamazoo, Mich., strengthens its position. But Auburn will not advertise that Auburn is not an assembled car. The fact is every car is more or less "assembled." How much is not material. There is but one important question: How good a car is it for the money?

Auburn will make its own parts when the making of those parts will mean a better car, and Auburn will continue to buy parts of parts specialists when that is good business.

A greater and finer product, and if possible at a lower selling price, that is the aim of Auburn.

FRANKLIN HAD BIGGEST EXPORT MONTH IN DECEMBER

Sales Are Expected to Be Even Greater in 1928, Despite Import Duties.

"Franklin sales in foreign countries should be 100 per cent greater in 1928 than in 1927," L. B. Benham, export manager for the Franklin Automobile Co., says. "Our export sales in 1927 showed a considerable increase over 1926. In 1927, however, we laid the groundwork, through new dealerships, for a much greater export business than Franklin has ever enjoyed.

"Import duties continue to almost exclude American cars in some countries. A greatly stimulated interest in air-cooling, however, has enabled us to sell cars in several countries in spite of the high import duties.

"In 1904 Franklin shipped its first car, No. 654, to a foreign country, India. From that beginning we have gradually expanded. December of 1927 was our largest export month and we expect to exceed it every month of next year."

Steelcote Rubber Auto Enamel is Unequalled

We'll Show You at the Show

Don't Miss This Extraordinary Demonstration At the "Rubber Tree" Booth

See Steelcote Rubber Auto Enamel pass unaffected through tests that would destroy ordinary paint or lacquer. Immersed in biting acid, strong salt water, gasoline, oil, all the things that play havoc with automobile finishes—Steelcote comes through bright and shining. Even hammering, twisting and bending fail to crack or peel it. See how easily this brilliant, colorful finish is applied. How brush strokes disappear and how smoothly it dries.

It is the pure live rubber in Steelcote that does it. Steelcote is the only automobile and furniture finish that contains rubber and the only one that can pass such rigid tests. Every auto owner should see this demonstration. At the 'Booth with the Rubber Tree." Don't miss it!

STUDEBAKER PRESIDENT HAS STRAIGHT 8 MOTOR

Capable of 100 Horsepower for Speed Up to 80 Miles an Hour.

A new Studebaker President, with a straight eight motor delivering 100 horsepower for speeds up to 80 miles an hour, is announced by The Studebaker Corporation to head its line of custom cars for 1928.

In the power and superlative performance of its motor, the beauty of its body lines, and the luxury and completeness of its appointments. The President is one of the outsanding cars of the new automotive year.

Announcement of the new President climaxes a year of performance achievements during which Studebaker has won every official speed, and endurance record for fully equipped stock cars regardless of power or price. The new straight eight was designed and built by the same staff of engineers responsible for Studebaker's impressive series of victories during the past year. It makes its first public appearance after two years of development work and testing in Studebaker's research engineering laboratory and Proving Ground under the direction of D. G. Ross, chief engineer (formerly chief engineer of Locomobile, Pierce Arrow and Marmon); and W. S. James, research engineer, who was formerly section chief of the U. S. Bureau of Standards.

40 Miles An Hour When New.

The new President reveals no trace of radical design. While the car is new from radiator to rear axle, the engineers have followed only sound and thoroughly proved engineering practices. In doing so, they have produced a motor of great power and speed, and a chassis notable for easy handling, exceptionally fine riding qualities and roadability at all speeds. The President may be driven 40 miles per hour even during its first 500 miles.

Six sedans and a limousine are offered.

The familiar Studebaker radiator, somewhat narrower than before, is capped by the poised figure of Atalanta and flanked by big chromium-plated headlamps of special design. Full crown one-piece fenders have a distinctive flare in front and sweep back in a graceful curve. Wire wheels of the State sedans are carried in the front fenders. A trunk is mounted at the rear of the five-pasenger models.

Upholstery fabrics are rich broadcloth or mohair, in shades harmonizing with the lacquer finish of the exterior. Seats are deep and wide, and the form-fitting cushions are mounted on double-deck pillow springs. Arm rests and silk assist cords add further to passenger comfort.

Lighters in Front and Rear.

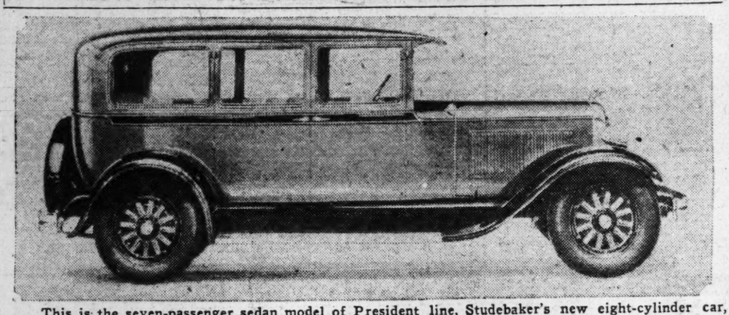
Distinctive among the interior fitments are door panels finished in antique walnut or lacquer and embellished with etched silver medallions. Dome and corner lights, the former automatically operated by a concealed door switch, silk curtains for rear and quarter windows are additional appointments. An attractive vanity case and a smoking set with lighter are supplied with the seven-passenger sedans, while ash receivers are included with the five-pasenger model.

The same convenience and luxury characterize the front compartment. The instrument board finished in two-tone antique walnut is equipped with a cigar lighter, and instruments are set in a panel framed by a beading of dull silver inlaid with enamel. The instruments are grouped in rectangular frames and indirectly illuminated. They include: Eight-day clock, electric gasoline gauge, speedometer, ammeter, oil pressure gauge and engine thermometer. The horn button and shift lever knob are onyx. Spark, throttle and light controls are mounted on a new type flat steering wheel of walnut finish and thin grip.

The exclusive Studebaker no-draft ventilating windshield, automatic windshield cleaner, rear vision mirror, hydraulic shock absorbers, and rear traffic signal light are additional items of standard equipment.

The new motor is the quiet Studebaker L-head type with bore and stroke of 3⅝ by 4⅝ inches and delivers 100 brake horsepower from 313 cubic inches piston displacement. Rated horsepower is 36.45.

How the New Studebaker President "8" Looks



This is the seven-passenger sedan model of President line, Studebaker's new eight-cylinder car, which is powered with a 100-h. p. motor.

AUTO BUYERS DEMAND QUALITY

"An obvious change has been developing among motor car buyers in the last two or three years," says J. W. Frazer, Chrysler sales manager.

"Buyers are seeking quality more than ever before. Greater quality per dollar is the unmistakable trend of the times. The strong sales increase registered by Chrysler each year is due in large part to this tendency of the buying public."

Fatalities Among Jay Walkers.

According to a statement made by the New York Automobile Club, jay walkers suffered more than three times as many fatalities as persons who crossed the streets at designated crosswalks in New York City during the first 10 months of 1927. The report showed 332 were killed and 7691 injured by automobiles not at crossings, compared with 88 killed and 5674 injured at crosswalks.

School for Auto Owners.

A school for teaching auto owners how to repair their own cars is conducted in Australia.

FORMAL OPENING OF LURIE MOTOR CAR CO.

All Departments of Studebaker Distributer Now Ready For Business.

Formal opening of the new sales and service departments of the Lurie Motor Car Co., recently appointed sole distributer of Studebaker and Erskine cars in the St. Louis metropolitan territory, was held yesterday and continues today. The firm occupies the building at Lindell and Grand boulevards, formerly occupied by the Vesper-Buick Automobile Co.

The Lurie Motor Car Co., as previously announced, is newly formed to handle the Studebaker lines here, and is composed of Alfred Lurie as president, Sam Lurie as vice president and treasurer, and George Lurie as secretary. All are brothers and come to St. Louis from Toledo, O., where for the past six years they have been distributers of Studebaker and Erskine cars.

The firm is to be sole distributer of Studebaker lines not only in St. Louis proper but in St. Louis County, St. Charles County, north of St. Louis, and several adjacent counties in Illinois. Service stations, other than the one maintained at the firm's headquarters at Grand and Lindell boulevards, are shortly to be opened at points in and about St. Louis, according to Alfred Lurie.

The building occupied by the firm is one of the largest in St. Louis devoted exclusively to automobile sales and servicing. It comprises three floors, fronts Grand boulevard for 125 feet and Lindell boulevard for 150 feet.

CONSTRUCTION ON U. S. 65 CAUSES SPRINGFIELD DETOUR

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Feb. 4.—Because of construction work on U. S. Highway No. 65 between Harrison, Ark., and the Missouri-Arkansas State line, virtually all traffic between Springfield and Harrison is being detoured by way of Blue Eye and State Highway No. 43 in Missouri. This highway makes a junction with the Federal highway, which usually carries the traffic, a short distance north of Branson.

Since much of U. S. Highway No. 65 between the State line and Harrison traverses a country through which it is almost impossible to provide local detours, the routing of traffic by way of Blue Eye is necessary, according to highway engineers here.

The volume of truck traffic over this route is heavy, as much of the produce of the Arkansas Ozarks is marketed in Springfield, and supplies are taken from the wholesale houses here on the return trip.

OAKLAND PLANT CAPACITY NEARS 1800 CARS A DAY

$18,250,000 Expansion Program Is Nearing Completion—Economies Effected.

Plant expension projects aggregating $18,250,000 were either completed or commenced during 1927 by the Oakland Motor Car Co. As a result, the company soon will have a manufacturing capacity of 1800 automobiles each nine-hour day, or one unit every 18 seconds. The production capacity will be 1080 Pontiac Sixes and 720 Oakland Sixes.

A major portion of the expansion is represented by the model factory group completed early in 1927 at a cost of $12,000,000 for the exclusive manufacture of the Pontiac Six. This project was the largest single industrial construction contract awarded in the United States during the preceding year and is said to be the largest single automotive project ever completed at one time. The plant was in full operation 60 days after its completion.

The manufacturing economies effected in the ultra-modern Pontiac Six plant so reduced the cost of building the car that on July 15 last, after the new factory had been operating only four months, the company was able to announce a price reduction of $30 to $50 on its various models of the Pontiac Six. The plans of the Pontiac Six assembly building were so drawn as to leave space for a third assembly line to supplement the two original ones.

For 40-Foot Trunk Lines.

The New York State Automobile Association has recommended to the Highway Department of the State of New York that in the future all main trunk lines be built to a minimum width of 40 feet, at least 24 feet of which shall be paved with a hard-surface material.

Dutch Parking Laws.

An owner of an automobile in Holland cannot park his car without someone in it. This strict law is to make it possible for the car to be immediately moved in case of emergency of any sort. The ruling is overcome, however, when a street urchin is hired to sit in the car while it is parked.

OAKLAND USES DUCO ALL OVER

The Oakland Motor Car Co., which in 1923 first introduced duco as a body finish, has extended the use of this quick-drying lacquer to include the chassis, springs and even the internal passages of the engine. As a result both the Oakland and Pontiac Sixes have achieved a remarkable resistance to chassis deterioration.

Each chassis requires one gallon of black duco, costing twice as much as a gallon of varnish. But the duco dries in six minutes against 20 minutes for the fastest-drying varnish, thus eliminating much delay on the assembly line. Besides being applied to the outside of the engine, duco is sprayed through the interior of the engine—except, of course, the cylinders—protecting it with a smooth, indestructible and waterproof film.

HIGH COMPRESSION GASOLINE

Super-Shell Gasoline is a modern fuel ideally suited for use in high compression motors . . . yet equally effective in cars not powered with this latest automotive development. Super-Shell is an all-petroleum product which owes its "anti-knock" properties to the specially selected naphthene-base crude oils from which it is refined . . . it contains no harmful chemicals . . . is safe for you and safe for your motor. No matter what car you drive . . Super-Shell brings you improved performance. Lively starting, smooth flexibility and a total freedom from knocks . . . all for the trifling extra cost of three cents a gallon.

SERVICE MANAGER'S OFFICE

BODY REPAIR DEPT.

Because St. Louis has been very good to us, and because of our great faith in her future, we have re-invested a large part of the return we have enjoyed in the past by building four large permanent plants to keep pace with the growth of the city, and to serve properly our ever-increasing Buick family.

We are holding our "New Home Week", from February 4th to 11th, during the Auto Show. The entire building will be open to the public for inspection. There will be a complete display of new Buick cars, including the beautiful De Luxe models, supplementing our display at the Show.

Our new building—occupying a whole block on Vandeventer, from West Pine to Laclede—is not only architecturally beautiful, in the Spanish style, but is one of the largest and most completely equipped sales and service buildings in America. It was built for the Buick owners of St. Louis—to give them the finest sales and service facilities it is possible to provide.

FORD SEDAN TO BE DISPLAYED AT SHOW

New Model T Line Now Complete With All Standard Types of Cars.

Ford Motor Car Company's exhibition at the St. Louis Automobile Show which opens here tomorrow will complete with every model of the new T line. The Fordor sedan model, which at the time of the original announcement of the line, was not then in production, is said to be slowly coming off the production "runs" now and a model of the new car is to be exhibited.

The Fordor sedan is the de luxe car of the new Ford passenger car line and has many features new and exclusive in low-priced cars.

It is distinctive from other Ford passenger cars in exterior appearance. The cowl sweeps down in a graceful curve to a narrow belt moulding which runs from the front of the hood on a straight line back and around the car. This gives the body a long, low effect.

Another feature which adds much to the exterior appearance, is the roll belt effect below the windows which rolls down to the narrow moulding.

The top and rear quarter, have rounded corners and are covered with a tan pyroxylin coated material in pleasing contrast with the body colors.

Nickeled windshield frame and a nickeled moulding at the juncture of the cowl and hood are other bits of refinement which add materially to attractiveness. Ventilators in the lower panels of the cowl on either side are another feature.

The interior of the car has a strikingly rich and inviting appearance. The trimming is in tan with deeply cushioned seats upholstered in soft tan striped cloth, a highly effective combination. The cushions are of the lounge style with over-stuffed plain panels.

BEAUTY MARKS NEW LINCOLN MODELS

Master Craftsmanship of Workmen Results in Much Commendation.

The enthusiastic reception given the Lincoln display at the recent New York Salon and the National Automobile Show may be attributed largely to the unusual degree to which master craftsmanship is employed in these custom-built cars, in the opinion of C. S. Williams, branch manager of the Ford Motor Co. here.

"At the Lincoln plant every workman is a craftsman in the real meaning of the word. He works with modern tools and performs his particular task in the creation of the Lincoln body with the same spirit of devotion to his work which was characteristic of the craftsmen of former days. Every Lincoln body type is the design of some master coach builder—Brunn, Judkins, Dietrich, LeBaron, Locke, Holbrook, Willoughby, Derham.

"Lincoln upholstery work, hardware and body finish are also in keeping with these principles of building. Upholstery—of broadcloth, mohair, cord or leather—is put on over as many as three to five foundations of duck and muslin. This, in addition to the use of lace-web type hour-glass shaped springs, insures greater luxury and comfort, as well as durability. Lincoln hardware is of white nickel brass, even to the accelerator and starter pedals, thus insuring a permanent luster.

"All glass used in Lincoln cars is polished plate glass and made in the glass works of the Ford Motor Co. to insure uniformly finest quality.

More Powerful Engine.

"Lincoln progress toward still greater performance values has resulted in a marked increase in the already noteworthy power of these cars. This has been brought about, in part, by a refinement in cylinder head design and a slight increase in engine size. Detail chassis changes and smaller wheels have lowered the center of gravity to give still better road control and still greater safety at the highest speeds. Deeper flanged, fenders emphasize noticeably lower lines.

"Such meticulous care in the appointments, finish and performance of these cars makes a special appeal to women, who appreciate so keenly evidence of genuine quality. It is interesting to note that the first car sold at the recent 1927-28 salon, according to news reports, was a Lincoln convertible sedan, by Dietrich, purchased by a woman."

Lincoln designs are attracting especial favor. The convertible sedan by Dietrich, the Willoughby limousine, the Judkins two-window Berline, the Locke Club roadster and the Locke sport phaeton.

The New Models.

The Willoughby limousine is an unusually roomy car, combining both custom-built exclusiveness and luxurious comfort. An obtuse angle windshield with integral visor—permitting improved air circulation and eliminating reflectons from the rear and road glares from the front—lends itself to the conservative dignified lines of the limousine. Two spare tires are carried forward on the fenders.

The Judkins two-window Berline is popular as a combination chauffeur and owner-driven car. Although called a four-passenger car, this design is very roomy and carries an extra, occasional seat, facing sideways and folding compactly out of the way when not in use. A glass partition between the front and rear compartments may be lowered out of sight when the owner desires to take the wheel, making this virtually a sedan body.

The Locke Club roadster combines smartness and utility. A fully collapsible top makes this car quickly convertible into an open roadster. The rear deck seat is removable, providing a waterproof and dustproof luggage compartment of unusual roominess.

The sport phaeton by Locke is exhibited with tonneau cowl and windshield. The long, low lines of this car suggest its speed and power. A sport top with mahogany finished bows and nickel trimmings folds back flatly, contributing to the stream line effect of this design.

14 CARS IN HUDSON, ESSEX SHOW DISPLAY

Stripped Chassis Operated by Electric Motor Feature of Exhibit.

Hudson-Essex metropolitan dealers, their sales staffs, the executives of the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co., and office personnel, held a pre-show banquet at the Missouri Athletic Association Thursday evening at 6:30 at which time announcement was made of the various Hudson and Essex cars to be displayed at the show.

Hudson-Frampton will display 14 cars, four of which are Hudson cars on 127-inch chassis—one being custom-built job—three on the 118-inch Hudson chassis, and five Essex cars.

A feature of the Hudson-Essex display will be a stripped chassis made to operate by an electric motor and showing in detail how the engine functions when the car is actually running on the road.

The principal speaker at the meeting Thursday night was T. E. Pool, sales authority of New York, who spoke on "Present-Day Selling."

Other speakers were R. R. Andrews, metropolitan sales manager of the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co., and F. J. Prendergast, general sales manager.

J. E. Hilton, promotion manager, presided.

"Caterpillar" Tractors Good Roads Automobiles

—Three Necessary Tools for Civic, Industrial and Rural Development!

This week St. Louis will play host to thousands who will come to see the newest interpretations of the season's modes in motor cars. There'll be coupes and sedans, tourers and speedsters—pink ones, blue ones, green and red—and amidst this array of beauty you will see the big, brute-strong "Caterpillar"—the tractor that builds most of the roads that motor cars use, and keeps them smooth and bumpless for care-free motoring.

And Now—Lowered Prices on the Entire Line

Due to manufacturing economies, resulting from consolidation of the two largest builders of track-type tractors (Best and Holt) under the name Caterpillar Tractor Co., we are able to announce for the second time since the formation three years ago of the Caterpillar Tractor Co., substantial price reductions on all models. Like the product, the "Caterpillar" one-price policy is known around the world. These prices become effective immediately—F. O. B. factory.

The Westinghouse Automotive brake gives your car an ease and certainty of control never before realized—the slightest pressure of your toe on the pedal is sufficient to operate it.

H. C. MERRY, Inc. is now ready to equip your passenger car with the Westinghouse Automotive Brake — a braking development that gives ease and assurance of control never before realized.

Quickly installed because nothing is removed from the car

This striking achievement is an auxiliary for your present brakes — quickly and easily installed. It is a power medium that will stop any car quicker, easier and smoother than it can be stopped with any other brake arrangement. It supplies power to supplement muscle—gives you more perfect control over your brakes than you ever thought possible.

With this advanced device, the lightest touch on the brake pedal puts into action power that's derived from the motor. This exerts a pull on the standard brake mechanism with which your car is equipped—a pull proportionate to your pressure on the pedal—only many times greater.

Your car stops quicker than your own strength could possibly stop it. You are safeguarded in any emergency that may arise — inspired with more driving confidence than you have ever had before. And, if your wife or daughter is at the wheel, you have the comforting assurance that she is safe.

Demonstration proves the greater ease and safety

It will only take a short demonstration—a simple comparison of the Westinghouse Automotive Brake with other brakes—to prove the effectiveness of this new braking device. H. C. Merry, Inc. will gladly give you a demonstration, and explain the ease of installation and the moderate price.

No matter how good or how effective you consider your present brakes, you owe it to yourself and to your family to know what this remarkable improvement means in added safety — added ease of operation. Drive in, or call LIndell 6771.

Car dealers — Brake Shops — accessory dealers: This new brake offers an exceptionally attractive sales proposition. See H. C. Merry, Inc., for particulars.

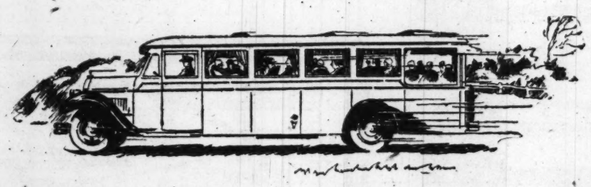
Westinghouse Air Brakes Make Subways Safe!



Big Motor Busses Use Westinghouse Brakes!

And Now—Westinghouse Vacuum Brakes on Chandler!

HERE at last is a car that stops as quick as you want it to stop—with three times the ease and three times the safety!

As the first American automobile to adopt the vacuum brakes of the Westinghouse Air Brake Company—Chandler now introduces railroad efficiency and safety into motoring.

You have never known such effortless driving—such absolute ease of control—such ability to stop quickly and smoothly—such a feeling of protection—as you will know at the wheel of a New Royal Eight or a new Six by Chandler.

The only other cars equipped with brakes of this type are built in Europe—such famous high-priced cars as Mercedes, Daimler, Minerva, Isotta-Fraschini and Sunbeam!

And besides introducing Westinghouse Brakes, the newest Chandler models raise the curtain on a new degree of high-powered magnificence—the unmistakable creations of master body designing, master engineering, master craftsmanship.

New cars that hug the ground with an extraordinary low center gravity—with the remarkable vitality and stamina of Chandler's Pikes Peak high-compression motor—with advantages, comforts and conveniences too numerous to mention.

For instance—you can lubricate the Chandler chassis from end to end by merely pressing a plunger. Chandler is equipped with the "One Shot" centralized lubrication system—fool-proof and certain!

Don't miss seeing Chandler at the Automobile Show. Don't miss a chance to try a drive. The new prices range from $995 to $2195, f. o. b. factory. All comparisons will reveal that Chandler is today's most valuable car for the money!

A. R. Glancy, Oakland President, Says Industry Is More Stabilized.

By A. R. GLANCY,
President and General Manager, Oakland Motor Car Co.

Now that the returns are in for the year 1927—certainly as prosperous a year as even the most optimistic predicted 12 months ago and only slightly behind the preceding peak year—it is no doubt timely to scan the horizon of business for indications as to what this coming year will bring.

Keeping the motor car industry—the largest in the world—on an even keel means much to general prosperity, for upon its prosperity depends the prosperity of millions of our citizens and the degree to which it has become stabilized has a tremendous influence on the stabilization of business as a whole. The industry has become today one of the barometers by which we judge of general prosperity.

One of the soundest practices in the industry today is the policy of most manufacturers to gear production closely to actual sales. This makes for stability. Regardless of any conditions that might adversely affect general business, the house of the motor industry is in such order that stocks on hand could be easily liquidated. This gearing of production closely to sales is pretty much general today in the whole business world. It is sound and healthy.

Industry Stabilized.

Much fearful comment has been made that the automotive industry cannot continue to grow by leaps and bounds. I feel that there has been much misunderstanding about the whole situation. There has not been a tremendous growth, in total, of production during the last five years. It is true that there has been a shifting of growth from some companies to others, but the total has not varied to any tremendous extent. It is practically stabilized at the present time.

Based on a registration of 25,000,000 cars and trucks in the United States which will be reached shortly, the replacement demand, plus the export demand and the normal growth would require a production of approximately 4,500,000 motor vehicles a year—a figure that has not yet been reached. In addition to these three markets, there is a constantly growing trend in the "two-car-family" field.

I do not believe it is generally realized that at the present time automotive exports from this country rank third. In 1926 these exports from our country amounted to more than $337,000,000, being led only by raw cotton and petroleum products. For the first eight months of last year the automotive exports amounted to nearly $288,000,000 or 24 per cent more than the same period the previous year. A 24 per cent growth is phenomenal and still our European markets, while on the upgrade are far from being as yet in a strong financial position to purchase our products.

"Two-Car Families."

The "two-car-family" market is a comparatively recent development. It has been primarily brought about by the development of the suburban, village and town communities about the larger cities, together with the frequent need of two cars by professional and business men for the requirements of their business, social and family life.

The last figures of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce reveal that there are 2,700,000 two-car families in the United States. These same statistics show that 10 per cent of all families own more than one car, while 18 per cent of car-owning families have more than one car. This market is a steadily increasing one.

Thus the four factors that go to make up the automotive market—replacement, export, two-car families and natural growth or "virgin" market — have tremendous elements of growth inherent in them.

AC FUEL PUMP WORKS IN UNISON WITH ENGINE

Adopted on 1928 Oakland, Paige, Oldsmobile and Pontiac Models.

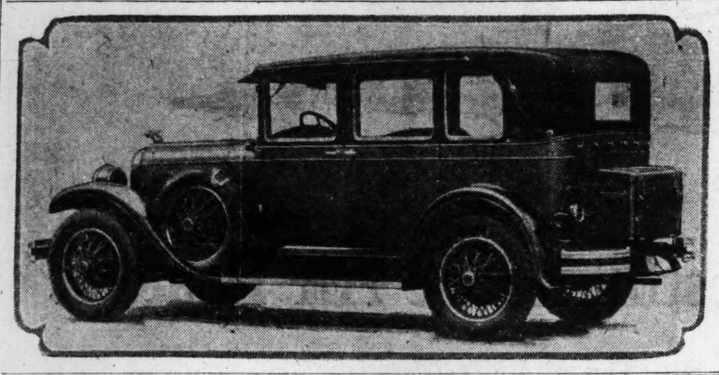
Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FLINT, Mich., Feb. 4.—Four prominent motor car manufacturers have adopted the AC fuel pressure system on their 1928 models, according to an announcement by the AC Spark Plug Co. The cars so equipped are the Oakland, Oldsmobile, Paige and Pontiac.

A. M. Babitch, research engineer of the AC company, says: "The work done by the fuel pump is strictly in proportion to the requirements of the engine. At no time can the pump deliver any more fuel than the engine can consume. The system is positive in action, insuring a plentiful supply of fuel to the carburetor on the steepest grades and at any speed.

"The pump itself is of a simple design and sturdy construction which assures its operation even beyond the life of the car itself. The device, the result of years of research work, is devised to work from a cam in unison with the engine and pump gas through a strainer into the carburetor in proportion to the amount required. Thus when the engine speeds up, the pump speeds up with it, and when the carburetor bowl happens to be filled, the action of the pump is damped."

De Luxe Type of Oakland Sedan



WHAT'S NEW IN THE AUBURN LINE

Phaeton-Sedan and Speedster Shown for First Time, Straight Eight Models.

The new Auburn line is comprised of three new chassis, a six and two straight-eights with many refinements in body design, and the addition of two distinctly new bodies heretofore obtainable only from custom coach builders—a phaeton-sedan and speedster.

The chassis frames on the new Auburns are exceptionally heavy and strongly braced with six cross members, the rear cross member being an unusually wide plate of 5-32 inch stock and the frames on the two eight-cylinder models are additionally reinforced with double channel from the front of the frame to back of the rear motor support.

The motors used in all three models are Lycoming and all motors have Bohnalite steel strut pistons and Duralumin rods. The straight-eight motors are equipped with Lanchester vibration dampeners and the motor in the Model 115, which is the largest chassis in the Auburn line, develops more than 115 horsepower, making it one of the most powerful production cars in America.

Thermostatic Heat Control.

The straight-eight motors are equipped with dual carburetion and manifolding for greater smoothness of performance and increased power and speed. All three motors have thermostatic heat control.

All wiring is concealed with the exception of short wires to the spark plugs, giving the motors an unusually clean appearance. Motors are finished in lacquer of attractive shades.

A chassis feature of the new Model 115 is a muffler bypass, which may be opened by a valve controlled from the front compartment when the maximum in speed and power are desired, giving the exhaust gases free passage through the muffler and reducing back pressure from 5½ pounds to 1½ pounds.

"One-Kick" Lubrication.

The new Auburn line is equipped on all chassis with Bijur lubricating system, enabling the owner to oil all chassis parts with one kick of a lever, including the fan, water pump and clutch throw-out bearing. All models are also equipped with internal expanding Lockheed hydraulic four-wheel brakes and these brakes have run as high as 20,000 miles without adjustment on experimental cars.

Radiator design has been improved with the addition of a strip down the center giving a longer and higher appearance and headlights are 12 inches in diameter, the largest on any car in America.

All instruments are grouped in one panel including gasoline gauge, motor heat indicator, speedometer, ammeter and oil gauge. All controls including manifold heat control, windshield wiper control, starter control switch, electro-lock and carburetor control are mounted in the instrumental panel, being attractively worked into the design of the border.

Bodies on all models include sedan, sport sedan, cabriolet and roadster with the addition on the two straight-eight models of the phaeton-sedan and speedster. The phaeton-sedan is an open phaeton or full sedan at the owner's will. The speedster is a two-passenger body type of a boat-shaped design for those desiring the ultimate in open sport car design.

BIJUR LUBRICATION FOR ALL NEW AUBURN CARS

The life of the chassis of the average automobile is cut one-half because of improper or in many cases complete lack of lubrication, engineers of the Auburn Automobile Co., point out.

"With the new Bijur system, which comes as regular equipment on all Auburn cars, none of this trouble or annoyance is experienced. This system does the work of 40 service station men in a moment's time. Merely by pressing a plunger on the dash of the car grease is force around every moving part on the Auburn chassis. There is no dirt, no fussing about, no soiling of hands and clothing. Merely a gentle push of the foot does the trick," says the factory.

REO SPEED WAGONS COVER 93 PCT. OF TRUCK MARKET

According to C. A. Triphagen, sales manager of the Reo Motor Car Co., the present speed wagons represent the most complete line of motor trucks manufactured under one name in the world.

The speed wagon junior, with 115-inch wheelbase and ½-ton capacity; the speed wagon tower with 123-inch wheelbase and 1-ton capacity; the standard speed wagon with 173-inch wheelbase and 1½-ton capacity; the master speed wagon with 148-inch wheelbase and 2-ton capacity; the heavy duty speed wagon with 159-inch wheelbase and 3-ton capacity and the bus chassis with 175-inch wheelbase and 3-ton capacity, cover more than 93 per cent of today's trucking requirements.

Nash Machinery Tests.

Master instruments are maintained at the Nash factory for checking the accuracy of all testing apparatus used in the manufacture of Nash cars. This checking is done every day.

NEW MOON EIGHT ON DISPLAY AT AUTO SHOW

Engines of Cars in Aerotype Line Have Duplex Carburetion.

The Moon Aerotype 8-80, with many advanced engineering features, including a duplex carburetor and which was recently announced by the Moon Motor Car Co., is on display at the St. Louis Automobile Show. The line, a distinct addition to the Moon family of automobiles, at present, includes two models, the four-door sedan and the four-door close-coupled sedan, both mounted on a 125-inch wheelbase chassis and priced at $2195 f. o. b. St. Louis. Both models were on exhibit at the recent New York and Chicago shows, and attracted wide attention. The new line is now being exhibited at numerous automobile shows throughout the country. Other models are now in production and will be announced at an early date, factory officials state.

Incidentally, this Moon car makes its initial appearance at the St. Louis Automobile Show just as the Moon Motor Car Co. enters its twenty-first year as a successful automobile manufacturing organization, and this new eight marks another milestone in the achievements of this pioneer St. Louis company.

The bodies of the Aerotype 8-80, which were designed by a noted French engineer, are of composite steel and wood construction, and are designed with safety and comfort as cardinal requisites. They typify the new Franco-Spanish school of automobile body design, coachwork and interior decoration, as exemplified at the recent Paris and London shows, and of which the Hispano-Suiza is a notable example.

20 Years Production Under the Same Ownership . .

In its day our first motor car (1908) was admired for its beauty. At that time it represented the most advanced ideas in motor construction, as do our new 1928 models. ¶ The first Velie was built to last. In it were employed the very best materials known. Quality traditions from earlier days of good plows and road vehicles determined our policy of quality at a fair price. ¶ We have never found it necessary to deviate from this rule. Our production is based on 60 quality cars per day. Each Velie car is made carefully—to give individualized service — long life. ¶ Our valve-in-head Motor, highly perfected, is known throughout the world. To create the type of personalized car we have been willing to sponsor, we have built our bodies, motor and chassis units. ¶ In these 1928 models that mark our Twentieth Anniversary there is an external beauty that is gratifying; but even more significant to my mind, is the value of quality, riding comfort and safety that each Velie owner knows is characteristic of his car. ¶ Strength and endurance are integral in motor and body. Speed is assured by advanced engineering proficiency. ¶ To those who like a car of distinctive design, we extend a special and cordial invitation to drive a Velie.

LOWER PRICES AID CHRYSLER SALES

Public Interest Greater Than Ever Before, Says Distributer.

"Greater public interest in Chrysler cars than ever before at this season of any year has followed the lowering of prices, effective Jan. 10, for its new "52" and great new "62," according to L. M. Stewart, president of Midland Motors, Inc., Chrysler distributer here. The savings to the public range from $50 to $100 on various body styles.

"In the "52" line three body styles, two of them closed cars, are now priced at $670 at the factory. They are the coupe, two-door sedan and roadster. In the "62" line the business coupe is factory priced at $1065, the roadster at 1075, and the two-door sedan at $1095," Stewart reports.

Stewart points out that greater public demand, which has resulted in Chrysler achieving, for 1928, third place among all motor car manufacturers in the sales records of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, has made these substantial savings in cost to the general public possible.

300 Per Cent Export Increase.

Records of the Peerless Motor Car Corporation show the export business of that organization increased 300 per cent in 1927.

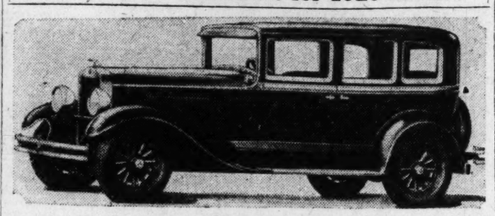
How the New Peerless for 1928 Looks



Five-passenger sedan model of the new Peerless Six-91 line. Note the sweeping fenders and streamlined hood. The body molding on this line is stamped out of the body.

Victoria model of the new Peerless Six-91 line.

Autos Worse Than Rhinos.

Dodging whizzing motor cars in Chicago is more dangerous than hunting rhinoceros, according to the opinion of Dr. Frank Thompson, who returned recently from Africa.

PEERLESS MOTOR HAS NEW CUSHION DEVICE

Said to Eliminate Vibration—Five Body Styles Offered in Series Six-91.

Body lines of the cars in the new Peerless line are long and low, with the graceful sweeping fenders so different from the cars of a year or two ago. Doors are exceptionally wide.

The Six-91 is a car of moderate wheelbase, yet possessing a motor which in power and flexibility compares favorably with the highest-priced sixes on the market. The motor of 3½-inch bore by 5-inch stroke is of Peerless design and manufacture.

In the motor suspension, Peerless engineers have developed an original cushioning device which has occasioned much comment among automotive engineers. The four-point suspension is employed, with the rear of the motor resting upon cushions of live rubber which, with the statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft, completely eliminates vibration. In addition, the rubber insulates the body interior from any slight noises which may develop in the motor. An additional rigid tubular cross member at the rear of the engine provides the motor with extra support.

Five body styles are being offered in the new model—the metropolitan sedan, a victoria, a cabriolet, a five-passenger sedan and a seven-passenger sedan. All are on a wheelbase of 120 inches. All of these models are finished in genuine mohair. Arm rests, walnut door panels, a beautifully finished and complete instrument board, silk door pulls, vanity and smoking sets and harmonious silver fittings are provided.

Hydraulic four-wheel brakes are standard on all Peerless cars. Watson stabilators contribute much to the car's riding ease, and combine to give the car a 20-foot steering radius.

Each place where foreign matter could possibly enter is closely guarded in the Peerless motor. An oil purolator filters the oil, cleansing it of every particle of carbon or metal which might act as an abrasive in the cylinders. A visible gasoline filter strains the fuel before it enters the carburetor, while an air cleaner extracts road dust from the air before it enters the carburetor.

CADILLAC PLANT DRAWS VISITORS FROM 26 COUNTRIES

During 1927 more persons visited the plant of the Cadillac Motor Car Co., Detroit, from Japan and Australia than from Canada.

There were 26 foreign countries from which travelers, singly and in groups, came to see the birthplace of the car which is familiar on their home streets. Leading the list by a wide margin was Germany, whence came a number of groups for a systematic study of American manufacturing methods. From the Antipodes came the next largest throngs—Australian journalists and students of economics.

Other countries largely represented were France, England, Switzerland, Brazil, Russia, Scotland, Colombia, New Zealand and Porto Rico.

The Cadillac plant is well adapted for showing the contrast between European and American methods of manufacture. Precision overseas is largely attained by hand methods of filing and reaming. The Cadillac company was the first automobile manufacturer to produce, by machine methods, parts manufactured to such close limits of precision that they fitted exactly without any hand preparation.

EXHAUST BY-PASS ON AUBURN

While a great deal of power previously has been lost in many motor cars due to the back pressure of the mufler, the muffler on the new 115 horse-power Auburn has been designed to offer the minimum in back pressure and in addition a special muffler by-pass has been worked out that practically eliminates all back pressure without the nerve-wracking noise of the old muffler cutout.

The new muffler has been designed so that by merely turning a valve controlled from the front compartment the exhaust gases will have a straight passage through the muffler and thereby secure greater power and speed from the motor. While back pressure with the full muffler in use has been reduced to where it is only 5½ pounds with the muffler by-pass in operation this is reduced to one and one-half pounds. This feature on the new Auburn will be especially convenient where excess power is desired or on those few occasions when it may be advisable to attempt to operate the car at full speed.

BIJUR LUBRICATING SYSTEM ON NEW AUBURN MODELS

"Improved manufacturing conditions have made it possible for the automobile manufacturer to give the buyer much more for his automobile dollar," says Roy Faulkner, vice president of the Auburn Automobile Co.

"There is infinitely better quality built into the cars of today, than those of a generation ago. In addition to this fact these cars are given much better care. Service, for this reason, is extended over a much greater period of years and maintenance is of a much higher standard.

"Twenty years ago the average driver knew little more than the process employed in starting a car and its manipulation while under locomotion.

"One of the contributing factors toward better maintenance is the character of improved service stations found in every section of these United States.

"At Auburn we are striving constantly toward the construction of motor cars that require less attention than was found necessary in previous models. One big step forward in the new Auburn models is the equipping of all chassis with Bijur lubricating system making it an extremely simple operation for the driver to thoroughly lubricate all parts of the chassis before starting on the day's driving."

French Racer Decorated.

In recognition of his success in winning all four of the principal races in Europe last summer, Robert Benoist, the leading racing automobile driver in France, was recently made a Chevalier of the Legion of France by the French Government. While his victories included both the Grand Prix de France and the race at Monza, the winner of which is usually considered the world's champion, his best performance was at the Grand Prix de St. Sebastian, where he defeated some of the best drivers in Europe.

Predicts Good Business.

This will be a good business year, according to Leon German, vice president of the Peerless Motor Car Corporation. "American business men are fighters," he says. "They are workers. They are thinkers. They are the sort that can't be beaten."

Don't miss the display of the New Falcon-Knight models

Powered by the famous double-sleeve-valve motor, these beautiful new Falcon-Knight Six models present the greatest value ever offered in fine motor cars.

Every detail and refinement, from large full crown fenders to the rich upholstery and distinctive hardware, is in perfect harmony with the high standard set by the Falcon-Knight.

This year sleeve-valve motor cars will replace many thousands of poppet-valve cars. Owners now demand the quick activity, the smooth, quiet performance, and, most important, the freedom from carbon, valve and mechanical trouble which the Knight sleeve-valve motor offers.

Falcon-Knight Six has added thousands to the list of men and women who now fully realize the vast difference between the efficiency and power of the Knight sleeve-valve and poppet-valve performance.

Be sure to drive the new Falcon-Knight Six before selecting a car.

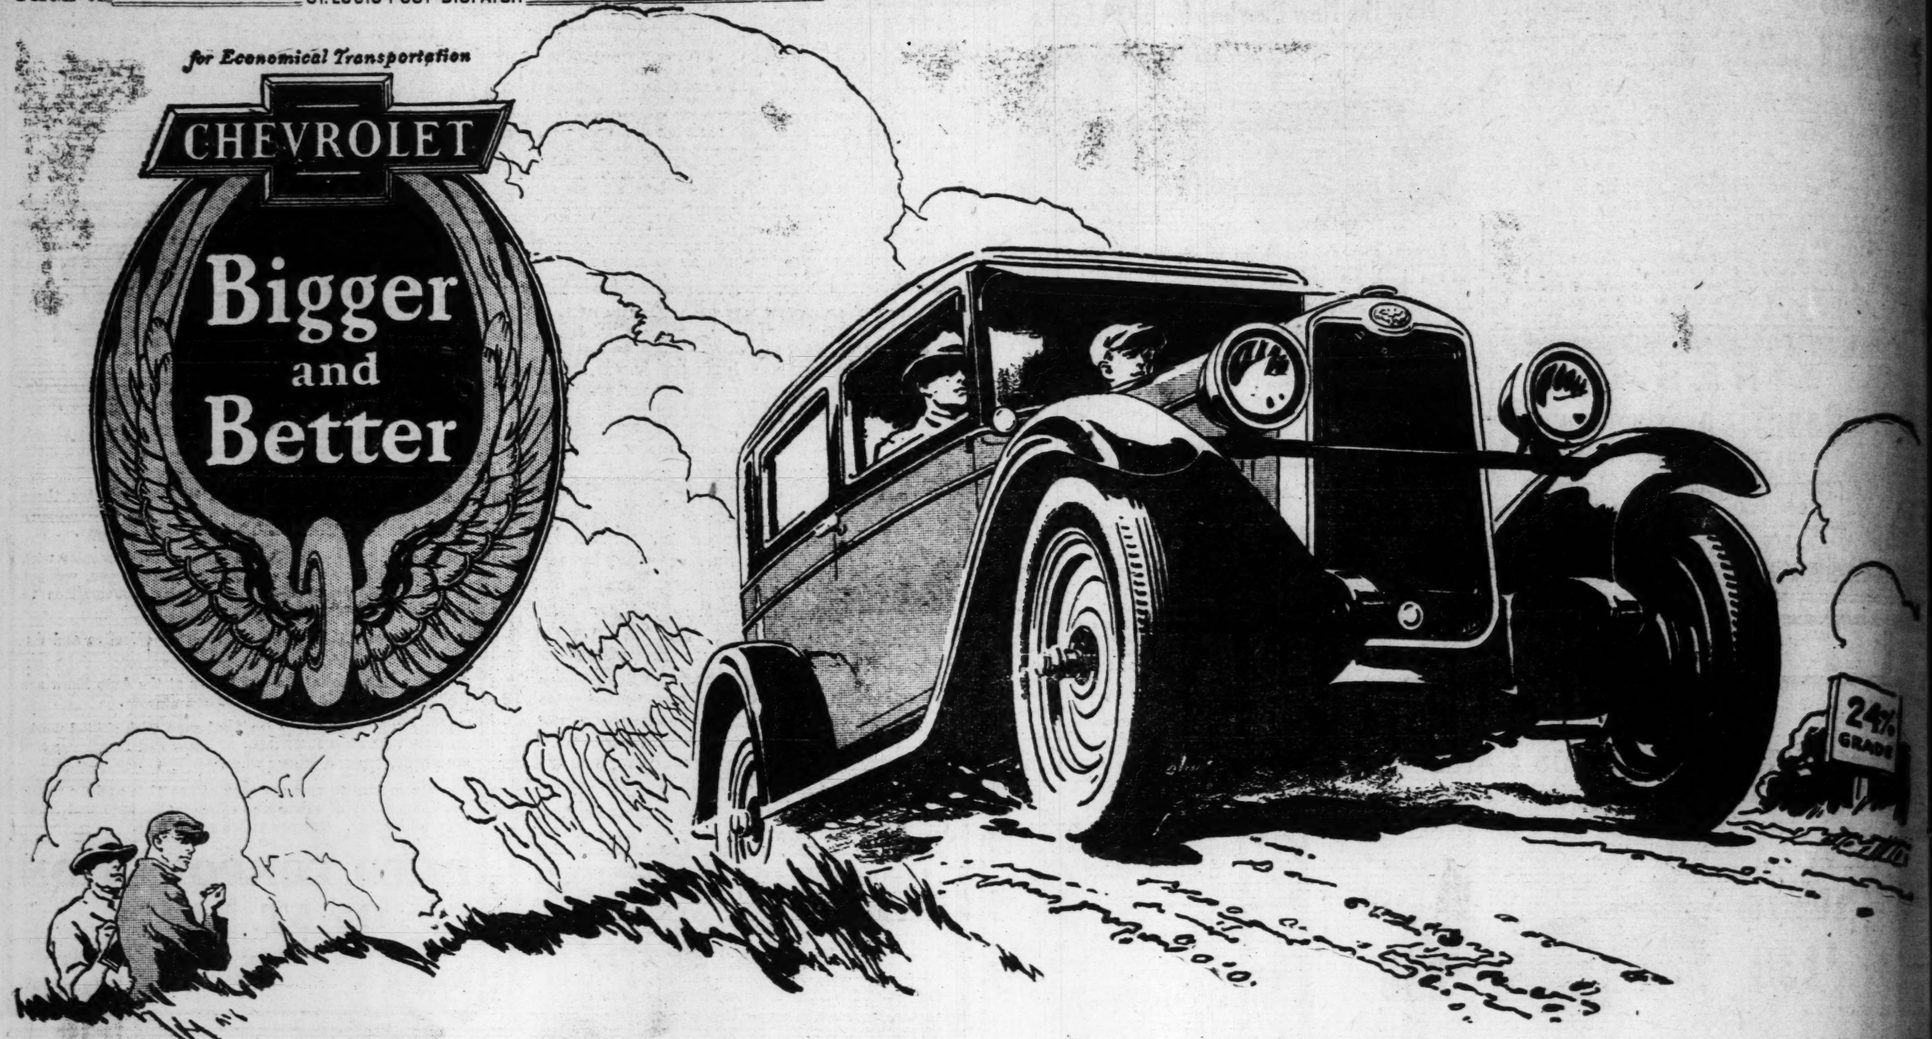
Bigger and Better



Sensational New Performance

Amazing New Low Prices!

Longer, lower, more rugged and powered by an improved valve-in-head engine—the Bigger and Better Chevrolet offers a type of over all performance so thrilling that it has created wildfire enthusiasm throughout America.

As a result of important engineering advancements, there have been added to Chevrolet's world famous dependability and economy a responsiveness to the throttle—a smoothness, quietness and safety of operation that are a revelation not alone to veteran Chevrolet owners but to men accustomed to driving higher priced cars.

Prominent among these engineering advancements are alloy "invar-strut" constant clearance pistons—here used for the first time in a low-priced automobile; hydro-laminated camshaft gears; mushroom type valve tappets; and a complete new steel motor enclosure.

Coupled with this amazing engine performance is a type of riding and driving comfort almost unbelievable in a low-priced automobile. A wheelbase of 107 inches—four inches longer than before—has made possible a new method of weight distribution that results in amazing new balance and roadability. Four semi-elliptic shock absorber springs—that set parallel to the frame and are 84% as long as the wheelbase—smooth out the roughest stretches of highway. And a new ball bearing worm and gear steering mechanism, which even includes ball bearing thrusts at the front axles, provides steering ease that is a source of constant delight.

And in keeping with Chevrolet's long established policy of passing on to the public the benefits of tremendous volume production, this bigger, better and more beautiful Chevrolet is offered at reduced prices!

Never before has there been such motor car value—marvelous new beauty, sensational new performance and greatly improved quality . . . at the most amazing prices in Chevrolet history.

And never before has any new car won buyers by the thousands so rapidly. Here, as all over the country, the new Chevrolet is breaking all records in the number of cars in the owner's hands following public presentation—because the new Chevrolet comes to the public a proved car, built in factories unsurpassed for efficient precision quality manufacture.

You need only to see and drive this sensational car to know why it has everywhere encountered a public reception of history-making proportions—why everyone calls it the world's most desirable low-priced automobile. Come in today for a demonstration!

CADILLAC OFFERS 43 BODY STYLES

This Includes La Salle Line Models and New Custom-built Cars.

Style, finish, variety and voguish appearance, but above all, style, are features that buyers of fine cars will demand in their automobiles for the coming season, in the opinion of Guy Oliver, president of the Oliver-Cadillac Motor Car Co., Cadillac-La Salle distributer here, in discussing the automobile outlook for 1928.

"How far this demand will be satisfied by Cadillac and La Salle," says Oliver, "is seen in the fact that the Cadillac and La Salle line now includes 43 different body styles on three different lengths of wheelbase, thus providing a type and style of fine car suited to every individual taste and requirement.

"On the Cadillac 140-inch chassis are offered two lines of bodies, the Fisher custom line of 14 body types, and the Fisher-Fleetwood special body line which also includes 14 different styles of a rare exclusiveness.

"The La Salle is available in 11 body types by Fisher and four Fisher-Fleetwood special custom bodies. Some of these are on the 125-inch chassis and some on the 134-inch chassis.

"The Cadillac Fisher body line includes a roadster, touring car, phaeton, sport phaeton, two-passenger coupe, convertible coupe, five-passenger coupe, town sedan, five passenger sedan, seven-passenger sedan and five and seven passenger sedans in both imperial and cabriolet styles.

"The Cadillac Fisher-Fleetwood special body line and the LaSalle Fisher and Fisher-Fleetwood lines offer an equally wide range of body types.

"A particularly striking example of the style in Cadillac and LaSalle bodies is the Cadillac four-passenger sport p[illegible] finished in Tokio ivory with gold leaf striping, black fenders and upholstery in hand-buffed leather. A special feature is the tonneau cowl fitted with a nickeled windshield affording the rear passengers closed car comfort, and a large spotlight mounted on a stanchion on the right running board carries out the sportive trend of the design.

"Another body type that immediately arrests the eye is the Cadillac Fleetwood transformable town cabriolet. This is a masterpiece of coachcraft and is representative of the whole line of Fleetwood custom bodies.

"In this body type the front compartment may be treated as open or closed at will. Windows concealed in the front door panels may be raised, a leather top erected and the driving compartment is then completely enclosed.

"Finished with black upper panels, LaTosca blue lower panels and cream striping and interior upholstery in plain Wiese broadcloth, this car reflects the dignified exclusive character which is the keynote of the Fisher-Fleetwood special custom body line."

SAYS PUBLIC DEMANDS, AND GETS, MOTOR CAR COMFORTS

F. B. Sears, president of the Elcar Motor Co., in a recent address said: "We're living in an age which considers comfort almost a necessity. The things which appeal to the public today are those which promise added ease. The automobile is a splendid example of this tendency. Aside from its countless other appeals, the automobile offers untold comfort to users.

"The leading motor cars of today show the results of the attention that has been given to this feature. Mechanical devices, such as improved shackles, hydraulic shock absorbers, extra long springs, cushioned motor supports and motor vibration dampeners reduce the jar of riding to the minimum. Oversize balloon tires, balanced wheels, extra heavy frames, cork body inserts and felt padded bodies all play their parts in giving the keenest enjoyment to automobile users.

"Nearly as much attention has been given to the little niceties as to the more fundamental construction features. The finest upholstery, soft cushions, and deep springs have made the interiors of motor cars as comfortable as living rooms. Smokeless, odorless heaters have been installed in closed car models. A score of little conveniences like cigar lighters, vanity cases, automatic windshield wipers lend a note of effortless ease to the modern car. All these things the public demands of the motor car—and gets."

What "Tuning Up" Means.

Few car owners realize the full value of a "tune-up" of the motor or how much work goes into it. A good tune-up includes cleaning the engine, vacuum tank, carburetor and spark plugs, and adjusting the gaps of the plugs. The tappets of the valves are adjusted, distributer cleaned, contact points adjusted and cleaned, camshaft adjusted, and timing checked. The flat rate for these operations has been reduced 5 per cent within the past year.

New Kissell "8" Four-Door Brougham

This compact Kissel eight-cylinder car is built upon a 125-inch wheelbase, and is capable of 75 m. p. h. It is called the custom brougham and accommodates five passengers.

MARMON TO DISPLAY NEW EIGHT AT SHOW

Four Body Styles on 114-Inch Chassis Being Made for Low-Price Field.

Marmon's new line of light straight-eight cars, the series 68 models, distributed here by More Automobile Co., are to be on display at the Automobile Show. Announcement of the new eight was made in these columns last Sunday. The new line, as was stated, is to be the companion line to the Marmon Series 78 cars, and Marmon now has full coverage in the low and medium priced fields. The new light straight eight sells at a base price of $1395, factory list.

The new Marmon 68, like its companion car, the new 78, was constructed to follow the most modern straight-eight principles. The wheelbase is 114 inches, and four body styles, including a five-passenger sedan, four-passenger victoria coupe, two-passenger coupe and two-passenger roadster, were designed with a view to interior roominess and comfort combined with low and sweeping outside lines.

The engine is of the L-head type. It has a piston displacement of 201.9 cubic inches and develops 72 h. p. at 3200 r. p. m. In its entirety, the engine is manufactured in the Marmon factory.

"The new Marmon was placed in production only after a long period of experimental work and testing, with the result that the top speed is 65 to 70 miles an hour, depending on driving conditions, and the acceleration ability is 10 to 50 miles an hour in 15 to 16 seconds," according to Thomas J. Litle Jr., Marmon chief engineer.

In appearance, the cars are low and sweeping, the roomy interiors are suggestive of a much longer wheelbase, and the headlamps, mounted on nickel-plated standards, closely follow the general design of the fenders and radiator.

Particular attention was paid to the design and arrangement of the seats. The rake of the seat cushions and the contour of the back cushions make possible unusual riding comfort.

A variety of color combinations are available on all four body types. Mohair upholstery or original pattern, Butler finish hardware, inferior lights and even the instrument board conform to the general design of the car as a whole.

The entire car is scientifically balanced. Long, flexible springs are set in sturdy rubber shock insulators similar to the type used on the new Marmon 78. Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers are built into the frame and prevent rebound and road shock. Front springs are 38 5-16 inches lond and the rear springs 56¾ inches long.

A duplex-down-draft manifold, a new Marmon development, is used on the new 68. It is of a design similar to that used on the new Marmon 78 and is, in reality, two four-cylinder manifolds which serve all eight cylinders with the same efficiency as serving but four. The new manifold eliminates so-called wet spots, thus adding to smooth performance and flexibility in addition to making cold weather starting easier. Likewise it permits smooth operation at low as well as high speeds.

Lubrication is by positive force feed to all internal moving parts from a gear type pump suspended in an oil pump and driven directly from the camshaft.

ARGENTINE MOTOR GAINS

Ellis Hampton, president of the Argentina Automobile Dealers Association, has sailed for home after a several months' visit in the United States. He predicted a record demand for motor transportation in the Southern republic. Crops have been good, Hampton pointed out, and the exceptional values offered in automobiles will open a new future to the business. The new road program is going ahead gradually in Argentina, and some of the old existing roads are being greatly improved due to better maintenance and repair work.

Delay Costs Money.

The peak of demand for service comes between spring and fall. But it does not cost any more to have the job done in the winter, and delay usually turns out to be expensive.

Nash Tests All Cars.

Nash maintains three testing tracks and every car built must pass a test run under its own power before it is allowed the leave the factory.

VACUUM BRAKES ON ALL CHANDLER CARS

Greater Safety and Efficiency Claimed for New Westinghouse System.

To be the first automobile in America to adopt the vacuum type of four-wheel brakes for its entire line of new 1928 models is credited the Chandler-Cleveland Motors Corp. of Cleveland, Ohio. Every model in the new Royal Eight, Big Six and Special Six series will carry Westinghouse vacuum brakes as standard equipment. The Wilson Motor Co. is Chandler distributer here.

"The application of the vacuum type brake to the motor car might seem new to the American public," state Chandler officials, "but it is not new among European motor car buyers. Abroad, the leading and most expensive cars such as Mercedes, Dimler, Minerva, Sunbeam, Isotta Franchini and numerous other such cars are all equipped with this type of brake. What is more, for the last 57 years Westinghouse vacuum brakes have been used on electric trains, subway cars and busses, where the need for absolute safety has always been the greatest.

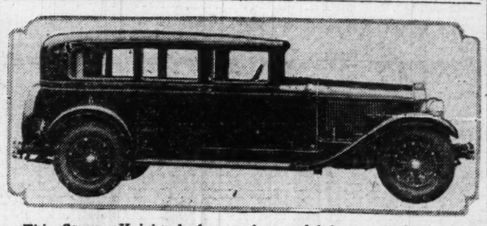
"In adopting this innovation, Chandler engineers took into consideration the fact that today, with its speeding traffic, high-powered motors and crowded thoroughfares, there is definite need for quicker acting, easier acting and surer acting brakes. In every test to which Chandler engineers have subjected these brakes, it was found that they provided these advantages.

"The big outstanding difference of Westinghouse vacuum brakes as compared to the average type brake is that with the same amount of pedal pressure that one would apply with the average car, produces treble braking action with Westinghouse vacuum brakes. Physical effort is reduced to the minimum. Although the brakes are powerful acting they are as sensitive as a hair trigger, according to Chandler engineers. The pressure of two fingers on the brake pedal will stop the car.

"The action of stopping a Chandler equipped with vacuum brakes is accomplished without jerking, skidding or sidesway. These results are accomplished by the manipulation of the foot pedal in the usual manner, but with one-third the effort that is ordinarily required, because the foot pressure is supplemented by a power unit acting in unison with the braking system.

"Because the variable, uncertain element of human strength is replaced by adequate and unfailing power, the vacuum brake reduces driving fatigue, gives your car a surprising ease and certainty of control and inspires greater driving confidence.

Stearns-Knight De Luxe Sedan



This Stearns-Knight de luxe sedan model is mounted on a 145-inch wheelbase chassis, and is one of the most luxurious eight-cylinder cars on display at the show.

THE NEW MARMON 68

Here's the car for all of those who have started this year to think of eight cylinders rather than six—at the same cost—It's of full-sized five-passenger capacity with true distinction in every line and fitment—The wonderful new straight-eight motor (built by Marmon) delivers 72 horsepower and 65 to 70 miles per hour—Riding comfort of the type Marmon has always been noted for.

NEW HUPP "8" WITH 80 H. P. MOTOR HERE

Companion Line to "Distinguished" Eight Models to Be at Show.

In addition to its line of six-cylinder cars, the Weber Implement and Auto Co., Hupmobile distributer here, will display at the Automobile Show its new "Century" eight.

With this new eight-cylinder car Hupp Motor Corp. fills in the gap between its "Six of the Century" line and its "Distinguished" eight line.

By comparison with the older eight, the new model has five inches less wheelbase and smaller wheels, and consequently a different gear ratio, and many other points of more or less incidental difference.

Seven Body Styles.

The car is being built in seven body styles and is powered by a 80-horsepower straight eight engine. Body types are the five-passenger four-door sedan, five-passenger two-door sedan, four-passenger coupe, two-passenger sportster with rumble seat, five and seven passenger phaetons and two-passenger cabriolet with or without rumble seat as preferred. Custom equipped cars are offered in all models, as in the six, with the equipment offered at a factory established price and built in production, as a part of the car.

All models are strikingly low, made so by a new method of utilizing the double drop frame. Road clearance is standard. Wheelbase is 120 inches. The "Century" also has the same unique paneling as the six at the body rear, which conceals gasoline tank, frame and spring ends. No mechanical parts obtrude at any point, enhancing its clean appearance.

Chromium Plating.

In accordance with modern features of design the radiator is deep and shapely. Lamps have narrow bands. Fenders are one-piece, full crowned and seamless. The nameplate is new, designed exclusively for this car. Chromium plating is utilized for all exterior bright work because of its superior resistance to weather, traffic film, corrosion and other advantages.

Closed bodies are fitted with one-piece windshield and military visor. The former's design permits it to be opened forward and upward by its crank mechanism giving unrestricted ventilation. During excessive snow and sleet this shield is of particular advantage. The slight forward angle at which it sets also overcomes headlamp glare from the rear. In warm weather double cowl ventilators sweep air into the whole front compartment. Bumpers are of the newest type, designed to blend with the ensemble.

80 Horspower Motor.

The engine is of high compression type, embodying all the advantages of the straight-eiht power plant. It delivers 80 horsepower from a bore and stroke of 3x4¾ inches. Tremendous acceleration, great speed and remarkable hill climbing ability are promised from all grades of fuel. Hupmobile engineers also promise unusual smoothness at every speed.

HUPP PRESIDENT

DU BOIS YOUNG.

HUPP "6" LINE HAS MANY IMPROVEMENTS

Totally Different From Anything Factory Has Ever Built.

The new line of Hupmobile cars is totally different in body appearance, style and lines from anything the company has previously built, according to George Weber, president of the Weber Implement and Auto Co., Hupmobile distributer here. This, according to Weber, is especially so in the new six line, which is being advertised as the "Six of the Century."

"The new six," says Weber, "is strikingly low. It has small wheels, graceful curving of rear roof lines, concealed gas tank, frame and spring ends.

Closed bodies have the trim military visor and new type one-piece windshield. During excessive snow and sleet this latter will be found of particular advantage. A cowl ventilator sweeps air into the entire front compartment in warm weather. Open models are fitted with two ventilators.

Many valuable chassis improvements have also been made. The engine is larger and more powerful. It accelerates even faster in every gear and has greater hill climbing ability. Hupmobile's principle of perfected high compression of fuel has been carried forward still further to produce much of its increased power, speed and smoothness. The cylinder head also incorporates the latest advantages of high compression. The combustion chamber's size is reduced. Valves are located to secure more complete vaporization. Spark plugs are placed directly over the exhaust valves for minimum detonation. All other working mechanisms have been designed to handle the increased power and speeds that these revolutionary improvements make possible.

The four-wheel brakes are Hupmobile-Midland (Steeldraulic) — the result of more than two years of tests. They are internal expanding, completely protected from water and dirt.

Thermostatic water temperature control is built directly into the cylinder head. This, with the manifold heat control, brings the engine more quickly to its highest efficiency operating temperature in all weathers.

PIERCE-ARROW BODY DESIGN SHOWS EUROPEAN INFLUENCE

"Pierce-Arrow's unusual display of its Series 81 body types at the show should attract unusual attention not only because of the many distinct mechanical improvements, but also because of the stylish appeal of the new Pierce-Arrow custom bodies," according to William Astridge, sales manager of the Western Auto Co., local distributer.

"In its new moderately-priced Series 81 Pierce-Arrow is virtually offering custom exclusiveness with low and gracefully blending lines that reflect the foremost European trend in body design. Pierce-Arrow body designers in the Series 81 have not only availed themselves of the racy effect of close-to-the-ground appearance, but have carried out this streamlining throughout the chassis as well.

"Although the new model retains the practical length of its predecessor—130 inches—the body and chassis is so designed to create the appearance of a car much longer than these dimensions would indicate. This appearance has been achieved by the use of a low, massive hood, wide sweeping fenders similar to the airplane type so popular abroad and ingenious handling of body panels, striping and moulding.

"An apron which conceals the gas tank, springs and shackles adds an interesting note to the stern of the car. Even the exterior colors carry out the motif of speed and racy appearance. The Series 81 is now on display are rich and dashing although they may be had in more somber finishes. The interiors are smart, being finished in a selection of lustrous broadcloth in the enclosed cars, which combined with the handsome silver hardware make an extremely attractive interior. Open cars are finished in a unique green snake leather."

STAR MANAGER TELLS OF DURANT POLICIES

W. S. Cook Says Manufacturer Is Standardizing Auto Industry.

"For both the customer and dealer, the automotive industry is about to be standardized for the first time in history," says W. S. Cook, manager of the Star Motor Co. here.

W. C. Durant has taken drastic measures to accomplish this, but that is the only way it can be done. He has made the Star car so good, and priced it so low that the public will buy it as a matter of force, and demand equal value from other manufacturers.

He has priced it so low that the customer will buy it without regard for the offer made for the used car he may want to trade in. It will be obvious that a dealer offering him more money will do so only because that dealer has a much larger margin of profit in the new car, enabling him to make such an offer.

The customer who has no old car to trade in will not have to carry this extra burden in the new car purchase price to offset what a dealer must pay for another man's old car.

The dealer cannot afford to buy old scrap iron from his customer—a practice that has been the ruination of many dealers. What the wise dealer will do will be to accept in trade only cars of our own make, which he can put in proper condition to re-sell on an honest basis with his guarantee and get his money out of.

We will develop new exclusively Durant customers, whom we will serve so well that they will never be tempted to go elsewhere.

BUS TERMINAL ON ROOF TO CONNECT WITH ELEVATED

Motor busses operating from New Jersey, New England and Westchester County to New York City will be able to make direct connections with the Sixth and Ninth avenue elevated lines at eighth avenue and 155th street, when a new garage for the Eighth and Ninth Avenue Railway Co., with a bus terminal on the roof at the level of the 155th street viaduct is completed.

The busses will be able to enter and leave the terminal from the viaduct, and their passengers will be enabled to make elevated railway connections from the terminal. The two-story garage under the terminal will be used for storing, servicing and repairing busses of the railway company, which recently petitioned for permission to substitute busses for street cars on its lines.

A Cause of Hard Steering.

Hard steering may be caused by improper wheel alignment. Tires are worn unevenly and too rapidly. A quick and inexpensive correction can be accomplished by any well-equipped service station.

CHRYSLER SERVICE COST LOW

The service expense of Chrysler cars is said by dealers to be very low. These reports, says J. W. Frazer, Chrysler sales manager, afford proof that the materials and workmanship put into Chryslers, under the company's policy of Standardized Quality, result in longer life and greater durability.

Back Lash Damages.

Back lash in the universal joints of an automobile frequently causes the stripping of ring and pinion gears. Inexpensive replacement of bushings will usually remove back lash.

NASH OFFERING 24 MODELS THIS YEAR

Ten in Advanced 6 Class, Eight Special 6, and Six Standard 6.

For 1928 Nash offers 24 models—the most complete and the most beautiful group of body styles to ever bear the name of this manufacturer, according to a statement of the Southwest Nash Co. and its dealers.

The advanced six series includes 10 models, six on the 127-inch wheelbase chassis and four on the 121-inch chassis. There are eight special six body styles and six standard six models.

Nash offers color options on most of its inclosed cars. Side-mounted wire wheels may be had on all sedans and coupes in the advanced six and special six series.

In the advanced six series there are five sedan models—the seven-passenger imperial, a limousine type; the seven-passenger sedan, the Ambassador for five passengers, the five-passenger four-door and the five-passenger two-door sedans.

The Victoria is of the coupe type, providing space for four passengers. There is also a striking coupe, which, with its rumble seat at the rear, accommodates four passengers. These two cars as well as the Ambassador and the seven-passenger sedan, are built on the 127-inch chassis. In open type cars of this series there is a four-passenger roadster, with rumble seat; a five-passenger sport touring, with tonneau locker and inbuilt trunk at the rear, as well as a seven-passenger touring model.

The special six series embraces eight models. Three of these are sedans. There is a two-passenger coupe in this series with leather upholstery of shark grain pattern.

In the convertible coupe type Nash offers the four-passenger cabriolet. This model is convertible to the roadster type through a top which folds compactly down. Door windows may be raised or lowered with the top in either position.

In the open car class the special six series embraces a four-passenger roadster with rumble seat and a five-passenger touring car.

The standard six series comprises three sedans, a coupe, the cabriolet and the touring.

NASH SPENDING $1,200,000 ON EXPANSION PROGRAM

Expenditures for building and additional equipment of $1,200,000 are being made to increase the production facilities of three plants of the Nash Motor Co., particularly at the plant in Racine, Wis., and this program involved a corresponding increase in closed bodies. Therefore the Seaman Body plant in Milwaukee, Wis., and the Seaman-Dunning Corporation at Pine Bluff, Ark., also figure in the expansion.

The plans for the Racine plant call for two new buildings and a large amount of additional equipment, some for the new units and some for expansion in buildings already in use for production purposes. These improvements will reach a total cost of $500,000.

The Serman Body plant, which builds Nash closed bodies exclusively, will increase capacity with a new five-story building, 193 by 100 feet, which together with necessary additional equipment will mean an expenditure of about $450,000. This building is now under construction.

Expansion which will increase the size of the Pine Bluff plant by one-third is under way at a cost of $350,000. This plant manufactures wood parts used in the construction of Nash closed bodies.

These factory extensions will give the Racine plant, where Standard Six models are built, a capacity of from 400 to 450 cars per day.

Poor Ignition Expensive.

Watch the insulation of the ignition cable. Wornout or defective insulation is one of the chief causes of loss of power, increase of gas consumption, and larger operating costs.

STUDEBAKER

The Great Independent

Engineering Genius in Four Price Fields!

These 4 lines of Studebaker cars reflect the engineering genius of Studebaker's great staff of automotive technicians—men who have brought to Studebaker every official endurance and speed record for fully equipped stock cars, regardless of power or price.

The Studebaker tradition of quality manufacture—maintained for 76 years—has never before been so strikingly exemplified as in these cars of superior performance and dominant value. We invite you to inspect them at the automobile show—or in our showroom.

The New President Straight Eight—100 horsepower

$1985 f. o. b. factory

Hydraulic shock absorbers standard equipment

STUDEBAKER engineers have built into the great engine of the new President Eight the smoothest performance in speeds up to 80-miles-an-hour that you have ever experienced. Yet this 131-inch wheelbase car with its great power is so docile that a woman may drive it with ease. Though sold at a low, One-Profit price, it concedes not one iota to any car selling up to $4,000. It will lead the fine car field—supremely the "eight" of 1928! A Studebaker super-value at $1985 to $2450, f. o. b. factory.

The Commander—World's Champion Car

THIS is the car that startled all motordom in October by traveling 25,000 miles in less than 23,000 minutes—nothing on earth or in the sky ever traveled so far so fast. No more conclusive proof could be furnished that The Commander is the greatest achievement of post-war automotive engineering. You will find The Commander a handsome car—possessing every attribute you would rightfully expect in a World's Champion Car. A champion value, too, at $1495 to $1745, f. o. b. factory.

$1495 f. o. b. factory

$1195 f. o. b. factory

WHEN a stock model Dictator sedan went 1485 miles at better than a mile-a-minute speed for 24 consecutive hours at the Atlantic City Speedway on October 11th and 12th, it eclipsed every record for speed and endurance for cars under $1400. Because practically every vital part of The Dictator is made by Studebaker, parts makers' profits are reduced to a minimum. Savings are passed on to you in finer materials and precision workmanship. Compare its value at $1195 to $1345, f. o. b. factory.

The New American Edition of the Erskine Six

NOW a roomier, bigger, more powerful Erskine Six, designed expressly for America. A car of brilliant 6-cylinder performance—greater flexibility—quick-on-the-trigger acceleration! On October 12-13, a stock Erskine Sedan in 24 hours of continuous running averaged better than 54 miles per hour—establishing a new record for cars under $1000. A beautiful car. Complete in refinements—shock absorbers, arm rests, ash receiver, etc. First in performance, quality and value at its new low prices—$795 to $965, f. o. b. factory.

NEW STAR FOUR HAS POWERFUL MOTOR

Wheelbase Also Increased, and Prices Range From $495 to $570.

Longer wheelbase and entirely new body lines are among the features of the new Star four just announced by Durant Motors, Inc. This new line, by far the most important step taken by W. C. Durant to build high quality cars at the lowest possible price, is being exhibited this week at the Auto Show.

There are four models in the new Star line, a roadster, 4-door sedan, coupe and 2-door sedan, ranging in price from $495 to $570. They are mounted on an improved 107-inch chassis, which is a longer chassis than any ever used on the Star four. It permits use of larger, roomier bodies. The result is quite evident. Beautiful, sweeping lines from the radiator to the rear of the body and from the front fenders to tire carrier accentuate the long, low appearance of the Star.

Features of the new Star are: Four wheel brakes, oil filter, full balloon tires, full crown fenders, as well as a more powerful motor, mounted on blocks of resilient rubber to eliminate vibration.

Star bodies were designed and built by Hayes-Hunt. The closed models have a one-piece windshield topped by a smart, military sun visor. The roadster and coupe are upholstered in leather while the four-door and two-door sedans are in mohair. All bodies have broad comfortable seats with plenty of leg room.

The Star roadster is ideal for sport or business. It offers snappy body lines with a choice of four color combinations and the most complete quality features at its price. These include windshield wings, nickel fittings and a rumble seat folding into a gracefully curved rear deck.

With extra wide doors and two folding seats in the front the two-door sedan is designed for the greatest comfort and convenience. The leather-covered top and rear quarter of the sedan produce the smart effect of a closed touring or town car and together with the four color combinations in which it is offered, suggest many uses for this car.

The new coupe, for practical and economical convenience, is just the car for business, professional people and others. It is smart, easy to handle, with generous luggage space.

The new Star four-door sedan, like the other models in this line, is probably the greatest value offered by W. C. Durant in his 25 years in the industry. It is the largest and most thoroughly modern car in appearance, performance and equipment obtainable at the price. It is complete in every detail, supplying all the features that the most critical buyer could ask for.

The prices for the new Star four are roadster, $495; coupe, $495; two-door sedan, $495; four-door sedan, $570, f. o. b. factory.

NEW STANDARDS IN LIGHT CAR VALUES

Buyer Now Has Choice of Several Cars Differing but Little in Price.

By W. A. ELIOT, Manager, Willys-Overland, Inc., St. Louis.

Recent developments in price and in construction in the light car field have established a standard of values which has never been approached before. The present situation has been developing for the past 18 months and results from a concentration of effort outstanding in the history of the motor car industry.

The real import of the change made itself felt in December and in January when announcements of model changes and price reduction were made by the three leading builders in the light car class.

Choice of Cars.

Today the buyer in the light car price class has a choice of cars with two of the lowest-priced makes differing only $15 in list price in the top price body types. This is an entirely new situation and one which is working to the advantage of the buyer.

All models amon gthe light cars are now equipped with such standard features of design as gear shift speed control, four-wheel brakes, foot accelerator and such devices.

All models among the light cars of this type of control was made in June, 1926, when the Whippet made its initial appearance as the first of Amrelcan built light cars to adopt four-wheel brakes.

Among the three leading light cars, greater speed, faster acceleration, increased flexibility and added economy have come as a result of improved motor design and the development of greater brake horse power from given piston displacement.

Until the middle of 1926 the European light car was far superior to anything built in this country. Today the American built light car is setting the standards for other countries to follow. This is shown by the rapid increase in sales of American light cars in European countries.

Manufacturers have turned their attention to improved production methods. This has resulted in lowered costs for building cars and has made entirely new standard of prices and values possible.

Statement by Willys.

In a statement by John Willys, president of Willys-Overland, in Chicago this week, he said that the Whippet, on which reductions running as high as $200 on one model have been made, is making a greater contribution to overhead than at the old prices. This is entirely the result of manufacturing economies and increased efficiency in manufacturing methods.

All three manufacturers in the light car group in the low price ranges are reporting the heaviest sales in their history and all three are stepping production up to record figures.

Retail sales in the light car class have exceeded those of the greatest selling months of previous years and all dealers are ordering heavily in advance as the spring selling season is drawing nearer.

Statements made by leading statisticians in the industry indicate a potential of 2,000,000 light car buyers this year. Early sales figures are in line with this prophecy.

Retail buying at the present time shows that the present type of light car is finding an entirely new market among owners of two and three cars. With the present specifications, appearance and quality, the light car ranks itself alongside the most costly creations in performance and in satisfaction.

It is being bought as the second and the third car in families where multiple cars are being used. Certain agricultural sections show 263 motor cars to every 100 families and even the poorest farming sections show 68 cars to every 100 families.

Present noncar owners are finding in the price ranges which exist at the present time an opportunity to secure the convenience and economy of motor car transportation which makes it safe to state that there is hardly a family in the entire country that would not be better off with a car than without one.

followed the price reduction.

A conception of what the buyer of low-priced cars can expect for his money is shown in the specifications of the Whippet which, in one model, is the lowest priced car of its type in the world.

MECHANICAL FEATURES OF NEW CHEVROLET

Principle of Improved Non-Locking Four-Wheel Brakes Is Explained.

Increased speed and power, easier steering, four-wheel brakes of new design, shock-absorber springs and smoother engine performance are a few of the mechanical advantages which the 1928 Chevrolet line has over its predecessor.

Vibration has been dealt with by the use of constant clearance alloy "invar strut" pistons which make for smoother, more efficient action. Further contributions toward this end were gained by raising the compression ratio and by stepping up the valve lifts. Through these changes faster acceleration and maximum power are developed.

Other changes in the engine are the addition of a "breathing" system to eliminate the annoyance of engine fumes, a new two-port exhaust and a silencing engine enclosure.

Nonlocking Brakes.

The four-wheel brakes are of nonlocking design—the product of Chevrolet laboratories plus the facilities of General Motors laboratories and proving grounds. Front brakes are two-shoe unenergized internals, while the rear brakes are the energized external, self-wrapping type. Front pairs and rear pairs have been proportioned to prevent side drag or pull. This was done by attaching the front brake rods to bell cranks at the end of one cross shaft, and the rear rods to another cross shaft, while a lever near the center of each of these shafts is hooked up to a curved proportioner on which the brake pedal rod operates.

The initial pedal application throws the front brakes into action. Further application throws front brakes harder into action and also brings the rear brakes into play. Still further pedal pressure brings the rear brakes into full play so that it is possible to slide the rear wheels on dry pavement under full pressure and not the front wheels. The effect of this, according to Chevrolet engineers, is to spare the rear brakes all work that could fail on the front brakes in order to get uniform wear on the brake lining.

Spring Rebound Checks.

Realizing that uncomfortable spring action is the result of rebound after striking a bump, Chevrolet engineers set about to increase the friction of the springs and thus check the rebound. This end was achieved by equipping the springs with special rebound checks.

These rebound checks are inverted bow-shaped steel leaves assembled under high pressure against the top of the spring leaf, the ends pressing against the of the leaf, thus increasing resistance.

Greater ease of steering made possible by adopting a bearing worm and gear steering mechanism, the increased bearings in the steering and by increasing the steering ratio from 8 to 9.5 to 1.

The four-inch increase in wheelbase contributes greatly to riding quality of the car, with pitching and better road ability.

The front axle has been and strengthened to accommodate the new brake attachment. A shroud has been added for efficient cooling.

MORE AUTOS THAN PEOPLE

Statistics compiled by the Chrysler corpany show that there are more motor cars than people in use today.

The automotive industry surpasses the steel business, clothing and the telephone industry in size. It has become the world's most important economic activity except providing food, clothing and shelter for humanity.

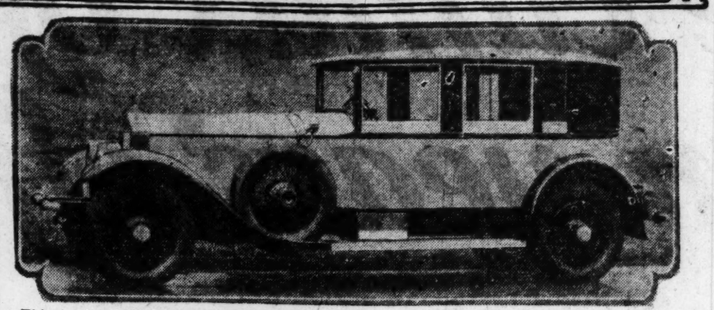
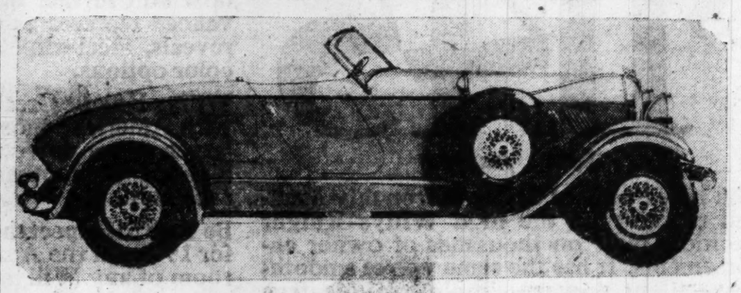
What's Newest in Motor Cars

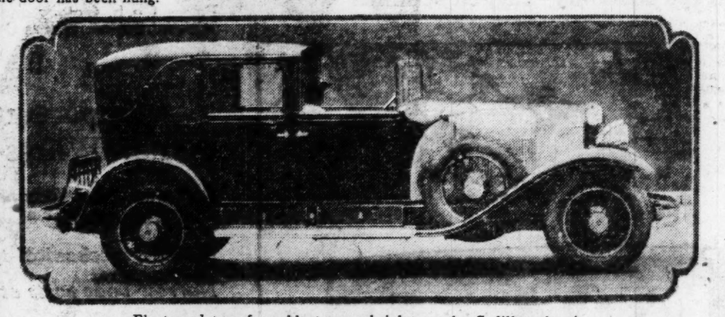


This is the Rolls-Royce Warwick sedan model on the new phantom chassis. It is a five-passenger car of enclosed drive type for the owner-driver, and can be converted to a chauffeur driven car if desired. It is priced at $19,200 delivered in St. Louis.

McFarlan straight eight custom-built sedan for five passengers.



This boat-shaped speedster model is had in both the new Auburn Series 115 and 88 lines. The Series 115 cars develop 115 h. p. Note the accentuated streamlines. Note the rakish angle at which the door has been hung.



Fleetwood transformable town cabriolet on the Cadillac chassis.

Franklin Cars Show Advanced Trend

Weighing from three hundred to one thousand pounds less and having a much smaller turning circle than the average seven-passenger car now offered, the Franklin Airman models of this capacity set a distinctly new trend.

Three bodies have been designed for the new 125-inch wheelbase chassis, each capable of comfortably seating seven people. The unique feature of this large car is that it parks and drives as easily as the smaller five-passenger cars. Built low, yet possessing ample headroom, thees cars have the attractive lines of the five-passenger models.

Two auxiliary seats facing forward on all models, fold neatly into a recess in the front seatback, when not in use. These seats are unusually comfortable, being constructed on a sliding member providing ample leg room for all passengers in the tonneau.

A windshield protects the tonneau of the touring, folding compactly against the seatback when desired. In the limousine a sliding glass partition separates passenger and chauffeur compartments.

Wide interest has been evinced in these seven-passenger models since their introduction and factory officials state sales of this type car will greatly augment the totaf Franklin output in 1928.

The Franklin Automobile Co., 3946 Lindell boulevard, is local distributer of the line.

Durant Has 4-Speed Transmission

Much attention is being attracted at the show to the working model of the new 4-speed transmission found on W. C. Durant's Silver Anniversary "75."

This new gear shift, which prominent engineers claim is the only distinct advance seen in transmission design, not only provides for noiseless shifting of gears, but also gives the car extraordinary speed without racing the engine.

The transmission, which is built under exclusive Durant patents, is of so-called twin-high type with an internal gear drive. While this is not entirely new in the automotive field, it is now used for the first time on passenger cars.

By means of this new transmission, gear shift noises on all speeds are avoided and a range of reductions is provided which enables the car to travel 85 miles per hour in fourth speed, which is a direct speed. Third, also is direct, and is used for ordinary driving, while fourth is used for fast work.

Moon 8-80 Equipped With Duplex Carburetor

The Stromberg Duplex or twin carburetor used on the Moon 8-80 engine permits the complete development of the eight cylinder principle. When a twin carburetor is used on an 8-cylinder motor, twin intake manifolds are also used so that each of the two barrels of the carburetor may be set to feed an individual 4-cylinder engine. This naturally gives easier carburetion, better distribution and an increase in power from the freer breathing which the engine cylinders receive.

In the Stromberg Duplex Carburetor another recent improvement in carburetor practice is embodied. An automatic thermal adjustment of the accelerating charge. On this carburetor a simple, positive and completely enclosed thermostat is fitted which regulates the accelerating charge exactly according to the temperature of the gasoline and air before they enter the mixing chamber of the carburetor. The use of this device results in quick warming up and smoother operation in all seasons. It also makes possible a considerable saving in fuel consumption.

Falcon-Knight Cars Show Improvement

The De Luxe Motor Car Co., Falcon-Knight distributor, is displaying for the first time at the Auto Show the new four-door sedan and two-door sedan models of the improved 1928 Falcon-Knight line.

The four-door sedan, a five-passenger model, has long sweeping lines and is presented in a number of optional colors.

One color scheme is offered in Grainer brown below the upper belt with Kalyuk drab above. The stripe is of Newfound orange with wheels of Grainger brown striped with Tatoosh cream.

A second color scheme is Gibloux blue up to the drip moulding with the rear section of the body above the upper belt and front of body above cowl arch bar in Saindre blue.

These two color combinations form a perfect blend with the interior two-tone upholstery of rich mohair.

Crowned fenders add dash to the car's appearance while the use of a sharp cadet or town car type and visor imparts a distinctly military flavor.

Improved Manifold On Pierce-Arrow Cars

To design a manifold that will function properly throughout the entire range of engine speeds is one of the most difficult tasks for an automotive engineer to solve. Pierce-Arrow engineers, after a vast amount of experimental work, have designed a new type of manifold for the Series 81 which greatly improves power and acceleration. The gas travels an equal distance to all cylinders, insuring even distribution and, therefore, greater power.

Stearns Limousine On 145-Inch Wheelbase

The new Stearns-Knight de luxe seven-passenger limousine presented for the first time by the Stearns-Knight Co. of Cleveland, is one of the most striking of 1928 models.

The car is mounted on the new de luxe chassis with a 145-inch wheelbase. It is characterized by a long, low appearance, with its rich, sweeping lines enhanced by the employment of full-crowned fenders and a radiator that gives a narrow effect. This new radiator marks a new trend in design. Massive nickeled headlights and cowl lights on an extension arm add greatly to the appearance.

With the buyer given a wide range of colors to select from and with interior upholstery of rich material to match, the purchaser is enabled to have in the seven-passenger de luxe limousine complete individuality and originality.

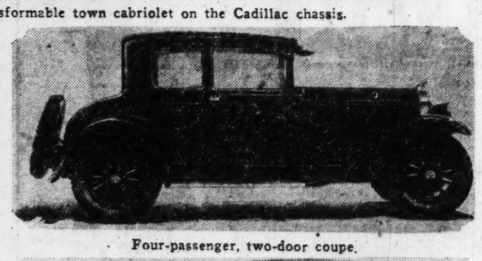
The de luxe limousine is powered by the straight-eight Knight sleeve-valve engine, the first of its kind ever to have been used in this country. Introduced a year ago, it has been responsible for the noticeable trend in the luxury car field toward cars employing this type of power plant. In speed, power, smoothness, flexibility and serviceability it has won a commanding position with motor car owners who demand the very best in their selection of a motor car.

Nash Springs Aid Roadability

An important contribution to motor car comfort has been made by Nash engineers in the development of new secret process alloy steel springs which are offered for the first time on the current Nash models, according to the Southwest Nash Co., territorial distributors.

These springs, produced by the Nash engineering department after months of experimental work, employ several entirely new principles in obtaining riding ease.

The new springs differ in three ways from ordinary springs. First, they are made of a new, secret process alloy steel of remarkable shock-absorbing properties. Secondly, they are inherently balanced for perfect vertical action. Third, they are tailored to the individual requirements of each of the 24 Nash models.



Four-passenger, two-door coupe.

New Velie "8" Developes 96 H. P.

The new Velie 8-88 is being offered in two sedan body styles—the royal sedan, with a sport-type slanting front windshield, and the special sedan, with the conventional straight front windshield. Both bodies are mounted on an extra heavy double-drop pressed steel chassis frame of 125 inches wheelbase, with a rear cross member plate 16 inches wide.

A feature of this car is a worm drive axle—usually found only in the highest priced eights—making for quieter driving and less wear on the bearings. The motor of the new Velie develops a brake horsepower of 96, has full force feed lubrication through a gear-driven pump, and is equipped with an oil filter with pressure gauge on the instrument panel.

The interiors of the bodies are upholstered in chase velmo mohair throughout, set off by silk assist cords, silk curtains, arm rests, robe rail, foot hassocks and Butler satin finish hardware to match.

The Laclede Motor Co., of which O. C. Hazelrigg is president, is St. Louis Velie distributer.

Features of Whippet Cabriolet Coupe

The Whippet cabriolet coupe with rumble seat, being shown at the automobile show, is occupying a conspicuous place among the most popular four-cylinder cars being exhibited there.

The cabriolet coupe, a two-type car, is mounted on the low swung Whippet chassis, the body as a whole presenting a trim and sporty appearance. In addition it provides the protection of a closed car together with the freedom of the open roadster.

Encased sponge-rubber weather stripping is used to assure an entirely weatherproof body when the top and windows are up. In an operation that takes but a moment the cabriolet coupe can be converted from an entirely closed model to an open roaster. This is done by folding the collapsible top which fits into a trim boot.

One of the features of this model is the provision for the removal of the panel at the rear when the top is raised. This permits the occupants in the rumble seat to converse freely with the passengers in the front compartment. When the top is lowered the side windows, which are set in nickeled frames, may be raised, this providing a three-sided windshield.

Automatic windshield cleaner, rear view mirror and stoplight have been added as standard equipment.

STUTZ SHOWS WIDE VARIETY IN COLOR

"No Two Cars Alike" Is Slogan—Engineering Is Fundamentally Unchanged.

Perhaps no car had so complete and thorough tests under the severe strain of public competition as has the Stutz, winner of every event entered during the past season—the tests ranging from track to road racing, from hill climbs to endurance tests. It is but natural that Stutz engineers should be reasonably well content with the fundamentals of their work, so the changes in the new line of Stutz cars exhibited at the motor shows represent mere refinements.

"Many of them are never needed in normal motoring," says F. E. Moskovics, president of the Stutz Motor Car Co., "but have been brought out in the gruelling laboratory of record-breaking competition, so the future Stutz owners will directly benefit from the past season's racing. The present car is presented—a proved, tested, complete product.

"The one startling departure in the splendid Stutz series is in the use of color, for during the coming season, no two Stutz cars will be alike. A really limitless number of color combinations has been worked out by the Stutz body engineers, together with other color experts, so that the Stutz phrase, 'Each car as exclusive as a Paris gown—no two cars alike' is literally true. The spectrum and all its intermediate hues will be used in the development of the widest range of color combinations ever attempted in the motor car industry. Thus, there will be no 'standard' models in the Stutz line, as each car will be truly individualized—truly custom-built.

Bodies Longer and Wider.

"Even further is every Stutz body of custom design. The creations of the greatest designers of Europe and America were studied and analyzed, and the present line of bodies is the product of one of the foremost designers of the world. It was felt that the splendid Stutz chassis, the 'undefeated stock car champion of 1927,' deserved the finest dress possible, so no expense was spared to make these the most luxurious, most comfortable bodies ever mounted on a production car.

"To this end, the bodies were lengthened and made somewhat wider, and nothing that could add to comfort was spared."

The Challenger type motor that powers the Splendid Stutz models is the overhead camshaft motor brought out by the Stutz two years ago, but with improvements and refinements that have added smoothness, quietness, and, most of all a wealth of performance ability. Changes that have been made in the motor since it was first presented to the public have been entirely in mechanical detail. The fundamentals are unchanged. The horsepower of the present motor is conservatively stated as 112, but at 3600 revolutions, the chart actually shows 115 horsepower. Thus, more than 20 horsepower have been added to the motor during the past year without the bore and stroke having been changed.

How Power Is Increased.

This tremendous gain in power is, in a considerable measure, due to the new dual ramshorn type of intake manifold, the dual passages of which are absolutely independent of each other. This manifold permits the motor to operate as two distinct four-cylinder motors with a dual carburetor. The new type Zenith carburetor has an acceleration well. The Autopulse, an electric fuel pump, assuring constant fuel feed at even the highest possible speeds, is standard on the two and four-passenger Black Hawk models, and is optional on other models.

The added power is also partially attributed to the change in design of the cylinder head by which water passages were created between the valves, which are now water-jacketed throughout.

A 5-to-1 compression ratio with cast iron pistons is standard in all models of the new series, except the two-passenger and four-passenger Black Hawks, which have Bohnalite pistons giving a 5½ to 1 ratio.

Twin Spark Plugs.

The adoption of a distributor with an eight-lobe cam and double breakers, and two independent coils, assures simultaneous ignition by the double ignition system operating in each cylinder. Each cylinder gets a definitely simultaneous response from the twin spark plugs.

The shorter wheelbase models now have the larger transmissions previously used on the seven-passenger type chassis. The transmission brake effectiveness has been multiplied by increasing its diameter from 6½ to 8 inches, and its width from 2 to 2½ inches.

The new type transmission lock, located on the top of the gear-shift lever, locks by pushing down on the movable ball-end of the lever and engaging a small finger catch just below the ball-end. This can be done in one movement with the finger grip on the catch. Thus the transmission is locked without the use of a key; it is unlocked by turning a key in the top of the lever ball.

NEW GRAHAM-PAIGE PRICE LIST RANGES FROM $860 TO $2110

PRICES of the new line of Graham-Paige motor cars include a range within reach of the majority of purchasers.

A 2-passenger coupe on the six-cylinder model 610 chassis lists at $860. The 5-passenger sedan, on the same chassis, is quoted at $875.

The beautiful 4-passenger coupe on the six-cylinder model 619 chassis, sells for $1575. The 5-passenger sedan on the same chassis is priced at $1595.

Three cars on the model 629, the largest six-cylinder chassis in the line, are priced as follows: 5-passenger sedan, $1985; 5-passenger town sedan, $2085; and 7-passenger sedan, $2110. All prices are f. o. b. Detroit.

These prices include only three of the five of the Graham-Paige models to be built. Price announcements are expected shortly on the six-cylinder model 614, and the eight-cylinder model 835.

SCHOOL BUSSES IN TEXAS

Under a new law recently effective in Texas every child who has completed grammar school work and cannot receive high school instruction in his home district is entitled to free tuition in a high school elsewhere in his county.

PRIVATE SHOWING OF G. M. TRUCK CO. LINE

Firm Is Not Exhibiting at Auto Show—Display to Be at Branch Here.

General Motors trucks will not be shown at the St. Louis automobile show. The full line will be exhibited at the new truck branch building, 2642 Washington avenue, from Feb. 6 to 11, at which time a complete line of standard and special bodies will be shown. Also hoist, steel dump bodies, refrigerator bodies, and many other different types, and trailers for different hauling needs.

This exhibit will enable the large dealer organizations to bring in their prospects and show them the truck bodies most suited for their needs.

O. H. Perkins, St. Louis branch manager, states that the growing demand for dependable six-cylinder one and one and one-half ton trucks has made it necessary to add to the G. M. line these two models.

The one-ton chassis has 4-wheel brakes, 4-speed transmission, powered with a six-cylinder Pontiac motor and equipped with a full line of different style bodies. The chassis sells for $745.

FREE BUS SERVICE TO AUTO SHOW

The climax of fourteen years' effort—

a NEW WILLYS-KNIGHT for only $1145

F.O.B. Factory

Lowest prices in Willys-Knight history open a great new field

PRESENTING at the 1928 Automobile Show a low-priced Six of typical Willys-Knight quality, means that this company has reached the goal of fourteen years—a Willys-Knight Six at the lowest price in history!

The supremacy of the Willys-Knight sleeve-valve engine is a matter of general knowledge—not only to more than 300,000 owners, but to leading engineers as well. Naturally, it costs more to build this superior engine. It is only today, after nearly a decade and a half of constant experiments, and with greatly improved and increased manufacturing facilities, that we have reached our goal of bringing the patented Willys-Knight sleeve-valve engine into a lower price field.

The new Standard Six is thoroughly qualified to carry on the high Willys-Knight tradition, built on thousands of owner endorsements. It has the same velvet smoothness—silent power—simple, trouble-free design—quick starting—ease of control—marked economy—rugged stamina.

Two other brilliant Sixes complete this distinguished line

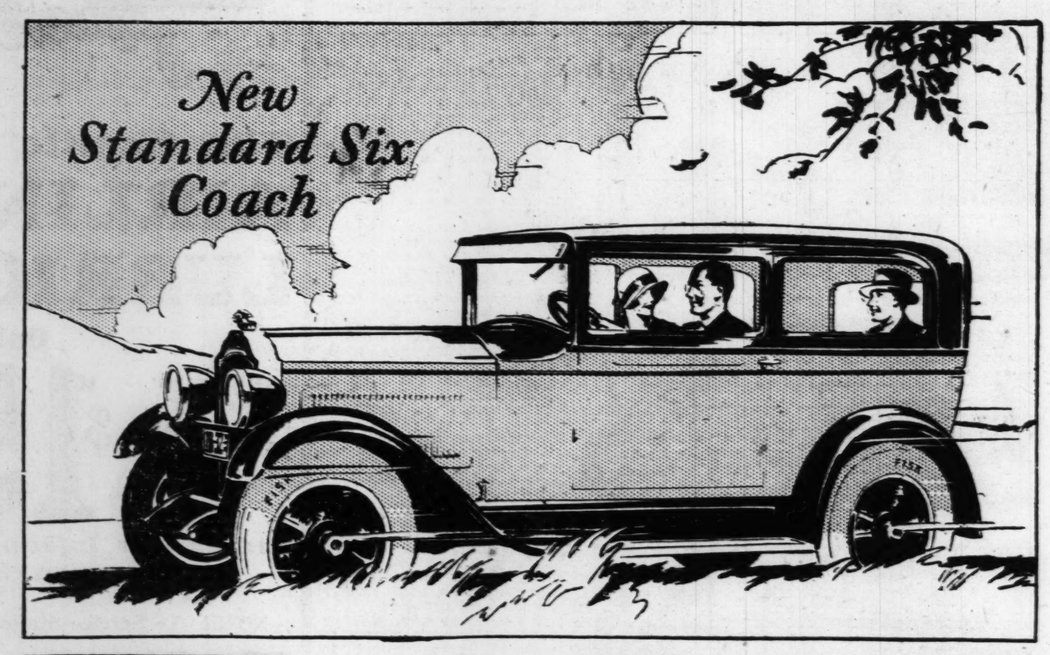
Willys-Knight Special Six—improved, finer; now still further distinguished by such advanced features as crown fenders, window reveals, steel-rimmed roof, beautiful new color options.

Willys-Knight Great Six—taking front rank with America's most luxurious cars. Now a larger, more powerful engine insures even higher and smoother speed, and even flashier acceleration.

Be sure to inspect these finer Willys-Knights for 1928—at the Auto Show or at the display room of any Willys-Overland dealer.

Willys-Knight Sixes range in price from $1145 to $2695, in the Standard Six, Special Six, and Great Six divisions.

Prices f. o. b. factory and specifications subject to change without notice. Willys-Overland, Inc., Toledo, Ohio.



Important advantages of the new Willys-Knight Standard Six

Patented high compression sleeve-valve engine; 45-horsepower

Positive, mechanical-type 4-wheel brakes

Narrow body posts at windshield for clear vision

8 Timken bearings in front axle for easiest steering

Roomy, comfortable interiors

Wide, deeply cushioned form-fitting seats

Light control for dimming, on toe board at left

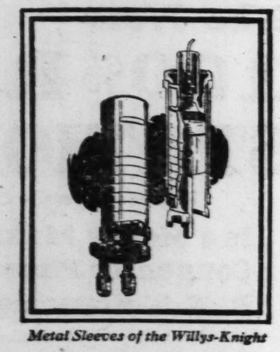
Adjustable steering wheel on all models

Adjustable front seat on Sedan

Better ventilation—extra large cowl ventilator, and a windshield that opens exceptionally wide

Remote controls on doors, convenient to the hand

Thermostat—air cleaner—oil rectifier



Metal Sleeves of the Willys-Knight

High compression with any gas!

The simplicity of the patented Willys-Knight engine is responsible for its remarkable efficiency. Two metal sleeves in each cylinder move smoothly, silently up and down, one within the other, in a protective film of oil. They admit and expel gas through openings in their sides. There is no complicated valve mechanism with tappets and cams. There are no valve springs to weaken, or to collect carbon, and thereby destroy compression.

The spherical cylinder head of the Willys-Knight directs the full force of the explosion straight downward against the piston, making the most efficient use of the highly compressed gas. Such carbon as forms serves only to seal the chamber even more perfectly. As a result, the Willys-Knight engine gives high uniform compression at all times, at all speeds—and with any gas. And it is the only type of engine that constantly grows smoother and quieter with use.

"IT" in a New Uniform

Clara Bow in the motion picture "Wings" at the American.

Amateurs Back in Limelight

Players Guild to Have Week of Old Italian Play, "A Curious Mishap," While "Broadway" Is Playing at Shubert and American Presents Picture, "Wings" — Orpheum Off on New Policy.

THE amateur actors are sharing the spotlight with the professional theaters this week for while the Shubert has that intensely interesting melodrama, "Broadway" and the American reverts again to pictures with the war spectacle, "Wings," the Players Guild tomorrow will begin a six nights' offering of Carlo Goldoni's old Italian play, "A Curious Mishap" at the Artists' Guild Theater. The goal of the newly organized Players Guild, that of a competent amateur repertory company with its own Little Theater, seems less distant today than it did at the start of its present season, with four members of the cast in "A Curious Mishap" having established themselves through performances in previous productions of the Guild.

That four members of previous casts were called upon again does not indicate that Director F. K. Cowley has yet reached his goal in the matter of a company, but it does point to the fact that he has begun to shape a definite acting organization.

Far from being completed, the company is yet in such an embryonic condition that the Players Guild in its production will again turn to the one act play that the possibilities of more performers may be tested in action.

Out of the last group of one act plays came two members of the present cast—Alan A. Atchison, who has the difficult role of Filiberto, a rich Dutch merchant, in "A Curious Mishap," and Gene Woods, who plays the part of Riccardo, a miserly broker.

Elliott W. Bergfeld, who will be seen as a rapscallion servant, Gascoigne, likewise played in the one act group, but he also participated in the production of "Outward Bound" as Tom Pryor. In the same offering was Ben W. Fry, who this time has the role of Lieut. de la Cotterie, a penniless French officer, in love with the daughter of Riccardo.

The new faces to be seen in "A Curious Mishap" are chiefly feminine—Eloise Frazier, as Giannini, Filiberto's daughter, who reciprocates De la Cotterie's love but is afraid to confess it to her father; Jackson Perkins as Marianna, her flighty maid; and Virginia Baker as Constanza, Riccardo's daughter also in love with the Frenchman.

The ancient Goldoni masterpiece is a comparatively difficult one to play. The numerous asides, for the Italian dramatist was writing in the period when these were still the vogue, are difficult to fit in, and it requires able actors to render them naturally, as well as read the sparkling comedy in a smooth fashion. How the Players will do it remains to be seen, but at the present rate of development it would not be at all surprising if the Players Guild were so firmly organized as to demand city-wide attention by the end of its first season and thus assure the erection of the Little Theater that is the new organization's goal.

The Big City After Dark

"BROADWAY," the drama of love and intrigue in the shadows of New York's underworld, comes to the Shubert-Rialto tonight for a two weeks' stay with the cast that has just terminated a five months' run at the Selwyn Theater, Chicago. The organization appeared for twenty-two weeks in Detroit before opening in Chicago, shattering all records in the motor city for attendance and gross receipts. After 70 weeks of prosperity, the play is still running in New York.

The Chicago cast of "Broadway" which comes here, is headed by Wallace Ford in the role of Roy Lane, the egotistical "hoofer" and Harriet E. MacGibbon as his chorus girl sweetheart, Billie Moore. Around these two and a suave bootlegger chief, played by Robert Strange, most of the action pivots. A typical gilded night club supplies the locale and the characters are entertainers, racketeers and other habitues of the place. The determination of Lane, the egotistical but honest-hearted song-and-dance man, to protect Billie in her dangerous environment and make her his partner in a "big-time" vaudeville act provides the motive for a series of exciting events which are climaxed by the death of the bootlegger at the hands of a woman, whose "man" he has shot in the back in the first few minutes of the play's action.

THE picture, "Wings," which starts at the American tonight, where it will also be a two weeks' attraction, is a thrilling movie of the late war as it was fought in the air. This film was nearly two years in the making and it nearly died a-bornin'. The objections to making it, the cost, the difficulty of placing cameras to shoot the scenes, the problem of securing the planes, the pilots and the bal-

Carl Schuricht Coming as Guest Symphony Leader

Second European Orchestral Conductor Will Give His Initial Concert at the Odeon on Feb. 17.

CARL SCHURICHT, the second orchestral conductor of European fame to make his American debut under the auspices of the St. Louis Symphony Society as guest conductor of the orchestra, will reach New York tomorrow. Some few details with regard to his programs for five weeks of concerts here remain to be worked out before rehearsals start, but in the main they will be as previously announced. The first is on Feb. 17.

Schuricht is said to be one of the outstanding conductors of the younger German school. So much so, that Ossip Gabrilowitsch, conductor of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, when he heard St. Louis was casting about for guest conductors wrote Manager William E. Walter suggesting Schuricht be considered; for he had become familiar with his work in Germany. Schuricht had already been engaged and Gabrilowitsch immediately asked St. Louis for a date for Schuricht as guest-conductor at Detroit.

Carl Schuricht was born in Danzig, his father being an organ-maker. However, when he lost his life in attempting to rescue a drowning man the elder Schuricht left his widow and his son in poverty. A wealthy uncle provided Carl Schuricht's education until the boy was 15, and at that age the young musician left school, giving lessons in music and language to earn a living for his mother and himself. Meantime he continued musical studies with the best available masters and before he was 20 had composed two operas.

By the time he was 21 the youth had conducted, for one year, the opera at Mainz. He set forth then to find a publisher for his music in Berlin, and on the train chanced to make the acquaintance of a German poet who gave him letters of introduction to Joachim and Rudorff, the directors of the famous High School of Music there. These two artists, through their interest in the youth, secured for him a four-year scholarship from Franz von Mendelssohn, nephew of the great composer, and for that term Schuricht composed and conducted in Berlin, and in other cities.

From among 140 candidates he was selected to conduct the Ruhl Oratorium Choir at Frankfort-on-Main, and from his splendid success there developed his reputation as a conductor of both classics and moderns, for among the works he presented with that choir were the Bach Mass, Beethoven's Missa Solemis, the Ninth Symphony, oratorios of Haydn and Handel, and such new things as Pierne's "Croisade des enfants," Delius' "Sea-Drift" and "Mass of Life," and Wolfe-Ferraris "La vita nuova."

He has conducted with success in London, at La Scala, Milan, in Glasgow, Edinburgh, Moscow and Stockholm, with the Gewandhaus orchestra at Leipsic, the Philharmonic at Berlin, at Frankfort, Hanover, Stuttgart, Mannheim, Dusseldorf, Nurnberg, in Vienna and in the Netherlands.

"Where'd You Get Them Dandelions?"

Wallace Ford, as the lovestruck "hoofer" in "Broadway" at the Shubert, questions his dancing partner, Harriet MacGibbon in the show.

Jolson Injected Into War

Loew's Files Its Answer to the Varieties by Announcing That Comedian Will Be Brought Here for Personal Appearance at a Salary Undreamed of by Movie Theaters—The Art of Charley Chaplin, the Clown of Clowns.

By NIE.

LOEW'S THEATER here has taken a hand in the battle between the vaudeville houses and the cinema palaces, just now centered in St. Louis, with the announcement that Al Jolson will appear in person at the State for one week starting next Saturday. This word comes just as the Missouri tries its experiment of presenting the picture "Old Ironsides" this week without any stage attraction at all and hot on the announcement of the Orpheum that it would play continuous vaudeville and pictures at a scale of prices below that of the movie theaters, starting with today's shows.

Jolson's flyer into the movie-vaudeville game is not a new step for the comedian. He has played picture houses out on the coast where he is known to have received $17,500 for a week's work—if you call it that. He comes here on a guarantee and a percentage-of-the-profit basis which is likely to net him around $20,000 for the week and may go even higher if he will consent to do extra shows. Jolson has never been averse to making all the money possible out of his engagements but he is an extremely temperamental person and also, violently independent. The only reason he is not twice as independent is that he couldn't be. He thinks nothing of closing his musical shows in mid-season and darting off to Florida and did just that thing a month or so ago when his "Big Box" was booked at the Shubert-Rialto Theater for what would have been a tremendously profitable week.

Will Set Record For Salary Here

BUT whatever the man who made a million or more out of singing about his Mammy in Alabamy—Will Rogers says he left her in Moscow—gets for his week here it will totally ruin all the other high-priced engagements ever recorded by any St. Louis motion picture theater. By comparison, the $3200 paid that eminent scholar and exponent of the manly art of scrambled ears, Prof. Gene Tunney, pales into a weak laugh. Such engagements as Sousa's Band ($9500, plus transportation for 65 men from Kansas City), Paul Whiteman's Orchestra ($10,500), Ruth Elder ($7500), Ted Lewis' Orchestra ($6500), Nora Bayes ($5000), Gilda Gray (a percentage engagement, probably reaching $8500), and Vincent Lopez's Orchestra ($6500)—well, such princely remunerations develop into pin-money, by comparison.

Charley Chaplin The Clown

JOLSON will, without question, do an enormous week's business for Loew here. How much money the theater will have left after paying him and its ordinary overhead expenses and the rental of its feature picture is another matter. I am inclined to the idea that the house profit will fall far short of what it should have been with a good picture alone and am still of the opinion that the movie houses, in the main, would please the public better by sticking closely to their knitting and playing nothing but movies—assuming, of course, that they could get good movies week in and week out.

And while on the subject of good pictures I saw, the other day, at a private showing, Charley Chaplin's new film, "The Circus," an opus which was two years in the making. The delay was due, not to difficulties of production but to Chaplin's matrimonial entanglements which held up the work. "The Circus" may not be quite the little comedian's best picture but it is without much doubt his gayest. Certainly he shows no traces in it of the troubles he was having at home while it was being made and as a laugh producer it will rank with the best slap stick cinema play ever made. In it Chaplin returns to his custard pie days—and a soft pie in the movies today is quite as funny as it was years ago.

We have seen, too, a copy of a recent book written by M. Willson Disher, entitled "Clowns and Pantomime," and published in a limited edition by Houghton, Mifflin. Chaplin is one of the clowns discussed in "Clowns and Pantomime." Alone of all cinema comedians, Charley Chaplin is linked by Mr. Disher in discussion, importance and anecdote with Grock, Grimaldi, Tarleton, the Fratellini, Pinkethman, Arlecchino, and Tom Barry. Chaplin's baggy trousers, elastic cane, elegant derby and mighty shoes are profoundly and thoroughly analyzed by the author as symbolical manifestations of a philosophy.

Aside from his costume, Chaplin's technique is discussed.

Pointers for Playwrights

—BY— PHILIP DUNNING

Mr. Dunning is one of the author's of the highly successful melodrama, "Broadway," which is at the Shubert Theater this week.

IT'S true enough that the best means a playwright has of computing his success is the heart-warming weekly royalty check and the length of time in which he continues to receive these checks, but I have discovered that there are other yardsticks by which he can measure his relative eminence in his calling. Perhaps the most flattering of these is the frequency with which the writer of the "success" is importuned for advice by newer and less fortunate members of his craft.

That is the point which I have reached, and with all due humility I beg leave to discharge part of my obligation to my correspondents by using the Post-Dispatch to acquaint them with the one great element in the construction of a good play, which I believe my experience entitles me to pass on to them as a valuable bit of advice. It is this: Get acquainted with—more than that—know the milieu of your play before you start to write it.

When the idea of "Broadway" first came to me, I was fortunate enough to realize that my main problem would be that of making an essentially melodramatic story in a truly bizarre setting seem natural and convincing to an audience. I was fortunate, too, in having an initial knowledge of some of the characters, namely, the hoofer, the cabaret songstress and the dancing girls, for they were of the world in which I had spent all except my earliest years—that of the stage. In fact, the model from whom I drew the "hoofer" is one of my closest friends. Each of the girls, too, is an actual portrait of some girl whom I have encountered in my years as vaudeville and musical comedy actor, stage manager and producer. These characters, then, were regarded by me as so much velvet.

But I was not so well posted in the beginning of the more sinister characters and those who were indigenous only to the night clubs, nor was I too well acquainted with the actual workings of the night clubs. It is with reference to my efforts to gain such knowledge that I commend myself as a model to the aspiring playwright.

The obvious mode of procedure, of course, was to frequent these places. I did that. It was by no means enough.

I finally decided that the only way I could gain a real insight into that which makes a night club a night club and not a restaurant, a dance hall or even a cabaret, was to become a waiter in one of those nocturnal emporia. And a waiter I became. It was then that I really began to rub elbows with the scarred gangsters who, as patrons, waiters, and even proprie-

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.

HERE are a few purely personal opinions that may mean nothing, but if they stir up discussion they will have achieved, well, at least, a discussion.

Something is very much wrong with our American colleges. Experimental murders, suicides, so-called companionate marriages and like perversions among collegiates are things seriously to consider.

The idea that girls who swig gin, smoke cigarettes and neck in public make just as good wives as their more puritanical sisters is silly. Every man who has seen anything of life knows better.

The notion that men who do not care for dogs and cats are not to be trusted is equally absurd. Love for our loyal and dumb animal friends is almost wholly a matter of propinquity.

Too much stress is being put on the happiness and economic security of the urban middle classes—the "white collar men" and their families. Most of them I know are deeply in debt and bored stiff with the cottages and hum drum life where the pavement ends. Most any one of them would change places with the high-flying rich in a jiffy.

The average New Yorker will tell you—and he believes it—that 90 per cent of the population in smaller cities are marking time until they get a chance to come to New York to live. I'll wager a fairish hope of heaven that 90 per cent of the population in any smaller city wouldn't make the break if you paid their transportation and gave them jobs proportionately as paying as they now hold.

Also, the man who makes good in the average smaller city does it with more work and the expression of a greater intelligence than New York requires. I know a sizable number of men bowling around in limousines here who couldn't make their salt in smaller cities.

Yet I believe New York, once you get used to it, is the most interesting place in America in which to live. And I do not think its temptations and pitfalls are any greater than Topeka, Kansas.

THE latest thing on Broadway is the torch song. These melodies are the plaintive lament of an unrequited love—a frequent occurrence on Broadway and consequently finding an enthusiastic response. The man or woman who has had his or her love affair go awry is, in Broadway language, "carrying the torch." It was a phrase coined by Tommy Lyman, a pallid and wistful songster who sings his ditties walking from table to table in night clubs.

CHIC SALE, the actor, a flop-eared country boy himself, has finished his home at Scarsdale, N. Y. It offers a thrill to those born back yonder and now living in the niches of Manhattan's man-made cliffs. Chic has a rope well with an iron-bound bucket and a gourd dipper. He has a back yard, and not a "garden." In the back yard is a grindstone with a tin can dripper. There is a cellar door for the children to slide down and a rain barrel to holler into. There is a wire hencoop for the chickens and a rock to crack walnuts on.

THIS story is being told. A bootlegger being sworn in court had his hand on the Bible, and to impress the judge said: "I hope my mother falls dead if I do not tell the truth." And when he reached home he found that is what happened to her. One newspaper printed it as true. And even if true was, of course, a coincidence.

NOEL COWARD, like Michael Arlen, seems to have lost his power to please New Yorkers with his plays. Once Coward had three plays simultaneously on Broadway. His two efforts this season were flops—one a dismal one. Arlen is said to be resting on his oars in Paris—a little amazed at the way America lifted him to the heights, only to drop him like a hot cake.

JOLSON IS INJECTED INTO THE VARIETIES AND MOVIE HOUSE WAR

author begins with the etymology of the word "slapstick"—a device employed by many clowns. It was toward the end of the seventeenth century when "Arlequin" introduced into England the double-lath of castigation which made the maximum amount of noise with the minimum of injury. According to Mr. Disher, "blows became so popular that Pinkethman and Bullock must have surpassed Juvena's Mamercus in the number they could take.

In the nineteenth century harlequinades a pinch of gunpowder was placed in the cleft of the slapstick. After that the craze in London died down. At the same time, however, Paris was infected. Clowns at the cirques had to have their faces smacked constantly.

Charlie Chaplin's only facial make-up, his black, close-cropped mustache, is in contrast to the make-up originally affected by clowns and still employed by the dotted-costume tumblers who roll in the sawdust of Barnum & Bailey's, Ringling Brothers, Sells-Floto and other circuses. Mr. Disher states that when the first actors mounted the cart of Thespis their faces were raddled with wine, to mark them off from ordinary men and thus help in creation of an illusion. It was also, says the book on clowns, the origin of the "make-up" necessary in all circumstances to clowns. "Mask," in fact, comes from the Arab word, maskharat, for clown. Chaplin's mustache, to which he has adhered from the days of "The Immigrant" to the present time of "The Circus," was antedated by the sooted cheeks of Ancient Rome, the red noses for devils in the Middle Ages, masks in the Commedia dell arte, bismuth and rouge in the English Harlequinade, flour in old French farces, and burnt cork in Negro minstrel shows—all of these "make-ups" indicating the advantage of a covered face in creation of an illusion.

MR. DISHER tells of the death of a clown in his bismuth mirth-paint, "giving an added terror to the spectacle of death." Chance Newton, then a child, played the part of a sprite in a pantomime. When the clown, William Buck of Surrey fame, did not appear, the sprite was sent to call him. He found him dead. "He had snuffed the bismuth of his white make-up into his brain."

Tarleton could clown without a mask, without even the make-up of a mustache such as Charlie Chaplin wears. It has only been at social gatherings that Chaplin, the unmasked clown, has clowned; never on the screen. A favorite pantomime of Chaplin during his off-stage moments is that of the toreador addressing the maddened bull. Muttering a garbled mass of sounds which were neither Spanish, English or Greek, Chaplin portrayed the bull, the toreador and the fair lady in the royal box when he performed this pantomime twice in New York last summer.

Tarleton could clown without a mask because he enjoyed the advantage of a flattened nose, "so that he had only to be shown between the tapestries at the back of the stage to raise delight." More recent examples of this school are Louis Wolheim, the comedian of "Two Arabian Knights," and who is now appearing in support of John Barrymore in "Tempest;" Tom Kennedy, Gunboat Smith and Bull Montana. Unlike Tarleton, the clown Hippisley relied on the scar of a burn on his face, received in the days when he was a candle-snuffer. Hippisley's burn was so successful, says Disher, that when he proposed to bring up his son for the stage and that heir-apparent did not evidence too much ability, Hippisley's friend, Quin, drawled the suggestion:

"Isn't it high time to burn the lad?"

RELIANCE on physical shortcomings—to which Chaplin did not resort to achieve laughter because he could not—was carried to the extreme in 1919. British troops in that year took over a theater in Bonn. There was a clown who seemed to talk with his tongue in his cheek. When an army surgeon examined the comedian he discovered that a cist in his cheek was causing the swelling. "He operated, and the operation was fatal to mirth."

Motley served the same purpose as the mask; Charlie Chaplin's derby, trousers, jacket and cane are as expressive as his mustache, as great an agency for creation of illusion. The evolution of a clown's garb is given by Disher in "Clowns and Pantomime."

"The fool's was a livery crowned with the vainly valiant cockscomb and children's bells, to take meaning out of his offense. The clown's served the same end by copying the tatters of the lout, exactly as the garb of Dicaeopolis did when he set out to mock the warrior without losing hold of his wartime audience's sympathy. At length patches and livery were merged in one design. Then history had to repeat itself. The dress of a poor man's tragedy was again borrowed, and again became motley. . . . When Harlequin's patches had become a patter of colored lozenges, the clown of the English Harlequinade was invented as a tatterdomalion. After his rags had become frills, the black-faced scarecrow, called Jim Crow, appeared. When "nigger minstrels" wore white collars and red-and-white striped trousers, the comedian was born with a red nose and with patched trousers.

Before Grock gave a sort of regularity to the costume in Paris, Auguste of the cirque wore old, ill-fitting garments—partly because French minds are amused at the masquerade of London streets, where the poor have no costume but the discarded garments of the rich, mainly for the reasons Dicaeopolis put forward.

"Charlie Chaplin follows suit, and, being singularly articulate, he finds philosophic reason for doing so:

"That costume helps me to express my conception of the average man, of myself. The derby, too small, is a striving for dignity. The mustache is vanity. The tightly buttoned coat and the stick and the whole manner are a gesture towards gallantry and flash and 'front.'"

He is chasing folly and he knows it. He is trying to meet the world bravely, to put up a bluff, and he knows that, too. He knows it so well that he can laugh at himself and pity himself a little.

Molinari Makes His Final Bow At Today's 'Pop'

Visiting Conductor to Conclude Work With Symphony Orchestra in Concert at the Odeon.

BERNARDINO MOLINARI says farewell to the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra of which for five weeks he has been guest-conductor, with his second Popular Concert program at the Odeon at 3:15 today.

His program is perhaps of a more popular character than that of last Sunday. It offers the conductor an opportunity for display of his peculiar talent for bel canto, and it has as its soloist Grace Leslie, American contralto, whose debut in St. Louis was made with the Morning Choral Club a few years ago.

Miss Leslie is to sing the "Adieu Forests" aria from Tschaikowsky's "Jeanne d'Arc," and the "Ah mon fils" from Meyerbeer's "The Prophet," two of the great contralto arias in opera. She is a New Englander, who in the course of her four years in concert work has appeared with the New York Symphony Orchestra, the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Harvard Music Association and other orchestral and choral organizations.

Molinari's program offers two overtures from Italian Opera: Verdi's "Sicilian Vespers" and Rossini's "Tancredi." Bracketed together on it are two interesting numbers: Molinari's transcription of Debussy's "L'Isle Joyeuse" and Saint-Saens' "Danse Macabre." The other purely orchestral work will be the "Prelude and Love Death" from Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde," which was presented by Emil Oberhoffer on his all-Wagner "Pop" program earlier in the season.

In detail today's program is:

Overture to the Opera, "Tancredi" ..... Rossini

Aria, "Ah, mon fils," from "The Prophet" ..... Meyerbeer
Miss Leslie

(a) "L'Isle Joyeuse" ..... Debussy
(b) "Danse Macabre" ..... Saint-Saens
Intermission

Air des Adieux from "Jeanne d'Arc" ..... Tschaikowsky
Miss Leslie

Prelude and Love-Death from "Tristan and Isolde" ..... Wagner

Overture to the Opera "Sicilian Vespers" ..... Verdi

PHILIP DUNNING'S PRACTICAL POINTERS TO THE PLAYWRIGHTS

tors, in turn were rubbing elbows with the jeweled elite of Park avenue and Fifth avenue, who pay so heavily to slum and dance and drink in the midnight palaces.

It is axiomatic that the man on the inside has more opportunity to see what is going on than the man on the outside, and no one is more on the inside at the night clubs than the waiters. Since very little can be concealed from him if he has any intelligence and ordinary powers of observation, all that is required of him is that he keep his mouth shut. To that extent I was a good waiter, but it was to that extent only, for I was so much interested in this strange world in which I found myself that I fear I did not pay much attention to my duties. Certainly I did not last long at the two places where I worked, but I did last long enough to gain all that wealth of material which served me so well in writing "Broadway."

There, then, young playwrights, is what I did in order to gain a knowledge of the milieu of the play. Profit by my example.

New Directors Working With Opera's Chorus

WITH the Municipal Theater Association's chorus training school now well organized as the first step in the preparation of the productions to be seen at the Forest Park amphitheater next summer, attention is directed to the changes made by the association in the technical staff that will shape the presentations planned to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the founding of Municipal Opera.

The chorus school work is being supervised by Alonzo Price, stage director, and Leon Rosebrook, musical director, both newcomers to the association's ranks. These two directors will in a measure be responsible for the character of opera productions that will grace the Municipal Theater stage in 1928. Both are favorably known in the theatrical profession and come highly recommended to the Municipal Theater Association.

PRICE succeeds to the position held for two years by Charles Sinclair. He is a native of Boston. His father was Mark Price, a well-known legitimate actor who served as leading man for Edwin Booth, E. L. Davenport and Lawrence Barrett. The elder Price was also a playwright, a trait that was handed down to the son, who when not directing musical productions, wrote such pieces as "Somebody's Sweetheart;" "The Chiffon Girl," one of Eleanor Painter's starring vehicles; "Love Knots" and "Bye Bye Barbara." His newest piece, "Black-Eyed Suzanne" is scheduled for a fall showing in New York.

Price started his professional career as a member of the Boston Cadets, an organization that produced "Jack and the Beanstalk," "Evangeline," "1492," "The Show Girl," and others. He spent two years with Nance O'Neil in classical repertory before becoming associated with Henry W. Savage as a comedian and stage director. For Savage he assisted in the production of "Woodland," "The Merry Widow," "Excuse Me," "The Gay Hussars," "What Alls You" and "Sari." Savage later sent him to London to supervise the productions there of the original "Excuse Me" and "Toot Toot," the musical version of the play.

WHEN Arthur Hammerstein acquired the rights to Price's musical play, "Somebody's Sweetheart," he engaged the author to play a leading role as well as direct the production of the piece. He remained with Hammerstein for several seasons staging and playing in "Katinka," "Rose Marie," "Mary Jane McKane" and the London production of "Somebody's Sweetheart."

Price also staged the Spanish operetta, "The Land of Joy," at the Cosmopolitan Theater, New York, a few years ago. More recently he co-directed "Take the Air," a current Broadway success sponsored by Gene Buck, and Florenz Ziegfeld's newest hit, "Rosalie," also a nightly sell-out in New York.

Price has had a great deal of experience with summer light opera repertory companies in Hartford, Minneapolis, Syracuse and Pittsburg. It is believed that his knowledge of all branches of the theater and his acquaintance with the more modern ideas now prevailing in musical productions will be reflected in the staging of the presentations planned to celebrate the tenth anniversary of Municipal Opera in St. Louis.

ROSEBROOK, the new musical director, replaces Louis Kroll, who held the place for two years. He received a thorough musical education at Mount Angel College in Oregon, as well as private tutoring from his father, who was an exceptional violinist. He was musical conductor for a number of the best-known light opera companies on the Pacific Coast previous to going to New York, where he became a musical director. Rosebrook composed the score for "Silks and Satins," a number of vaudeville acts and several ballets.

The Beggar's Opera Coming Back For Three Performances at Odeon

THE "Beggar's Opera," John Gay's musical play written 200 years ago and running at intervals ever since, which will be produced at the Odeon on Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday matinee holds the "long time" record in the theater and far outdistances Abie's Irish Rose or the Gilbert and Sullivan productions. Gay lived in the eighteenth century and hobnobbed with Pope, Addison, Swift, Congreve and it was Dr. Swift who began the trouble when he suggested to the group that a "Newgate pastoral might be an odd, pretty sort of thing" to offset the Italian school of opera which held the boards. Gay's friends got the Newgate but not the pastoral. Instead it was a bold tale of criminal characters from and around Newgate prison. As the beggar so pungently remarks in the introduction to the opera "There is not an honest man or woman in it; but it is all human."

Gay's friends were rather doubtful at what he evolved and doubtful of the outcome. No producer wanted to take a chance but finally one, John Rich put it on at Lincoln's Inn Field and after it had become all the rage, it was said it made Gay rich and Rich gay.

For his music Gay sought the folk songs of England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales with words of his own and he made familiar to succeeding generations "How Happy Could I Be With Either—Were t' Other Dear Charmer Away," "Green Sleeves," "Chevy Chase" and "Good Morning Gossip Jean."

Gay's opera was constantly before the public for 170 years. Its revival in London in 1920 ran four years and was then brought to this country.

The cast to be heard at the Odeon this week contains some of the members of the London cast of 1920.

Facing the Music

DANIEL PHILIPPI will give an organ recital at Christ Church Cathedral at 8 this evening, and will also play at noon Tuesday preceding Dean Scarlett's weekly noonday address. The regular Wednesday and Friday noon recitals will be given this week by Philippi from 12:25 to 12:55.

At the free, popular organ recital by O. Wade Fallert in the Scottish Rite Cathedral at 3 o'clock this afternoon a feature of the program will be a group of numbers played by Louise Evers on the 'cello.

The Community Music Schools foundation announces a faculty recital at Neighborhood House, 1000 North Nineteenth street, this afternoon at 2:30. Those participating are Miss Agnes Gray, head of the violin department; Miss Mildred Shortal, chorus director, and Mr. Paul Friess of the piano department. This is one of frequent recitals given by the foundation in these crowded neighborhoods where the opportunity to hear good music is rare. The public is invited.

Old-time ballads and instrumental pieces will be programmed at this week's meeting of the Morning Etude Music Club which will take place Wednesday at the Missouri Hotel auditorium. Mrs. Oscar Heitmeyer and Miss Laura Fuhr will be the hostesses of the occasion.

Mrs. Strassberger, leader of the First Section, will direct the concert which will be participated in by members of that section.

Barre Hill, young American baritone, will make his St. Louis debut as guest artist with the Morning Choral Club at the concert Tuesday evening at the Odeon, which will be conducted by Charles Galloway.

The Rubinstein Club will have its regular monthly meeting at the home of Miss Ruth Bensinger, 4260 Lafayette avenue, on Thursday morning.

Mimi Knapp, soprano, and Lily Knapp, violinist, two young St. Louis girls, who have already appeared in joint recital in several Continental cities, will make their debut in New York at the Gallo Theater next Sunday evening. Richard Hageman will be at the piano.

The Misses Knapp will make a St. Louis appearance late this spring or in the early fall.

The St. Olaf Lutheran Choir, an organization which springs from a small college in Minnesota and has, within the last year or two, become famous, will appear at the Odeon next Thursday night.

The choir was created under the direction of Dr. F. M. Christiansen, who has held the position of director of music at St. Olafs since 1903. It consists of 29 male and 31 female voices. About one-third of these are lost by graduation at the end of each year. To fill these vacancies a series of competitions and tryouts are carried out at the beginning of each season.

The program to be given here, is as follows:

Jesus Priceless Treasure ..... J. S. Bach
How Fair the Church of Christ ..... Shall Stand, Shumann's Hymn Book
Go, Song of Mine ..... Edward Elgar
Hosannah ..... Christiansen
May Our Mouths Be Filled With ..... The Praise ..... Rachmaninoff
Salvation Is Created ..... Tschaikowsky
From Heaven Above ..... Georg Schumann
The Morning Star ..... Georg Schumann
So Soberly ..... Norwegian Folk Melody
"Marienlied" ..... From the Spanish of Vera
Wake, Wake for Night Is Flying ..... Philip Nicolai

Felix Slatkin, a 12-year-old violinist who was born in St. Louis and has been studying his instrument since he was nine years old, will give a recital at Sheldon Memorial on Thursday evening. A group of prominent St. Louis women have become interested in Master Slatkin's career and are sponsoring this appearance. It will be his first public recital. The proceeds will be used to assist in defraying his musical education.

Paderewski, premier of the piano, gives a recital at the Odeon on Friday evening, Feb. 17. The tour, his fifteenth, will cover a large territory from Boston to Havana in the East, the Pacific Coast and a return through the Middle West, comprising some 70 appearances from November to May. When asked if this would be his farewell tour, he answered, "There will be no farewell tour so far as I am concerned. The moment I realize that I am no longer making any progress in music, I shall stop playing, but you may rest assured that the fact will not be heralded."

Behind the Screens Out in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 4.

A SPECIAL train with more than 200 picture players aboard, together with two stock cars housing 100 horses, arrived today in Los Angeles from the northland.

For several weeks Raoul Walsh has had this section of "The Red Dancer of Moscow" company making snow scenes for important sequences of the picture. The location was 20 miles from Truckee, and by a fortunate break the company experienced several snowstorms while on location.

"The Red Dancer of Moscow" is from the novel by H. L. Gates and Eleanore Browne and co-features Dolores Del Rio and Charles Farrell with Andreas de Segurola, Dorothy Revier, Ivan Linow and Boris Charsky in prominent roles. At the moment the company is back in Hollywood preparing for the grand ballroom scenes and the theater sequences which will introduce the real Chauve Souris company in a series of colorful scenes.

The whim of a motion picture star who wanted a red-haired leading man has boosted Lane Chandler up to within hailing distance of stardom in his own right.

One year ago the now featured player was a transportation man stationed at Old Faithful Inn, Yellowstone National Park. Today he is leading man for Clara Bow in that star's latest screen story, "Red Hair."

Chandler's big break came when Miss Bow was told some time ago by Elinor Glyn that red-haired persons possessed a certain inspiring temperament. Being red-headed herself, the famous flapper of motion pictures decided that she must have an auburn-locked man playing opposite her when "Red Hair" was filmed.

A search of the eligibles revealed the fact that Chandler was the only one who could qualify. Chandler's film career has been brief, but his work in the few productions he has appeared in has branded him as a comer. He played in Zane Grey's westerns for a couple of months, appearing in "Arizona Bound" and "Open Range." Then Director William Wellman, the man who made "Wings," singled him out for an important role in "The Legion of the Condemned." Because of his performance in the latter and because of his red hair, he was selected for the part opposite Miss Bow.

He was born on a ranch in Montana and received his education at Montana Wesleyan University. There he was a crack guard on the football team for three seasons.

Chandler is one of the tallest leading men in motion pictures—six feet two inches tall.

To Mary Pickford went the honor of planting the first tree in "The Forest of Fame," recently established by Los Angeles as part of its new $200-acre Botanic Garden.

"The grove," said Dr. E. D. Merrill, dean of agriculture at the University of California, Berkeley, Cal., and also director of the Gardens, "will consist of trees planted only by world celebrities. They will be chosen from all walks of life, and each tree will be a unit in the forest and a living monument to the planter."

The tree planted by Miss Pickford was a specimen of Cryptomeria japonica, a member of the pine family.

To satisfy an ambition of many years, Tom Mix is planning to leave for an extended visit to the Argentine, and during his stay there to make a colorful picture with the great southern republic and its picturesque Gauchos as a background. Mix concludes an 11-year association with Fox Films about April 1, and his plans are laid for his southern trip to begin early in June. During his long association with Fox, Mix has made nearly 100 Western pictures, and his name has become famous throughout the world.

Second Thoughts ON First Nights

By Alexander Woollcott

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.

ON Monday afternoon and evening of this week the Theater Guild presented a new play in nine acts by the semi-sacred Gladstone O'Neill. It was called "Strange Interlude."

Among the miscellaneous playgoers who gathered at this first performance and, for the most part, among the reviewers who wrote pieces about it for the next day's newspapers, there was a marked tendency to bow down in reverence before this latest and most ambitious of O'Neill's works. It has been called a great and beautiful and enthralling play, noble in its poetic expression and profound in its search and reflection of life.

As a chronicler of the week's events in the New York theater, I am the more obligated to report this enthusiasm because, whereas "Strange Interlude," thanks to the very instinctiveness of this born playwright's use of the theater as a medium, did interest me far more on the stage than it had done in the manuscript, I myself was unable to join in this chorus of admiration. It was not merely that I could not go all the way with my brothers of the daily press. I could not go any of the way with them. Neither the really brilliant resourcefulness with which the unhampered Guild brought the play to life, nor the novelty of the technique O'Neill had employed in the writing of it, served to conceal even for the fleeting hours of the performance what seemed to me the naive and tasteless pomposity of its speech, and the fearful pretentiousness of its heavily-furrowed brow. Indeed, I thought that the net result of all the patient and austere effort that went into "Strange Interlude" as it was performer at the Golden Theater on Monday last was a resonant emptiness.

AS an experience, the business of attending "Strange Interlude" has a good deal in common with the reading of such a work, let us say, as "An American Tragedy." For there is a marked kinship between O'Neill and the equally grand, equally glum, equally gauche Theodore Dreiser. In the course of Dreiser's novel, after slogging along through appalling stretches of clumsy, clodhopper writing, I did come out at the other end the wiser and the more sympathetic for all this battering and bruising contact with his unlovely and shoddy but LIVING people. I felt like one who had been called in and as an interested and pitying neighbor to sit through another manifestation of that same eternal and undimmed miracle of creation which summoned the earth and the stars and you and me out of the void. But for all the labor pains with which the nine acts of "Strange Interlude" groan and writhe, it seems to me still-born. And I came away from it feeling as if I had spent a good many years with a chance assemblage of clothing-store dummies, each neatly ticketed with a firmly lettered placard, each all too visibly bewigged, and each of them spouting all too unmistakably the words of the ventriloquial O'Neill himself.

IN "Strange Interlude," O'Neill walks beside a ravenous woman in the journey of the years from her storm-tossed and resentful virginity to the peace that comes at last only when her hair is silvered and the fires in her have died down. If, for the chronicling of her pilgrimage, he needs nine acts which, with due intervals for refreshments and change of scenery, run from 5 in the afternoon till after 11 at night, it is because he sought, by resurrecting the good old theatrical devices of the aside and the soliloquy, to make vocal not only the mere speech of his puppets, but their thoughts as well, to let you know what tides of fear and desire run in the swift, silent stream beneath the household which his play invades.

"Strange Interlude" thereby becomes as unmercifully explicit as the dicta of the Bollman who used to say, "What I tell you three times is true." Indeed, the text of the play so takes over the work of the actors that, when they find themselves still sighing and groaning as of yore, they must sometimes have the feeling of superfluity that proverbially discourages those of us whose task it is to gild the lily.

It would be silly to quarrel fussily with this technique, as though O'Neill were solemnly saying "This is the way to write plays" or even "This is the way to write a play." He is, I take it, merely saying, "Here, if you don't mind, is the way I would like to try writing THIS play." I would be tempted to quarrel with it rather on the ground of its pretentiousness. For such an excursion into the invisible internals of his characters as the author of "Strange Interlude" proposes, you want, I think, a guide who knows his way. And there were not many moments in all the nine acts of "Strange Interlude" when I did not feel that its author had undertaken a task calling for a good deal more understanding and imagination than he seemed able to bring to it.

THIS is the lament of one who was a cheer leader on the side lines in the days when O'Neill was transmuting the experiences of his roving youth into such plays as "Anna Christie," "The Emperor Jones," "The Hairy Ape" and the long succession of sea pieces which are still the joy of the college dramatic societies. Thereafter he went out not only beyond my depth, but, I think, beyond his own, in such plays as "Welded," "The Great God Brown" and now, "Strange Interlude," where he seems to me to be merely floundering.

YOU may think that there must be something hopelessly out of proportion in the yardstick of a reviewer who beats his pronouncement over the wisdom that went into the writing of "Paris Bound," let us say, and then comes away from "Strange Interlude" lamenting loftily on the vast ignorance of life which it reveals. But you yourself might admire the ingenuity with which some passage by was whittling a bit of wood without being moved thereby to ask him to step inside and perform an appendectomy upon your wife unless, perchance, it occurred to you that that might be a good way of getting rid of the good fellow.

loons, all these things made directors hesitate, though they admitted that the story of the war from the air had never been made.

Finally the co-operation of the War Department was secured, and as the army had a number of planes near San Antonio, Tex., it was decided to make the film there.

Even then planes and pilots had to come from Selfridge Field, Michigan, Langley Field, Va., Kelsey Field, Cal., and Scott Field, Ill., and when they were all concentrated and the filming of the Mihiel drive was begun, the government had some $14,000,000 worth of "props" on the ground and in the air.

A year and a half after the genesis of the big idea, the production book of "Wings" was closed. The oil and high test gas used were paid for by the film company. The planes were reconditioned, and every bit of Government property lost, damaged or destroyed in filming the story was replaced or paid for.

The result is a slender strip of negative 12,000 feet in length. It can be seen in two hours and a half.

Clara Bow, as a Red Cross nurse, is the feminine star, and the two leading male roles are carried by Charles Rogers and Richard Arlen. Other players are: Johnny Burton, Gary Cooper, "Gunboat" Smith, El Brendel, Henry B. Walthall, Hedda Hopper, Julia Swayne Gordon, Arlette Marchal and Jean de Bruiller.

THE Orpheum Theater will inaugurate its new policy of continuous performances with a 65-cent top price, ranging downward to 15 cents, with a pretentious bill that contains such favorites as Eddie Foy, who is playing his farewell tour, and Vera Gould, the character impersonator. Mel Klee, blackface funster, will be master of ceremonies of the vaudeville show, and the photoplay will be Johnny Hines' "Home Made."

Eddie Foy, who has been a vaudeville mainstay for 37 years, has ended his self-imposed seclusion of his New Rochelle home to make a farewell tour in celebration of his fiftieth year as a star. Foy, who is 61 years old, has, as his present vehicle, a dramatic sketch, "The Fallen Idol," it being the first time the comedian ever has essayed a dramatic role. The playlet concerns a stage doorman, who, in his prime, was a footlight favorite, and Foy is said to sprinkle his jests with gems in the sketch, in which he is assisted by several capable actors.

THE stock company at the Empress this week will present "Merely Mary Ann," first played many years ago by Elsie Robson who won success both in the United States and in England in the stellar role of the pickle-souled London slavey. Miss Robson herself was somewhat a Cinderella of the stage, on which she held a place by right of birth as Madge Carr Cook's daughter. At the height of her success the young actress married August Belmont and gave up her stage career for good.

Hazel Whitmore will be seen in the sympathetic role of Mary Ann. It is a part which she played on seasons ago when O. D. Woodward's company, shortly after it was first organized, presented Zangwill's play. Don Burroughs will take the part of the young composer who wins success and the girl he loves.

Telling How and When to Use Trustworthy Products and Reproducing Extracts of Patrons' Letters Relating to Cadomene, Balmwort, Chex Soap, Sulpherb, Su-thol, Mentho-Laxene, Hypo-Nuclane, Triopeptine, Mentho-Laxene Salve.

I receive so many letters requesting a prescription for rheumatism, and in turn so many grateful letters from those who have tried the prescription which I have recommended during the past 15 years, that I print it again herewith for the benefit of all who may need it. Have your druggist mix, and take one teaspoonful at mealtime and at bedtime: Potassium Iodide 2 drams; Sodium Salicylate 4 drams; Tincture of Colchicum ½ oz.; Comp. Essence of Cardiol 1 oz., Comp. Fluid Balmwort 1 oz., and Elixir Lactated Pepsin sufficient to make 8 ozs. For those who do not like liquid medicine, I recommend Cardiol Tablets, a formula similar to the foregoing liquid.

To quickly overcome pain I advise 5-grain Su-thol tablets. To reduce swelling, inflammation, rub on triple strength Mentho-Laxene Salve.

R. K. B. asks: "I have backache pain, especially at night and I tire easily and am quite pale and not much ambition. What do you recommend?"

Answer: I suggest Balmwort tablets for relief of the kidney and bladder irregularities to be taken in conjunction with Cadomene tablets as a general system tonic.

Mrs. D. L. A. asks: "I frequently have painful little pimples on my tongue and seem to be bilious, which causes severe headache. Also have breaking out between shoulder blades which itches and nearly drives me frantic. Have been troubled with boils, too. Can you help me?"

Answer: Begin taking three-grain Sulpherb tablets and continue taking regularly as a laxative blood and skin medicine.

L. D. J. writes: "I am extremely under weight for my height. I am so very thin. Have tried special diet, but do not gain."

Answer: In my opinion certain elements are lacking in your system which causes a diminished process in nutrition. For such very thin persons I advise Hypo-Nuclane tablets which should be taken with meals regularly. In a few weeks gains in weight occur daily.

Mrs. T. M. writes: "If you can tell me how to overcome indigestion which causes belching, heartburn and bloating after meals, I shall be very grateful. Something to correct costive bowels, too. I will look for your answer soon."

Answer: It is possible that your indigestion is the result of inactivity of the bowels. Use Cascara Royal Pills as a laxative occasionally. For the aid of digestion obtain Triopeptine tablets and take regularly for several weeks.

R. D. asks: "A year ago I had a sickness and have never been strong since. I catch cold easily and often. I am nervous, don't sleep well and seem to be weak, tired and full of aches. Am thin and pale with cold hands and feet. What do you think would help me?"

Answer: Many who have gone through a siege of sickness or surgical operations, are beset with an anemic condition of the blood, causing much distress and symptoms which may be corrected by the aid of Cadomene tablets as a blood and nerve tonic to be taken regularly for several months if necessary.

Mrs. V. G. asks: "I have a large family and many relatives, too, so that almost every day we have need of a remedy to stop some kind of pain, such as toothache, neuralgia, headache, grippe and rheumatic pain also. Is there a safe palm remedy free from habit-forming drugs?"

Answer: Yes. Scientists have found a simple formula which is very quickly effective in the relief of such pain, and it leaves no weakening after effects. Ask for 5-grain Su-thol tablets (pronounced soothe-all); inexpensive; with full directions.

O. M. M. asks: "What is good to loosen up stiff, sore joints? Ordinary liniments don't help me."

Answer: The peculiar pain relieving quality of triple strength Mentho-Laxene Salve is widely used, and gives very quick relief after annointing any painful spot.

Mrs. K. L. B. asks: "My children, aged 6 and 9, are often subjected to spasmodic croup every week or two in Winter and Spring. Then they cough and cough night after night. Please advise a remedy."

Answer: Use essence Mentho-Laxene and triple strength Mentho-Laxene Salve. The former used as per directions is generally quickly effective, stopping the coughs due to the colds and often wards off repeated colds and coughs which culminate in spasmodic croup. Apply the Salve to chest and throat, lightly, twice daily.

Answer to Miss B. C.: Perspiration odors, armpit odors, foot odors, are rapidly banished and prevented by the regular use of medicated Chex soap for toilet and bath. It has elusive fragrance, but no medical odor, is beautifying to the skin because of its high quality and unusual medication.

FARMINGTON, MICHIGAN: Mrs. R. S. Perry, R. R. 2, Box 126, writes: "For nearly two years was in a very run-down condition. Could not sleep, no appetite, irritable and at the least bit of noise or excitement could scream because of my nerves. I had tried many things to no avail, when a lady advised me to try Cadomene. Have taken two boxes and can truthfully say that I have not felt better in two years. Can eat anything, sleep well and no noise bothers me. Have gained 6 pounds and everyone notices the great change in me, etc."

MARSEILLES, ILLS.: M. Vallero, 754 Lincoln St., writes: "Have had wonderful results from Sulpherb tablets for pimples (acne). I can not praise them too highly, etc."

SYRACUSE, N. Y.: Mr. Frank Giddings, 805 N. State St., writes: "I have given quite a number of book coupons to friends to try to do good, as I consider the medicines you advise are all good. Have used them myself for the past four years, especially Cadomene, Casca Royal Pills and Triopeptine. Thanking you, etc."

SYRACUSE, N. Y.: Mrs. James Kinney, 702 Orange St., writes: 'I have been suffering with kidney and bladder trouble for years and would have to be up in the night 10 to 15 times. I have taken two boxes of Balmwort tablets and I sleep throughout the night and feel so much better. I thank God and you also. You may publish this anywhere you wish to help other sufferers learn of this medicine. Believe me I am your grateful friend, etc."

ALTOONA, PA.: S. S. Michens, 1009 16th St., writes: "I have used a box of Triopeptine tablets and they have done me so much good that I scarcely know how to express it. I was a constant sufferer from indigestion, gas, belching and pain in lower stomach, but now am almost completely rid of those symptoms. I recommend them to all sufferers of indigestion very highly, etc."

LAWRENCE, MASS.: Stanley Glotch, 53 Woodland St., writes: "Before using Casca Royal Pills my bowels moved only once in two days and my stomach seemed to weigh a ton. Now I have two or three movements a day. It is great relief. Also used Mentho-Laxene Salve and it took just one day to get rid of a bad cold. I never used anything half so good as this Salve for a cold. I think every person should have one of your Health and Beauty Books, etc."

CECILE SOREL, FAMOUS FRENCH ACTRESS GETS $51.70 A WEEK

From That Maximum Comedie Francaise Players' Pay Scales Down to $13.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—Cecile Sorel, world famous star of the Comedie Francaise gets $51.70 a week. True, she played only $30 times last year, so she drew $89.60 a performance.

From those figures the salaries of actors and actresses, nationally known, scale down to $13 a week for women who play important parts and $15 for Andre Luguet, the most poorly paid of the men who have big roles.

Such is the pay for 66 titular members of the company of this government subsidized theater founded by Moliere which is supposed to maintain the high classic standards and traditions of the French play.

The higher the pay the less often the players act and in their idle time they are allowed to appear in the provinces and at private performances. Sorel, in particular, has made a fortune by playing abroad.

Members average two performances a week, the hard-working ones appearing nearly every night while several play only once a week.

Sorel and five others get about the same salary, reached after almost a life-time of successful work. The five other average $49 a performance.

JEWISH LEADER TO SPEAK

David A. Brown to Address Conference and Meeting Today.

David A. Brown, national chairman of the United Jewish Campaign, through which it is sought to raise $25,000,000 for the relief of European Jews, will be the principal speaker at a conference of city and State workers in the cause at the Columbian Club this afternoon and at a public meeting at the Y. M. H. A. this evening.

The conference today was called to stimulate the collection of pledges and to permit Brown to report on the $10,000,000 already expended in relief work. Brown, in addition to working in behalf of Jews, has been active in behalf of the Red Cross, the Hoover campaign for the relief of European children, and a number of charities in his home city, Detroit.

SAYS WAR LOWERS BIRTH RATE

British Bishop Asserts Parents Are Afraid of Conflict.

By the Associated Press.

BIRMINGHAM, England, Feb. 4.—Fears of war are keeping down the European birth rate, said the Bishop of Birmingham, Dr. Barnes, in a Cathedral sermon here.

"I attribute the fall in births as being largely due to the shadow of war, parents not caring to rear children to be smashed in the prime of life by high explosives of various kinds," said the Bishop. Increasing indignation, he asserted, was caused by the large families of the unfit, which were a burden to the entire community. National economy, the Bishop believed, could be obtained only by reducing the money spent on the fighting services.

OLD PICTURES WORTH FORTUNE

Widow Regains Two Rousseau Canvases Sold for $500.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—Sudden fortune has come to a modest widow and her children from two pictures by Rousseau, an artistically untrained customs employe, whose work recently has brought fabulous prices.

Albert Bois never told where he got the pictures but his family, through the habit of always seeing them in the dining room, became attached to them. When a stranger offered to buy the canvases, after the death of her husband several years ago, Mme. Bois refused but later when he offered $500, she sold them in a hurry. Reflection brought suspicion and she learned the purchaser was one of the big art dealers. A long court wrangle, just ended, restored the pictures to the widow and soon they are to be sold again, but they have been appraised as worth about $8000 or $10,000 each.

Discovered that Little Green Capsule Stops Rheumatic Pains and Agony

Go After the Swelling and Torture in the Right Way—The Knock-out Way—One Little Green Capsule Every Hour For Ten Hours—Relief Almost Certain.

The fame of the little green capsule, because of its canny power to speedily stop the terrible rheumatic pains that make life almost unbearable, is rapidly spreading all over America.

You go about conquering your merciless rheumatic enemy in a different way—a knock-out way. Every hour the first day you take one little green capsule for just ten hours—then relief comes.

The second day, take one every two hours for 14 hours—Then take 4 little green capsules every day until every last little twinge and every bit of tenderness is gone and your rheumatic troubles have ceased.

The little green capsule now so much in demand from coast to coast must have a name so it is known in every worthwhile drug store in America as Allenrhu Number 2.

As is usual with successful remedies, there will probably be imitations, so for your own protection insist on Allenrhu Number 2.

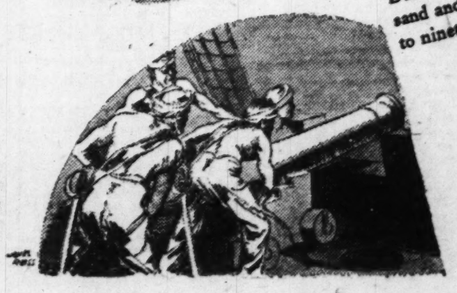
And please remember this—the little green Capsule must give you prompt relief—must give you abundant satisfaction—must free you from rheumatic distress or the price you pay for the first full bottle will be promptly refunded by Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores or any reputable druggist in America.

The Sunday Post-Dispatch has the only color roto magazine in St. Louis.

One last embrace... and then the pirates tore her away . . . .

CLASPED in each other's arms, the hearts of the Boy and Girl beat strong with warm young love, as the gorgeous tropic moon rode high above the still Mediterranean. But danger was close at hand. Behind that creeping mist on the horizon, were the swift vessels of the Tripolitan pirates, lying in wait for American ships, American wealth, American women. Nearer and nearer crept the pirate vessels till in one last rush, the sea-bandits swarmed up over the side. One last embrace—and then the young lovers were torn apart by a hurricane of thrilling events in a sensational struggle for life and love.

First, the capture by the pirates. The horrors of the Tripolitan Slave Markets. The dank, steaming dungeons. The Boy's amazing escape from the pirate fort. The unsuccessful attempt to rescue the Girl. Then the flight to sea in a skiff. The discovery of the American fleet. The desperate venture into the harbor of Tripoli. The destruction of the pirate ships under the guns of their own fort. The final sensational sea-battle with the Tripolitans. The rescue of the Girl.



See handsome young Charles Farrell as the Boy, lovely Esther Ralston as the Girl, Wallace Beery as two-fisted humorous sailor, George Bancroft, as Beery's side-kick, a jolly gunner whose only love was Loud Lucy, his pet cannon.

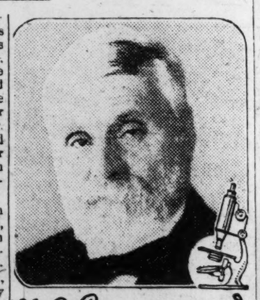
Prescription He Wrote in 1892 is the World's Most Popular Laxative

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth, and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.



W. B. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 83

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

CHIPPENDALE'S WORKSHOP REOPENED AS NIGHT CLUB

Only Modern Feature at "The Kinde Dragon" Is Fireproofed Stairway.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Figures and customs of a bygone London came back to life for a night at the opening of "The Kinde Dragon," the West End's newest night club, which is nestled in the basement workshop of old Thomas Chippendale who carved his way to fame through the furniture market.

There was atmosphere aplenty. Attendants wearing tall grey beaver hats, long plum colored, befrilled coats, received the bobbed haired women and other guests as they alighted from automobiles. Lighting the way with old world linkman's lanterns, the attendants escorted the guests through a gloomy alleyway—Garrick Yard—just off St. Martin's Lane, and showed them to the iron stairway leading into the club rooms.

The stairway is the most modern affair of the "The Kinde Dragon." It replaced the ancient wooden steps, worn nearly in two by time and the patter of feet of generations, and had been put in by special order of the fire commissioners.

Mellowed beams, age-dulled pewter and old prints adorned the walls. A musical playlet about Nell Gwynne was the feature of the evening's entertainment.

CURES RICKETS WITH RAYS

German Chemist Uses Milk Subjected to Ultra-Violet Treatment.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 4.—A radical cure for rickets is said to have been found in milk treated with ultra-violet rays in an apparatus constructed by the chemist, Dr. Schoell.

In this apparatus Dr. Schoell was able to subject any desirable quantity of fresh milk in a vacuum to the ultra-violet rays from a quartz lamp, succeeding for the first time in keeping the taste and smell of the milk unchanged. With the milk so prepared, numerous children with rickets at the University Hospital of Frankfurt-on-Main were fed and completely cured in from four to six weeks. The advantage of this method of treatment is said to lie in its cheapness and in the facility with which practically unlimited quantities of milk may be prepared for wholesale consumption.

ROYAL LINEN CHANGED DAILY

Supply at Buckingham Palace Is Valued at $40,000.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—King George and Queen Mary sleep on newly laundered sheets and pillow slips every night. Prior to the war fresh tablecloths and napkins were brought out for each meal in the royal household, but since 1914, as a measure of economy, but one tablecloth a day is allowed, excepting on special occasions.

The linen at Buckingham Palace is valued at £8000 (approximately $40,000). The articles are in charge of two maids, and every piece is numbered for the convenience of keeping tab on it. The laundryman calls at Buckingham Palace every other day. One of the most valuable pieces is a tablecloth made for the coronation dinner of Queen Anne. The estimate has been made that it would bring $2500 or $3000 if offered on the market. The palace's largest piece of linen is that which served as a tablecloth at Queen Victoria's wedding breakfast when there were 170 guests.

WINE FOR PARIS POLICEMEN

Warm Drink for Cold Nights Provided by Chief's Order.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—Warm wine is served free to the policemen of Paris at their station houses whenever there is a cold wave. This is one reason why the new Prefect of Police, Jean Chiappe, is popular with the bluecoats as well as the public. The free wine was his idea.

Any patrolman during the night may, if he feels cold, drop into the station house for a drink. The police of Paris are forbidden to drink at cafes and bars when in uniform.

"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Pleasant Pellets proved so helpful to me that I am glad to say a good word for them. I suffered from many discomforts, had no appetite, ached all over, had no strength to work, and was constipated. I have used most all kinds of medicine a person could think of, but none ever did me any good. At last a friend told me about Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and I gave it a trial. The relief given could not have been more satisfactory. I will gladly recommend Dr. Pierce's medicine to all I know."—Mrs. Edith Smith, Route 4, Box 93, Leavenworth, Kans.

"I Could Cry Over My Skin"

No Need to Say that Now,

If you have tried "everything" for your pimples, blackheads or eczema and want to know what it is to get something that really works—then let your skin know the magic touch of sulphur combined with menthol. Nothing more amazing than how sulphur clears the skin—and as sulphur clears, menthol heals. As combined in Rowles Mentho Sulphur, the two make an astonishing skin corrective and builder. Pimples dry up overnight. Blackheads and coarse pores vanish in a few days. And as for eczema—even the most burning or itching case soon yields. Relief from the burning or itching follows immediately upon application.

Rowles Mentho Sulphur is inexpensive, and all druggists supply it in jars ready to use. Be sure it's Rowles.

To Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to make. Saves about $2

Pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is, pine has a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. This makes a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, bronchitis, and hoarseness.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

AMATEUR PLAYERS ARE BACK IN THE SPOTLIGHT AGAIN

loons, all these things made directors hesitate, though they admitted that the story of the war from the air had never been made.

Finally the co-operation of the War Department was secured, and as the army had a number of planes near San Antonio, Tex., it was decided to make the film there.

Even then planes and pilots had to come from Selfridge Field, Michigan, Langley Field, Va., Crissey Field, Cal., and Scott Field, Ill., and when they were all concentrated and the filming of the St. Mihiel drive was begun, the Government had some $16,000,000 worth of "props" on the ground and in the air.

A year and a half after the genesis of the big idea, the production book of "Wings" was closed. The oil and high test gas used were paid for by the film company. The planes were reconditioned, and every bit of Government property lost, damaged or destroyed in filming the story was replaced or paid for.

The result is a slender strip of negative 12,000 feet in length. It can be seen in two hours and a half.

Clara Bow, as a Red Cross nurse, is the feminine star, and the two leading male roles are carried by Charles Rogers and Richard Arlen. Other players are: Jobyna Ralston, Gary Cooper, "Gunboat" Smith, El Brendel, Henry B. Walthall, Hedda Hopper, Julia Swayne Gordon, Ariette Marchal and Nigel de Bruiller.

THE Orpheum Theater today will inaugurate its new policy of continuous performances, with a 65-cent top price, ranging downward to 15 cents, with a pretentious bill that contains such favorites as Eddie Foy, who is making his farewell tour, and Vonita Gould, the character impersonator. Mel Klee, blackface funster, will be master of ceremonies of the whole show, and the photoplay will be Johnny Hines' "Home Made."

Eddie Foy, who has been a comedian for 57 years, has come out of the seclusion of his New Rochelle home to make a farewell tour in celebration of his fiftieth year as a star. Foy, who is 71 years old, has, as his present vehicle, a dramatic sketch, "The Fallen Star," being the first time the comedian ever has essayed a dramatic role. The playlet concerns a stage doorman, who, in his prime, was a spotlight favorite, and Foy is said to sprinkle his jests with tears in the sketch, in which he is assisted by several capable actors.

THE stock company at the Empress this week will present "Merely Mary Ann," first played many years ago by Eleanor Robson who won success both in the United States and in England in the stellar role of the gentle-souled London slavey. Miss Robson herself was somewhat a Cinderella of the stage, on which she had a place by right of birth as Madge Carr Cook's daughter. At the height of her success the young actress married August Belmont and gave up her stage career for good.

Hazel Whitmore will be seen in the sympathetic role of Mary Ann, as a part which she played six seasons ago when O. D. Woodward's company, shortly after it was first organized, presented Cargill's play. Don Burroughs will take the part of the young composer who wins success and the heart of the heroine.

Brown" and now, "Strange Interlude," where he seems to me merely floundering.

OU may think that there must be something hopelessly out of proportion in the yardstick of a viewer who beats his palms to pieces over the wisdom that went into the writing of "Paris Bound." I say, and then comes away from "Strange Interlude" seeming loftily on the vast ignorance of life which it revealed. You yourself might admire the facility with which some passer-by is whittling a bit of wood, but being moved thereby to go home to step inside and perform an appendectomy upon your own useless, perchance, it occurred to me that that might be a good way of getting rid of the good lady.

RASH ON BABY ITCHED BADLY
Had to Bandage Hands. Healed by Cuticura.
"When my oldest boy was a baby a rash broke out on his face. It itched so badly that he scratched and then it broke out on his hands. The skin was red and I had to bandage his hands to keep him from scratching. He was very restless and cross, and his face was a sight. He could not sleep and kept me awake.
"I was advised to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment so purchased some, and in less than two weeks he was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. A. Larson, 127 Wilson St., Joliet, Ill.

SOLDIERS HUNT WILD BOARS

Killing Off Farmers' Pests in Thuringian Forests.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 4.—Detachments of the German Army stationed in Thuringia were recently called into action against an unusual enemy. They were sent into the neighborhood of Eichsfeld, in the Thuringian forest, not to put down an insurrection, but to eradicate hundreds of wild boars.

Near Eichsfeld, where the Turingian forest is skirted by mountains along its northwest boundary, the wild boar has become a veritable plague. The farmers appealed to the district commander of the Reichswehr, or Federal army, who to the joy of the troops permitted them to break the monotony of their military life by boar hunting.

An Old Recipe to Darken Hair
By JANICE RANDALL

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, for only 75 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

Recipes for Bad Complexions and Wrinkles

Of all the beauty recipes that have been tried, here are two that have successfully stood the test of time.

For Bad Complexions . . . Pure mercolized wax, applied at night like cold cream, causes the wornout scarf skin to come off in tiny flakes, until the fresh young underskin is wholly in evidence. If the old skin is marred with sallowness, freckle, pimples or other blemishes, these defects are discarded with skin itself.

Wrinkle Remover . . . One ounce powdered saxolite, dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel. Use as an astringent. All drug and dept. stores.

DEADLIEST ILL IN ST. LOUIS IS HEART DISEASE

In Last Five Years That Malady Carried Off More Persons Here Than Any Other.

Organic heart disease tops the list of maladies causing death in St. Louis within the last five years, according to charts of the American Public Health Association now on view in the Social Service Building, 2221 Locust street.

Heart disease, in that length of time, has far outdistanced tuberculosis as a deadly malady. The general death rate from heart disease in 1926 was 317 in the 100,000 population, as compared with 102 in the 100,000 who died of tuberculosis.

The heart disease chart shows that, among white persons, 106 in every 100,000 succumbed to the disease in 1921. This figure increased to 186 in 1922, to 198 in 1923, to 231 in 1924, to 262 in 1925 and to 303 in 1926. The lowest figures for Negroes s 238, in 1922, and it went as high as 502 in 1925.

The highest rate among whites from tuberculosis was 94 in 1922, with a gradual decrease to 72 in 1926. The Negro rate remains high in comparison. It was 354 in 1921 and the variation has been slight in succeeding years, the figure in 1926 being 355. The general average for the year was 111 in the 100,000.

Cancer Death Rate Falls.

The death rate among whites from cancer was 139 per 100,000 of population in 1926, whereas the Negro rate in that year was only 99. The figures for the entire population in 1926 were 135, against an average of 101 for the previous five years.

The death rate from pneumonia in 1926 in the 100,000 was 110, against an average of 171 in the previous five years. Pneumonia reached its high point in 1923 among the whites, with a rate of 190, but has fallen 100 points, the rate in 1926 being only 90. The Negro death rate from pneumonia was also at its high peak in 1923, when 450 in the 100,000 died of the disease, but the figure had dropped to 283 by 1926.

Measles, according to the charts, made inroads in St. Louis in 1926 after having been virtually eliminated in previous years. The rate in 1926 showed 11 deaths for whites and 10 deaths for Negroes in the 100,000.

Other Diseases.

Summaries of other charts follow, all rates being for the 100,000 of population except where otherwise specified:

Scarlet Fever.—4.8 for 1926 against 2.7 for the previous five years. The high point was reached in 1924 with a rate of 10 among white persons. In each year the death rate among whites from this disease has exceeded that among Negroes.

Whooping Cough.—The rate for 1926 was 8.4, against an average of 5.7 for the five years previous. The high point was the year 1923 when the death rate was 10 among whites and 39 among Negroes.

Chronic Nephritis (Bright's disease)—Bright's disease has declined slightly, the figures being 110 in 1926 against an average of 118 for the previous five years. The decline, however, has been only in the white population where it has decreased from the high point of 122 in 1922 to 93 in 1926. The Negro rate has increased rapidly from 147 in 1921 to 259 in 1926.

Infant Mortality.

Infant Death Rate.—The figures for white babies in the first year of life have remained practically stationary for six years. In 1921 it was 57 in the 1000 of population and in 1926 it was 59.2. The death rate among Negro babies reached its high point in 1923 when it was 117 in each 1000. In the last four years the Negro rate has fallen to 115. The general infant death rate in 1926 was 65.

Typhoid Fever.—The general rate was 2.3 in 1926, against an average of 4 in the previous five years. The decline of typhoid fever has been rapid among white persons, decreasing from 4.2 to 1.8, but the increase has been rapid among Negroes, the high point being 13.3 in 1925 with a drop to 6.9 in 1926.

Diphtheria.—The general rate for 1926 was 13.1, against 11.2 for the previous five years. The high point was among whites in 1921 when it was 21. From 8 in 1922 it rose to 13 in 1926. The Negro rate has never been more than 12.6 and has been as low as 1.2

The general death rate in St. Louis was 14.52 in the 1000 of population against 13.45 in the previous five years. The white death rate was 11.77 in 1921 and increased to 13.49 in 1926. The Negro death rate remained at 17 in 1921 and 1922 and rose to 22 in the 1000 in 1923, and to 23.8 in 1924 and 25 in 1926.

Hospital Record.

The charts show that 24,924 persons were cared for without charge in the municipal group of hospitals in 1926. In the Community Fund hospitals 14,092 were cared for, of whom 71 per cent paid their way in full, 9 per cent paid their way in part, and 20 per cent were treated without charge. Of 37,896 hospital patients in the non-Community Fund group, 73 per cent were full paid, 14 per cent part paid, and 13 per cent free.

The key chart of the exhibit shows that St. Louis has the appallingly low mark of 47 per cent in good sanitation, although the city scales 100 per cent in water supply, sanitary inspection, and pre-school hygiene. Other ratings on the chart are milk sanitation, 54 per cent; infant hygiene, 54 per cent; sewerage, 55 per cent; tuberculosis control, 63 per cent; school health service, 72 per cent; communicable disease control, 84 per cent; venereal disease service, 90 per cent; vital statistics, 90 per cent; laboratory service, 96 per cent, and pre-natal service, 97 per cent.

RUDOLPH FRIML ON KSD TOMORROW NIGHT

Noted Composer of Light Operas to Play Own Music in General Motors Party.

The personality and music of Rudolph Friml, composer of "Rose Marie," "The Vagabond King," "Katinka," "Firefly" and "The Three Musketeers," will feature the Chevrolet hour tomorrow evening when he will play his own music as guest artist in the General Motors family party.

Friml's rise had its beginning in a humble home in Prague, Bohemia, in 1895, where the boy eight years, whose father worked in a bakery, played his first original music on an accordion—music so inspiring that his father bought him a cheap melodeon with the funds he and his wife had saved for their winter's supply of wood. When the father trundled the melodeon home on a wheelbarrow Friml's mother threatened to smash it and burn it in the place of the fuel so badly needed. She had no patience with the lad's musical ambitions, but his father stood by him. The owner of the bakery, after hearing the boy played, advanced money for a course at the Prague Conservatory.

Friml had as schoolmates Antonin Dvorak, composer of the "New World Symphony," a struggling lad like himself, and Jan Kubelik. These three worked together for six or seven years, studying, composing, playing, earning a little money now and then by semi-amateur appearances.

Finally a local manager happened to hear them and started Friml and Kubelik on a concert tour, which was subsequently repeated for five successive seasons (1901-1906). They trouped through the little towns of Central Europe half the time without enough to eat. Finally they got to Berlin and made a success. London followed, and it was there that Daniel Frohman heard them and signed them for a tour of American cities, where fame and fortune awaited them.

In rapid succession Friml produced "Katinka" (1915), "You're in Love," "The Blue Kitten," "Tumble Inn" and others. His latest triumph is "The Vagabond King," the music of which will be heard, with selections from other of his light operas, tomorrow evening.

The vagabond's song, throbbing and drumming recurrently as it depicts the exuberance of outlaw folk, will be sung by a double quartet with band accompaniment. Friml says he wrote this now popular song in 15 minutes after 1 o'clock one morning.

The Chevrolet program also will include music by a concert orchestra with Roderic Graham as conductor, by Joe Green's novelty orchestra, and by a concert band with Edwin Franko Goldman as leader.

Three Methods of Sending Pictures by Radio Nearing Perfection

—International.

WHILE the day when they will be in practical, every-day use is still merely a matter of speculation, nevertheless three methods of sending pictures by radio have passed the purely experimental stage.

These methods are: Television, whereby a receiver owner can listen to a broadcast and at the same time see a moving picture of the speaker or entertainer; broadcasting of single pictures, one at a time, and their reception on a relatively simple receiver in the home; broadcasting of single pictures which first have been impressed on phonograph records.

Television Most Promising.

Television, which was demonstrated last month by the inventor, Dr. E. F. W. Alexanderson, in experiments at Schenectady, N. Y., is likely to prove of most interest to radio listeners.

In the Schenectady experiments, a small moving picture of a person was broadcast and picked up by Dr. Alexanderson's receiver, appearing in its natural colors in a three-inch square aperture in the cabinet. The picture was remarkably clear and lifelike, though tiny.

In the television transmitter, light rays from an arc light, playing on the person to be pictured, were broken up by a revolving disc, and the reflected images were picked up by a battery of photo-electric cells which changed the light waves into electrical waves ready to be broadcast. The receiver, being tuned to the wave-length of the station sending the pictures, picked up the waves carrying the pictures and, through use of a neon lamp turned the waves into a visible moving picture.

Tremendous fields in depicting the happenings of the day for the radio listener, and in education, are forecast by David Sarnoff, general manager of the Radio Corporation of America, who says that radio is on the threshold of bringing television into the home and that public interest in it will be as keen as in broadcast reception.

Through television, every expression, every movement, of a broadcasting artist, or any news happening, can be pictured in the receiver that is receiving the spoken or sung broadcast or on a screen beside it. Sarnoff admits that many obstacles remain to be overcome, but insists that the Schenectady experiments prove that before long radio will be bringing to the home "the panorama of life of the great world outside."

Single Picture Broadcasting.

Other apparatus developed by Dr. Alexanderson was used in the tests wherein single photographs were broadcast from the National Broadcasting Co.'s studios, 711 Fifth avenue, New York City, through its 50,000-watt transmitter at Bellmore, Long Island, and were received on a simple receiver in the home of Dr. Alfred N. D. Goldsmith, in West End avenue near Eighty-second street, 25 miles from the transmitter. Listeners who happened to have WEAF tuned in at the time heard a wavering high frequency squeal for 90 seconds, the time required to transmit a picture measuring 4½ to 8 inches.

"Just what the field will be for this development we cannot tell now," said W. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Co. "It does provide a means for a vast radio audience to see the artists who broadcast. A picture, taken in our studio, can be transmitted into the home in a minute and a half, either before or just after an artist has broadcast. Perhaps we might send a picture of our detailed printed program for the day at an early hour each morning. Time will reveal other possibilities.

If visual radio is desired in the home, to supplement sound radio, the National Broadcasting Co. will be ready to provide this service, not only through WEAF, but also through its network of stations."

Single Picture Transmitter.

The transmitter consists of a light source, provided by a small focusing lamp, a rotating cylinder on which the photograph is wrapped, a small synchronous motor geared to the cylinder, a revolving disc and a photo-electric cell.

The light from the lamp is focused through a lens onto the revolving picture. The image as reflected by a beam of light is broken by the serrated or notched edge of the revolving disc and falls upon the photo-electric cell. This converts the light waves or impulses into electrical impulses, which are then amplified and transmitted through an antenna just as the radio sound waves are today.

At the receiving point, the apparatus consists of a standard radio receiver, a loud speaker, a rectifier, a Moore neon gas lamp, a revolving cylinder housed in a light-tight box and a synchronous motor geared to the cylinder.

The radio receiver detects and amplifies the signal from the air. The electric-magnetic waves are then carried to a small box containing a transformer, rectifier and amplifying tubes and then to the Moore neon lamp, whose light beam varies with the intensity of the electric waves. The beam from this lamp is projected through a microscope lens into the box housing the revolving cylinder on which a sheet of ordinary photographic paper has been wrapped. As this revolves in synchronism with the sending cylinder, the neon light literally paints the picture on the paper which is then taken out and developed just as any photographic print.

Instructions from the transmitting station are given before each picture is sent. These are picked up by the loud speaker on the receiving set. A small milliameter on the box containing the transformer and the amplifying unit indicates to receiving operator when his picture receiver is properly framed and set to the correct intensity

NOTED VIOLINIST IN KSD CONCERT TONIGHT

Jacques Thibaud Will Be Soloist for Atwater Kent Hour at 8:15 O'Clock.

Jacques Thibaud, the French violinist, will be featured in the Atwater Kent Hour on KSD tonight. He will be assisted by a chorus of 16 male voices and the Atwater Kent Orchestra under Robert Hood Bowers.

Thibaud was born in Bordeaux. He studied first with his father and then at the Paris Conservatoire, where, under Marsick, he won a first prize. He is considered France's greatest violinist.

Since his American debut, 20 years ago, Thibaud has regularly returned for recitals in New York, Chicago, San Francisco and other music centers. During the past season he played as many as 60 concerts in five months.

The Atwater Kent Singers are a double octet made up of members of the University Glee Club. They will sing three numbers, including Werrenrath's "The Cavalier's Song."

The program follows:

NEW FEATURE BEGINS OVER KSD TOMORROW

Fisk Period Will Take Place of Moon Magic Program on Monday Nights.

A new weekly broadcast feature is to begin at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow night over KSD and 32 allied stations when the "Fisk Time-to-Retire Boys" make their debut as the newest of the harmony duos on the air. A similar Fisk presentation is to begin at 11:30 central time on the Pacific Coast network.

The Fisk program will take the place of the Moon Magic period on KSD Monday nights.

"The Fisk Time-to-Retire Boys" will be assisted by an orchestra featuring popular dance music.

A novelty, forming part of the program, will be the reproduction of the sound of an automobile wheel in motion by musical notes of the xylophone and this will form the background for all announcements.

THREE METHODS OF SENDING PICTURES BY RADIO BEING PERFECTED

strength for tone shades. But a minute or two are required to adjust the receiver for the picture.

The Phonograph Method.

Last Wednesday, in another test, within four minutes from the time the notes of a phonograph came out of the broadcasting studio of WOR at Kearny, N. J., a photograph of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was developed in a New York office.

The sounds were first transmitted to the phonograph record in a similar manner to that in which WEAF last week broadcast the photo of Mayor James J. Walker and the sounds were then broadcast in the regular manner. The broadcasting required three minutes and it took one minute to develop the picture at New York.

The invention, known as the "Ray-foto," is the work of Austin G. Cooley of Seattle, Wash. The inventor says his apparatus is intended for amateur use so with these parts attached to his regular receiving set the radio fan can sit at home and receive pictures of news events with news bulletins.

New A. C. Design for Well Known Set

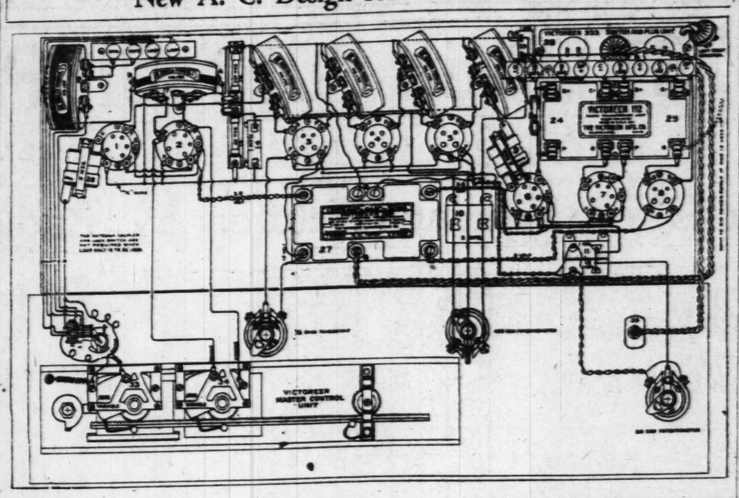

DIAGRAM of circuit for the Victoreen AC superheterodyne receiver which has just been introduced. The Victoreen is one of the most widely known of custom-built circuits, and has a reputation for sensitivity and tone equality.

The 226 filament transformer is designed to supply standard AC tubes at their rated voltages and is capable of supplying current for 8-UY 227 or 8-UX 226 and 2 half-ampere, 5-volt power tubes at the same time. The leads have been brought out for convenience.

The 333 switch and plug unit has three receptacles in which the power leads for the A, B and C connections may be plugged, eliminating necessity of any AC wiring connections. This unit comes with a 110-volt switch permanently connected and with leads of proper length for proper placement. An extension is also furnished with six feet or cord permanently connected to the plug unit. This unit permits all the AC devices to be turned off by the panel switch.

There is no 110-volt wiring to be done by the constructor. Due to design of the Victoreen No. 170 R. F. transformer, the tubes in the intermediate amplifier operate far below their rated filament voltage. A filament rheostat is provided so that a two-fold advantage may be taken of this feature in the AC set. This rheostat acts as the volume control, obviates the use of variable high resistance for volume control, and lengthens the life of the 226 tubes so that they should outlast the useful life of normal 201A tubes.

One of the outstanding departures from customary practice is use of a positive potential on the grid return of the UY 227 detectors. It has been found that a positive potential of from five to 10 volts increases the efficiency of detection considerably. A pair of tubular resistors have been added for this purpose.

The Victoreen R. F. transformers have a sharp resonance curve, which, of course, means selectivity. Internal adjustments made at the factory prevent interstage oscillation, make the set more stable and permit the potentiometer to be used solely as a volume control and not as a losser. Each transformer is adjusted to a precision within 1-3 of 1 per cent. Victoreen transformers require no matching of tubes or condensers.

Following is a list of parts required:

One cabinet for 7"x26" panel 10" deep.

One Lignole front panel 7"x26"x 3-16".

One binding post strip 7¼"x¾".

One binding post strip 4"x¾".

One wood baseboard 9½"x25"x ½".

Four Victoreen No. 170 R. F. transformers.

One Victoreen No. 150 coupling unit.

One Victoreen No. 160 antenna coupler.

One Victoreen 112 audio transformer unit.

One Victoreen 226 filament transformer.

One Victoreen 333 switch and plug unit.

One Victoreen Master Control Type VU.

One Victoreen ½-ohm rheostat.

One Victoreen 400-ohm potentiometer.

1 Victoreen 20-ohm potentiometer.

4 UY type base mounting tube sockets.

4 UX type base mounting tube sockets.

1 Yaxley No. 760 double pole double throw jack switch.

2 Electrad .0005 grid condensers with grid leak clips.

2 Daven 2 megohm grid leaks.

1 Electrad .005 condenser.

4 Tobe 1 mfd. bypass condensers.

1 Tobe 2 mfd. bypass condenser.

2 Daven No. 50 grid leak mountings.

1 Daven .05 meg. grid leak.

1 Daven .25 meg. grid leak.

1 Marco No. 192 0-100 vernier dial, left to right.

36 Feet No. 12 square tinned Acme bus bar.

9 ¼" No. 4 round head brass wood screews.

6 ½" No. 6 round head brass wood screws.

22 ¾" No. 6 round head brass wood screws.

2 1½" No. 6 round head brass wood screws.

2 ½" No. 6 brass machine screws with nuts.

2 Lengths 3-16" brass tubing (or 4 angle irons) 1" long for mounting binding post strip.

50 Solder lugs.

Kester rosin-core solder.

8 Inches spaghetti tubing for plate lead back of last audio.

LINCOLN PROGRAM FOR EVEREADY HOUR

Ida M. Tarbell's Story Will Be Featured for Fifth Year in KSD Broadcast.

Edgar White Burrill, for the fifth consecutive year, will read Ida M. Tarbell's story, "He Knew Lincoln," in a Lincoln program to be broadcast in the Eveready Hour over KSD Tuesday evening.

With music of the period, the Lincoln program, given each year on the Tuesday preceding Lincoln's birthday, has become one of the few traditions which the still young broadcasting industry has as yet associated with it. On each occasion as evidenced by the many letters received by the Eveready Hour management, Miss Tarbell's sympathetic sketch of the man Lincoln has won new admirers.

As Billy Brown, the old Springfield (Ill.) storekeeper who "knew Lincoln," Burrill in his reading of the sketch brings a peculiarly intimate quality of sympathy to the program. Eveready Hour listeners now look forward each year to the rendition by this interpreter, whose "literary evenings" are a feature of this lecture season in New York City.

Burrill taught literature for 12 years following his graduation from Amherst College and post-graduate study at Oxford University. He established the "Lyric Vespers" several years ago at the Town Hall in New York.

With Nathaniel Shilkret conducting, the Eveready Orchestra and a male quartet will provide the music.

$85 Without Tubes

America's Time-Tested Electric Radio!

NEW! But new only in the sense that tremendous production and improved manufacturing facilities have effected amazing economies. New!—in the beauty of its stream line, flush type cabinet. Modern, graceful and compact! But in every other way, the Steinite is the time-tested, all electric, one unit radio that has been the talk of the country throughout the radio season.

A Year Ahead!

Why, then, buy an untried Electric set when the time-tested STEINITE ELECTRIC sells for $85? Steinite's electrics have given millions of hours of satisfactory performance in over 50,000 American homes—they were introduced as far back as the 1926 Radio Shows—a full year ahead of the others that have been rushed on the market in the last few months—and weeks!

THE STEINITE ELECTRIC comes to you in one complete unit—absolutely no outside attachments! No unsightly wiring or cables—no intermediate units to hide—nothing to watch or charge—no acids, liquids or chemicals! Consumes less than a penny's worth of current an hour. Beautiful solid (not veneer) Philippine Mahogany cabinets, Duco finished.

Only One Profit!

Complete from cabinets to the smallest parts in the Largest Exclusive Radio Factory in the West on a one-profit plan that gives you by far the greatest value known in Radio! FIGHT AGAINST DIRECT RADIO SELLING BEGINS

Petitions Circulated in Iowa Asking Law Amendment to Bar Practice.

An aggressive campaign against direct selling by radio has been started in Iowa and is expected to be supported in other parts of the country.

Already the St. Louis Radio Trades Association, which includes in its membership most of the larger radio distributers and dealers in the metropolitan area, has taken a formal stand against marring of broadcast programs by direct advertising. The association has prescribed definite forms of announcements to be used by any of its members who sponsor broadcast programs. It also has addressed an appeal to similar organizations in other cities and states to co-operate in an effort to banish direct selling and advertising appeals from broadcasting.

In Iowa, 450 petitions, asking that Congress amend the radio law so as to make direct broadcast selling illegal, are being circulated.

These petitions assert that direct radio selling is unfair competition and a menace to the general retail business structure of the country.

Plans are being made to circulate similar petitions in 15 other states, according to Francis St. Austell, president of the Iowa Radio Listeners League.

St. Austell said also that Iowa newspapers would be asked to print ballots so that a poll of their readers on their opinion of direct radio selling might be obtained.

Iowa stations have been the principal proponents of selling through broadcasting, and feeling for and against the practice has been running high among owners of receivers. The station owners have told the Federal Radio Commission that thousands of farmers and residents of small towns indorse the practice.

Religious Broadcast Today.

"Life's Forced Decisions" will be the topic of the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick in the National Religious Service broadcast from WJZ, which may be tuned in at 4:30 this afternoon on KYW.

Where to Tune in Dr. Cadman.

Dr. S. Parker Cadman is to discuss "Peace and Propaganda" in the Bedford Branch Y. M. C. A. broadcast this afternoon. This may be tuned in at 3 o'clock on WHO, WSAI, WOW, WSB, WSM, KVOO or WFAA.

Fiske O'Hara on Air Today.

Fiske O'Hara, the lyric tenor who was a matinee idol some years ago, is to be featured in an Acousticon Hour at 4:30 this afternoon on WEAF, WOC, WHO, WDAF, KVOO, WFAA, WHAS, WSB or WMC.

Mrs. Catt to Voters' Broadcast.

The chief speaker in next Tuesday evening's Voters' Service broadcast will be Mrs. Carrie Champan Catt, internationally known for her suffrage and peace work. This broadcast, at 6 o'clock, may be tuned in on WSAI, WGN, WOC, WHO, WOW or WSM.

EDDIE AXT PLAYS TONIGHT

Maj. Bowes will again feature Eddie Axt, the 12-year-old son of Dr. Billy Axt, in the Capitol Family's program over KSD this evening.

Ever since this juvenile saxophone artist, a protege of Rudy Wiedofft, went on the air, Maj. Bowes has been flooded with letters from all parts of the country complimenting the boy and requesting that he play again. On this occasion, the youngster will play one of his father's compositions which Dr. Axt has transposed for saxophone.

Jubilee Singers on WJZ.

James Weldon Johnson, Negro poet, will read one of his poems, "Do Down, Death," during the Utica Jubilee Singers' broadcast from WJZ at 8:45 o'clock tonight.

WLW SEVEN YEARS ON AIR

WLW, Cincinnati, O., whose seventh anniversary was celebrated the past week by a 62-hour continuous program, has grown from a five-watt station to a transmitter using 5000 watts. When Powel Crosley Jr., president of the Crosley Radio Corporation, began operating WLW as 8XY, a phonograph was the whole staff. Presently he bought a 50-watt transmitter, and in 1922 expanded to a 500-watt station.

Biblical Drama at 9:15 Tonight.

"Michal" is the title of the Biblical drama which will be broadcast from New York at 9:15 tonight and may be tuned in on WHO, WOC, WOW, KVOO, WFAA or WGY. Michal was the daughter of Saul. The drama tells how Saul, jealous of David, gave her to the latter in marriage, only to see her save her husband in the end.

'L'ELISIR D'AMORE NEXT OPERA ON KSD

Melodious Work of Donizetti Will Be Presented on Wednesday Night.

Donizetti's opera "L'Elisir D'Amore" (Elixir of Love) will be presented by the National Grand Opera Ensemble Wednesday evening over KSD.

The scene of the opera is laid in an Italian village in the nineteenth century. Adina, a wealthy and independent young woman, sits reading a romance, surrounded by her friends. From a distance, Nemorino, a young peasant in love with her, gazes in rapture and gives joyous expression in the air, "Oh, How Lovely."

Story of the Opera.

Adina, reading the legend of "Tristan and Isolde," in which the knight wins the lady's affection by means of a wonderful elixir, bursts into laughter, but Nemorino can find no occasion for mirth in the tale. Soon the dashing Sergt. Belcore, who also is in love with Adina, appears and presents a bouquet. Adina carelessly dismisses the Sergeant and a moment later Nemorino with the statement that he is both poor and dull.

Soon Dr. Dulcamara comes to town with a trunk full of medicine, guaranteeing to cure all diseases. Nemorino wonders if the physician may not have the elixir that was so helpful to Tristan. He questions the doctor, who is quick-witted enough to declare that a bottle containing nothing more than wine is the famous elixir. Nemorino purchases a bottle and takes freely of its contents.

Soon Adina finds him singing and dancing and by no means dull. Adina, much mystified, begins a flirtation with the Sergeant while Nemorino is provoked to uproarious mirth, which finally causes Adina to promise to marry Belcore. This quickly sobers Nemorino, who pleads with Adina, but in vain.

As Good as an Elixir.

In the second act, the wedding scene is revealed and there is a feast to which Dr. Dulcamara has been invited. Nemorino tells the doctor that his elixir was not much good, for his sweetheart is marrying another. Dulcamara prescribes another bottle, but Nemorino has not the price with which to purchase it. Belcore, hearing this, persuades him to enlist as a soldier, for which he will receive 20 crowns.

Adina, however, suddenly becomes astonishingly tearful for a happy bride, the more so when she sees Nemorino, who has been drinking heavily from the second bottle, approaching surrounded by a bevy of attractive maidens.

Adina is overcome and Nemorino, seeing her in tears, is convinced that the elixir has worked. He sings the lovely aria, "A Furtive Tear," after which Adina breaks her engagement with Belcore and buys Nemorino's discharge from the army.

She later discovers that Nemorino has become popular with the girls due to the fact that a fortune has been left him by his uncle, and the former peasant lad, no longer seeming poor and dull, is united to his sweetheart.

RADIO BOARD SAID TO BE DEADLOCKED

Division Over Method of Procedure Causes Delay in Wave Length Changes.

By THOMAS STEVENSON.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4. — The new Radio Commission, to be appointed by President Coolidge to succeed Admiral W. H. G. Bullard, may decide the future policies of the board.

The commission is in a deadlock over method of procedure. Two commissioners want to go ahead and immediately cut out a lot of stations. The other two want to wait a month, two months or three months.

The commission is divided along party lines, two Democrats against two Republicans. It is not believed, however, that party politics are influencing the views of the commissioners.

Engineers vs. Lawyers.

To Commissioners Caldwell and LaFount of paramount importance are the engineering principles involved in the allocation of waves and power to stations. While they do not claim to be radio experts, both "talk the language of radio experts," and have a ready grasp of the radio engineering viewpoint.

If Caldwell and LaFount have their way all but four or five stations in New York and Chicago may be shunted down to the low waves between 200 and 250 meters, or put off the air.

Judge Sykes, who is acting chairman of the commission, and Pickard, advocate delay.

KSD TO PRESENT JAPANESE OPERA ON NIGHT OF MARCH 7

"The Japanese opera, "Namiko San," written by the young Italian composer, Aldo Franchetti, and featuring the Japanese soprano, Tamaki Miura, will be performed by the National Grand Opera Ensemble through KSD on Wednesday evening, March 7.

The work was produced in Brooklyn on the night of April 5, 1927, and earlier on tour. It is based on a tragic idea taken from a collection of plays by Leo Duran which are said to be English versions of original Japanese dramas.

The opera has been performed only a few times in this country. Tamaki Miura has sung with the Chicago Civic Opera Company, the Manhattan Opera Company and the San Carlo company.

NEWS OF THE BOY SCOUTS.

SCOUT ANNIVERSARY TO OPEN TOMORROW

Program for Celebration of Eighteenth Year of Largest Boys' Organization.

The eighteenth anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America will be celebrated in St. Louis with appropriate ceremonies all this week. Following the general outline prepared by the national council, each day will be marked by special activities.

The week will be officially opened tomorrow with Mothers' day. Each scout is expected to do some particular good turn for his mother, and in addition help her all day as much as possible. Tuesday, Inspiration day, and Wednesday, Anniversary day, will be celebrated largely by radio, two St. Louis local stations, KSD, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and KMOX, assisting in the ceremonies. Troops and patrols will gather as units around radios at 6:50 o'clock Tuesday evening and listen to a talk by Chief Scout Executive James E. West, rebroadcast from New York City by KSD.

St. Louis Program.

The St. Louis Anniversary day program will be sent out Wednesday evening from 7:30 to 8 o'clock over KMOX, the entire broadcasting, even to the operation of the station, being handled by scouts. A feature of the program will be the annual renewal of the scout oath and laws by President Clarence Howard at 7:45 o'clock. At the conclusion of the local program at 8 o'clock KSD will take up the ceremonies with the national anniversary celebration. When the national president, Walter W. Head, will speak from New York. Scouts will wear their uniforms to school on Wednesday.

Thursday will be Fathers' day, and each scout will do his good turn for his father. Patrols will take the lead Friday, on Patrol Good Turn day, by rendering a good turn to their troops, such as repairing equipment, while the sponsoring organizations, church, school or club, will be the beneficiaries of good turns Saturday, Institutional Good Turn day.

The week will close Sunday, which is designated Scout Sunday. On this occasion clergymen throughout the city, particularly those whose churches are sponsors of Boy Scout troops, will conduct special services. In many cases the troops, or boy representatives from the troops, will assist in the service, by giving talks and demonstrations. Scout Sundays are not new in St. Louis, as many individual churches have held them from time to time, but there have been only a few occasions when all churches have been asked to participate. All scouts of the city, whether they belong to a church or not, have been requested to attend these services in uniform.

Largest Boys' Organization.

Since the introduction of scouting into this country from England, the movement has grown rapidly, until it is now the largest boys' organization in the country. Official figures published in 1925, at the fifteenth anniversary, put the total membership that year at 3,000,000, but so rapid has been the expansion that it is now estimated that the organization has 5,000,000 members.

Although this is the eighteenth anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America, the movement in this country is older, a number of troops having been formed in the East in the six years preceding 1910, along the lines of Sir Robert Baden-Powell's British organization. It was only after these had attained some size that the national organization with its present name, was founded.

Scout Notes

West District.

Troop 26, meeting at the Delmar Baptist Church, now has four patrols, the Wolf Patrol having just been organized with Scout Arthur Wolff as leader. The troop now is publishing a monthly paper called Troop Static. At the last meeting Scout Herbert Goldsworthy was promoted to the rank of senior patrol leader.

Troop 5 of the West Park Presbyterian Church began a competitive and advancement contest Friday night. Points are to be awarded on the basis of one point for each tenderfoot, second class, and first-class test passed, and five points for each merit badge passed. When a scout has earned eight points on the above basis, and has given two hours of service to the troop, church or scout headquarters, he will be awarded the troop emblem, to be worn on his scout neckerchief. When all the scouts of a patrol have received the emblem, that patrol will be awarded a patrol flag staff. The contest will close March 30.

Troop 2, meeting at the Pilgrim Congregational Church, held its last meeting under the leadership of Senior Patrol Leader Murray Cabell. The troop is going into an extensive test passing period for all scouts. Second and first class tests are being taken in order. Patrol spirit has been developed, since every test passed adds to the score of points which a patrol may gain in the three-month contest. The Panther Patrol is again leading. As troop 2 is considered a flying troop, having Col. Lindbergh as an honorary member, many members have joined the National Airplane Club and are building model planes. Many favorable comments have been received on the troop's new orchestra.

Troop 90, meeting at the Temple Shaare Emeth, is planning a surprise party for dads the night of Feb. 14. Scoutmaster Burgheim and Troop Committeeman Feinstein are keeping plans in the dark. Troop 90 has a new assistant scoutmaster, Feinberg, who came to St. Louis from Chicago.

Troop 70 of the Jewish Community Center reregistered last week with a membership of 14 scouts. The new scoutmaster of this troop is A. Wohl. The committee is composed of J. E. Cohen, chairman; S. N. Nieman and M. A. Simon. Scoutmaster Wohl has had considerable experience in scouting, having been a former scout in Troop 54 of the Temple Israel.

Troop 32 of the Third Baptist Church was one of the troops to reregister last week with a total membership of 18 scouts. The scoutmaster is Edmond Stewart and the assistant, L. E. Rotan. The Troop Committee is composed of Chairman C. E. Sparks, G. F. Songhofer, W. N. Pearman, L. Kincaid and C. J. Prince.

Troop 93 of the Church of the Redeemer recently put on a stunt night and indoor campfire. Each patrol put on a stunt, the prize being awarded to the Beaver patrol. Two new scouts were added to the troop last week, Andrew Backy and Cline Alters. John Kniest was added week before last. Three scouts of the troop are taking care of one of the bird feeding houses in Forest Park. Scouts Albert Berridge, Ray Beeley, Basil Compton and Melvin Poston received merit badges at the West District Court of Honor Wednesday night.

North District.

The following troops due to reregister in January, put forth an extra effort and have completed the work of reregistration: Troop 1 of the Arlington M. E. Church, Troop 40 of the Third United Presbyterian Church, Troop 161 of the Webster School, Troop 202 of the Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church, Troop 204 of the Penrose School, Troop 207 of the St. James Evangelical Church, and Troop 162 of the Bethel Evangelical Church. Troop 22 of the Walnut Park School, Troop 205 of the Bates School and Troop 172 of the Second Christian Church report their reregistration almost completed and have assured headquarters it will be in this week.

Troops due to reregister the 1st of February in the North District are: Troop 19 of the Blair Howard School, Troop 29 of the Benton School, Troop 184 of the Glasgow School, Troop 213 of the First Baptist Church, Troop 221 of the Salem Methodist Episcopal Church, Troop 222 of the Fairview High School, Troop 230 of the Bellefontaine Church, Troop 242 of the Cote Brilliante School, Troop 211 of the Metropolitan A. M. E. Zion Church and Troop 212 of the St. Peter's Methodist Church. A number of these troops are reporting that their reregistrations are practically completed.

Troop 161, meeting at the Webster School, held a knot-tying contest Friday night. The first trial ended with the Eagles and the Wolves tied. Several more trials were made, but each time the same patrols tied. Scoutmaster Kriplaben chose two scouts from each patrol and had them tie two knots. When these knots were tied it was found that the Wolf Patrol had won the contest with Scout Howard Parks and Scout Harold Seabourn tying the last two knots for the Wolves. After the contest scout games were played.

Troop 130, meeting at the Zion Evangelical Church, held a general get-together and dinner Thursday evening. After the eats, everyone joined in the games and ceremonies that were held in the church hall. Tuesday night the troop took an active part in the merit badge awards at the Yeatman High School, putting on a short play.

Troop 207, meeting at the St. James Church, held a treasure hunt at the meeting last week, the Eagle Patrol winning. Scoutmaster Weege also gave a talk on good scouts. After the treasure hunt each member of the Eagle Patrol was given a Lindbergh airplane, after which a closing ceremony was put on.

Troop 88, meeting at the Salem Church, started an interpatrol contest Friday night. The contest is to last a month. The patrol that has the best knot board then will win. Field Executive Hotchkiss was present at the meeting, and told the scouts some stories. He showed them how easy it is to remember events by a story. The troop drum and bugle corps played at the annual council meeting Jan. 24, and also at the North District Court of Honor at the Yeatman High School Monday night.

Troop 33, meeting at the St. Peter's Evangelical Church, was host to Troop 205 of the Bates School at their last meeting. Thirty scouts from Troop 33 were present and about 15 from Troop 265, making a large meeting, but one in which everyone had a chance to participate. Final arrangements were made for the contest which is to start next Friday. Scout Ralph Henning already has won one prize for officer of the day.

The officers of the troop again accepted Emil Klick's offer of the use of his cottage, south of St. Louis, and held an officers' hike conference planning future meetings and passing on a few final details for the new contest. Scout Louis Klick has been installed as scribe of Troop 33.

Troop 206 of the Ames School had the following nine scouts receive merit badge awards at the North District Court of Honor Monday night: Scouts Ralph Cameron, Edward Godt, Richard Godt, Millard Helmholdt, Herbert Herzog, Edward Knollman, Isadore Miller, Frank Miller and Edward Minhardt. These scouts received a total of 32 merit badges, the largest number from any one troop, and as a result received the honor of carrying the American flag.

Troop 243, meeting at the Salem Reformed Church, had as a visitor at their meeting last week Deputy Commissioner Simons. Several games were played and demonstrations of first-aid given. Several tests also were passed. Deputy Commissioner Simons gave a talk about the work of the Boy Scouts, after which refreshments were served. Service stars were also given to the scouts.

Troop 42, meting at the Zion Evangelical Church, held the regular meeting Thursday night. After inspection was held and an officer of the day chosen, the troop engaged in dramatic exercises under the direction of any scout who happened to be caled forward by the assistant scoutmaster. Arthur Junghans was given his commission and now is assistant scoutmaster of the troop. Scout Frank Esselman is now official Senior Patrol Leader. Scoutmaster Muldner gave a few remarks and then some scout songs were sung to the accompaniment of the troop harmonica players. Scouts Norman Stockho, Richard Warner, William and Melvin Miller gave a stunt at the Boy Scout banquet at the Missouri Hotel Jan. 24.

Troop 147, meeting at the Northwestern Christian Church, has its Eagle Patrol, under Senior Patrol Leader George Kirby, publishing a weekly newspaper called "Our News." The Wolf Patrol won the ribbon four consecutive times and now needs only to win it next Tuesday night to keep it. The troop will hold a parents' and friends' night Feb. 29.

Scout Dean, a former member of Troop 3, reregistered at the last meeting of that troop. A new system of troop management has been installed and at its inaugural Scout Dave Brakel took charge of the meeting last week. Several tests were passed. The Region 1 contest closed Feb. 1 with Troop 3 having a total of 2230 points. The winner soon will be announced by Field Executive Hotchkiss.

Suburban District.

The troop committee of Overland School, met Wednesday night to start off the troop's fifth year. A check-up of the fourth year showed that in many ways it was the best. Those present were Heidbrink, chairman; Sutter, thrift; Covington, educational; Grossenbacher, outdoor, and DeBord, representing the Overland School.

Webster Groves 11, meeting at the Christian Church, reorganized at the meeting last week. Scout Ira Boyer was elected Senior Patrol Leader, and patrols were divided into four groups as follows: Flying Eagle Patrol, Leader Richard Kotowsky; Silver Fox Patrol, Leader Carl Becker; Stag Patrol, Leader Burton Sawyer, and Tiger Patrol, Leader Byran Woodcraft. Scout Alan Hooner is troop reporter.

Webster Groves 2 of the Hagerty Memorial M. E. Church, held patrol stunts at the meeting Friday night. The Stag Patrol won and was given 15 points toward the inter-patrol contest. The meeting was visited by Chairman of the Troop Committee G. O. Peters. Scout Harris had charge of the meeting. The Stag Patrol now is leading in the contest, with the Eagles second.

Troop 153 of the John Burroughs School received expert instruction on the use of the knife and ax Friday night. Peter McLaren, a native of Australia, who was at one time national champion woodcutter, gave an exhibition of cutting logs with an ax, throwing axes and hatchets, and throwing boomerangs. Following the demonstration, the troop was taught the proper method of using an ax; the proper way to stand, how to sharpen an ax and how to take care of it. Different types of axes and their uses were also explained. Scout Frank Proctor and James Phelps defeated Scouts Paul Heineman and Scout William Turner in a log-cutting contest.

Brentwood 1, meeting at the Brentwood School, had a "hot dog" meeting Wednesday evening. Of the 44 present, nine were fathers of the scouts, three were members of the Clayton troop and the rest were scouts from University City Troop 135 and Brentwood. Two of the visitors from the Clayton troop were formerly scouts of Brentwood 1 and now are assistant scoutmasters in Clayton. Several gallons of hot chocolate and several dozen hot dogs were consumed. The party was closed with the scoutmaster's benediction and taps from the distant woods.

Troop 184, meeting at the Country Day School, reregistered last week with 57 scouts. There was also a rearranging of patrols with the following leaders: Scout Louis Renard, patrol leader of the Wolves; Scout Brooks Morgan, patrol leader of the Rattlesnakes; Scout Ford Merrill, patrol leader of the Otter Patrol; Scout Paul Morgan, patrol leader of the Moose patrol. The leader for the Flying Eagle Patrol has not yet been selected. The members of the Troop Committee are R. H. B. Thompson, chairman; A. R. Boggis, G. M. Browne, L. E. Shinkel and R. P. Hughes.

EDDIE AXT PLAYS TONIGHT

Maj. Bowes will again feature Eddie Axt, the 12-year-old son of Dr. Billy Axt, in the Capitol Family's program over KSD this evening.

Ever since this juvenile saxophone artist, a protege of Rudy Wiedoft, went on the air, Maj. Bowes has been flooded with letters from all parts of the country complimenting the boy and requesting that he play again. On this occasion, the youngster will play one of his father's compositions which Dr. Axt has transposed for saxophone.

Jubilee Singers on WJZ.

James Weldon Johnson, Negro poet, will read one of his poems, "Do Down, Death," during the Utica Jubilee Singers' broadcast from WJZ at 8:45 o'clock tonight.

WLW SEVEN YEARS ON AIR

WLW, Cincinnati, O., whose seventh anniversary was celebrated the past week by a 62-hour continuous program, has grown from a five-watt station to a transmitter using 5000 watts. When Powel Crosley Jr., president of the Crosley Radio Corporation, began operating WLW as 8XY, a phonograph was the whole staff. Presently he bought a 50-watt transmitter, and in 1922 expanded to a 500-watt station.

Biblical Drama at 9:15 Tonight.

"Michal" is the title of the Biblical drama which will be broadcast from New York at 9:15 tonight and may be tuned in on WHO, WOC, WOW, KVOO, WFAA or WGY. Michal was the daughter of Saul. The drama tells how Saul, jealous of David, gave her to the latter in marriage, only to see her save her husband in the end.

L'ELISIR D'AMORE NEXT OPERA ON KSD

Melodious Work of Donizetti Will Be Presented on Wednesday Night.

Donizetti's opera "L'Elisir D'Amore" (Elixir of Love) will be presented by the National Grand Opera Ensemble Wednesday evening over KSD.

The scene of the opera is laid in an Italian village in the nineteenth century. Adina, a wealthy and independent young woman, sits reading a romance, surrounded by her friends. From a distance, Nemorino, a young peasant in love with her, gazes in rapture and gives joyous expression in the air, "Oh, How Lovely."

Story of the Opera.

Adina, reading the legend of "Tristan and Isolde," in which the knight wins the lady's affection by means of a wonderful elixir, bursts into laughter, but Nemorino can find no occasion for mirth in the tale. Soon the dashing Sergt. Belcore, who also is in love with Adina, appears and presents a bouquet. Adina carelessly dismisses the Sergeant and a moment later Nemorino with the statement that he is both poor and dull.

Soon Dr. Dulcamara comes to town with a trunk full of medicine, guaranteeing to cure all diseases. Nemorino wonders if the physician may not have the elixir that was so helpful to Tristan. He questions the doctor, who is quick-witted enough to declare that a bottle containing nothing more than wine is the famous elixir. Nemorino purchases a bottle and takes freely of its contents.

Soon Adina finds him singing and dancing and by no means dull. Adina, much mystified, begins a flirtation with the Sergeant while Nemorino is provoked to uproarious mirth, which finally causes Adina to promise to marry Belcore. This quickly sobers Nemorino, who pleads with Adina, but in vain.

As Good as an Elixir.

In the second act, the wedding scene is revealed and there is a feast to which Dr. Dulcamara has been invited. Nemorino tells the doctor that his elixir was not much good, for his sweetheart is marrying another. Dulcamara prescribes another bottle, but Nemorino has not the price with which to purchase it. Belcore, hearing this, persuades him to enlist as a soldier, for which he will receive 20 crowns.

Adina, however, suddenly becomes astonishingly tearful for a happy bride, the more so when she sees Nemorino, who has been drinking heavily from the second bottle, approaching surrounded by a bevy of attractive maidens.

Adina is overcome and Nemorino, seeing her in tears, is convinced that the elixir has worked. He sings the lovely aria, "A Furtive Tear," after which Adina breaks her engagement with Belcore and buys Nemorino's discharge from the army.

She later discovers that Nemorino has become popular with the girls due to the fact that a fortune has been left him by his uncle, and the former peasant lad, no longer seeming poor and dull, is united to his sweetheart.

SOLOIST TONIGHT IN ATWATER KENT HOUR THROUGH KSD

JACQUES THIBAUD

RADIO BOARD SAID TO BE DEADLOCKED

Division Over Method of Procedure Causes Delay in Wave Length Changes.

By THOMAS STEVENSON.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4. — The new Radio Commission, to be appointed by President Coolidge to succeed Admiral W. H. G. Bullard, may decide the future policies of the board.

The commission is in a deadlock over method of procedure. Two commissioners want to go ahead and immediately cut out a lot of stations. The other two want to wait a month, two months or three months.

The commission is divided along party lines, two Democrats against two Republicans. It is not believed, however, that party politics are influencing the views of the commissioners.

Engineers vs. Lawyers.

To Commissioners Caldwell and LaFount of paramount importance are the engineering principles involved in the allocation of waves and power to stations. While they do not claim to be radio experts, both "talk the language of radio experts," and have a ready grasp of the radio engineering viewpoint.

If Caldwell and LaFount have their way all but four or five stations in New York and Chicago may be shunted down to the low waves between 200 and 250 meters, or put off the air.

Judge Sykes, who is acting chairman of the commission, and Pickard, advocate delay.

KSD TO PRESENT JAPANESE OPERA ON NIGHT OF MARCH 7

The Japanese opera, "Namiko San," written by the young Italian composer, Aldo Franchetti, and featuring the Japanese soprano, Tamaki Miura, will be performed by the National Grand Opera Ensemble through KSD on Wednesday evening, March 7.

The work was produced in Brooklyn on the night of April 5, 1927, and earlier on tour. It is based on a tragic idea taken from a collection of plays by Leo Duran which are said to be English versions of original Japanese dramas.

The opera has been performed only a few times in this country. Tamaki Miura has sung with the Chicago Civic Opera Company, the Manhattan Opera Company and the San Carlo company.

NEWS OF THE BOY SCOUTS.

SCOUT ANNIVERSARY TO OPEN TOMORROW

Program for Celebration of Eighteenth Year of Largest Boys' Organization.

The eighteenth anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America will be celebrated in St. Louis with appropriate ceremonies all this week. Following the general outline prepared by the national council, each day will be marked by special activities.

The week will be officially opened tomorrow with Mothers' day. Each scout is expected to do some particular good turn for his mother, and in addition help her all day as much as possible. Tuesday, Inspiration day, and Wednesday, Anniversary day, will be celebrated largely by radio, two St. Louis local stations, KSD, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and KMOX, assisting in the ceremonies. Troops and patrols will gather as units around radios at 6:50 o'clock Tuesday evening and listen to a talk by Chief Scout Executive James E. West, rebroadcast from New York City by KSD.

St. Louis Program.

The St. Louis Anniversary day program will be sent out Wednesday evening from 7:30 to 8 o'clock over KMOX, the entire broadcasting, even to the operation of the station, being handled by scouts. A feature of the program will be the annual renewal of the scout oath and laws by President Clarence Howard at 7:45 o'clock. At the conclusion of the local program at 8 o'clock KSD will take up the ceremonies with the national anniversary celebration. When the national president, Walter W. Head, will speak from New York. Scouts will wear their uniforms to school on Wednesday.

Thursday will be Fathers' day, and each scout will do his good turn for his father. Patrols will take the lead Friday, on Patrol Good Turn day, by rendering a good turn to their troops, such as repairing equipment, while the sponsoring organizations, church, school or club, will be the beneficiaries of good turns Saturday, Institutional Good Turn day.

The week will close Sunday, which is designated Scout Sunday. On this occasion clergymen throughout the city, particularly those whose churches are sponsors of Boy Scout troops, will conduct special services. In many cases the troops, or boy representatives from the troops, will assist in the service, by giving talks and demonstrations. Scout Sundays are not new in St. Louis, as many individual churches have held them from time to time, but there have been only a few occasions when all churches have been asked to participate. All scouts of the city, whether they belong to a church or not, have been requested to attend these services in uniform.

Largest Boys' Organization.

Since the introduction of scouting into this country from England, the movement has grown rapidly, until it is now the largest boys' organization in the country. Official figures published in 1925, at the fifteenth anniversary, put the total membership that year at 3,000,000, but so rapid has been the expansion that it is now estimated that the organization has 5,000,000 members.

Although this is the eighteenth anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America, the movement in this country is older, a number of troops having been formed in the East in the six years preceding 1910, along the lines of Sir Robert Baden-Powell's British organization. It was only after these had attained some size that the national organization with its present name, was founded.

Scout Notes

West District.

Troop 26, meeting at the Delmar Baptist Church, now has four patrols, the Wolf Patrol having just been organized with Scout Arthur Wolff as leader. The troop now is publishing a monthly paper called Troop Static. At the last meeting Scout Herbert Goldsworthy was promoted to the rank of senior patrol leader.

Troop 5 of the West Park Presbyterian Church began a competitive and advancement contest Friday night. Points are to be awarded on the basis of one point for each tenderfoot, second class, and first-class test passed, and five points for each merit badge passed. When a scout has earned eight points on the above basis, and has given two hours of service to the troop, church or scout headquarters, he will be awarded the troop emblem, to be worn on his scout neckerchief. When all the scouts of a patrol have received the emblem, that patrol will be awarded a patrol flag staff. The contest will close March 30.

Troop 2, meeting at the Pilgrim Congregational Church, held its last meeting under the leadership of Senior Patrol Leader Murray Cabell. The troop is going into an extensive test passing period for all scouts. Second and first class tests are being taken in order. Patrol spirit has been developed, since every test passed adds to the score of points which a patrol may gain in the three-month contest. The Panther Patrol is again leading. As troop 2 is considered a flying troop, having Col. Lindbergh as an honorary member, many members have joined the National Airplane Club and are building model planes. Many favorable comments have been received on the troop's new orchestra.

Troop 90, meeting at the Temple Shaare Emeth, is planning a surprise party for dads the night of Feb. 14. Scoutmaster Burgheim and Troop Committeeman Feinstein are keeping plans in the dark. Troop 90 has a new assistant scoutmaster, Feinberg, who came to St. Louis from Chicago.

Troop 70 of the Jewish Community Center reregistered last week with a membership of 14 scouts. The new scoutmaster of this troop is A. Wohl. The committee is composed of J. E. Cohen, chairman; S. N. Nieman and M. A. Simon. Scoutmaster Wohl has had considerable experience in scouting, having been a former scout in Troop 54 of the Temple Israel.

Troop 32 of the Third Baptist Church was one of the troops to reregister last week with a total membership of 18 scouts. The scoutmaster is Edmond Stewart and the assistant, L. E. Rotan. The Troop Committee is composed of Chairman C. E. Sparks, G. F. Songhofer, W. N. Pearman, L. Kincaid and C. J. Prince.

Troop 93 of the Church of the Redeemer recently put on a stunt night and indoor campfire. Each patrol put on a stunt, the prize being awarded to the Beaver patrol. Two new scouts were added to the troop last week, Andrew Backy and Cline Alters. John Kniest was added week before last. Three scouts of the troop are taking care of one of the bird feeding houses in Forest Park. Scouts Albert Berridge, Ray Beeley, Basil Compton and Melvin Poston received merit badges at the West District Court of Honor Wednesday night.

North District.

The following troops due to reregister in January, put forth an extra effort and have completed the work of reregistration: Troop 1 of the Arlington M. E. Church, Troop 40 of the Third United Presbyterian Church, Troop 161 of the Webster School, Troop 202 of the Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church, Troop 204 of the Penrose School, Troop 207 of the St. James Evangelical Church, and Troop 162 of the Bethel Evangelical Church. Troop 22 of the Walnut Park School, Troop 205 of the Bates School and Troop 172 of the Second Christian Church report their reregistration almost completed and have assured headquarters it will be in this week.

Troops due to reregister the 1st of February in the North District are: Troop 19 of the Blair Howard School, Troop 29 of the Benton School, Troop 184 of the Glasgow School, Troop 213 of the First Baptist Church, Troop 221 of the Salem Methodist Episcopal Church, Troop 222 of the Fairview High School, Troop 230 of the Bellefontaine Church, Troop 242 of the Cote Brilliante School, Troop 211 of the Metropolitan A. M. E. Zion Church and Troop 212 of the St. Peter's Methodist Church. A number of these troops are reporting that their reregistrations are practically completed.

Troop 161, meeting at the Webster School, held a knot-tying contest Friday night. The first trial ended with the Eagles and the Wolves tied. Several more trials were made, but each time the same patrols tied. Scoutmaster Kriplaben chose two scouts from each patrol and had them tie two knots. When these knots were tied it was found that the Wolf Patrol had won the contest with Scout Howard Parks and Scout Harold Seabourn tying the last two knots for the Wolves. After the contest scout games were played.

Troop 130, meeting at the Zion Evangelical Church, held a general get-together and dinner Thursday evening. After the eats, everyone joined in the games and ceremonies that were held in the church hall. Tuesday night the troop took an active part in the merit badge awards at the Yeatman High School, putting on a short play.

Troop 207, meeting at the St. James Church, held a treasure hunt at the meeting last week, the Eagle Patrol winning. Scoutmaster Weegs also gave a talk on good scouts. After the treasure hunt each member of the Eagle Patrol was given a Lindbergh airplane, after which a closing ceremony was put on.

Troop 88, meeting at the Salem Church, started an interpatrol contest Friday night. The contest is to last a month. The patrol that has the best knot board then will win. Field Executive Hotchkiss was present at the meeting, and told the scouts some stories. He showed them how easy it is to remember events by a story. The troop drum and bugle corps played at the annual council meeting Jan. 24, and also at the North District Court of Honor at the Yeatman High School Monday night.

Troop 33, meeting at the St. Peter's Evangelical Church, was host to Troop 205 of the Bates School at their last meeting. Thirty scouts from Troop 33 were present and about 15 from Troop 205, making a large meeting, but one in which everyone had a chance to participate. Final arrangements were made for the contest which is to start next Friday. Scout Ralph Henning already has won one prize for officer of the day.

The officers of the troop again accepted Emil Klick's offer of the use of his cottage, south of St. Louis, and held an officers' hike conference planning future meetings and passing on a few final details for the new contest. Scout Louis Klick has been installed as scribe of Troop 33.

Troop 206 of the Ames School had the following nine scouts receive merit badge awards at the North District Court of Honor Monday night: Scouts Ralph Cameron, Edward Godt, Richard Godt, Millard Helmholdt, Herbert Herzog, Edward Knollman, Isadore Miller, Frank Miller and Edward Minhardt. These scouts received a total of 32 merit badges, the largest number from any one troop, and as a result received the honor of carrying the American flag.

Troop 243, meeting at the Salem Reformed Church, had as a visitor at their meeting last week Deputy Commissioner Simons. Several games were played and demonstrations of first-aid given. Several tests also were passed. Deputy Commissioner Simons gave a talk about the work of the Boy Scouts, after which refreshments were served. Service stars were also given to the scouts.

Troop 42, meting at the Zion Evangelical Church, held the regular meeting Thursday night. After inspection was held and an officer of the day chosen, the troop engaged in dramatic exercises under the direction of any scout who happened to be caled forward by the assistant scoutmaster. Arthur Junghans was given his commission and now is assistant scoutmaster of the troop. Scout Frank Esselman is now official Senior Patrol Leader. Scoutmaster Muldner gave a few remarks and then some scout songs were sung to the accompaniment of the troop harmonica players. Scouts Norman Stockho, Richard Warner, William and Melvin Miller gave a stunt at the Boy Scout banquet at the Missouri Hotel Jan. 24.

Troop 147, meeting at the Northwestern Christian Church, has its Eagle Patrol, under Senior Patrol Leader George Kirby, publishing a weekly newspaper called "Our News." The Wolf Patrol won the ribbon four consecutive times and now needs only to win it next Tuesday night to keep it. The troop will hold a parents' and friends' night Feb. 29.

Scout Dean, a former member of Troop 3, reregistered at the last meeting of that troop. A new system of troop management has been installed and at its inaugural Scout Dave Brakel took charge of the meeting last week. Several tests were passed. The Region 1 contest closed Feb. 1 with Troop 3 having a total of 2220 points. The winner soon will be announced by Field Executive Hotchkiss.

Suburban District.

The troop committee of Overland School, met Wednesday night to start off the troop's fifth year. A check-up of the fourth year showed that in many ways it was the best. Those present were Heidbrink, chairman; Sutter, thrift; Covington, educational; Grossenbacher, outdoor, and DeBord, representing the Overland School.

Webster Groves 11, meeting at the Christian Church, reorganized at the meeting last week. Scout Ira Boyer was elected Senior Patrol Leader, and patrols were divided into four groups as follows: Flying Eagle Patrol, Leader Richard Kotowsky; Silver Fox Patrol, Leader Carl Becker; Stag Patrol, Leader Burton Sawyer, and Tiger Patrol, Leader Byran Woodcraft. Scout Alan Hooner is troop reporter.

Webster Groves 2 of the Hagerty Memorial M. E. Church, held patrol stunts at the meeting Friday night. The Stag Patrol won and was given 15 points toward the inter-patrol contest. The meeting was visited by Chairman of the Troop Committee G. O. Peters. Scout Harris had charge of the meeting. The Stag Patrol now is leading in the contest, with the Eagles second.

Troop 153 of the John Burroughs School received expert instruction on the use of the knife and ax Friday night. Peter McLaren, a native of Australia, who was at one time national champion woodcutter, gave an exhibition of cutting logs with an ax, throwing axes and hatchets, and throwing boomerangs. Following the demonstration, the troop was taught the proper method of using an ax, the proper way to stand, how to sharpen an ax and how to take care of it. Different types of axes and their uses were also explained. Scout Frank Proctor and James Phelps defeated Scouts Paul Heineman and Scout William Turner in a log-cutting contest.

Brentwood 1, meeting at the Brentwood School, had a "hot dog" meeting Wednesday evening. Of the 44 present, nine were fathers of the scouts, three were members of the Clayton troop and the rest were scouts from University City Troop 135 and Brentwood. Two of the visitors from the Clayton troop were formerly scouts of Brentwood 1 and now are assistant scoutmasters in Clayton. Several gallons of hot chocolate and several dozen hot dogs were consumed. The party was closed with the scoutmaster's benediction and taps from the distant woods.

Troop 184, meeting at the Country Day School, reregistered last week with 57 scouts. There was also a rearranging of patrols with the following leaders: Scout Louis Renard, patrol leader of the Wolves; Scout Brooks Morgan, patrol leader of the Rattlesnakes; Scout Ford Merrill, patrol leader of the Otter Patrol; Scout Paul Morgan, patrol leader of the Moose patrol. The leader for the Flying Eagle Patrol has not yet been selected. The members of the Troop Committee are R. M. B. Thompson, chairman; A. B. Beggis, G. M. Browne, L. E. Shinkel and R. P. Hughes.

to Rival Keokuk D

An investigation to determine whether it can profitably develop the waterpower of the Osage River six miles above Bagnell in Miller County almost equalizing the present Keokuk dam in capacity and to transmit it 125 miles to St. Louis has been under way by Union Electric & Power Co. for several years. Results thus far indicate the probability that the development will be undertaken. A definite decision is likely within 60 days.

The project would involve a dam 200 feet high, creating a lake 100 miles long with an area of 90 or more square miles, the cost would be about $25,000,000. The power house would have an installation of 225,000 kilowatts. The power output at the Keokuk dam has been 148,000 kilowatts of installed capacity. The Cahokia steam plant on the east bank of the Mississippi River has 195,000 kilowatts and the Ashley street steam plant on the west bank of the river 122,000 kilowatts.

Doubts It Will Aid Rates.

Louis H. Egan, president of Union Electric said today that data so far compiled indicated that the cost of power from the Osage, delivered in St. Louis, would be approximately the same as the cost of generating power by steam at the Cahokia plant. Aside from whatever saving that might ultimately be found in the waterpower, he said, the chief benefit of the Osage development would be to liberate the company, partly, from the vicissitudes of coal supply, which fluctuates in price and sometimes is interrupted by strikes. He declined to predict that the new source of supply would materially affect rates.

The Federal license for the development at Bagnell is held by the Missouri Hydro-Electric Co. An option on the license has been taken by Stone & Webster of Boston, construction engineers, who are in agreement upon terms for turning the license over to Union Electric.

The president of the Missouri Hydro-Electric Co. is Walter Cravens, former president of the defunct Kansas City Joint Stock Land Bank. Cravens and several associates were indicted last April by a Federal grand jury on charges of diverting the bank's funds. It was alleged that $1,000,000 was taken from the bank to buy lands in Miller, Camden, Morgan and Benton counties, necessary to the power development at Bagnell.

Most Power Sites Taken.

An inquiry into Union Electric's plans with respect to the Osage, made by the Post-Dispatch, led to the discovery that nearly all of the State's potential water power has been allotted to private persons by the Federal Government, under the statutes which give Washington control in every particular over all navigable streams. There is no return to State or Federal Government for these valuable grants, which in the final form of license to dam the rivers or utilize water falls, give the grantees exclusive rights for 50 years.

A survey of the undeveloped water resources completed in 1921 by H. A. Buehler, State geologist, reported that there was approximately 600,000 horsepower susceptible of profitable commercial development. Union Electric officials who have surveyed most of the sites listed by Buehler, assert that it is likely that no more than 300,000 horsepower is susceptible of conversion into electric energy and salable.

However, inquiry of the Federal Water Power Board in Washington discloses that virtually all the sites totaling 600,000 horsepower listed by Buehler are under permit to various companies and individuals, who are hawking the permits among public utilities. No site except the Bagnell is yet beyond the promotion stage.

Chief Water Power Sources.

The chief water powers listed by Buehler are the following:

White and James Rivers in Taney, Stone and Barry Counties, 220,000 horsepower; under Federal permit to Empire District Electric Co., a subsidiary of Henry L. Doherty, on March 7, 1923.

Black River, in Wayne and Reynolds Counties, 50,000 horsepower; under Federal permit to W. H. Merident Co., now actively engaged in seeking financial backing for construction.

Current River in Ripley, Carter and Shannon Counties, 100,000 horsepower; Federal permit issued to Missouri Hydro-Electric Co., July 2, 1924.

Gasconade River, in Pulaski and Phelps Counties, 100,000 horsepower; Federal permit issued Nov. 6, 1925, to Central Missouri Power and Water Co.

Two applications for permits are pending before the Federal Water Power Board. One is for use of the White River in Taney County through Hugh L. Cooper and

He declined to predict that the new source of supply would materially affect rates.

The Federal license for the development at Bagnell is held by the Missouri Hydro-Electric Co. An option on the license has been taken by Stone & Webster of Boston, construction engineers, who are in agreement upon terms for turning the license over to Union Electric.

The president of the Missouri Hydro-Electric Co. is Walter Cravens, former president of the defunct Kansas City Joint Stock Land Bank. Cravens and several associates were indicted last April by a Federal grand jury on charges of diverting the bank's funds. It was alleged that $1,000,000 was taken from the bank to buy lands in Miller, Camden, Morgan and Benton counties, necessary to the power development at Bagnell.

Most Power Sites Taken.

An inquiry into Union Electric's plans with respect to the Osage, made by the Post-Dispatch, led to the discovery that nearly all of the State's potential water power has been allotted to private persons by the Federal Government, under the statutes which give Washington control in every particular over all navigable streams. There is no return to State or Federal Government for these valuable grants, which in the final form of license to dam the rivers or utilize water falls, give the grantees exclusive rights for 50 years.

A survey of the undeveloped water resources completed in 1927 by H. A. Buehler, State geologist, reported that there was approximately 600,000 horsepower susceptible of profitable commercial development. Union Electric officials who have surveyed most of the sites listed by Buehler, assert that it is likely that no more than 300,000 horsepower is susceptible of conversion into electric energy and salable.

However, inquiry of the Federal Water Power Board in Washington discloses that virtually all the sites totaling 600,000 horsepower listed by Buehler are under permit to various companies and individuals, who are hawking the permits among public utilities. No site except the Bagnell is yet beyond the promotion stage.

Chief Water Power Sources.

The chief water powers listed by Buehler are the following:

White and James Rivers in Taney, Stone and Barry Counties, 220,000 horsepower; under Federal permit to Empire District Electric Co., a subsidiary of Henry L. Doherty, on March 7, 1922.

Black River, in Wayne and Reynolds Counties, 20,000 horsepower; under Federal permit to W. H. Meridett Co., now actively engaged in seeking financial backing for construction.

Current River in Ripley, Carter and Shannon Counties, 100,000 horsepower; Federal permit issued to Missouri Hydro-Electric Co., July 2, 1926.

Gasconade River, in Pulaski and Phelps Counties, 100,000 horsepower; Federal permit issued Nov. 6, 1925, to Central Missouri Power and Water Co.

Two applications for permits are pending before the Federal Water Power Board. One is for use of the White River in Taney County by the White River Power Co., through Hugh L. Cooper and the North American Co. It is understood that, after an investigation of this site's possibilities, the applicants have determined not to press for a permit. However, two other applicants are considering the site. The second is for the use of the Gasconade River in Osage, Maries and Phelps Counties by Gasconade River Power Co., composed of Kansas City promoters; application filed Oct. 17, 1927.

Only one major hydroelectric plant is in operation, that of the Doherty interests on the White River in Taney County. It has approximately 18,500 horsepower.

Decision as to whether and upon what terms any of Missouri's water resources shall be developed rests with the Federal Government. It has jurisdiction over the navigable streams of the nation and 85 per cent of the streams are legally if not actually navigable.

Federal Water Power Act.

The Federal Water Power act stipulates that licenses for water power development shall be limited to 50 years and the Government shall have the privilege of recapture of the development at the end of that time upon payment of the sum actually invested in it. This investment, however, is interpreted to include promotion costs. If in dispute, courts are the arbiter. It is specified that the development, once made, shall be subject to such State and local regulation as may apply.

The procedure before the board, composed of the Secretaries of War, Agriculture and the Interior, is first application for a permit. A permit grants merely priority of claim and protects the holder from others seeking the same site. Only a perfunctory showing of financial resources and technical understanding of the site is usually required for a permit, which is not transferable. When the permit-holder makes further showing of a detailed plan for the development together with a financial plan and that he has complied with State and local regulations, a license is granted. This conveys right to the water for 50 years. A license is transferable.

No charge is made by the Federal Government either for a license or a permit.

The State's Authority.

The authority of the State begins, only after the Federal Government has disposed of the water. The Public Service Commission in Missouri has authority to grant or withhold a certificate of convenience and necessity for the construction of a power house at the dam site and its operation as a public utility. Obviously, this is merely a formality. The important decision already has been made by the Federal Government. However, once established, the State has regulation of the rates to be charged for the power developed up to the point where operating companies may appeal from the rulings of the State Commission, to the courts, both State and Federal. The only State laws affecting dam construction refer to non-navigible streams.

The Missouri Public Service Commission granted a certificate of convenience and necessity for the Bagnell construction in January, 1927. However, the Missouri Hydro-Electric Co. could not satisfy the commission with its financial structure for financing the construction and that authority has dragged without decision.

Capt. H. C. Gray's Last Flight, As Reconstrued From Record Of His Log and Barograph

Scott Field Experts, After Careful Study, Officially Report to Washington on 8-Mile Ascent That Killed Balloonist.

The story of Capt. Hawthorne C. Gray's last altitude flight, as reconstructed by a board of experts from the balloonist's laconic entries in his scribbled log and the faint tracing of his barograph needle, is told in an official report forwarded from Scott Field to the Chief of Air Corps of the army.

In the flight the Scott Field engineering officer reached an altitude of 42,470 feet, equaling his own unofficial record and ascending to greater heights than any other man ever had reached. The extremely cold and rarefied atmosphere got in its work, however; he died in the descent and his body was found in the cramped basket of his balloon after its landing near Sparta, Tenn.

Capt. Gray's barograph, or recording altimeter, showed that he weighed off in his balloon from Scott Field at 2:33 p. m., Nov. 4. He began to use his oxygen at 3:08, reached his maximum attitude at 4:20, opened the escape valve to let out gas for the descent at 4:21, and valved once again at 4:28 at an altitude of 39,000 feet.

This much may be gathered from his log and barograph record.

Oxygen Exhausted at High Level.

At 4:28 he had only a 10 minutes' supply of oxygen left, and it is the conclusion of the board that the oxygen was exhausted before his balloon had fallen to an altitude where the oxygen content of the atmosphere would support life.

In its report, the board makes note of the freezing of Gray's clock, which he records in his log as of 3:17. The board suggests that it is possible that without the aid of the clock he was unable to gauge the time he had been in the air, the amount of oxygen he had used and the amount still available.

This does not fit, however, with the knowledge the aeronaut had that each of his three oxygen cylinders had a half hour's supply of oxygen and that he could tell from the gauges on the cylinders how much he had already used. Obviously, he knew when he had begun to use the third flask that he had only a half hour's supply left, regardless of the time.

Carried at High Speed.

Capt. Gray, as was told by the Post-Dispatch at the time, took off in a whipping wind which increased to such velocities in the upper air that his balloon was carried at a speed of more than 100 miles an hour on its journey to Sparta. On a previous flight he had reached an altitude of 42,270 feet, but his record had been disallowed because he had jumped in a parachute in descent.

On that attempt the Federation Aeronautique International refused to sanction his record because he was not in control of his instruments until the flight ended. Pursuing the same logic, the official record body also refused to approve the record of his last flight, holding that since he was dead when he landed, "he was not in control of his instruments."

After the takeoff entries, the first note of importance in the areonaut's log is at 12,000 feet: "KSD. Symptoms of ricketts." "This means," the report continues, "that he was listening to KSD broadcasting and the low pressure was affecting him.

Goggles Start to Fog.

"At 15,000 feet, 2:50 p. m., his goggles started to fog so that his entry '4V' means that he turned on the four-volt battery supplying heat to his oxygen tank and his goggles. Next we see that at 19,000 feet, 3:05 p. m., the thermometer shows zero. The radio is still going and he is listening to a saxophone playing 'Traumeri!'

"The balloon is still rising. Gray is spilling sand from the ballast bags, tuning the radio set and reading his instruments. Everything appears to be functioning perfectly. The ascent is even and neither too slow nor too fast.

"The next entry recorded at 3:10 p. m., 23,000 feet up, conveys the information that it is snowing, temperature eight degrees below zero, listening this time to KMOX playing 'Thinking of You.' Another station and another thousand feet up. Still snowing at 3:12. WLW, Cincinnati, playing 'Just Another Day Wasted Away' at 3:15.

Balloon's Clock Freezes.

"Just a few minutes later and the balloon is still higher. The cold increases, the thermometer registering 25 below. At 3:17, along with entries about listening to WLS, 35,400 feet up, comes the entry, 'clock frozen.'

"From now on, no time is mentioned in the log, but the barograph in its little box, unseen by the aeronaut, continues to tell the

Man Claims Wife Eats Too Much

Due to stomach trouble, Mrs. F. M. Noble was hardly eating anything. After taking Adlerika, her husband says she keeps him hustling to buy food.

The simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, saline, etc. (known as Adlerika), has a most surprising DOUBLE action. First, it acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel (most medicines act on lower bowel only), and removes foul matter that often poisoned the system for months. Second, Adlerika clears all GAS and sourness from stomach and bowels, bringing INSTANT relief from stomach trouble. And in addition, Adlerika removes metabolic poisons which cause neuritis, rheumatism, etc.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York: "Adlerika, in addition to its intestinal cleansing, checks the growth of intestinal bacteria and toxins."

Dr. J. Weaver: "In my 30 years practice I have found nothing to excel Adlerika."

J. E. Puckett: "After using Adlerika, I feel better than for years. Awful impurities were eliminated."

It will astonish you the amounts of poisonous matter Adlerika brings out—matter you never believe was in your system. For chronic constipation, gas, sour stomach and sick headaches, ONE spoonful Adlerika gives wonderful relief. At leading druggists. Sold in St. Louis by Walgreen Drug Stores and other druggists.

"How to Build Your Own Home"

"My own home" is either the most cherished possession or the greatest desire of nearly everyone. Owning your own home is easy now—easier than rent, because you're paying yourself the profit instead of helping your landlord pay his "income tax!" It pays to build the Stealey way.

BRICK, IF YOU WANT IT!

To give our customers additional service we have enlarged our organization to include a Brick Construction Department. We can now build for the man who prefers a brick home. The new department is ready to show you plans of many kinds and sizes of brick bungalows. You select any one of our many plans, or provide one yourself. Of course, we build our Brick Bungalows just as carefully and economically as our Frame Bungalows, using the thrifty Stealey Way.

Construction

The Stealey Way means that first we find out just what kind and size of house you want, and build it that way. When you want a house to cost you $35.00 per month, we plan accordingly. We don't try to sell you a house costing more than you want to spend.

YOUR LOT

The only thing you need is a lot. If you own the lot, we'll build the house. We are not in the real estate business, so we don't sell or finance lots. We build your house on the lot you own.

COST

Stealey houses are built to fit the incomes of their owners. Stealey-built homes are financed by Stealey so that your monthly payments will be easy to meet; often easier than rent. Many men have time to do some of the work on their own homes. If you want to, you can save money by doing part of the work, like painting, or digging the cellar.

Insurance Provided to Cancel Monthly Payments in Case of Death. Policy Handed You.

Our "Stealey Special" Frame House

There are many people in St. Louis who want a home, but think they can't afford it. To help these thrifty people, we have designed a snug four-room house, weatherproof and attractive, which sells at the low price of $1145.00 with $25.00 down and $15.50 per month, if your order is placed before March 1st. If you want a dandy home which will be very easy to pay for, come in and see the plans. House includes 2 coats of paint outside, inside woodwork finished, composition shingle roof, electric wiring and foundation.

$1145.00

What Kind of Garage Do You Need?

Build a garage! If you have or want to get a car, it will need protection. A garage can be rented and will help pay for the unused ground behind your house. A garage on your grounds will make your house easy to sell, too. We build single or double garages, FRAME OR BRICK. Prices from $127.50 up.

$127.50

COME OUT! WE ARE OPEN ALL DAY SUNDAY

On our grounds we have sample buildings—a house, several garages, a chicken house and a child's play house. Come and see them any time and also our big assortment of house plans. We're open all day Sunday.

Build this Spring! Don't pay rent any longer. Build your own home! Pay for it the economical Stealey Way, and be your own master. Stealey will show you how! Come out today!

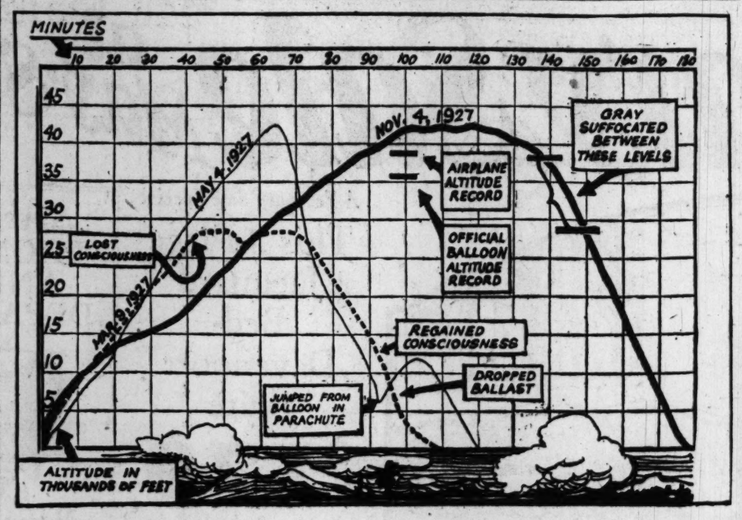
Capt. Gray's Altitude Records



MONTHS after the death of Capt. Gray in the balloon in which he strove for a new world altitude record, the inspected instruments he carried have revealed the drama of his fatal effort. He equaled, the barograph shows, the 42,470-foot mark of an earlier ascent, though his descent by parachute invalidated the first and his death the second, for purpose of recognition as a world record. The chart shows his three balloon flights, and indicates how far two of them surpassed existing airplane and balloon altitude marks.

CAPTAIN GRAY'S LAST FLIGHT AS RECONSTRUED FROM LOG

time of day and the altitude he reached, while the clocking thermograph records the temperatures at the time.

"At 34,000 feet the first oxygen tank was exhausted. We know this by the laconic message in his log, 'Cyl off; broke antenna; no more music.'

"Two of the oxygen cylinders were tied to the outside of the basket. When the oxygen was gone all that was required to release was to open the cock on the next cylinder, close the cock in the junction box of the tube from the empty cylinder, and cut the hose connections.

Radio Antenna Broke Off.

"Then he had only to cut the lashings and the empty cylinder, supported by a small parachute, would float earthward. It is evident that this cylinder, after being cut away, became tangled with the antenna and broke it off. Hence the entry, 'No more music.'

"His next entry—'40 degrees, too much heat, 2V, 36,000, 32 degrees, getting warmer'—needs explanation. Some time before he had coupled on four volts of his batteries to heat the goggles and air intake on his mask. As he rose, the conductivity of the air became less, the heat dissipated less quickly and hence he felt more heat so that he turned his heating equipment down to two volts.

"The next entry is in an uncertain hand. His writing is not so firm or clear since passing 29,000 feet, which is not to be wondered at. The log shows quite clearly the effect of the low atmospheric pressure on his mental faculties. For example, there follows the entry: 'Air pulling out belly, vacuum in mouth, 39,000 feet, 28 degrees.'

Entered Strata of Rare Air.

"It also shows, as does the former entry, that Capt. Gray had entered the stratosphere where the temperature has been calculated to remain almost stationary and in fact to rise slightly above that of the air below.

"Now comes the last entry—'Sky ordinary deep blue, sun very bright, sand all gone. 40,000.' This was at about the time his second cylinder of oxygen was exhausted and his third cylinder started.

"But the barograph still carried on. The balloon was now performing as one usually does when no more ballast is dropped, oscillating, or jumping up and down. At about 4 p. m. it attained the top of its first oscillation, 42,220. Three or four minutes later it was at the valley of the oscillation, 42,100.

Drops Battery for Ballast.

"Five or six minutes later it ascended again to 42,220 feet. At this juncture the battery was dropped for ballast. Had it been dropped before this time it is reasonable to assume it would have been so recorded in the log.

"Further evidence to support this assumption lies in the fact that the balloon, relieved of the weight, ascended 250 feet higher. Furthermore, the battery was found at a spot approximately below the computed location of the balloon at that moment. The peak of 42,470 feet was reached within a few moments.

"It is practically certain that Capt. Gray was still alive, because immediately upon reaching the highest altitude and just as it started on the downward curve of another oscillation, it was valved. We know that because it did not again oscillate but started on a steady, even descent.

Still Alive on Descent.

"This descent continued slowly, too slowly, for the barograph curve remains even until 39,000 feet was reached at 4:28. There it changed abruptly to a more rapid rate. The acceleration could not have been accomplished through other than human agency. It is apparent that Capt. Gray had again valved the balloon.

"But the time was short. After 4:28 he was out of oxygen. The barograph now becomes smooth and even. Capt. Gray is unconscious. At 5:20 the balloon comes to rest in a tree with the man who gave his life for science, still in the basket, with his sealed instruments beside him."

BANKRUPTCY PETITION FILED AGAINST MORRIS SLUPSKY

His Belt Electric Supply Firm Said to Owe 40 Creditors About $32,000.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy is pending against Morris Slupsky, formerly in business as the Belt Electrical Supply Co., 642-47 Delmonte way.

The petition was filed Jan. 23 by three creditors, listing debts amounting to $2062. Francis Kane, an attorney, who was appointed receiver, estimates that 40 creditors holding claims for approximately $32,000, will be named in schedules to be filed. The case will be referred to Referee in Bankruptcy Coles for election of a trustee and examining witnesses and records of the concern. Kane has realized $5500 through a receiver's sale of assets and this will be distributed to creditors.

Slupsky incorporated the company in April, 1924, as the Belt Supply Co., with a capital stock of $10,000. The name was changed in 1925 to the Belt Electrical Supply Co., and, although Slupsky is said to have announced that the corporation had been dissolved and the business taken over by him personally seven months ago, he failed to notify the State Corporations Department of the change.

OPPOSES NEW DEPOSITIONS TO AID HEBER NATIONS

U. S. Attorney Fights Defense Move to Secure a Third Trial.

Notice that the Government would fight any attempt to take depositions in support of a motion for a new trial for former State Labor Commissioner Heber Nations, was served yesterday by United States Attorney Breuer upon Patrick H. Cullen, defense counsel.

Nations was convicted on Jan. 26 in his second trial, of conspiracy to violate the Volstead act by assisting in the "protection" of the Griesedieck brewery in the manufacture of real beer.

Cullen contends he can discount the testimony of Prohibition Agent Duckett, an important Government witness, by taking depositions in New York and Louisville, but the United States Attorney takes the position that the proper place to have done that was in the trial of the case.

REAL ESTATE ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH FINANCIAL

Houses and Flats

PART TWELVE. ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 5, 1928. PAGES 1—16B.

PENNEY WAREHOUSE TO BE 12 STORIES HIGH

Building to Occupy Virtually Entire Block at Thirteenth and Spruce.

Plans for the establishment in St. Louis of a general distribution center for the J. C. Penney Co., nation-wide organization of department stores, as have been announced in the Post-Dispatch by Glenn G. White, director of the real estate department, represent an investment of approximately $2,500,000.

A plot of ground running 180 feet on Spruce street, 220 feet on Thirteenth street, 330 feet on Poplar and 367 feet on Fourteenth street has been purchased from the Charles H. Peck estates and others. It includes a city block with the exception of the corner occupied by the Columbia Terminals Co. Two-thirds of the tract will be used as the site for the warehouse, and the remaining one-third will be held for future development. The proposed warehouse will extend 180 feet on Poplar street, with 367 feet frontage on Fourteenth street.

This is regarded as an unusually good warehouse location, as it is convenient to transportation centers. The building will be 12 stories high and will have a floor space of 860,000 square feet. Construction will start early in March.

This is the second warehouse established by the company in the last two years. The New York warehouse, costing $2,750,000, was completed in January, 1926. When expansion made it necessary to establish a distribution center outside of New York, St. Louis, already the center of the company's shoe and leather goods buying, was the choice.

Distribution through the St. Louis warehouse will mean a saving of from two to 10 days in transit time for shipments to Western stores. Through it will be handled all type of merchandise sold in the Penney stores with the exception of ready-to-wear.

Wilk Hyer, a director of the J. C. Penney Co., is in charge of the St. Louis office.

There are 26 Penney stores in Missouri.

The St. Louis warehouse has been designed by John F. Miller, consulting engineer, of New York, in association with the T. B. Barnett Co., architects, and Taxis & Becker, structural engineers, both of St. Louis, and Clyde Place, mechanical engineer, of New York. Starrett Bros., Inc., of New York, will have charge of construction.

Rabbit Pelts Like Sable.

By the Associated Press.

MINEHEAD, England, Feb. 4.—Development of rabbits with fur like sable has reached perfection, it was announced in Minehead at the annual rabbit show. They are called sable rabbits and were shown publicly here for the first time. G. A. Drake, secretary of the British Sable Rabbit Club, which has been developing the breed, acted as one of the judges at the exhibition, and said that it was impossible for experts to distinguish the sable rabbits' fur from real sable. Even the white hairs in their coats by which the worth of genuine sable is gauged, he said, defied the dyers' art.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 4. — The Illustrated Sun, a tabloid daily newspaper published by the Curtis-Martin Newspapers, Inc., ceased publication with the issue of today and will be merged with the morning edition of the Public Ledger. The Sun has been published a little less than three years. It was started after the passing of the North American from the Philadelphia newspaper field.

ALTERATIONS MADE FOR WALGREEN STORE

Drug Corporation Has 10-Year Lease on Northeast Corner of Grand and Olive.

Alterations of the ground floor of the northeast corner of Grand and Olive street, comprising several stores in the Metropolitan Building, which have been thrown into one, have been completed. The corner has been leased for 10 years by the Walgreen Drug Corporation, which has installed a most pretentious drug store, replete with up-to-date features.

The lease was arranged by the Mercantile Trust Co. in connection with J. H. Farish & Co., agent for the Metropolitan Building, at a rental which places the property on an appreciably high investment basis. The corner leased was formerly occupied by the Metropolitan Cigar Co.

SMITH PRAISES FAIR PLAY IN INDIVIDUALS AND NATIONS

New York Governor Gives Views in Letter on Sportsmanship Brotherhood.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Gov. Smith of New York has indorsed the aims and purposes of the Sportsmanship Brotherhood as "of paramount importance to our national life, especially in their endeavor to bring about more sports and games for industrial workers."

The Governor's views were contained in a letter to Matthew Woll, president of the brotherhood, and were made public today by Daniel Chase, executive secretary.

"The spirit of sportsmanship which the Sportsmanship Brotherhood is fostering and spreading," the Governor wrote, "has a far wider application than to sports and games. It may best be understood and developed through these activities, for during youth athletic interests are dominant, but the application of the principles of sportsmanship in all school life, and afterwards in business affairs and civic activities, is of paramount importance to our national life, if we agree that America stands for a square deal for all and for fair play in all relations between individuals and nations."

MUSSOLINI ISSUES RULES FOR CONDUCT OF FASCISTS ABROAD

Orders Them to Uphold Honor of Homeland and Keep Clear of Internal Politics.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Feb. 4.—Premier Mussolini has drawn up a constitution, issued today, for formation of Fascist groups living abroad and giving hard and fast rules of conduct. In it he says that Fascists, as Fascists, must uphold the honor of Italy and Italians, must keep clear of all internal politics of the country in which they reside, must obey without question the orders of the Italian Consuls and chiefs off the Fascist regime in the countries where they are stationed, and must be under discipline the same as members of the Fascist party in the homeland.

The first article of the constitution calls on Fascists to respect the laws of the countries where they are living and set an example in private and public probity. All Fascists abroad will come under the charge of the secretary-general of the party in Rome and in cases of breach of discipline they may be expelled from the party. The organization abroad includes the Fascist Boy Scouts as well as women's organizations.

MADRID, Feb. 4.—Premier Primo de Rivera today told the Cabinet that the situation had improved in Barcelona, where a strike was called several days ago in protest against the latest income tax. The Premier said the workers were still on strike in only a few centers of the textile industry and that the affair might be considered happily ended.

COOLIDGE DEDICATES NEW BUILDING OF PRESS CLUB

Thirty Radio Stations Broadcast Speech of President in Washington.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4. — The National Press Club's new building, an imposing structure of limestone and steel in Washington's business section, was dedicated tonight with exercises which centered around President Coolidge while millions of Americans listened in.

A radio hookup of 30 stations had been arranged to carry to an unseen audience a sound picture of the dedication, in the auditorium of the club, including addresses by Mr. Coolidge, J. Fred Essary of the Baltimore Sun, as president of the club, and Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press.

President Coolidge, who is an honorary member of the club, nearly two years ago laid the cornerstone for the building at Fourteenth and F streets, Northwest, on the site of the old Ebbit Hotel, which was part of the newspaper row of years ago.

In an address prepared for the introduction of the President, Essary noted how the National capital had become not only "the great nerve center" of American social, economic and political life but also "the great news center of America, perhaps the greatest news center in all the world."

"It has seemed to us fitting," he said, "that the press of the nation should rear and occupy its own monumental structure in this setting; not merely an ornament but both an ornament and a great utility, designed to shelter under one roof the fleet street of America."

COURT REFUSES TO RULE ON BANK PLEDGING ITS ASSETS

Holds Point on Deposits Contested by State Finance Department, Is Outside Case.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 4.—Legality of a state bank pledging its assets as security fo ra deposit, contested by the State Finance Department in a suit to recover assets pledged in this manner by a bank now defunct, remained unettled when the Supreme Court today declined to pass upon the point, because it was not properly a part of the case.

Finance Commissioner S. L. Cantley brought suit to recover $20,000 in cash and approximately $41,000 in notes, from the Little River Drainage District in Southeast Missouri, growing out of failure of the aBnk of Oran, Mo., in January, 1924. The drainage district had deposited $50,000 with the bank, taking $61,000 in notes owned by the bank as collateral. After the bank failed the drainage district began liquidating the notes and had collected $20,000 when the suit was fied.

The Finance Department contended a state bank had no legal power to pledge its assets to secure a deposit. Judge Graves affirmed a judgment of the lower court for the drainage district, permitting it to retain the cash and collateral, and declined to rule on the power to pledge assets, because the evidence showed the transaction involved was a loan and not a deposit.

LUDWIG GUTMANN FUNERAL AT ROCKFORD, ILL., TODAY

Electrical Engineer and Inventor Came to St. Louis in 1904 and Retired in 1918.

Funeral services for Ludwig Gutmann, retired electrical engineer and inventor, who died suddenly of heart disease Friday at his home, 4344 Forest Park avenue, will be held this afternoon at Rockford, Ill., the former home of Mrs. Gutmann.

Mr. Gutmann, who was 67 years old, was born at Hamburg, Germany. After completing his education in Switzerland, France and England, where he resided for four years, he came to the United States in 1889, settling in Virginia. In 1893 he went to Chicago and organized a concern to market several of his electrical patents. The concern failed in the subsequent panic and Mr. Gutmann came to St. Louis in 1904 to accept a position as engineer for the Wagner Electric Co., which purchased one of his patents, a device used on electric elevators. He retired in 1918.

Surviving, in addition to the widow, Mrs. Emma Gutmann, are a sister in Hamburg and two brothers, Bernhard Gutmann of Norwalk, Conn., an artist, and Helmuth Gutmann, husband of Mrs. Bessie Pease Gutmann, children's artist.

RATE CHANGE GIVES SHOCK TO MARKET

Move at This Time Reveals Reserve System's Rightful Concern Over Rapid Expansion and Desire to Act Before Complications Arise, Says Review.

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES

	20 Industr'ls	20 Roads
Saturday	184.88	140.92
Friday	184.37	141.50
Week ago	186.16	143.63

Low, 1928	182.05	140.92
Total sales, 1,416,300 shares.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted weekly financial review of week, says:

"Preparations for a move to 4 per cent in the New York rediscount rate were begun several weeks ago, but the Reserve authorities gave the stock market a shock when they took action this week. If the change had been delayed until other interior banks had acted, or until business demands for money had begun to multiply, the decision would have brought no surprise. The move at this time reveals the Reserve system's rightful concern over the rapid expansion in its desire to act before complications arise. The reasons that the change did not disturb stock prices more are that after all money even now is not tight and the prospect for an upturn in business this spring is good. The real basis for the rate change, however, and not one thoroughly appreciated apparently, is involved in such conditions as last week's sharp upturn in brokers' loans.

Loans $1,922,000,000 Higher.

"The Federal Reserve system does not constitute itself a custodian of the stock market and is not directly interested in price fluctuations. What it does vitally concern itself with is the credit position of the banks and, of course, indirectly that bears upon the stock market. The total loans and investments of 652 reporting member banks now stand at $1,922,000,000 higher than a year ago. Figuring that these institutions represent nearly one-half of all commercial bank resources, the assumption is reasonable that bank credit in this country has been expanded more than $3,500,000,000 in the last year. Virtually all of this growth in credit—and here comes the significant point—has been in loans on stocks and bonds and in investments. Very little of the expansion has been based on increased business demands. In consequence, at a time when larger commercial loans are in prospect, credits based on security operations stand abnormally high. If more money should be needed later on in industry, a fairly sharp contradiction in speculative credit might have become necessary unless a restrictive hand had been extended previously.

Reserve Selling U. S. Securities.

"For four weeks the Federal Reserve banks have been unloading their Government securities in an effort through open market operations to inject tightening influences into the money market. In that time they have unloaded $194,000,000 of Government securities, the weekly amounts being $52,000,000, $46,000,000, $59,000,000 and $37,000,000, respectively. That the pace of liquidation has been cut down is not surprising. After all, there were during January certain seasonal influences for ease that do not now obtain. The likelihood is that from now on, or beginning late in February, demands for money from the interior will induce dearer rates. That would make it unnecessary for the Reserve banks to follow the same procedure that they have adopted in recent weeks. While yesterday's rise in bankers' acceptances indicates an unmistakable trend, the commercial paper rate has not yet been changed.

Reports Are Surprise.

"Corporation reports for late 1927 are if anything more disappointing than had been expected. December's net railway income for the first 70 railroads declined 29 per cent from the corresponding month a year ago, and the indication is that the month will be the poorest since 1921. Likewise, such earnings statements as that given out by the Steel Corporation reveal a somewhat poorer condition for the final 1927 quarter than most people realized. Offsetting these distinctly unfavorable records for recent months are certain unmistakable signs of an improvement in business during the months that lie immediately ahead. It so happens that these signs are plainest in the motor and steel industries, which, through a contraction last year, accounted for the recent industrial recession. Until more definite figures are available on the 1928 business trend, forecasts can represent little more than guesses, but today the favorable signs more than offset the unfavorable.

STOCKS RALLY IN LATE TRADING ON NEW YORK MARKET

Persistent Strength in a Few Issues Induces Considerable Short Covering After Earlier Period of Heaviness.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The stock market today rallied briskly in the last few minutes of trading, after an earlier period of heaviness. Persistent strength of a few issues, such as Vanadium Steel, which climbed 7½ points to 57, the highest since 1919, induced considerable short covering and led to demonstrations of last-minute strength in many quarters of the list. Optimistic notes sounder by the weekly business reviews, and a $12,000,000 decline in stock exchange member loans, were factors in restoring confidence in the face of an increase in the San Francisco Federal Reserve Bank's rediscount rate.

Sharp criticism of Chesapeake & Ohio purchases of Erie stock, voiced last night by the Kemp committee of stockholders, was credited with causing an early decline of three points in Erie shares, but nearly half the loss subsequently was made up. Delaware & Hudson, however, failed to recover any of a 3½-point drop.

Some of the Rallies.

Several leading issues which were headed downward during the first hour or so, turned their losses into gains before the session was over. General Motors opened at 134, sagged to 133¾ and then snapped back to 134⅝, a net gain of a point. U. S. Steel rallied to 143½ after earlier heaviness, and Bethlehem and Crucible Steel each gained more than a point on the day, after starting toward lower ground.

Allis Chambers had a net advance of 5¼ to 122¾, a record price, and Hudson Motors sold up 1⅝ to 84⅞. Radio was forced down 1½ early in the session on selling induced, it was said, by reports from London of progress in plans to inaugurate telephone service based on the new beam, radio devices.

Nevada Copper, usually an inactive stock, was bought in large amounts, forcing the price up to 23⅜, the highest since 1917. Gains of 1 to 2 points were recorded by several outstanding favorites, such as Montana Power, Montgomery Ward, Greene Cananea Copper, International Match preferred, American Linseed, and Warner Bros. "A."

Rails Rather Sluggish.

Rails generally continued rather sluggish. Moderate strength, however, was shown by Texas & Pacific, Seaboard, and Baltimore & Ohio.

A firm trend was shown by the foreign exchanges, sterling cables ruling slightly higher around $4.87¼ and French francs rising slightly above 3.92½ cents. Spanish and Italian currencies were somewhat easier.

Commodity prices showed only moderate changes. Slightly lower quotations were given for both wheat and cotton. Sugar was unchanged and coffee prices were a shade higher.

The weekly statement of clearing house banks showed a deficit in reserve of $20,253,840, a decrease in reserve of $26,712,360. Actual condition this day of clearing house members showed decreases in all the principal items except time deposits, which gained $1,141,000. Loans, discounts and investments declined $15,408,000; cash in own vaults, $1,504,000; reserve in Federal Reserve Bank of member banks, $27,254,000, and net demand deposits, $4,113,000.

WEEK'S LOCAL STOCK TRADE VOLUME LARGER

Transactions in Shoe Issue More Than 25 Per Cent of Aggregate for Period.

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, Feb. 4.—A larger volume of business was transacted on the local market the past week than in the preceding one, though five fewer securities figured in transactions. International Shoe trade made up more than 25 per cent of the aggregate turnover. The stock showed a net gain of over 5 points. The other two more active issues were Sheffield Steel and Scullin Steel, the former ranging up 9 points.

In the list of stocks whose sales exceeded 100 shares each for the week, 10 showed net gains, eight were down and five were unchanged from the closing of previous week.

Brown Shoe gained during the week, Missouri Portland declined, while net losses were shown also by National Candy, Wagner Electric and Rice-Stix in last sales for week.

International Shoe was feature of week-end session, nearly 1400 shares changing hands at 70. Sheffield sold between 47½ and 49. Scullin Steel was unchangedw for the week.

FURTHER EASING IN BONDS AT WEEK-END

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Further easing of bond prices resulted today from the unwillingness of traders over the financial outlook. There was considerable week-end sell-lasing in issues which had been bought earlier in the week, and a spurt in offerings featuring the largest total of the year, close to $202,000,000, put the listed market considerable com-

New York Traction liens which have been going up on the strength of the city's movement for bigger fares, declined reactionary. New York Railways and Third Avenue Elevated 5s lost more than a point each.

Several of the railroad mortgages included in the Missouri-Kansas-Texas, Seaboard and 5s, Northern Pacific 3s and Lehigh Valley 4s, all of which sustained losses more than a point. Such issues as Missouri Pacific bonds, Erie 5s, Rock Island 4s and Southern Pacific 5s showed fractional losses, while specialties in some instances scoring slight gains.

Public Utilities turned extremely quiet after the week's first movement, and there was only nominal trading in the important industrial issues.

There were a few spots in the foreign group, but prices on the whole lacked. City of Copenhagen 5½s gained a point, and fractional advances were made by several of the leading French issues.

Trading in the Federal Government department was on a limited scale and price changes were negligible.

UTILITIES MODERATELY STRONG ON THE CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—In the absence of any basis for speculation that unsettled market conditions on several periods yesterday, the general list of stocks on the Curb Exchange presented a firmer front today's opening. Mercantile Chain and Utility group came forward with sar- advances of about 2 points with Grand Union and Melville Shoe featuring.

Industrial shares were mixed in trend. Ford Corporation preferred continues to advance selling from the start and sufficient to add 4 points early. The common shares, Aluminum and United States Gypsum were also lower. Bancitaly Corporation and Cord Incorporated displayed strength, with some gains of a point or more on moderate dealings.

There was a distinct broadening of activities in the last hour's dealings and Curb Exchange found substantial support on the upturn that developed in some issues. Among the wider movements were Commonwealth Edison, Cellulloid, rose 3 points, while Tubize Artificial Silk gained 7 points to 465.

Utility showed moderate strength. America Light improved 1½ to 84, lacked interest and a few were inclined to yield fractionally on light offer-

Foreign Exchange

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The Evening Post's copyrighted weekly review of foreign exchange says:

"Nearly all the European documents show a strong to firm tone during the week, with sterling leading in point of strength in the first four days of persistent buying, apparently on investments agents. Many of the European documents were also Italian making a new high for recent parity on an advance to

Some of the other exchanges in demand at intervals, but except in a few cases there was no special inquiry until late on Thursday.

An advance in the Federal Reserve discount rate from 3½ per cent to 4 per cent announced late on that day had a quick readjusting without much effect on sterling, up to that time, at $4.87 5-16 for cables and demand, which makes the rate for exchange $4.86⅝, a new low for the short period so far passed of French exchange had been in supply most time but was more directly influenced by the lowering in the basis than sterling because of the fact that the Holland is at a low level and advance, if any, required a special reason.

Belgian exchange was in sympathy with the whole list, closing firm at 13.96 for cables, against 40.32 of the preceding days. Swiss held firm but not influenced by the change in bank rate.

German was one of the strong features during the greater part of the week, rising from 23.82 to 23.86. Activity was in constant progress in this exchange, which made a gain of 4 points to 26.84 and held strong at all through the week, yielding ⅝ to 3.82¾.

Scandinavian exchange had its usual wide swings, showing strength for a time and supply in the middle of the week.

Other exchanges were heavy.

Canadian exchange showed a firmer tone from the beginning of the week. Indian was heavy during the greater part of the week, rupee checks falling to 13.68 to 13.60."

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Foreign exchange rates were as follows:

Great Britain sterling, demand $4.86⅝; cables $4.87⅛; 60-day bills on banks, 4.85 15-16.

CORN MARKET HIGHER WITH WHEAT LOWER

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Feb. 4.—Wheat ruled lower and corn higher at the closing session of the week on the local market. It was largely a weather market. Beneficial rain in Southwest had bearish effect on wheat, while conditions in corn belt were said to be unfavorable for movement of corn. Export corn business, too, was estimated at quarter million bushels or more. Unexpected lower Liverpool cable also was factor in wheat market.

In the local cash grain market Saturday soft wheat was fairly steady, there being limited demand for red milling wheat, but nothing very desirable on market. There was a fair inquiry for sound wheat of cheaper grades and garlicky descriptions. Hard wheat was down 1/2c. There was limited milling demand. There were light sales of Nebraska No. 2 hard at $1.32@$1.32½. No. 2 hard, 123 lbs. per cent protein was offered to arrive 12½@13½c over Kansas City May 12 per cent 9@9½c over, f. o. b. Kansas City basis. Cash corn was steady to 1c higher, compared with previous day, but the cash basis was ½c down in relation to futures. There was fair demand, but offerings not quite cleaned up. The higher moisture cars were more or less difficult to sell. Elevators, glucose plants and shippers led the buying. Cash oats were steady to ½c higher. Demand was limited, however, and most of ordinary qualities were held over.

Fractional decline was shown by wheat at the outset and also in the immediate subsequent trade. Liverpool was ¾@1d lower. March shoving widest range. Winnipeg carry was ½c lower on May. May corn opened a shade higher. Fractional net gain being shown in the early trade.

May wheat opened at $1.30¾; July wheat $1.26⅞. May corn 92c and July corn 93½c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 67,200 bushels, compared with 82,000 a week ago and 105,000 a year ago, included 67 cars local and 19 through. Corn receipts, which were 172,200 bushels, compared with 151,200 a week ago and 113,400 a year ago, included 60 cars local and 93 through. Oats receipts, which were 42,000 bushels, compared with 38,000 a week ago and 122,000 a year ago, included 16 cars local and 7 through. Hay receipts were 32 cars local and 10 through.

Clearances were 19,000 bushels of wheat, 246,000 bushels of corn, 24,000 bushels of oats, 28,000 barrels of flour and 145,000 bushels of wheat and flour.

The three Northwestern markets combined had 1597 cars of wheat, compared with 296 a week ago and 715 a year ago. Minneapolis receiving 223 cars, Duluth 91 and Winnipeg 1283.

Stocks in St. Louis public elevators amounted to 794,518 bushels of wheat, 650,314 bushels of corn and 689,341 bushels of oats. Grain stocks comprised 129,226 bushels of No. 1 red winter wheat, 527,853 bushels of No. 2 red winter wheat, 108,392 bushels of No. 1 hard winter wheat, 91,041 bushels of No. 2 hard winter wheat, 24,946 bushels of No. 2 corn, 68,823 bushels of No. 3 yellow corn, 39,879 bushels of No. 4 yellow corn, 6124 bushels of No. 2 oats, 234,378 bushels of No. 3 white oats, 230,063 bushels of No. 3 white oats, 8572 bushels of No. 2 rye.

Primary receipts of wheat were 834,000 bushels, compared with 910,000 a week ago and 904,000 a year ago. Corn receipts were 2,528,000 bushels, compared with 1,958,000 a week ago and 2,000,000 a year ago. Oats receipts were 477,000 bushels, compared with 581,000 a week ago and 650,000 a year ago. Wheat shipments were 580,000 bushels, compared with 543,000 a week ago and 430,000 a year ago. Corn shipments were 1,008,000 bushels, compared with 878,000 a week ago and 348,000 a year ago. Oats shipments were 352,000 bushels, compared with 373,000 a week ago and 211,000 a year ago.

UNSETTLED WEATHER SENDS CORN HIGHER, WHEAT LOWER

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—Directly opposite results from unsettled weather developed in the grain markets today, corn going upward in price and wheat down. Good export business in corn helped to lift corn values.

Closing quotations on corn were firm, ¼c to ⅜c net higher. Wheat finished unchanged to ⅝c off, oats at ¼c decline to ⅜@⅝c advance and provisions 22c to 60c down.

Right from the outset the corn market showed an upward trend, widespread wet mid conditions prevalent being adverse for the movement of the corn crop. Likewise new export business in corn was estimated at 250,000 bushels or more, with purchases going on both at the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic Seaboard. The trading here at the Gulf especially was firmer, 6¼c over the March unchanged, being paid and offerings scant even at 7c.

Buenos Aires reports that the corn market there was declining (fac 1240), with new crop months showing the most strength, received particular notice and so too did adverse Danube River corn bids to be had at the highest point yet this season. On the other hand, the east corn trading basis in Chicago was unchanged to ¼c lower, the decline being on the poorer grades. Stocking of corn to arrive in Chicago were small, mostly from other markets rather than from growers.

Influencing the corn strength, wheat rallied a little at the start, but throughout the day was chiefly dominated by the fact that scattered rains had fallen in parts of Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, causing a break in wheat prices at Liverpool was also a bearish factor in connection with reports of heavy shipments of wheat from Argentina.

Oats prices kept within narrow limits and were swayed by the action of other grain.

Active selling of lard by Eastern houses and foreigners pulled down the provision market.

BETTER WEATHER REPORTS FACTOR IN COTTON DECLINE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Better weather reports from the Southwest and uncertainty of the labor situation in Lancashire, were factors on the decline in the cotton market today, after selling up from 17.24 to 17.35. May broke to 17.10 and closed at 17.14, the general market closing steady at net declines of 16 to 23 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of 4 to 8 points. Initial selling orders were comparatively light, and the market stiffened up after the call on covering and local buying probably inspired by firmer Liverpool cables than anticipated. March sold up to 17.17, or 3 points net higher, while October rallied from 17.10 to 17.16, or within 2 points of yesterday's closing quotations.

This bulge met increased offerings, however, and the forenoon makers broke quite sharply on reports of rains in the Western belt, which traders evidently thought would extend into West Texas. There appeared to be a renewal of old long liquidation on the decline which uncovered stop orders, the break extending to 16.93 for March and 17.00 for October or about 18 to 23 points net lower. Closing quotations were a few points up from the lowest on covering.

Private cable advice said the relatively steady tone of Liverpool was due to covering with trade calling and continental buying, but that political disturbances in India were checking business in cotton goods at Manchester and that cotton yarn sales were running below production.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 98,476 bales, against 160,121 last year, and 91,283 two years ago.

Our 60th ANNIVERSARY MARKS THE DAWN

A NEW ERA IN FURNITURE HISTORY

AS THE SUN, OLD AND RELIABLE, BEGINS EACH NEW DAY WITH DAWN—so does the Showers Brothers Company, on its sixtieth anniversary, announce a new era in the manufacturing and distributing of furniture.

For sixty years, since 1868, three generations of the Showers family have made furniture—made furniture for the Great American Home—for people like you and me.

During the year 1927 we manufactured and sold 535,750 pieces of furniture—and thus began the development of a truly nation-wide service in furnishing the Great American Home.

Today the yearly sales of Showers furniture through the country's leading retail stores amount to twenty millions of dollars. And this annual business, the product of six huge plants, grew from one single-story workshop established sixty years ago by the Reverend Charles Showers.

Reverend Charles Showers was a circuit rider going from community to community preaching the Gospel. He made his home in Bloomington, Indiana, the present site of four of the six Showers plants. In riding about the countryside, he found and supplied a demand for furniture. This original Showers furniture was made during the circuit rider's spare time at his home.

And so this little home shop, through sixty years of progress—three generations—grew to six of the world's largest and most efficiently equipped plants. Now, the Showers Company is preparing to announce to the public a greater program.

The new Showers furniture is beautiful, well-constructed, distinctive in design—with soft, glowing finishes—beautiful to look upon and worthy of years of usage—furniture that will bring to the Great American Home more of the happiness of living—and this furniture is priced within the reach of the most modest income.

We choose to mark our Sixtieth Anniversary with this new plan of greater distribution and service. We have machines and plants, men and tools, designers and craftsmen, saw-mills and forests, and even our own mirror works, on which this greater service will be operated.

This is the beginning—the dawn of a new era in furnishing the Great American Home. Thousands of dealers saw the Showers Brothers furniture last month at the American Furniture Mart in Chicago. Ask your dealer to show you the beautiful Showers bedroom and dining-room furniture and kitchen cabinets that he bought during this market, each piece bearing the above trade mark. If your dealer has not been supplied, write us—the Showers Brothers Company, Bloomington, Indiana.

CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our many friends who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement.
MRS. JOSEPH A. FURRER & FAMILY.

We wish to thank our relatives and friends for the sympathy shown us in our last sad bereavement in the loss of our dear daughter, Loretta Gold. Especially the Rev. Lubeley Thaller and Bremehr of Holy Trinity Parish; also for the floral offerings.
JOSEPH OSWALD AND ANNA OSWALD AND FAMILY.

We wish to thank our relatives and many friends and neighbors for their kindness, sympathy and beautiful floral offerings rendered during the illness and death of our dear mother, Annie J. Fahrenholz. We especially thank the Rev. Paul Press, Gen. Lee Camp, Circuit, Ladies of the G. A. R. and Charles Herman & Son, undertakers.
FRED HENSOLZ CHILDREN. (c)

We wish to thank our relatives and friends for the kindness shown us in our last sad bereavement in the loss of our dear son, Frank Griessler Jr. Especially the German-Austrian Benevolent Society, the German-Austrian Workingmen's Verein, Workingmen's Singing Society and Edward Koch, undertaker; also for the floral offerings.
FRANK AND ANNA GREISSLER AND FAMILY.

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to our many friends for their kindness and sympathy and for the many beautiful floral offerings in our recent bereavement in the loss of my beloved husband and our dear father, Mr. Fedder Lucas. We also wish to thank Rev. Ellis Stone, Mr. A. Fentz, Miss Alice Fentz, pallbearers, Beacon Lodge No. 3, Ivanhoe Commandery No. 8.
WIFE AND FAMILY.

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to relatives and friends for their kindness, sympathy and beautiful floral offerings in our sad bereavement, in the loss of our beloved husband, father, son, brother and brother-in-law, Thomas Thomasello. We especially thank the Shaw Stephan's Post No. 103, American Legion, and the Ladies' Auxiliary, the Sixth Infantry Band; also Richard Heilbron, the fantry Band and firing squad of Jefferson Barracks, the Rev. Fleming serving as post chaplain, for their words of comfort and consolation; also soloist and accompanist and special thanks to the Elite trimmers of Maplewood for their tributs to the memory of our dear departed.
THE BEREAVED FAMILY.

We wish to extend our most sincere thanks to Rev. Bondsen, St. Louis Council, No. A. U. Missouri Conclave, North St. Louis B. M. A., the pallbearers, the Leidner Undertaking Co., the many relatives and friends for their kindness and their many beautiful floral offerings tendered us during the last illness and the loss of my loving husband and dear father, Gerhard W. Meeker.
THE BEREAVED FAMILY. (c)

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the kindness and sympathy shown us by our relatives and friends during our sad hour of bereavement in the loss of our dear husband and our dear father, son and brother, Ferdinand Stange; also the St. Louis Police Department for their wonderful service. Patrolman Harry Reber for his consoling words and the Fendler Undertaking Co. also acknowledge the kind and thoughtful remembrance conveyed through the beautiful floral offerings.
MRS. FERDINAND STANGE AND FAMILY.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

H. H. F., Tulsa.—See your Senator about methods of appointment to the consular or diplomatic service.

E. C.—There is no criticism attached to the expression "you all" except when used in the singular. When addressing two persons you naturally say "Are you both" but when addressing more than two, you may properly say "Are you all going to the theater?" In such a case "all" is used for emphasis, in apposition to "you," that is when you desire to stress the fact that information is wanted about all concerned. You may address a crowd as "you" since the pronoun is the same singular or plural, as "I wish to present to you this evening," but if for any reason you wish to emphasize that each and every one in the assembly is under consideration, "all" is properly used with "you."

MRS. U.—Dealers generally do not handle the leaf mold recommended to be used with sand in the soil of ferns. You may get it by taking the surface earth from under dead leaves or vegetation of any kind, as in the woods where it is plentiful. If you have a garden you may always have leaf mold on hand by raking some leaves and dried grass into a place where they will remain during the winter, rotting under the action of rain and snow. The product may be used in the spring and in a year's time it is very good leaf mold, the softest parts being mixed with earth which it continues to enrich as it decays. In giving the care of ferns, as near the ideal conditions as possible were described, and it is in soil containing leaf mold that they are found growing in their wild state.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

A. Z.—A neighbor may not come on your ground without permission.

D. A. D.—The law was changed in 1927 to exempt a resident of Missouri employed in Illinois and receiving salary there from paying Missouri State income tax on that salary.

A READER.—For law regarding the man hurt in a foundry write the Workmen's Compensation Committee, 300 West Adams street, Chicago, Ill., stating your case fully.

X. Y. Z.—If there was an express agreement, written or oral, that you should have the house for two years, you may be able to hold it for that term; if not, those interested can make you vacate on 30 days' notice, and you will have to pay rent for the notice period. Consult an Illinois lawyer.

CONSTANT READER.—For license of steam engineer apply to Boiler Inspector's office, room 426 City Hall. For information as to firemen's license apply to the Efficiency Board, second floor, Municipal Courts Building. For making application as policeman call at the office of the Commissioner of Police, third floor, 208 South Twelfth street.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

WORRIED.—The answer to your question is yes, as exemplified by many instances.

MABEL.—The trouble should be corrected by applying the following: Hyposulphite of soda 4 drachms, glycerin 1 ounce, distilled water 5 ounces; mix, shake and apply night and morning.

T. D.—A complete treatment for blackheads was given Jan. 19, 1928, in this column, which may be found in your next to read. See files at public library or write circulation department for copy, for which you may pay carrier if delivered in the city.

MOVE.—It is unfortunate to be obliged to take any kind of medicine indefinitely but no especial harm could come from chewing the tablets you mention. The taking of two tablets three times daily between meals should help to overcome the trouble. Systematic outdoor exercise and diet are important in correcting the condition and if you wish to send stamped, addressed envelope for diet list repeat the reason for writing for it.

DISTRACTED MOTHER.—What you mention in connection with the child can be overcome, but the description is suggestive of a form of diabetes (Diabetes Mellitus) and a physician should be consulted to find out if this is the case. If not, the following one recommended for the service send stamped, addressed envelope.

A DREAMER.—Such disturbed sleep as mentioned, when not due to some systemic disease, or infection, may result from improper eating, overwork, worry, constipation, or failure in some respect to lead a well-regulated life. The cause should be removed. A hot bath at bedtime and taking a 10-grain Trional powder will tend to relieve the nervous tension and secure a full night of refreshing sleep. Take systematic outdoor exercise, and abstain from tea, coffee and all alcoholics.

CARDS OF THANKS

We desire to thank our relatives and friends for their kindness and sympathy shown us in our sad bereavement in the loss of our beloved husband and father, William J. B. Meyer. Also the Rev. H. Frie for his consoling words, the pallbearers, the Sheriff's office, Junior Order U. A. M., Lyon Council No. 21, and for the beautiful floral offerings.
WIFE, DAUGHTER, SISTERS AND BROTHER.

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to relatives and friends for their kindness and sympathy in the loss of our dear husband and father, Fred Koenig. Also the Rev. Jos. Bolenius, the pallbearers and Wacker-Heiderich undertakers; also for the beautiful floral offerings.
MRS. SARAH KOENIG AND SON.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Lawrence J. Weilbacher, who departed this life two years ago, Feb. 7, 1926.
A loving soul true and kind,
No father like him we'll ever find;
Though we miss him more than we can tell,
But in our hearts he lingers still.
For all of us he did his best;
God grant him eternal rest.
Sadly missed by his beloved
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

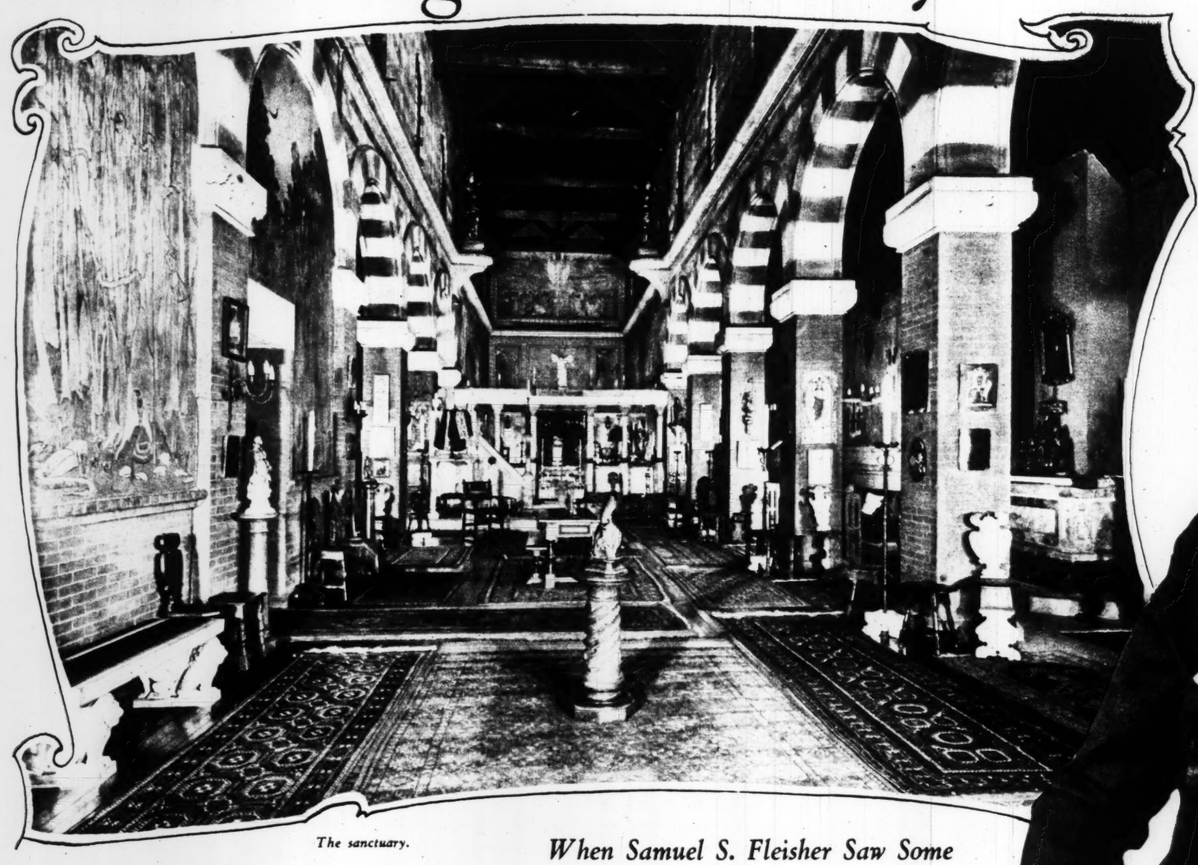
Ministering to a City's Esthetic Hunger



The sanctuary.

Samuel S. Fleisher.

When Samuel S. Fleisher Saw Some Urchins Staring Greedily at a Painting the Idea of the Graphic Sketch Club in Philadelphia Was Born.

The art gallery.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

ONCE in the course of a stroll through one of the less prosperous business districts of this city, Samuel S. Fleisher, wealthy Philadelphia manufacturer, found his curiosity aroused by a group of ragged street urchins. They stood in front of a second-hand shop window and were peering hungrily within. What could the attraction be? He wondered. Was it a fresh display of candy or pastry? Was it baseball gloves or swimming suits? Bicycles or skates? Fleisher moved nearer to find out, and in doing so received a surprise that engendered much reflection. The attraction which had evoked so much interest from these ragged children was a soiled painting.

Here was something to think about. It had not previously occurred to Fleisher that children of the streets and tenements experienced an artistic craving. He had not supposed a painting would excite even passing interest. But here was evidence of a marked esthetic hunger, a longing for the beautiful. Fleisher wondered if something could not be done about it. There were charities and philanthropies which ministered to other and more physical needs. There were benevolent organizations and individuals to supply clothing and food for the needy. There were others to take the children of the slums on outings now and then. Why shouldn't there be somebody to bring into barren lives something of art and culture? Fleisher decided there should be. And he would be the man to do it. Whereupon, he founded a little organization known as the Graphic Sketch Club. It was designed to exhibit examples of great paintings and sculpture now and then and to provide in a small way instruction for boys and girls who showed talent or taste for drawing.

IT WAS 29 years ago that Fleisher took his little stroll through the Philadelphia slums and learned that ragged children hunger for the beautiful, represented in part by works of art. Today his Graphic Sketch Club stands as a great cultural institution, with 2500 students and 16 instructors. From a tiny room it has grown to dimensions which now require a large building. Hundreds of young people have stepped from its doors into places in the world of art. Its work was so extensive and so outstanding in 1923 that Fleisher won the Edward Bok Award for the greatest service of the year to Philadelphia, and since that time it has continued on an even more commanding scale. A year ago, Fleisher retired from his manufacturing business to devote his full time to philanthropy.

Now he has carried his work to rural regions to do for poor children of the country what he has been doing in past years for children of the city slums. Recently he opened an art school, similar to the Graphic Sketch Club, in Woodbine, New Jersey, to spread esthetic interests and cultural opportunities where they had been scarce before. He did this as a sort of repetition of his earlier experiment. Woodbine is a small place, much like a Middle Western college town, surrounded by little farms devoted for the most part to poultry raising. There were few facilities available for entertainment. As in most small towns, however, the young people were too fast for their surroundings. They wanted life. They craved the amusements and the bright lights of the city. Their attempts to get it had been a cause for much concern on the part of the elders. So some of the good parents of the town asked Samuel Fleisher what could be done about it. That was how he happened to pick Woodbine for his second artistic experiment.

This school, like the older Graphic Sketch Club, has grown rapidly, only it has grown far more rapidly than did the parent institution. It has fairly taken little rural Woodbine by storm. In operation less than a year, it now has 250 students on its rolls. Classes of boys and girls may be seen at work every day in a large, clean, well-lighted room with plaster casts and other small art objects. An outsider led into the place would experience the impression of having been transported to an up-to-date art studio in a large city. It is utterly unlike anything Woodbine or almost any other small town ever saw before.

The little town also has a class in rhythmic dancing with an enrollment of more than a hundred pupils, some past the age of childhood. School authorities are cooperating with the Fleisher venture by granting the use of one of the assembly rooms for a theater, where performances are given regularly as another course of the town's artistic fare. The place is literally on an artistic rampage.

OF COURSE, so worth while an artistic venture could not hope to take its place in Woodbine or any other small town without encountering opponents and detractors. Some would naturally complain at any change in the town's life, no matter whether for better or worse. Others would hold up their hands in horror of theatrical performances and dancing. Many did in Woodbine. They complained that Woodbine was being jazzed up and the youngsters were being led into sinful ways—new-fangled ways and so perforce sinful.

But the "sinful" institution had a way of getting desirable results. It was soon found that the young men who had been loafing around the village poolroom were looking in now and then at the plays in the school assembly room. Before long they were openly attending these performances and talking about them.

THEY were hearing strange names they had never heard before—Shaw, Pinero, Wilde, Yeats, Dunsany, Galsworthy, O'Neill. They were learning something about art and esthetic dancing and the town found itself rapidly growing away from the old fogies who had always thought—if they could be said to think at all—that the theater and art were sinful. It is usually that way when people are given an opportunity to see for themselves what such things are like instead of depending on the hearsay of camp-meeting revivalists. Fleisher found, early in his philanthropic experiment—and in 29 years he never found anything to contradict it—that people need little urging once they are given an opportunity to see something of the cultural side of life. That, he declares, constitutes the chief delight of working among children in a crowded section of the city. Give them a chance to see and understand the beautiful and they grasp at it like drowning men at straws.

Fleisher's motto is: Make every man, woman and child in the United States an artist at heart and the future of the nation is assured. But he found that this could be accomplished best, not by a school as such but by a school operated as a club. It must have other features besides mere courses of instruction. Thus the Graphic Sketch Club is, first of all, a school for beginners in art study. Secondly, it is a neighborhood club, a place where neighbors may meet and talk over their interests, artistic or otherwise. In the third place, it is a museum of art. The club now maintains a room set apart as a Temple of Silence, where art lovers may find enjoyment in study of art exhibits. Daily a painting or piece of sculpture is placed upon a stand in front of rows of seats. There the art lover may sit as long as he wishes, viewing the exhibit in silence.

The purpose of the Graphic Sketch Club and the art school at Woodbine, Fleisher pointed out in a recent interview, is not to make professional artists out of the students who attend these institutions. It is rather to find and to develop the sense of beauty in the child.

"PARENTS," he declared, "often insist that their children be able to play a piano or some other musical instrument. Obviously, it is not their intention to make professional musicians out of the children, but to teach them to hear and appreciate music for their own enjoyment. Why should not the same idea be applied with relation to paintings and sculptures?

It is just as instinctive for a child to attempt to draw pictures as it is for him to try to make pleasant sounds. The love of beauty is in the child's soul naturally. It is up to us, therefore, to develop it and help it grow. We have got to help create the taste for the finer things.

"In any great forward movement toward raising the standards of our lives, the important thing, naturally, is to begin with children. If, a generation ago, we had given proper encouragement to children we would not have to beg adults today to patronize the fine arts. They would flock of their own accord to art exhibitions because the taste created years ago would always remain effective. We must work now for the future as well as for the present. If proper attention is paid to development of the fine emotions, each child will be able to decide for himself between the coarse and the fine, for each will have the proper basis for comparison. Each will know both."

Fleisher expresses a belief that inmates of prisons for the most part are persons who have been starved esthetically, who have little sense of beauty. But he believes they were born with a love for the beautiful and might have been saved from an unhappy fate had this sense been developed in childhood.

"In my vast experience with children, located in a crowded city quarter, far from fields and parks," he continued, "I have never found a child who did not respond to cultural influence. The trouble is that few know the joy of beauty because they have not come in contact with it. I am trying to correct that evil. What happens in the congested district of the city?

"The dominant side of life is failure and futility from the start. The youngster knows nothing but struggle and the pinch of necessity. He constantly feels the repression and restraint of barriers. He is virtually imprisoned spiritually. Dark, narrow streets are his home. If he flies a kite it will not go high before it is entangled in a mass of poles and wires. It is not like flying a kite in the open. The child is defeated. A great amount of thought, hope and energy goes into that attempt to fly the kite, but all is wasted.

"It is the same with other games he tries to play. He is no sooner started romping in the street than an automobile, a truck or a cart comes by and stops him. He has failed again. All the natural attempts to express himself end in failure. Life becomes a bitter and a cursed thing, full of continual discouragement and dejection.

"Here is where the Graphic Sketch Club comes in. We have tried, in an environment such as I have tried to picture, to provide many of the better things of life—beauty, grace, cheerfulness and spiritual enlightenment. A place where the child can attempt to express himself without meeting with perpetual defeat and disillusionment.

"THE club is not a museum in the commonly accepted sense of the word. And yet it is a temple of the muses—not of one muse but of all. For, in the surroundings of painting and sculpture from many countries, we have music by first-class musicians, plays, entertainments and dances. The club is made as much as possible a part of the life of the community and the people are made to feel free to use it as belonging to them.

"The club does not aim directly to make artists out of children, but rather to encourage the human desire to strive toward finer things in life. The effort might produce a hat or a table. It may only result in the beautiful arrangement of flowers on a table. That, small as it may seem, is well worth all the effort put into it.

"Girls often do not know what they want in their homes because they have no idea of what a pretty home looks like or how even an humble home may be made attractive. They have no sense of unity, no sense of color, no sense of design. Home to them means nothing lovely in many cases because it does not reflect personality. But with a little guidance they learn how to create beauty when working even with the simplest and most humble materials. To teach them that is, in the larger sense, the work of the Graphic Sketch Club."

GERALDINE, the BOOTLEGGER'S, THWARTED JAIL ROMANCE

And How She Became the Chief Witness Against the Handsome Sheriff Who Spurned Her.

Geraldine Connors.

At one of several parties held inside the Winnebago jail, shown above, Geraldine did the Charleston for the Sheriff and his friends.

Sheriff Walter E. Plummer.

Frank B. Keefe, District Attorney of Winnebago County, Wisconsin.

By M. W. CHILDS
of the Post-Dispatch Staff

OSHKOSH, Wisconsin.

GERALDINE CONNORS was a bootlegger. In the course of time she was arrested, tried and sentenced to the Winnebago County Jail for three months. Geraldine's friends and clientele said, "Too bad." Geraldine said harder things than that. But that jail was going to be a big surprise.

Hardly had she been there a week before she realized that the poet who wrote, "Stone walls do not a prison make," was really saying something.

She even was ready to protest that the jail was a gayer place than the roadhouse she had conducted before her arrest. And, for a prisoner, at least, there were no responsibilities beyond occasional duty in the kitchen. By way of entertainment there were numerous parties, excursions to nearby roadhouses, dates and callers. And, above all, there was a democratic camaraderie that included not only the other prisoners but the jailer and the Sheriff and the Sheriff's friends, too. In short, it couldn't have been much more ideal had Geraldine been the guest of honor of the leading hotel here. At least, that is her version of her jail term.

There was, however, one major source of unhappiness. On the first day of her sentence, she says, she fell in love with the handsome, young Sheriff, Walter E. Plummer. And for the three months that she was his guest her love was unrequited. Sheriff Plummer was kindly, yes, considerate, affectionate even, she says, but he did not succumb to Geraldine's charms. He told her that he wanted to marry a woman of wealth. Only to her diary, in moments when prison existence was a little dull, did Geraldine confide the deepest secrets of her love.

AND now it is this diary which may be the most important piece of evidence in the attempt to remove Sheriff Plummer from office for misconduct. At a recent hearing before a commissioner named by Governor Zimmerman, acting on charges preferred by District Attorney Frank B. Keefe, the whole story of the madcap jail came out, with Geraldine as the principal witness.

Geraldine said she was merely interested in having the truth revealed. She protested on the witness stand, to the accompaniment of tears and lamentations, that she still loves the Sheriff. But, in spite of this, Plummer's friends intimate that the motive for her testimony is a very much more primitive one—the desire for revenge of a disappointed woman.

Witness after witness took the stand to testify to various indiscretions, to parties at which the accumulated evidence of many liquor raids flowed freely, and to one particular party at which Geraldine danced the Charleston for the Sheriff and his friends; of prison administration so careless that often the keys were intrusted to the cook, who let the prisoners in and out at will, of crap games between prisoners and jailers, of the Sheriff's love making with another prisoner, Marie Turinski, and even, in one instance, of bribery. Mrs. Bessie Elkins, manager of a hotel of a decidedly questionable character, testified that she had paid Sheriff Plummer $200 for "protection" from raids.

And then came Geraldine—or Gerry, which was the Sheriff's nickname for her during their more or less enforced acquaintance. There had been rumors and the whole town flocked to hear her story. As the narrative progressed, drawn out by questions from District Attorney Keefe, she made frequent references to her diary, and at last Commissioner Herbert J. Piper adjourned the hearing to give Geraldine time to go to her home in Pella, 57 miles away, secure the diary and return. On the following day it was entered in the records almost intact, and it proved a most damaging bit of evidence.

IT DETAILS the story of her love for Plummer from the day on which she was sentenced to the day of her release, and it gives many glimpses into the life of that astounding jail. It is headed "Romance in Jail," and if you are a skeptic you will simply conclude that Gerry reads all the confession magazines. But if you are not, you will believe that she offered an undying love to a handsome philanderer with a very material outlook on life. Plummer is referred to throughout as "him" or "he," and occasionally as "Walter." The second entry is February 23:

"Had my trial this morning. Cried, too, like a little fool. Is there any justice? I wonder. Got three months and $317. If my fine isn't paid, I will stay another three months. But still I'm happy. I thought of him so much. I don't really understand my own feelings. Somehow my heart beats so fast when I see him or hear his voice. Am I falling in love? I wonder.

"Feb. 24—He took me to a doctor and was so very kind to me. And tonight he came and bade me goodnight.

"Feb. 25—Last night I dreamed he came and kissed me, my heart almost stopped beating. My very soul went out in that kiss, yet perhaps he will probably never know. And anyway it was only a dream. I hear him coming upstairs now. I must not let him see this.

"He has gone and he has kissed me. My dream came true, and, oh, what sweetness has come to me. I am happy, happy, just to be where I can see him every day, for now I know why I have always thought of him, even when I did not know him, except as an enemy. He brought me here and he may do with me as he will. He said he would come and kiss me goodnight."

THE next entries tell of her despair, intermingled with hope, when she learned that he was interested in a girl outside the jail. On March 1 she wrote:

"Same old day. He has held me in his arms, but there is something missing. But there is yet plenty of time. So I will live in my dreams and love him in my heart, on and on, until I have passed on, and left him here. I have been here just a week.

"March 3—I couldn't write last night because my heart ached too much. But tonight I am in a more sober mood.

"What great sin have I committed that I should suffer always as I am. If I do not win his love, when I leave here I leave this world. These bars hold no terror for me, jail holds no terror, but the thought of life outside without him holds the terror of an empty heart.

"He has gone. I watched him walk down the lane and start his car. The light in my heart has gone out. There is only an ache. Pray God, give me sleep to still my longing soul."

The diary is resumed again on March 16:

"It's been a long time since I poured out my heart on these dear old pages. It is because my heart aches and is empty. There is no love for me from him. He even refused me a cup of tea, said he couldn't afford to lose money on me. And I love him. That's the one thing I can't understand. He let me go out today for a ride with Luther Davis (one of Sheriff Plummer's acquaintances) and we went out to Henry Marcus' roadhouse and had a few glasses of beer. I also met a Mr. Bert Gough, who runs a saloon around the corner from here. An elderly man, very interesting. He will come to see me. I think he will be a very good friend to have.

"John, the jailer, just warned me tonight that I would be sorry if I marry Davis. I can't understand why he even thought of that. But then perhaps I might do just that. He has not asked me, but then, of course, there is lots of time. If I thought he had any money, I might do that. My love is lost anyway, and when love is gone what else is there but money.

"P. S.—He came to me tonight and held me in his arms. But he refuses to let his passion control him.

"March 18—Last night I had to give up my bed to an old couple that they brought in. I slept with the cook, Mrs. Meyers. I like her. I went riding this afternoon with Luther Davis and Bert Gough. We went out to Henry Marcus' again. Lots of fun. And Bert gave me $5, just gave it to me, and asked for nothing in return. I must know him better.

"MARCH 19—Feeling fine. Almost happy. He has not made love to me today, but he has been kind. He told me I must curl my hair to please him. He does not like it plain. I did not suppose he would even notice. He also asked me why I would not agree with Luther Davis on a very important thing concerning us. He asked me why I preferred him, and only him, to Davis. I did not answer. What could I say. Hardly could tell him that it was because I love him. That my passion is all for him and no one else appeals to me. I believe I will hand him this diary when I leave here. He may be able to understand a lot of things, especially me. He asked me to go out on a raid with him tonight, but then went and left me here."

Entries for the next few days recount hopes and fears. On March 23 she wrote:

"Heartless! Hopeless! Helpless! I can hear him in the storeroom, just outside my cell. He's going on a party and is stocking up on liquor, I suppose. How can I live through three months of this?

"Three boys from Winchester were here today, friends of mine. But everyone of them have lost all appeal to me. I sent Luther Davis home angry last night and asked him not to come any more. I hate him, hate them all but 'him.' It's after 9 o'clock and I am locked in. My eyes are full of unshed tears, because I love him. Why, dear God, must you send this curse upon me, after all that I have suffered at the hands of men?

"March 27—Tears are falling fast. He has ordered me to bed, and for no reason at all. He went out, taking a prisoner with him, who happens to be a relation of his. Gave me the keys and asked me to care for the place. When they came back they rang the bell and when I tried to open the door, I couldn't get it open. At last one of the roomers, Mr. Moore, came and opened the door. The Sheriff started to bawl me out about the door and I told him to 'take care of his own damn keys.' So he sent me to bed and locked me up."

For the next two or three days, Geraldine is put on a bread and water diet, the diary relates. For a week the handsome Sheriff does not speak to her. "They are playing the phonograph," she writes on April 7, "and it makes my heart ache. I can hear his voice. I want him, want him. God, how I could love him if he would but take me in his arms. I wonder if I should ask him to forgive me?" She celebrates her twenty-fifth birthday in jail with a special dinner and a birthday cake, and on the following day she made up with Plummer:

"April 9.—Happy day. I asked him to forgive me and he seemed pleased. Patted my face and said: 'So be different, will you, Gerry? We want to be good to you.' How happy I am now. So glad, so glad, I could sing for very joy. It wasn't all my fault, but I took all the blame. Men are always so sure of themselves, and I do believe he feels better, too. If he had only taken me in his arms.

"April 10—Sunday—He is gone. Two other prisoners and I found the key to the storeroom and helped ourselves to the stuff. I feel fine now. I suppose he is holding her in his arms now. I just finished a book where, of course, they live happily ever after. I wonder.

"April 17—Easter Sunday—Well, I've had quite an exciting time of it today. First I went with Mrs. Myers and her friend, Mrs. Jones, to see the fire. The Hudson Manufacturing Company burned. When I got back, Norman was here. I'm going to have him try to get me out in sixty days.

"May 2—It is Monday at last. What a night. He let me go out alone for a walk and when I was going down the street I met Davis. It was so nice out, the air was warm and summery. I was lonely and wanted loving. I went for a ride with Davis. We had a puncture and I couldn't get back by 9 o'clock. I tried to call him up, but no one answered. I called three times. When I got home it was 10:30. They locked me up. And now he refuses to talk to me. I cannot explain."

STORIES of other parties and excursions followed, with the climax on May 12:

"Gee, I'm sick. Someone gave Walter a keg of beer, and Bim, Zelmer, Walter and I drank it. And they loaded most of it with moonshine. We were all drunk. Orvall, a little boy 14 years old, got pretty well oiled, too. We put on the party right up here in the store room, with all the booze handy. It hurt me more than anyone will ever know when he went out. But what's the use. He does not care about me at all."

On May 15 she writes: "Shot craps

The WHOLESALE NUPTIALS of the SISLEYS and the COLERICKS

Finally the Girls' "Pa" Married the Boys' "Ma" and Now They Are All Brothers and Sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Sisley, photographed a few days after their wedding.

Three couples from the marrying families: Seated, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Sisley; left, standing, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Colerick, and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Colerick.

ALLIANCE, Nebraska.

IDOWER CHARLES W. SISLEY, 70, and Widow Sara Colerick, 59, were married here on New Year's Day. Two days later one of the two local newspapers saw fit to print an item about the couple, mentioning casually that this was the sixth time a Sisley had married a Colerick since Mel Colerick had roped and branded Bertha Sisley back in 1912. Having tendered his routine congratulations, the editor stepped to the rear of his shop and finished his job of setting by hand a notice of a public auction of ranch implements. The other paper ignored it.

Alliance thought that this was the end of it. Five Sisleys had already married five Colericks, the rest of the children on both sides were accounted for in other unions, and now the two widely known ranching families had been forever and finally united, and the supply of availables exhausted, in the sixth marriage, that of Pa Sisley and Ma Colerick. Alliance, pop. 4590, seat of Box Butte County, on the C., B. & Q. R. R., 110 miles northeast of Cheyenne (car shops, packing house, creamery, ice cream factory, bottling works, stock raising and farming) wrote finis on the Sisley-Colerick series of romances and tuned in the radio on the cattle and grain reports. It looked like a mild winter.

Then the outside world stormed the gates of Alliance and particularly the ranch of Charles Sisley and wife. The letter carrier handed Sisley a booklet from a direct-mail advertising firm, one of these smart Chicago companies. It was "What Every Newlywed Should Know." Ma was hopping mad and the couple had their first quarrel. But she forgot it in the rush which followed. The telephone began to buzz with long distance calls.

EDITORS from St. Louis, Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, Sioux City, Kearney, Nebraska, Des Moines and Denver wanted to know more about the six marriages and asked for pictures. Mail began to arrive in stacks, and then the newspaper correspondents came tracking in, going out in all directions to cover Alliance with fame. When the thing was finally cast into type, Alliance finally realized that it had not been so profoundly shaken since the bottom fell out of the potash market after the war and millions of dollars' worth of equipment was left abandoned in the fields.

It put Pa Sisley on his guard. He couldn't understand why there should be so much to-do over the affair. Why, one local paper had waited two days before mentioning it and the other hadn't covered it at all. What was the use? Everybody around Alliance knew the families and what was going on. Pa commended the Alliance editors and said they were "sensible." The remark bounced off the cast-iron hides of the city reporters and they countered by asking what Pa was going to do with that booklet about what every newlywed should know.

Well, Pa guessed the boys had about enough for their papers and would they excuse him? It seemed, hem-hem, and so on——

So this correspondent went to the farm of Mel Colerick, near Alliance. Mel started the matrimonial series. His was the heart of "oak and three-fold brass" attributed by Horace to the first man who dared to trust his frail skiff to the mercy of the ocean. It had been so long since he had inaugurated the interfamily marriages that the novelty had become dulled and he pieced the record together as follows:

1912—Mel Colerick, 38, married Bertha Sisley, 36. They live on a farm near Alliance.

1916—Dan Colerick, 41, married Edith Sisley, 31. Dan belongs to the City Fire Department.

1922—Roy Sisley, 35, married a niece of Mrs. Colerick, Nellie Pease, 35. Roy is a railroad fireman.

1924—John Colerick, 37, married Ethel Sisley, 38. John and his family live on a ranch in Wyoming.

1925—Charles Colerick, 30, married Mabel Sisley, 28. Charles runs a barber shop in Alliance.

1928—Charles W. Sisley, 70, married Sara Bertha Colerick, 59.

In addition to four Colerick boys who married Sisleys, there was a daughter who married outside the families and lives in Alliance, and there were two Sisley girls and two Sisley boys who married elsewhere.

But that mutual family attraction was undoubtedly there, and Mel Colerick was not the man to explain it. The thing had been discussed here at great length and no one had offered a suitable explanation.

"I guess," offered Mel, "that one by one we boys just commenced to realize that these Sisley girls were just about the world's best. As we realized this we sort of grabbed 'em off before someone else realized it, and as fast as they would say 'yes.'

"I went with Bertha about two years before I finally got up enough courage to ask her to become my wife," he said, "and even after I did, she kept me waiting a long time. But she finally gave in and that was the beginning of this tangle that has made our wives sisters and our mother-in-law our mother, or whatever it has done.

"We have been neighbors for about 20 years, you see. We boys were awfully good friends and hung around a lot together. So were the Sisley girls. Then every once in a while one of the families would visit the other for an afternoon or evening's fun, and I guess we sort of fell in love with one another in that way."

There were many parties at which the boys and girls met and the girls even herded cattle in those days and would sometimes meet the boys driving herd, as the ranches were adjoining.

Mel claims the honor of having mated his brother and bosom chum, Dan, to Edith Sisley, following his own marriage.

"Anybody could see they were in love," said Mel. "So one day I said to them: 'Why don't you two get married and make a family affair of this?' And that night they decided I was right."

That was number two, which, in turn, was the immediate cause of number three. The latter was not strictly a son-and-daughter affair. Nellie Pease was a niece of Mrs. Colerick, but had come to be considered in the light of a daughter. Nellie and Roy Sisley were selected as attendants at the wedding of Dan and Edith (number two). One suspects that brother Mel also had a hand in this. It was the first time Roy had met Nellie, except to say hello on the street. But the experience proved fatal, for it later developed that Roy and Nellie were already discussing plans as they walked down the aisle ahead of the bride and groom. So they became number three.

Charley Colerick and Mabel Sisley (the fates were weaving overtime) acted as attendants at wedding number three. They had been in love for a long time and had considered telling the folks about it and making a double wedding out of number three, but had decided to wait.

Meanwhile, John Colerick was having the battle of his life. A banker's son was "rushing" Ethel Sisley, upon whom John had cast covetous eyes. The banker's son, like the rest of his tribe, was rich and drove a flashy car. But John made the grade in fine style and, in true romantic fashion, "cut him out."

Friends took an interest in John's affairs and urged him to beat his brother Charley to it by getting married first. John did so, slipping over to a nearby village with Ethel, on the sly, and becoming number four in this interesting little series. A month later Charley and Mabel, a little put out at having been beaten on the getaway, swallowed hard and became number five.

SHORTLY after the fifth marriage, Mr. Colerick, the boys' father, died. That was about three years ago. Mrs. Colerick, left in fairly easy circumstances, did not like being idle and started a rooming house in Alliance.

Two years passed and Mrs. Sisley, mother of the girls, became seriously ill, her life gradually ebbing away until August of last year, when she died.

Sisley, much depressed and lonely on his farm, began taking occasional meals at Mrs. Colerick's rooming house. They went for walks together, and people began to say how peculiar it would be if they were to marry. They knew it wouldn't be a bit peculiar, and when they were married on New Year's Day, everyone, including the sons and daughters, was happy.

There was no blowing of horns about the marriage. It was, in fact, a secret affair. The couple married to the Christian Church and told their friend, the Rev. O. D. Lee, pastor, that they wanted to be married. So the pastor drafted his wife and a roomer for witnesses and performed the ceremony in the parsonage.

"And it isn't one of those compassionate marriages you read so much about in the newspapers these days, either," says Pa Sisley of Sisley-Colerick episode number six. Alliance is quiet again.

WHEN THE MASTODON ROAMED WHERE ST. LOUIS NOW STANDS

The mastodon.

Teeth and Bones Found in Quarry at Fort Bellefontaine Are Being Investigated by Scientists.

A Figure of the Pleistocene Era, He Lived His Life With the Giant Beaver and the Sabre-Toothed Tiger.

By a Member of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

THE recent unearthing of the teeth and bones of a mastodon in the Missouri Portland Cement Company's quarry at Fort Bellefontaine on the Missouri River has given rise to the usual reactions. A banker calculates what a dollar, invested at 3 per cent in the mastodon's youth, would be worth today, and urges a more rigid budget plan in the home. A furniture dealer, in his sly advertisement, opens with a discussion of the age of the fossils, in which everyone is interested, tapers into a discourse on his furniture and invites the happy bride to come in and select. Others ponder the fossils, visualize the beast which once carried the large dentition in his jawbone and wonder how the neighborhood looked when the mastodon was "on his prowl."

This task is rendered somewhat difficult by the fact that the glacier, which literally snowed under, or iced over, the mastodon and also swept over what is now St. Louis and Southern Illinois, changed to a very marked degree the topography of the country, creating new river beds, lakes, mountains and foothills as it receded. Thus, what is now Art Hill in Forest Park may once have been the scene of a huge depression, and the present bed of the Mississippi may once have supported the crest of a mountain range.

At any rate, here was the mastodon, whose teeth and bones were found near Fort Bellefontaine—alive, 10 feet high, hairy and with upturned tusks, roaming around what is now, in the Psychozoic Era (for it is indeed that), St. Louis and its metropolitan district. In general appearance he was an elephant and a large one.

THE time was about 400,000 years ago. Or it may have been 1,400,000 years ago. Estimates vary. Anyway, it was in the Pleistocene Era, which ended about 50,000 years ago, or maybe 20,000. For some unknown reason the mastodon became extinct about this time, having had his origin, according to the best evidence, in the Miocene Age.

The arrival of the mastodon in our city was the result of centuries of wanderings on the part of his ancestors. He is believed to have originated in Africa, migrated to Asia and, through Siberia and a strip of land which used to connect Siberia with Alaska, have arrived in North America. From this point, the mastodon's life seems to have been one of keeping a few jumps ahead of glaciers, for as the glaciers swept down from the North, the mastodon galloped south, always keeping on the fringe of the ice. As the glaciers never progressed farther south than what is now the northern boundary of Kentucky, it is probable that our particular specimen was one of the last of his race.

Today extinct as a city hall Democrat, he and his fellows once roamed the local field in company with, or at odds with, a race of horses, now also extinct; the carnivorous sabre-toothed tiger, the giant beaver, sometimes as large as a black bear, and huge sloths. Here he settled down, became part of the community and reared his family, recognizing, as do many today, the manifest natural advantages with which Nature has equipped the locality. There was no smoke in those days.

MASTODON remains have been found in many parts of the United States and there are today perhaps a dozen reconstructed skeletons in various museums. Cotton Mather, New England historian, early in the eighteenth century found several such fossils and wrote to a friend in England that he had discovered the remains of a race of giants.

The teeth and bones pictured herewith were dug up by workmen in the cement quarry. Officials of the company, notified by the foreman, recognized the scientific value of the remains and turned them over to the Geology Department of Washington University. Professor Shipton of the Geology Department, upon viewing them, declared them to be highly important and asked John W. Radebaugh, also of the department of geology, to undertake an investigation of them.

Parts of thigh and shin bone of the Pleistocene monster, also part of the find.

Reconstruction of the upper jaw of the mastodon made by John W. Radebaugh.

Mr. Radebaugh, who is making a special study of fossil remains found in this area, saw that the teeth and bones were those of the American mastodon and took steps to preserve them but was able to salvage only about one-third of the remains, the rest crumbling from contact with the atmosphere. The sound specimens, two teeth and two bones, were treated with preservatives. One of the teeth was that of an old animal, the other of a young mastodon, the conclusion being that they had met death together. The bone fossils are part of a thigh and shin bone.

Whether man roamed the hills and valleys hereabouts at the time of the mastodon is a matter of conjecture. Some have stoutly maintained that he did and have exhibited arrow heads and other crude weapons found near the bones of mastodons. Scientists, however, hesitate to accept the evidence as final, pointing out that the human beings of a considerably later period might easily have left their instruments on the soil above the fossils. It is certain that the human race in Europe was acquainted with the woolly mammoth, another branch of the elephant family, for a number of crude drawings of mammoths have been found on bones and on the walls of caves.

BUT on this continent no real evidence has been produced to show that man and the mastodon were co-existent or that man had anything to do with the extinction of the mastodon, as he later had with the extermination of the buffalo. Some authorities hold that all species, like nations, have their rises and falls and eventually pass out of existence and that the absence of the mastodon may be accounted for in this way. The fact that the race of horses which existed in the Pleistocene age, which would have been of tremendous value to man, has also passed out, lends color to the theory. The type of horse common in this country today is the descendant of those introduced by the Spaniards, which multiplied rapidly.

One investigator, though, held tenaciously to the belief that men of a savage state hunted the mastodon. He was Dr. Albert Koch, who discovered the first mastodon remains in Missouri and published a report about them near the middle of the last century.

Dr. Koch found, scattered about the skeleton, axes, arrowheads and other human implements and declared that there was also evidence showing that fire had been made on top of the skeleton. These things, he said, convinced him that men had killed the mastodon. If he was right, his assertion gives rise to a vivid imagined scene—that of savages pursuing the great beast, trapping him in the mire of a swamp and afterward devouring his flesh in the light of their barbaric fires. Unfortunately for romance, however, only the top portions of the Koch skeleton were charred, pointing to accidental contact with fire started perhaps long after the death of the animal. Dr. Koch's views were not generally accepted in this country, to his great distress, and he crated his Gasconade fossils and shipped them to England, where they now lie in a museum.

UNDERNEATH the buildings of St. Louis there are undoubtedly many interesting fossilized remains of prehistoric animals, as the vicinity has been the recipient of much glacial action, and to the boy who gets a kick out of finding an arrow head in a creek bed or the farmer who gets excited when his plow unearths a rusted breastplate, there are newer and great joys of the imagination to be found in a few blocks' walk in the city.

Even more ancient fossils may be actually seen in a limestone quarry near Meramec Highlands. Here, embedded in rock, are thousands of fossils of tiny plants and animals that lived in the warm sea which covered this territory a million years ago. Washington University has a large collection of these shells and fossilized skeletons on display in its geology building. They range from tiny sea lilies to large reptiles reconstructed in plaster from partial remains.

On these rambles deep into the cavernous belly of time, so monstrous and long as to dwarf the wanderer to insignificance and virtual invisibility, the occasional visitor in the tremendous realm of geology is apt to emerge from the experience panting at the meager span of 60 or 70 years allotted him when he pictures his speck of life, his little heart throb, laid upon the background of even a single geologic era.

DOES ALL HIS TRAVELING In His OWN PLANE

Phil Ball, Owner of the St. Louis Browns, Has Gone Eighteen Thousand Miles in Four and a Half Months.

Phil DeCatesby Ball.

Phil Ball and his pilot, Lieut. Frank Dunn.

By JACK ALEXANDER
of the Post-Dispatch Staff

HERE was much wise-cracking last August when it was noised about that Phil DeCatesby Ball, better known as owner of the St. Louis Browns, had purchased a Ryan monoplane, replica of Colonel Lindbergh's, which he intended to use regularly in trips affecting the destinies of the Browns, and also some of his happier enterprises.

Some suggested that the redoubtable, gruff Phil had decided to turn baseball scout and scour the Class D country for pitchers, taking in their fine points with a powerful telescope set in the floor of the ship. Others, in conversation, christened the plane the "Spirit of the St. Louis Browns," a reference as certain to produce laughter as the mention of Granite City or Kirkwood on the vaudeville stage.

Ball, meantime, was hurrying westward to San Diego by rail, accompanied by Lieutenant Frank Dunn, whom he had retained as pilot. If he had heard the remarks of the tribe of "grandstand managers" he probably was as unaffected by them as when he later announced the sale of George Sisler to the Washington Senators for a reported $15,000.

Sixty-three years old and a veteran of many picturesque experiences, Ball eagerly pored over plans, drawings and specifications of the silvered automaton which was to carry him into a new and broader realm of enjoyment and commercial usefulness. A newly developed motor had transported Lindbergh from New York to Paris, without missing a revolution. The day had arrived, therefore, when travel by air was perfectly safe.

So reasoned Phil Ball as he stepped into the cabin of his plane at the San Diego airport and set sail for El Paso, Texas, on the first leg of his journey to St. Louis, last August. The soundness of his reasoning is shown in the log, which he keeps at the order of the Government. This record proclaims that in four and a half months Ball has traveled more than 18,000 miles, in business trips East and West, and in pleasure trips to the North and South, without serious mishap.

FOR all this statistical safety, there were many times when Ball, had he known what he knows now about air travel, would have been frankly scared. But he had the faith of a child in Lieutenant Dunn's ability to solve all difficulties, a faith tempered somewhat now by an appreciation of a pilot's problems.

There was, for instance, the time when they were returning from Chicago late one afternoon. Dunn landed the plane at Springfield, Illinois, the last lighted field on the air mail route to St. Louis, and announced that they would put up for the night at Springfield, as darkness would surely overtake them before they could reach St. Louis, and Lambert Field was not illuminated. Ball, to whom the plane and the hand of Dunn were capable of something approaching magic, objected strenuously and informed Dunn that there was no sense in staying in Springfield, dammit, when they could go on to St. Louis. Who wanted to stay in Springfield, anyway? Give him a match. His cigar was out.

"Well, I was right," said Dunn, in describing what turned out to be one of his own most nervous evenings. "It was pitch dark by the time we neared St. Louis, and when we passed over the last air mail beacon at the Missouri River, I headed in the general direction of Lambert Field, hoping to locate it somehow, but knowing it to be almost impossible.

"On a moonlight night, you can fly low over familiar territory and perhaps pick up a landmark that will help you orient yourself, but we happened to be traveling in the dark of the moon, which was tough. I dropped the ship to 200 feet, but couldn't see thing except nondescript lights glowing in houses—nothing that would help me locate our position.

"Pretty soon I knew we had passed the landing field in the darkness, so I started circling all around, hoping for a break, but not expecting to get it. Mr. Ball sat in the rear, complacent and confident that we would get in all right.

"At last I picked up what I knew to be a dog-racing track and, concluding, naturally, that it was the Ramona Park track, which was the only one on the St. Louis side of the Mississippi when we left, I used this new bearing to find the field, but failed again. Returning to the track, I noted the street car line and the hard road adjoining the track and knew it to be the St. Charles Rock road."

DUNN'S confusion resulted from the fact that he had been away for two weeks and the Wellston track, in all its electric glory, had sprung up in his absence.

"I followed the road by automobile lights until I recognized the town of St. Charles and then tracked back to a lighted amusement park which I knew to be the Westlake Park. Now I knew where I was. Guessing the approximate distance from the park to Lambert Field, I tolled off the seconds mentally, and when I thought we were over the field I began to set the ship down. It was like flying with one's eyes closed. Not a thing was visible. The only thing to do was to let her down gently into the black pit and trust to luck not to hit a tree or a farmhouse."

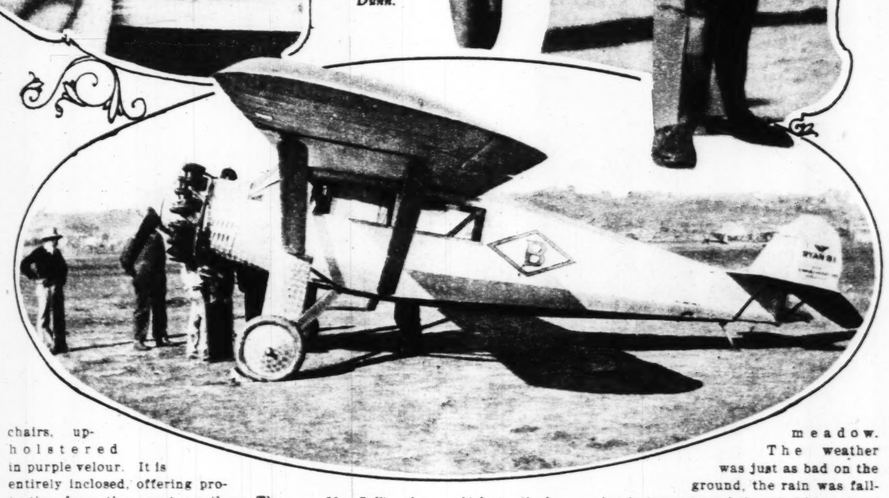
Dunn's judgment proved flawless, for after the first hard thump, the ship settled down smoothly on the landing field. The travelers were not the only anxious persons on the scene. Mrs. Ball and her daughter, waiting for the arrival of the plane, had heard it roar across the hangars and disappear in the night toward Wellston, just after it had left the last beacon light. Dunn's judgment of the field's location had been correct this time, too, although the darkness prevented his knowledge of it.

The pair have been in other tight places since last August, impromptu landings having been forced upon them eight times, but most of these arose from Ball's insistence on bucking storms, bad weather and, in the case just related, darkness. Ball is more sanguine now and is chiefly concerned with the utility of his plane.

"It's a big time saver," he said. "I can clear up my work at the office here by 11:15 in the morning, eat lunch and be in Chicago by 2 o'clock in the afternoon to finish the day's work there. The traveling is fast and comfortable, and in most seasons of the year the scenery is beautiful. There is no hardship in a well-fitted cabin plane, and you can smoke a cigar or read a book or fool around with maps to your heart's content."

Ball's brougham, although to outward appearances identical with the "Spirit of St. Louis," has a carrying capacity of five persons, including the pilot, while Lindbergh's ship carries only one. This is due to the fact that most of Lindbergh's cabin space is occupied by gasoline tanks to carry him over his long jumps, whereas on Ball's plane the gas tanks, of much smaller capacity, are carried in the wings, immediately adjoining the cabin. The cabin space is devoted to comfortable chairs, upholstered in purple velour. It is entirely inclosed, offering protection from the worst weather. The original cost of the plane was $11,000, but the addition of special devices has brought the cost up to about $14,000, no more than many persons pay for imported automobiles.

Mr. Ball's home near Ferguson.



Mr. Ball's plane, which is of the same type as Lindbergh's.

IT IS a sturdy, reliable craft and has stood many severe weather tests. Once, near Muncie, Indiana, the Ryan was caught between two storms and dropped so fast from the terrific downward pressure that Ball was thrown against the roof and knocked out of his chair to the floor.

"We had gone through and around two or three thunderstorms," he said, "and were considering the advisability of a forced landing when suddenly we bumped into a spot where, apparently, the vortexes of two storms were in the act of coming together. The plane dropped like a rock and every loose article in the cabin, including myself, seemed to fly up and bump the ceiling. This was because the downward pull was exercising a stronger influence on the ship than the force of gravity on the loose articles. In other words, our inertia caused us virtually to stand still while the plane fell. I don't know how far we fell, but we decided it was about time to come down and landed in a sheep pasture until the storm passed.

"Late in September we met up with the tornado that hit St. Louis a few hours later. We were on the way to Tulsa when, about 10 o'clock in the morning, we ran into a violent storm over Vinita, Oklahoma. With the throttle wide open we were not making more than 30 miles an hour. In still air we should have been going 120 miles an hour. The wind, about an 80-mile blow, was causing the plane to pitch badly and the rain was blinding, so we decided to land and came down in a hay meadow. The weather was just as bad on the ground, the rain was falling in torrents and the wind blew great guns. The wind was so strong, in fact, that we kept the propeller going in order to keep from being blown away. When we finally got to Tulsa we found the ground speed of the air was 46 miles, so that our guess of 70 or 80 miles at 1500 feet was about right."

HAD Ball been superstitious he might have abandoned the idea of business flying, from the experiences of his first trip on the Ryan. It was August 13 when the ship was ready to be taken from San Diego.

"Are you superstitious?" Ball asked his pilot.

"No," replied Dunn.

"Get in, then, and let's go," ordered Ball, and they took off. The trip to El Paso was flawless, the 700 miles being made in 6 hours and 15 minutes, in beautiful weather, at 10,000 feet. Ball was enthusiastic.

But trouble developed in bunches the next morning when they left for Tulsa, normally a five-hour jump. At 4000 feet, over Vernon, Texas, the gasoline clogged and Dunn brought the plane down in a cotton field, the propeller throwing the cotton in all directions like a snow plow. Dunn repaired the trouble as best he could without proper tools and took off again, but the gasoline line caused the motor to stop again in 15 minutes, and they landed on a farm near Frederick, Oklahoma, where they stayed over night. They set out again next morning, but had to make a third "dead-stick" landing in a few minutes from 1500 feet, near Hollister, Oklahoma. Tired of the repetition, they disconnected the special device for pumping gasoline to the carburetor and made a direct connection with the tanks, flying into Fort Sill, where the repairs were made properly at the Government airport.

The remainder of the trip was uneventful, and after arriving in St. Louis they continued on to Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo and New York.

Ball is a pioneer in this vicinity in the matter of using an airplane for business trips. Rarely does he resort to rail travel, especially where his business demands speed.

"Air travel is certainly practical at this stage of its development," he said in discussing the commercial use of the airplane. "If you have a reliable plane, such as the Ryan, and a Wright Whirlwind motor, you have a virtual guarantee against engine stoppage, and that is the main danger. Of course, accessories like the gasoline pump must be kept in perfect order or the motor cannot function properly, but given the right feed and all that, this type of motor will never stop.

"Thus, with a good plane and a good pilot, there is no danger in flying across mountainous or wooded country such as one encounters in the Rockies or Alleghenies. I am speaking of ordinary hops, not those that Lindbergh makes. There is only one Lindbergh."

AN INVETERATE air traveler, Ball is naturally interested in airport development and had this to say of the local field: "Lambert Field is a piece of ground susceptible of being made into a wonderful airport, with additional acreage. At the present time there are no accommodations other than an unheated hangar."

Since this statement was made the Board of Aldermen has authorized the expenditure of $50,000 for improving the airport. Of this, $40,000 will be spent upon small lights which will border the landing field and flood lights which will be turned on the field when an approaching motor is heard. A revolving beacon has already been erected, the gift of Mrs. Adolphus Busch III, to show night-flying pilots the general direction of the port. A bond issue proposal, involving $1,000,000, will be submitted to the voters in November. This will carry items for the enlargement and eventual permanent acquisition of the airdrome for the city.

"I am 63 years of age now," Ball said in response to questions, "and I confidently expect to die a natural death. I intend to keep on traveling by air and have no fears whatever of accident. My pilot was recommended to me by Colonel Lindbergh and so was the plane, so where's the danger?"

Asked if he carried parachutes as part of the equipment, Ball said that in a ship of such a safe type as his a parachute was just "so much extra junk," and he never carried one. "Lieutenant Dunn can make a dead-stick landing any place," he said.

CONCLUDING his interview, Ball said: "Airplanes were not new to me when I bought one for myself. I used to ride them seven or eight years ago. We made lots of trips in seaplanes from Miami to Bimini for the fun of it. But there were several real thrills left.

"The one I am thinking of particularly did not involve the element of danger at all. It merely turned the clock back about a half-century. Lieutenant Dunn and I were flying over the Rocky Mountains. It was a beautiful day and we were just coasting along, taking in the view. Pretty soon an eagle spotted us and rose to meet the ship, but when he saw what a big bird we were he thought better of it and turned out of the way.

"Well, I looked far below, and there, trudging along a mountain pass behind a wagon, I saw, in my mind's eye, a kid of about 10 or 11. He was part of a freighter outfit, on the way from Pueblo to the mining town of Del Norte, a march of 180 miles over Poncho Pass, up the Royal Gorge of the Arkansas and down the other side. The outfit was traveling along at the rate of about 15 or 20 miles a day. That was in 1876.

"Here was the same boy, 10,000 feet up in the blue sky, leaning back in an upholstered chair, cigar in mouth, and roaring along at 135 miles an hour, with a tail wind. Tie that."

FOR NIZE BABY IT SAZ MOMMA A FERRY TAIL FROM FROGS.

FOURTH FLOOR—Oohoo, nize baby, itt opp all de peaze in conjonction witt kerrots so momma'll gonna tell you a ferry tail from de Frog wot he bicame a Preence.

Wance oppon witt a time it was leeving a Preencess wot she was beautiful like annytink. So wan hefternoon it was playing de Preencess in de woots witt a golden ball wot she gafe gradually a tuss witt a bonce in de hair de ball wot it flew her hout from de hends into a pull from wodder wot she was crying someting huffle de Preencess.

So it came alung a Frog wot he gafe a cruk to her, he cruked so:

"Hm—wot furr de wodder-woiks, mine dirr? Wot furr do you wipping? Why so donnkest witt wubby-gun?"

So de Preencess sad: "I lust mine golden ball!"

So de Frog sad: "Hm—wot it's wott to you I should gatting de ball?"

So de Preencess sad: "Hm, it geeves me salestukks a frog, ha? Who you, plizze?"

So it crükked de Frog: "I a Preence!"

So she sad: "Hm—donn claver, dees Preences! Must be a Chinese Preence. Keed Reinconnation heemsaif! Why you don't writing a book 'From Preence to Tudd—odder —From Pelece to Pond' maybe, ha??"

So de Frog crukked: "Hm—smot crecks, ha—from a sneppy nature yat? Ho K! For mine pott you should gatting de Navy Dippotament it should raising you opp de ball by Chreestmas, maybe odder de naxt heclipse!! S'lonk!!"

So de Preencess was extrimmingly griff-streecken wot she sad: "Poohoo-hoo-hoo"— So it took compession on her de Frog wot he sad to her, he sad so:

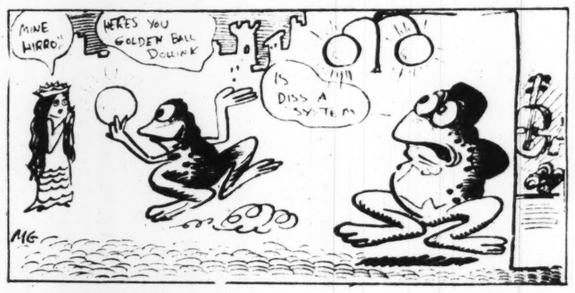
"Noo, Numma Telmedge—geeve a leesten—a preposeetion! If you'll aggring to lat me I should luff you —I should leeving by de pelece witt you—so for dees I'll gonna rascue de ball!"

So de Prencess tutt so: "Hm—a not!! Ho, wal—I'll say heem yas so by de time he'll breeng opp de ball, so it'll be here alrady de kippers witt a straitjecket dey should taking heem beck to de booby hetch!! HO K, FROG!!!"

So de Frog gafe a seeng a sung "Hefter de Ball" wot he difed in dipp gradually in de wodder wot he pulled opp foist a mettress, den a copple teen kens witt a Mowriss chair—und den de ball. So de Preencess was extrimmingly glifful wot she ren away queeck to de pelece.

So it arrifed in de front from de pelece de Frog wot he was poffing witt penting witt hout from bratt wot he stodded opp witt de Preencess hogguments so jost den it stock hout from de weendow de Keeng de had wot he gafe a hexclamation:

"Sadie!! Oppstess!!! Bum—go home!! It's alrady tricklock by de monnink!!"



POT II.

So de naxt day it gafe a reeng de talaphun so it henswered de Preencess so: "Keengdom from Pffmff, Incupperated. Kepital witt soiploss fife meelion clemshells. Keeng Deeshface de Foist Prasident witt Ganeral Meneger. Whooze culling, plizze??"

So it henswered a woice so: "Tonn Topeecs spicking!! Cruk—cruk!! Hm—you gatting pale, ha?? Ren hout on me, deed you?? Took edwentege by mine Frog's-laggs, ha?? Noo, so wot'll gonna be??"

So de Preencess sad: "Grrrr-rr, you doidy Frog, you!! I dun't afraid from you!! Grrrrr"——

So de Frog sad: "Hmm—So, mine prout beauty—Hultimatums you geeving, ha?? You'll hirr from mine attoiney! Goot pye!!"

POT III.

So it came by de huffice from de Keeng de sacretary wot he sad to de Keeng he sad so:

"Gantleman houtsite to see you, sorr, wot he's a Frog!"

So de Keeng sad: "Tell heem he should hev a sitt by a tuddstool!"

So de sacretary sad: "He must see you in conjonction witt you dudder!!"

So de Keeng sad: "Noo, lady, comm hon gradually. Stop putting on de nuzz de podder—on de leep de leepsteeck—und behind de hears de toilet wodder. Is waiting houtside pipple."

So dey went hout so instat from de frog was seeting der a tull, hendsome chep wot he was well set opp wott he was nonchellent witt dabbonair witt a brizzy, goot nature from a frenk, boyish faze—witt a penic yat witt de women wot he sad so: "Cruk! Cruk! Ha ha—deedn't I told you I a Preence??"

So de Keeng witt de Preencess was overpowdered witt joy wot dey gradually got merried de Preence witt de Preencess. Heppy dey leeved hever hefter und joy it was lots from.

(Hm! Sotch a dollink baby, ate opp all de peaze in conjonction witt de kerrots!).

TALES OF REAL DOGS

By Albert Payson Terhune

"The Talking Dog" of Saxony.

I HAVE not been able to learn his name, nor does it matter. But he won for himself a place of distinction in the archives of the Royal Academy of France, and in other scientific documents. There can be little or no doubt as to the truth of this story about him, as it was attested to by some of the foremost men of the time.

He lived in Misnia, in Saxony, about the beginning of the eighteenth century, and he belonged to a peasant's sickly little son. The lad was not able to romp with other children. Thus his dog was his only pal, and the youngster concentrated on teaching this canine chum of his to do remarkable things.

The dog was a mongrel and of medium size. Like many another mongrel, he had an almost uncannily clever brain, and was astoundingly quick to learn things which most thoroughbreds are never taught and which most of them could not hope to master.

A so-called "mongrel" ("crossbreed" is by far the more accurate term) is neglected too often in matters of education. And this is a mistake and an injustice, for nine times out of ten he will reward such education by brilliant achievement.

First of all, the child began to study the various ways in which his dog barked. Any dog man can tell you that a bark may signify a dozen different things, and that different barks have as widely varying meanings as have the tones of the human voice.

Having nothing else to do and nobody but his dog for a companion, the little fellow made a careful classification of all these barks, so that he could tell at once what mood or what desire or what impulse his pet was trying to express.

Thus far, there was nothing remarkable in the case, for thousands of dog owners have made a similar study of barking and have learned as much from it. But the boy went further.

HE formed the fanciful idea that he could detect sounds in his dog's barking which had a faint resemblance to the sounds of human speech. Working on this fantastic theory, the lad decided he would teach his chum to speak. He was not old enough and wise enough to know that a dog cannot be taught such an accomplishment.

So he went at the task with a full belief that he could achieve it. As sometimes happens, complete ignorance of impossibilities succeeded where knowledge would have failed.

The dog was about three years old when his little master began his strange education. The boy was a born animal trainer. And, as I have said, he did not know he was attempting an impossibility. So, day and night, he continued his lessons, for months, ever trying to make his eager and clever crossbreed chum learn to pronounce words.

At the end of that time, the dog was able to say no fewer than 30 simple words, such as "coffee," "chocolate," "tea," "bread," etc. Of course, he spoke them hoarsely and gutturally; for a dog's mouth is not shaped for the forming of human words. But he articulated them with entire distinctness so that any listener could understand what he was saying.

It was more a matter of imitation than of initiative. For never would he speak any word of his own accord. Always the word must be uttered slowly and carefully by the boy. Then the dog would repeat it. Whether his mouth was of different formation from that of the average dog, and thus enabled him to form words, I do not know. But it is on record that he did form them, and with perfect distinctness.

Day and night he continued his lessons.

Reports of the strange "talking dog" traveled far and wide. At length the story came to the ears of the world-famed German scientist, Gottfried Wilhelm Leibnitz, one of the most renowned men of all Europe and one whose word was not to be doubted.

Leibnitz was interested, though at first he believed the tale was a hoax. But he took the trouble to travel by stagecoach to Misnia, to verify or to discount the rumor. There he met the boy, who explained to him, simply, how he had happened to make such a queer experiment along such impossible lines.

Then the lad called his dog, and tried to make the animal go through his 30 words. After a day or so, when the crossbreed had gotten accustomed to Leibnitz's presence in his home, he recited his words, over and over. As Leibnitz was a scientist, he still suspected a trick, and he set about trying to discover it.

But the more the great man studied the case, the more wholly convinced he became that it was genuine. He proved there was no ventriloquism and that no hidden human was speaking the words attributed to the dog. He made test after test, and all of them proved past doubt the fact that this crossbreed actually could pronounce 30 words.

OTHER reliable witnesses were summoned by him. They arrived, doubting. They went away, solemnly convinced that there was such a creature as a talking dog, and that no trick of any kind had been played on them. Over and over the crossbreed would repeat his 30 simple words, after the child who had taught them to him.

Leibnitz collected all his data on the subject, and then he published it in a long and scholarly report. This report he read to the Royal Academy of France. The Academicians were inclined at first to think the great man had lost his once-marvelous intellect, or else that he was daring to play a joke upon them.

But Leibnitz proved every one of the astonishing statements he made concerning the talking dog. At length they were convinced, and his report was accepted and was enshrined in their sacred archives. But one hard-boiled academician insisted on embodying with the record a comment to the following effect:

"Had this report been submitted to our honorable body by any person less exalted in repute and less completely reliable than Herr Leibnitz, we should have hesitated long before accepting and recording it."

As I have said, this happened at about the beginning of the eighteenth century, some 16 years before Leibnitz's death. The Academicians were more interested in the scientific phase of the matter than in the wonderful dog himself or in his far more remarkable little peasant master.

So I have never been able to find any tidings of what happened later, either to dog or to boy, or whether the crossbreed's education stopped at that point or continued to even greater heights.

Nor do I know what became of the boy. A child with his patience and persevering cleverness ought to have made his mark in the world. Also, such a child would have been likely to go on teaching the dog to speak more words, and perhaps to perform even more remarkable exploits.

I have always been sorry there seems to be no further information to be gleaned about the talking dog and about his inspired young teacher.

Two Dead Men in a Moving Plane—Boelke Is Killed—More Victories for Von Richthofen.

PART III.

(Editor's Note: The carnage wrought by the German air forces over the Russian front in the early period of the war was appalling, as told in the preceding installment of this series. Then the future ace went back to the western front and scored his first English "kills." Richthofen's story is continued in this third installment.)

BOELKE, the master, had watched his fledglings with happy pride that September morning when Richthofen shot down and killed his first two Englishmen.

High in the sky above them, his eagle-trained eyes observed every feature of their performance. It pleased him to note that his pupils, by following his instructions to the letter, reflected great credit on the man who had selected them and trained them to kill.

His pleasure and pride found immediate expression in a sudden descent into the melee, where he engaged one of the enemy squadron and brought it down. It added another victory to his "bag," which then amounted to 26.

One other thing he saw that day that was entirely new to his experience, and, at that time, unprecedented in the records of martial aviation.

It happened as the Jagdstaffel was flying back to its airdrome after the fight with the enemy squadron. The German formation was approaching a small bank of clouds floating on its exact level. Just before reaching the clouds, an English two-seater plane, with motor full on, emerged suddenly from the fleecy white vapor and flew straight for the center of the German V, but did not fire a shot.

Several of Richthofen's flying mates swerved to attack and one was forced to dive suddenly to avoid a head-on collision with the English plane. Boelke's fledglings dived on it from above and from the right and left, pouring round after round of bullets into the machine.

Boelke dived to a position over the tail, and pressed the machine gun trigger. He saw his bullets go into the bodies of both the pilot and the observer, who were sitting bolt upright in their cockpits. Still there was no return fire from the English plane, and no attempt to maneuver out of range and shake off its pursuers.

The German ace was puzzled. He flew closer, holding his fire, and ready at any minute to meet a sudden attack from the strangely acting plane. Gradually he flew directly over it. Banking his wings slightly to depress one side of the fuselage, he peered into the cockpits of the English plane and into the bloodstained faces of two dead men.

The plane was a derelict of the air.

DEATH had placed its controls in neutral, holding it to an even keel as it sped onward across the sky, its motor roaring with life from a wide-open throttle.

"A glorious death," was the comment of young Baron von Richthofen. "Fight on and fly on to the last drop of blood and the last drop of benzine; to the last beat of the heart and the last kick of the motor—a death for a knight. A toast to his fellows, friends and foes!"

They drank it standing, and with feeling—drank it in French red wine from the large silver victory cups that had been the reward of each of the five young fledglings who had brought down their first victims in the air that day.

Boelke had presented the cups in the name of the air commander. They were large, heavy, beaten silver mugs of medieval German design, capable of carrying a full quart inside and an ample inscription on the outside.

Richthofen's cup pleased him and gave him an idea. It was a proper trophy commemorating a great achievement. But one trophy was not enough. The young uhlan decided to inaugurate his own system of cup presentation.

Instead of the one official cup for his first victory he would present himself with a silver victory cup, not only for that victory but for each successive one.

He ordered the first cup that night by mail from a jeweler in Berlin. He described in detail the kind he wanted—small, plain, two inches tall, and a little more than an inch across the top, with sides sloping slightly to a smaller base; the whole to be done in finely polished sterling, and the inside of the cup to be plated with a dull gold finish. He instructed the jeweler to engrave on one side the following inscription:

1. Vickers 2. 17. 9. 16.

This indicated that the cup commemorated his first victory and that the type of the enemy plane he had shot down was a Vickers. The second figure indicated that it was a two-seater, followed by the date of the combat—the 17th of September, 1916.

TODAY, in the bedroom of the flying uhlan in his mother's home in Schweidnitz, one may see how that collection of dead men's cups grew as the war in the air progressed. On a table under a large photograph of the dead ace one may count 60 of them and read from the inscriptions the types of machines, the number of occupants and the date on which Richthofen shot down each of them from the sky.

Almost a year later, after engraving the inscription of the sixtieth victory, the jeweler had to decline further orders. He had run out of silver and could get no more. As a result, Richthofen's last 20 victories in the air are commemorated only by reports and the graves of his victims.

But in the flush of his first kill, and still tingling with pride to be flying under the eyes of Boelke, Richthofen renewed his determination to kill and kill—and kill.

On the sixth day after the killing of Morris and Rees he posted another letter to the jeweler in Berlin. In effect it read:

"One more cup, please, just like the last one ordered. Engrave it with the following:

"2. Martinsyde 1. 23. 9. 16."

A week later, on the thirtieth of September, 1916, he shot down another two-seater, and the happy little German jeweler in Berlin scratched the blood victory on another silver tombstone.

His fourth and fifth victorious combats were with two more English machines, one a Kampf 2, a cumbersome pusher type with open-work tail spars instead of fuselage, and hardly a match for the speedy Albatross tractor that Richthofen flew. Richthofen downed his fifth on October 16, and his sixth on October 25, a fact that he mentioned simply to his mother:

"The weather is rather poor here now, but even so, I brought down my sixth Britisher yesterday."

Although winter was approaching and the changing elements added to the difficulties of the conflicting forces, the long series of bloody encounters known as the battles of the Somme, 1916, comprising a part of the allied offensive of that year, continued with unrelenting fury.

And then, on October 28, came a disaster that went deep to Richthofen's heart. His master, his hero, his air god—Boelke, the Great—was killed.

It happened toward the end of the Battle of the Ancre Heights, after the British ground forces had captured the Schwaben and Stuff redoubts and parts of the Regina trench system.

Boelke was leading his jagdstaffel of six fighting planes on his last flight. His spirit always animated his pupils. "We always had a wonderful feeling of security when he was with us," are the words of Richthofen.

Although outnumbered three to one and far away from their own lines, two British planes immediately accepted battle. Boelke dived on one of the planes. Richthofen, right behind his master, fastened himself above the tail of the other machine and poured in a murderous stream of lead; but the flying uhlan had to pull out of the fight because of the return fire he encountered and because one of his comrades dived between him and his intended quarry.

THEN down from above came another German Albatross with another of Boelke's pupils, a favorite, at the controls. He was diving at a terrific speed to the assistance of his master. His eyes were on the enemy plane.

But the newcomer watched too closely his enemy and not his leader. As he swooped past to the attack the tip of one of his planes touched the tip of Boelke's right wing.

The pupil who had collided with Boelke followed him down and, as the master's plane came out on the under side of the cloud curtain, the horror-stricken disciple saw that the falling Albatross was minus one complete plane.

Weakened by the jolt of the collision, it had been torn off by the rush of air in the increasingly rapid descent. It plunged downward, entirely out of control. Thus perished the man whom Ritchhofen held to be the greatest air fighter in the world.

Boelke's body lay in state in the military hospital at Cambrai. His military funeral behind the front was one of the most impressive ceremonies of the war.

Richthofen returned from Boelke's funeral and wrote to his mother as follows:

With the Boelke Combat Squaddon, November 3, 1916.

Liebe Mama:

Unfortunately, I missed the train after Boelke's funeral, to which I was detailed as the representative of the squadron. Now I can only visit you at the middle of the month.

During the funeral services and in the procession I carried a pillow displaying his decorations. The funeral was like that of a reigning Prince.

During six weeks we have had, out of twelve pilots, six dead and one wounded, while two have suffered a complete nervous collapse. Yesterday I brought down my seventh shortly after I had accounted for my sixth. The ill luck of all the others has not yet affected my nerves.

RICHTHOFEN, as one of the three survivors of the original twelve pilots of the jagdstaffel, was placed in command of the formation, which from that time on, by special citation of the high command, was designated as the Jagdstaffel Boelke.

Twelve days after Boelke's death, the flying uhlan had an opportunity to test the fighting capacity of the jagdstaffel in an air battle that, for the number of machines engaged, was the greatest in the war up to that time.

Eighty airplanes and more than 100 knights of the blue took part in that aerial tourney of death—at least, that is the aggregate of the estimates of both sides as to the strength of the enemy they encountered.

It was on the morning of November 9, 1916, during the last phase of the allied offensive of 1916, which was to end ten days later with the capture of Beaumont-Hamel.

The day was bright and clear. "Carry on!" sang out the O. C.'s in the Royal Flying corps airdromes off the Bapaume road.

Hardly twenty miles away, almost due east, but on the other side of the German line, another man was sampling the weather, rubbing his hands briskly, breathing delicious lungfuls of the fresh morning air, and gazing into the bright sky with a smile of approval.

He was his royal highness, the Grand Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, a noble relation of Emperor William and King George.

HIS headquarters were located close to the occupied French village of Vraucourt, in the center of which was a large beet sugar factory that had been taken over by the Germans for the storing of vast quantities of material, mostly explosives. It was the principal munitions dump for the sector. It was near Laigncourt, not far from Richthofen's airdrome.

Some forty or fifty eyes of the air looked at the spot marked Vraucourt on their flying maps shortly after 8 o'clock, when sixteen heavy English bombing machines, with their escort of fourteen fighting planes, climbed into the morning sun and nosed their propellers eastward.

The objective of the English operation was to bomb Vraucourt and its environs and particularly the sugar factory, with a couple of carefully selected and martially correct visiting cards to be dropped on his royal highness, the Grand Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha.

The Boelke Jagdstaffel of fighting Albatross planes, with the flying uhlan in the lead, dived downward on a long steep swoop toward the slow-going bomb-carriers plodding along at their best speed several thousand feet below their escort.

The sixteen British fighting planes of the Eleventh and Sixtieth squadrons of the Royal Flying Corps saw the move and dived from a similar altitude to intercept them. The firing opens.

THE dizzy whirl of gyration causes the fighting planes to lose height, so that now they engage one another hundreds of feet below the plodding bombers, which continue on their course. Their only part in the fight is defensive. They have objectives. They must deliver the goods—their "eggs."

Again the combat goes into the Kurvenkampf—the circular whirlwind of seemingly endless tail-chasing, with death the penalty for the tail that's caught.

As near as the results of the fight can be judged, from a comparison of both the British and the German reports, it appears that the English lost four planes and the Germans three. But the object of the operations had been accomplished. It shows briefly in the Royal Flying Corps operation report as follows: "Seventy-two bombs were dropped on Vraucourt."

After a week of almost daily combats, in which he failed to bring down a single enemy, the flying uhlan redoubled his efforts on November 20 and "shot a double"—brought down two enemy planes in one day. The first was a two-seater bombing plane and the second was a single-seater fighting plane. Both were British. This success, which to Richthofen was unprecedented, set his mind running back to his trophies, in quest of some means by which the dual victory could be symbolized in a manner to distinguish it from single affairs.

WRITING to the jeweler, he ordered two more cups, the first one, after the usual fashion, to be inscribed:

The second was to be of the same design, but just twice as large, and was to bear the inscription:

10. B. E. 1. 20, 11, 16.

The identical dates registered the fact that both were brought down in one day, and the double size for No. 10 would mark the passing of his first decade. He instructed the jeweler that thereafter every tenth cup was to be twice the usual size commemorating the intermediate victories.

If any one of Richthofen's conquests in the air deserved distinction above the others, it was his eleventh, which occurred on November 23. ... try this safe hard-water soap

THE whitest week's wash you ever saw, with this famous hard-water soap! Dirt and stains are loosened so quickly in its rich, safe suds.

See how the suds last—for this hard-water soap makes the hardest water soft as rain.

And Rinso's lively suds rinse off in a jiffy, and carry all the dirt along! See the whiteness of the clothes that come from washer or tub—the brightness!

Why, even boiling isn't necessary any more. Rinso alone—without the help of bar soaps, chips, powders or softeners—washes clothes whiter.

Marvelous in washers!

Because it washes clothes whiter, 32,000 washing machine demonstrators use Rinso. And the makers of 32 leading washers say "Use Rinso for safety."

You get your full money's worth when you buy Rinso, the granulated soap—it's so compact. Just feel how weighty the package is. For best results, follow the easy directions on the package.

Great for tubs, too!

Rinso soaks clothes whiter and brighter than you could scrub them. The grimiest edges become snowy with little or no rubbing. This gentle way saves the clothes, and your hands, too.

If any one of Richthofen's conquests in the air deserved distinction above the others, it was his eleventh, which occurred on November 23. On that day he killed the first and foremost ace of the Royal Flying Corps, who carried on his breast the purple ribbon and the bronze emblem of the Victoria Cross. His victim was Maj. Lanoe George Hawker, V. C., D. S. O., R. E., R. F. C.

Richthofen's story of that long death struggle was related in the first installment of this series.

In the record of the Richthofen cups of death, Hawker is found today with the simple inscription:

11. Vickers 1. 23, 11, 16.

By December, bad flying weather had reduced the activity of the air forces in the Somme sector. Richthofen's twelfth victim, an English one-seater fighting plane, went down under his guns on the eleventh of that month. Nine days later he sent two more planes to destruction. And on the twenty-seventh he brought down another two-seater.

Richthofen's father was a major of reserve infantry stationed back of the Somme line not far from the son's airdrome. Lothar, the younger brother, had transferred from the cavalry and was taking his final training for the air in a flying school nearby.

The Christmas feast at the airdrome comprised a happy family reunion for the proud Prussian spirit of the Richthofens. Father, sons and brothers, one and all, took pride in themselves and one another for the services they were performing for their country—and they celebrated it on the 1916th birthday of Him at whose coming it was said, "On earth peace, good will toward men."

YOUNG LOTHAR'S initial flight alone the day after the feast was an event that Richthofen watched with confidence but with some degree of anxiety. He still remembered the difficulties and dangers he had encountered and survived in order to get the coveted license to be a fighting pilot.

The kid came through with flying colors, receiving the assurance of his instructors and his brother that he was now well trained for the front.

They celebrated the event together on New Year's Day, and three days later the kid was watching from the ground when his brother brought down his sixteenth British plane in a bitter fight almost immediately above the airdrome.

From the cups on his desk Richthofen could reflect with some degree of pride upon his achievements. He had shot down 16 planes in four months. As eight of the planes had carried two occupants and eight of them had carried one occupant, he individually had accounted for 24 of his enemies.

But the most important computation to Richthofen at that period of his career was the fact that his 16 victories placed him in the lead of all the living air fighters in the service of his country. He was the ace of German aces.

Boelke and Immelmann, the old heroes, though not forgotten, were dead. The war was on and it was the day for the live, the quick, the strong. Richthofen succeeded to the favors the old heroes had once received from the hands of fame.

From his throat she suspended the coveted gold and white enameled cross of the order Pour le Merite, with a special citation from the Emperor. And on his breast she pinned the Austrian war cross from Franz Joseph.

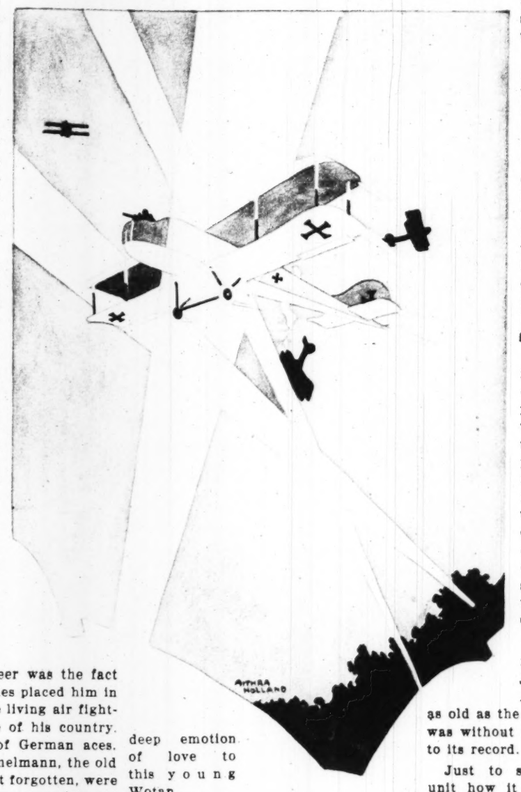
SHE brought him telegrams and illuminated messages of congratulations and felicitations from notables of state, army and navy.

She filled his mail with hundreds of letters from sighing maidens. Richthofen smiled as he read these letters from unknown admirers, many of whom looked up to him with soulful eyes from scented photographs. Some of them he showed to Voss and Schaeffer, who clapped him on the back and told him that he was a gay young blade.

One series of letters he never showed. The handwriting was distinctive. One of them turned up every time the mail arrived at the front. It was from the same girl—the same fraulein—the one who has since remained a mystery in the haze of legend that now surrounds the life of Germany's greatest air fighter.

Her penmanship was well known to the mail orderly and to Richthofen's orderly. The mail orderly always removed her letter from the flutter of general mail.

It is known that the girl of Richthofen's dreams lives in Germany today; but who or where are secrets closely guarded by her family and the mother of the man who loved her. For reasons that obviously must appear good to both of these families, Richthofen's sweetheart of nine years ago refuses to acknowledge herself as the one woman who brought the deep emotion of love to this young Wotan.



Friends say that the romance was one of suppressed desire on both sides. They wanted to be married, but Richthofen feared he would not survive the war. He knew death stalked him.

"I cannot indulge myself in the right of marriage," he said once, "as long as I am liable to die any day."

But the exchange of letters between him and the girl continued until he met his expected end. Richthofen kept her letters and she kept those from him. The present whereabouts of these love notes is one of the mysteries of the affair. Those who have studied Richthofen hope that some day those letters will come to light, to reveal the human side of a man whose reputation rests now upon his power and spirit to kill.

Unknown as the mystery girl remains, she is credited with having been his inspiration and confidante in those days when his name stood forth with Ludendorff's and Hindenburg's.

THAT distinction was uncontested in Germany and was recognized among the fighting forces of all the allied countries. It was a general recognition that Richthofen liked; but he desired more. He wanted each of his adversaries in the air to know who it was they fought. As the knights of old distinguished themselves by the color of the plumes waving atop their steel casques, so he identified himself in the tilt yard of the sky.

It happened during the days when the flyers on both sides were experimenting with camouflage in the air. Richthofen had tried out many different colors to make his plane less conspicuous, but the search for comparative invisibility remained fruitless. Seen from below with a sky background above, all airplanes showed distinctive silhouettes.

Convinced of the futility of these efforts, Richthofen went to the other extreme with a gesture of daring that added to his reputation for fearlessness with friend and foe. He had his entire plane painted a bright and glaring red.

During the first two weeks of the new year, when he was suddenly transferred and placed in command of a new flying formation, Richthofen retained the color, and the old Boelke squadron had to adopt different adornment.

The new formation was Jadgstaffel 11. Although just as old as the Boelke unit, it was without a single killing to its record.

Just to show the new unit how it was done, he led it over the English lines for the first time on January 23, and registered his seventeenth kill.

Richthofen's opponent that day was a young second "loule," who was so new to the war in the air that the English Air Ministry had not yet made the customary record of his civilian address or the names of his next kin.

Somewhere, presumably in the British Empire, a family is waiting for word about what happened to Johny Hay after his letters stopped coming.

Johny Hay and several planes from the Fortieth Squadron, R. F. C., left the airdrome west of Lens shortly before 3 o'clock in the afternon. It was Johnny's job to escort two slow-flying photographic planes on a patrol over the lines.

While the camera planes flew away, the single-seaters engaged the enemy fighters. The opposing planes flew round and round, each endeavoring to bring his gun to bear on the tail of the other.

WATCHING through their glasses, the Canadian gunners saw a burst of smoke at the tail of one of the hard-pressed English planes. It was Johny Hay's. His plane came down like a bolt of glowing fire.

While still more than 1000 feet above the trenches, a black bulk shot out from the ball of fire.

Falling slightly to one side, the dark satellite turned over and over in the air, revealing arms and legs. Charred fragments of the plane fell over a wide area.

The Canadians picked up what was left of Johny Hay about two miles southeast of the little village of Aix-Noulette and buried it.

That night, in the mess at Squadron Forty's airdrome, the Sergeant-Major packed up a bundle of letters, photographs of several girls, an extra pair of boots, and some trinkets, and marked the bundle:

2d Lieut. J. Hay. Pilot 40th sq. Killed in action, 23.1.17.

Twenty miles away in his quarters at the Douai airdrome, Richthofen was writing an order to his Berlin jeweler for another silver victory cup to be inscribed:

17. F. E. 1. 23. 1. 17.

(Copyright for the Post-Dispatch.)

(Richthofen is brought down at last. In next Sunday's Post-Dispatch Magazine there will be a description of the battle which sent the great German ace to defeat. But, as he said in a letter to his mother, a miracle enabled him to escape death, and even injury).

Discover Cause of Baldness

Group of Eminent Scalp Specialists Perfect Entirely New Suction Treatment for Premature Loss of Hair.

Men and women left prematurely bald by the loss of their hair will be gratified to learn that an entirely new and wonderful discovery that has rewarded five years of study by the well-known Ha-Su-Ma Laboratories of Chicago. The treatment of baldness is revolutionized.

Entirely new knowledge of Nature's laws affecting the scalp and hair growth has been gained by this organization of hair specialists. With this new understanding of the cause of baldness they have perfected a radically different and marvelously effective method for preventing the loss of hair and encouraging new growth from dormant roots.

Hair, it is found, like all other tissues and organs of the body, depends for its growth and health upon constant nourishment of its roots by the blood stream. Falling hair plainly indicates a clogged and shrunken condition of the tiny veins of the scalp, preventing free circulation of the blood to the papilla or follicles in which the hair strands are rooted. Starvation is the result. The hair shafts stop growing and fall out, and are not replaced by new hair so long as the follicles remain dormant.

Altogether scientific is the principle of the newly perfected HA-SU-MA Suction Method for restoring vigorous circulation to the papilla by instant suction and gentle massage of the scalp. New life and activity are felt immediately as veins that have been clogged and choked for months or years resume their normal functioning.

From hundreds of people who have used the new treatment at home, as well as from scores of hair and scalp specialists who are using it in their practice there has come to HA-SU-MA Laboratories the most enthusiastic letters of praise and thanks, convincing proof that it brings results. In order to introduce the new discovery far and wide without delay, the HA-SU-MA Laboratories offer to send this treatment to anyone interested on 30 days trial. And then a week later, she writes on her last night in jail: "I sit in my cell alone, wondering just what will come next. I have no power to combat my fate at all. What is, is, and so it shall be, even unto the end. Has anyone ever spent such a 90 days in jail, I wonder. My love for Walter is not so deep now, just a hidded, trampled thing that is hopeless. And sometimes I hate him, too. He's supposed to be a gentleman, but he isn't. He's just little and mean and vulgar sometimes, and then is sweet and tender and lovable to someone else, not me. I have written a poem to him. I wonder if he will ever read it. And so, lonely and blue in my cell, with the rain and wind howling outside, I pull the curtains and so close another chapter in the book of fate.

"I'll spend what time is left to me in draining
Whatever joy is left to me remaining,
And memorize all good there is about you,
To carry with me through the days without you.
Finis."

And so Gerry's three months—at hard labor, the sentence read—ended.

The diary, together with all other evidence presented during the hearing, which extended over several weeks, will be placed before Governor Zimmerman.

And, meanwhile, waiting for the outcome, Sheriff Plummer professes to be very confident. He ascribes the whole action to political enmity.

Gerry, for the time being at least, has gone back to her roadhouse. She is a woman of considerable experience for her 25 years. She has been married and divorced and is the mother of a child. Husband and child live in Chicago. She is just at present very disturbed about her future career. The most likely suggestion that has been made so far is that she write for the "true story" magazines.

EVEN LOVING HANDS MAY SPREAD DISEASE

Get germs off hands to guard family health

....use the toilet soap that purifies as it cleanses

WHAT wouldn't daddy do to keep his precious little one happy and healthy!

Yet . . . this very moment he may be exposing her to the danger of disease. For daddy's hands may be hiding germs—germs that may very quickly pass over to those little hands—and reach her mouth.

Watch out for germ-laden hands

Everywhere today health authorities are warning parents against this danger. Germs, they say, get on hands from many things we must touch—telephones, trolley straps, door-knobs, toys, money. The Life Extension Institute lists 27 germ diseases that hands may carry home—in just this way.

Don't take chances with your loved ones' health—your own health. For greater safety, wash frequently with Lifebuoy—especially before playing with youngsters and always before eating. Train everyone in your family, both big and little, to use this purifying toilet soap. Its antiseptic lather removes germs as well as dirt.

A hygienic scent millions love

Children, grown-ups too, quickly learn to love Lifebuoy's pleasant clean scent—which tells you that Lifebuoy purifies—yet which quickly evaporates after rinsing.

And the same gentle, antiseptic Lifebuoy lather that guards health by removing germs—keeps skins fresh and clear by purifying pores. Prevents embarrassing body odor, too.

Use Lifebuoy a week and you'll use it for life. Get some today.

ing Albatross planes, with the flying uhlan in the lead, dived downward on a long steep swoop toward the slow-going bomb-carriers plodding along at their best speed several thousand feet below their escort.

The sixteen British fighting planes of the Eleventh and Sixtieth squadrons of the Royal Flying Corps saw the move and dived from a similar altitude to intercept them. The firing opens.

THE dizzy whirl of gyrations causes the fighting planes to lose height, so that now they engage one another hundreds of feet below the plodding bombers, which continue on their course. Their only part in the fight is defensive. They have objectives. They must deliver the goods—their "eggs."

Again the combat goes into the Kurvenkampf—the circular whirlwind of seemingly endless tail-chasing, with death the penalty for the tail that's caught.

As near as the results of the fight can be judged, from a comparison of both the British and the German reports, it appears that the English lost four planes and the Germans three. But the object of the operations had been accomplished. It shows briefly in the Royal Flying Corps operation report as follows: "Seventy-two

SELLING the SOVIET to the PEOPLE WITH POSTERS

THE pictures on this page are reproductions of three posters of a series painted by order of the Soviet Government and published recently in celebration of the tenth anniversary of the Russian revolution. The pictures, together with bits of accompanying text, were designed as propaganda to remind Russians of the benefits and privileges they enjoy under the Soviet regime. Each portrays some phase of peasant life and purports to show how the poor man's condition has improved since the days of the Czar.

At the top is "The Soviet Court," painted by B. B. Johanson. It depicts a court-room scene in which a wronged woman receives justice. On the wall is the legend: "The Proletarian Court—forge of a new condition of life." The text published with the picture explains: "The rich peasant was attracted by the beauty of Akulkina. The working girl gave birth to a son. Proff Timochin (the peasant) does not pay. The girl comes to court and Proff is summoned. He pleads, 'Akulkina lies....this is all a swindle.... she has many lovers.' Proff is yelling. He shouts with a full throat and in his words there is a mean lie. The girl, however, is a treasure; no one can notice anything wrong with her. The rich peasant made the noise in vain; the defamation is obvious to everybody. You will pay the alimony in full, according to the law."

Below the court scene appears the painting, "Kalinin With the Folks," by N. M. Michailoff. It depicts the chief of the Soviet Union drinking tea with a peasant family. "Hey, rub your eyes, please, and look at it," commands the text. "Abroad the peasants are like badgers in their holes, but with us the peasants are in the committees and in the council of the People's Commissioners. Abroad, they go to the peasants with guns and tanks, but Kalinin goes to the peasants to drink tea with pretzels."

At the left, "The Village Studies," by N. B. Terpsikhoroff, strives to show, like the court scene, how Soviet Russia has advanced the cause of women. It depicts villagers old and young at their books. The text accompanying the original poster explains philosophically: "Without science the individual is not more clever than a turnip. In the head of the unlearned the thoughts are blind. An elderly peasant, a young fellow, a boy, a girl—all want to learn. You can see women with little children behind the books; everybody who has sense takes to learning. Our teacher taught us that our field is power. And science will help us to multiply this power."

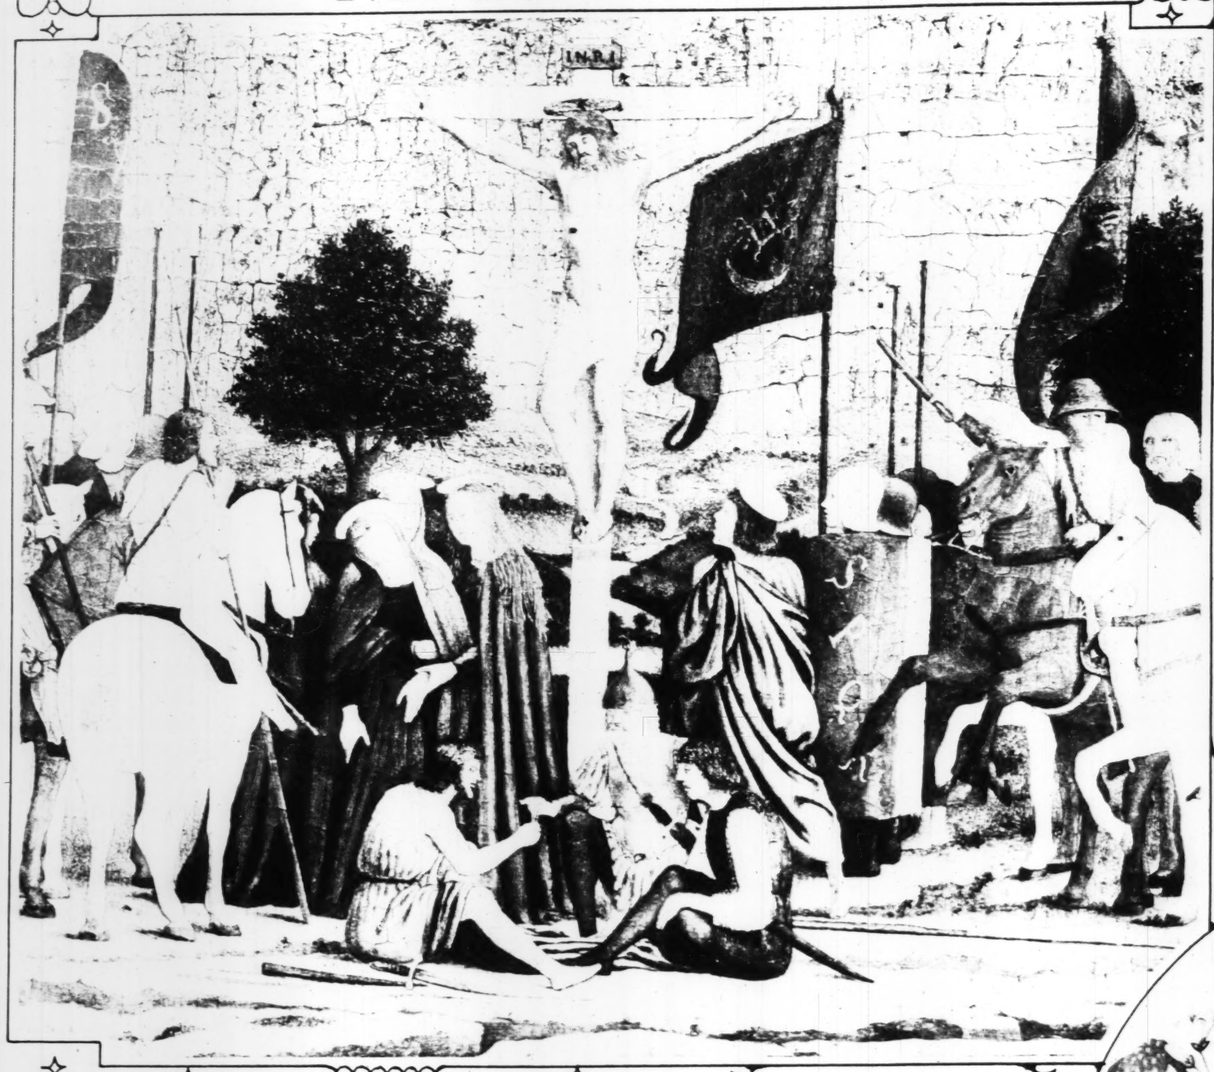
MOST VALUABLE LOAN EXHIBIT OF ART EVER SHOWN IN ST. LOUIS



The Crucifixion, by Piero Della Francesca, a Florentine work of art in the Fifteenth Century. The painter died in 1492, the year Columbus came to America.

During February, in the St. Louis Art Museum, there will be displayed many gems from the Charles W. Hamilton collection of paintings by old masters, rare furniture, and other art objects. The value of this collection is estimated at $3,500,000. Just a few of the paintings to be seen are shown on this page.

Bust portrait of St. John the Evangelist, a life-size, half-length figure in carved wood with polychrome surface, a Florentine work of the Sixteenth Century.

The Madonna and Child, with an angel and St. John, by Sandro Botticelli, painted in the late Fifteenth Century.

Beatrice D'Este, by Bernardino de Conte, typical of the Milanese school of art in the Fifteenth Century.

Portrait of a man, by Titian. The likeness is supposed to be that of one of the Doges of Venice, Andrea Gritti, and was painted about 1501.

I Lost That Fat
So Easily—So Quickly

Many people all about you now rejoice in slender figures. Wherever you look you can see that excess fat has largely disappeared.

Some have lost fat painfully — by starvation or abnormal exercise. But they found these methods slow and hard, and often dangerous. A great many others have gained the results in an easy pleasant way, modern and scientific.

This modern method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets, now used for 20 years. They combat a cause of excess fat discovered by modern research. That cause is not overeating or too little exercise, but lack of a certain substance in the system.

For two decades Marmola has helped to bring new beauty, new health and vitality to those who were over-fat.

Those people have told the results to others, so the use has spread. Now in every circle you can see the results of this easy, pleasant method.

The use of Marmola requires no abnormal exercise or diet, but moderation helps. Simply take four tablets daily until the weight comes down to normal. Every box contains the formula, also an explanation of results, to banish any fear of harm.

Go try Marmola—you owe that to yourself. Learn what so many know about it. Watch its results for a month, and you will be glad in many ways that you found it out. Order a box now before you forget it.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. Any druggist who is out will get them from his jobber for you.

The Pleasant Way to Reduce

Mr. William Barnes of 1215 E. Oxford St., Philadelphia caught a bad cold and cough while on duty as a Park Guard. A REM window display caught his eye—and here's the story

He says "Go" to traffic
--REM says "Stop" to his cough

"This winter I contracted a very severe cold and cough that I simply could not shake," says Mr. Barnes. "It was tight on my chest. One evening I noticed a REM window display in a drug store and I thought I would give REM a chance and see what it would do. Well I certainly was surprised at the quick results I got. REM certainly felt soothing to the throat, and so cool like, the whole way down. Right away it loosened the phlegm, and the cough was broken up in no time, it seemed. So now I'll always use REM for coughs."

Though every bottle carries an honest-to-goodness guarantee, not one person in a hundred has ever wanted his money back on REM. Could anyone write a better advertisement for REM than that?

Insist on REM! Remember, its effectiveness is largely due to a special ingredient, not in ordinary cough syrups.

Now You Can Reduce 2 to 4 Lbs. in a Night

Eat what you please
Wear what you please
Do what you please
Take no risky medicine

Send the coupon for your first three Fayro Baths

Thousands of smart women have found this easy way to take off 2 to 4 pounds once or twice a week. These women take refreshing Fayro baths in the privacy of their own homes.

Fayro is the concentrate of the same natural mineral salts that make effective the waters of twenty-two hot springs of America, England and Continental Europe. For years the spas and hot springs bathing resorts have been the retreat of fair women and well groomed men.

Excess weight has been removed, skins have been made more lovely, bodies more shapely and minds brighter.

The Hot Springs are now Brought to You

Painstaking analyses of the active ingredients of the waters from twenty-two of the most famous springs have taught us the secret of their effectiveness. You can now have all these benefits in your own bath. Merely put Fayro into your hot bath. It dissolves rapidly. You will notice and enjoy the pungent fragrance of its balsam oils and clean salts.

Then, Fayro, by opening your pores and stimulating perspiration forces lazy body cells to sweat out surplus fat and bodily poisons. Add Fayro to your bath at night and immediately you will lose from 2 to 4 pounds in an easy, refreshing and absolutely harmless manner.

Your physician will tell you that Fayro is certain to do the work and that it is absolutely harmless.

Fayro will refresh you and help your body throw off worn-out fat and bodily poisons. Your skin will be clearer and smoother. You will sleep better after your Fayro bath and awaken feeling as though you had enjoyed a week's vacation.

Lose Weight Where You Most Want to

Fayro reduces weight generally but you can also concentrate its effect on abdomen, hips, legs, ankles, chin or any part of the body you may wish.

Results Are Immediate

Weigh yourself before and after your Fayro bath. You will find you have lost from 2 to 4 pounds. And a few nights later when you again add Fayro to your bath, you will once more reduce your weight. Soon you will be the correct weight for your height. No need to deny yourself food you really want. No need for violent exercise. No need for drugs or medicines. Merely a refreshing Fayro bath in the privacy of your own home.

Try Fayro at Our Risk

The regular price of Fayro is $1.00 a package. With the coupon you get 3 full sized packages and an interesting booklet, "Health and Open Pores," for $2.50 plus the necessary postage. Send no money. Pay the postman. Your money refunded instantly if you want it.

HERE'S PROOF

Read what Fayro Baths have done for others

"Three Fayro baths reduced my weight 11 pounds in 8 days. I feel better than I have felt for years."

"I weigh 16 pounds less and feel younger and sleep better. Fayro is wonderful."

"My double chin vanished in the magic of Fayro baths."

"My hips were always too prominent until I commenced Fayro baths. I have lost 12 pounds."

"Thank you for Fayro. I lost 14 pounds in three weeks, feel better and certainly look better."

"Since childhood my thick ankles have always been a source of embarrassment. Fayro baths have reduced them beautifully. Thank you very much."

For obvious reasons, names are not quoted, but every letter published has been authorized and names and addresses will be given on request.

If each healthful bath of Fayro does not reduce your weight from 2 to 4 pounds, we will refund your money without a question. You risk nothing. Clip the coupon and mail it today.

Fayro, Inc., SLPD-2-5
821 Locust St., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Send me 3 full sized packages of Fayro in plain package. I will pay the postman $2.50 plus the necessary postage. It is understood that if I do not get satisfactory results with the first package I use, I am to return the other two and you will refund all of my money at once.

Startled screams....help that comes too late....heartaches that could have been averted—if the child had learned to obey—to shun forbidden things. Forbidden things....forbidden acts....what a frightful toll they take each year among our children! Climbing trees, playing near the water, running in the street or on the car tracks—all too often these willful acts of disobedience have quick and tragic endings. Many times the tragedy is averted by the narrowest of margins—but at what terrific cost to parents! Nervous breakdowns....vanished youth....premature gray hairs.....

But a new way in child training ends all this—wins willing, cheerful obedience from children of all ages. No matter how self-willed a child may be—no matter how unruly or how stubborn—he quickly gains the habit of instant obedience under all conditions. No whipping necessary. No coaxing, threats or bribes. This new way is a natural, normal, humane method. Write for free information about this simple plan that is guaranteed to bring immediate results. Send no money. Hurtling into space! MR. CHARLES B. WEBBER, JR., going over the top . . .

"'Afflicted' was a mild word for my case"

East Milton, Mass.

"MY EMBARRASSMENT was natural enough. I work in a bank and am in constant contact with people with whom appearance counts. Also I am thrown socially with a group of young people interested in sports—and a blotchy complexion doesn't fit there either.

"I was 'afflicted'—that's a mild word for the case—with a whole series of eruptions. No sooner had one harvest of pimples begun to disappear than another crop sprang up... The situation got on my nerves.

"I knew that my father had found Fleischmann's Yeast beneficial. I myself began eating three cakes faithfully every day. The results were surprising. My skin cleared—completely. My morale rose—enormously."

Charles B. Webber, Jr.

FRESH as any vegetable from the garden, Fleischmann's Yeast is a food—not a medicine.

Yet this food possesses a truly remarkable power. The power to cleanse the intestines of poisons. To keep them active. To "regulate."

As your constipation disappears, your whole being awakens to new vigor and life. Your blood clears. Your skin freshens. Your indigestion gives way.

Buy 2 or 3 days' supply of Fleischmann's Yeast at a time from your grocer and keep in any cool dry place. Also at many leading cafeterias, lunch counters and soda fountains. And send for latest booklet on Yeast in the diet—free. Health Research Dept. N-948, The Fleischmann Company, 701 Washington Street, New York City.

"I WAS TENDING the gates at the crossing. A fellow from the power house down the line happened along, and we got to talking about different things. I happened to mention how I had tried all kinds of medicines for my indigestion and he said, 'Why not try Fleischmann's Yeast? I take it regularly.' Well, after eating it for a few months, I felt ten years younger. My indigestion simply disappeared."

LEFT

"I WAS SO NERVOUS and run down I couldn't stand the slightest noise, and could hardly do my housework. I weighed only 97 pounds. And I was badly constipated.

"Naturally I am only too glad to submit my own little 'True Story' of what Fleischmann's Yeast has done for me and indirectly for my family.

"I began eating Fleischmann's Yeast on or about the first of August after reading about it and through the advice of friends.

"I am now entirely relieved of constipation, thanks to Fleischmann's Yeast. I have never felt better in my married life than I do at this time."

Mrs. M. S. Parsons, Minneapolis, Minn.

Health, new joy in living —this easy way

Eat three cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast every day, one cake before each meal or between meals. Eat it plain, or dissolved in water (hot or cold), or any other way you like. For stubborn constipation drink one cake in a glass of hot water—not scalding—before meals and before going to bed. And train yourself to form a regular daily habit.

Remove Dingy Film to Make Teeth Dazzling White

Dentists urge you to do it daily to protect teeth from serious tooth and gum disorders

IF teeth are dingy, dull, "off color," they are film coated. Coated with a stubborn film ordinary brushing does not successfully remove. A film that dental science charges with most discolored teeth, with scores of serious tooth and gum disorders.

Send for 10-Day Free Tube

To remove it, you must use a special, film-removing dentifrice, say dental authorities. Thus most advise twice a day use of Pepsodent—a tooth paste different from all others; made especially to remove dangerous film from teeth.

Film is the great enemy of pretty teeth and healthy gums. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and forms a breeding place for germs. It invites the acids of decay.

Film, too, is the basis of tartar. And germs, with tartar, are the cause of pyorrhea. It absorbs discolorations from food and smoking. And makes pretty teeth look "off color."

Pepsodent first curdles that film. Then removes it in gentle safety to enamel. It acts to firm the gums and give them healthy, coral color. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva and keeps the mouth clean. Largely on dental advice, thousands are discarding old ways for it. Get at drug store. Or send coupon for 10-day trial tube.

SMILES ARE DAZZLING WHITE when film is gone. Teeth sparkle like polished jewels. Gums firm to healthy coral tint. Thus this new scientific way of dental care becomes one of the greatest beauty treatments of the day, and, with its unique therapeutic and prophylactic qualities, a great aid in oral hygiene.

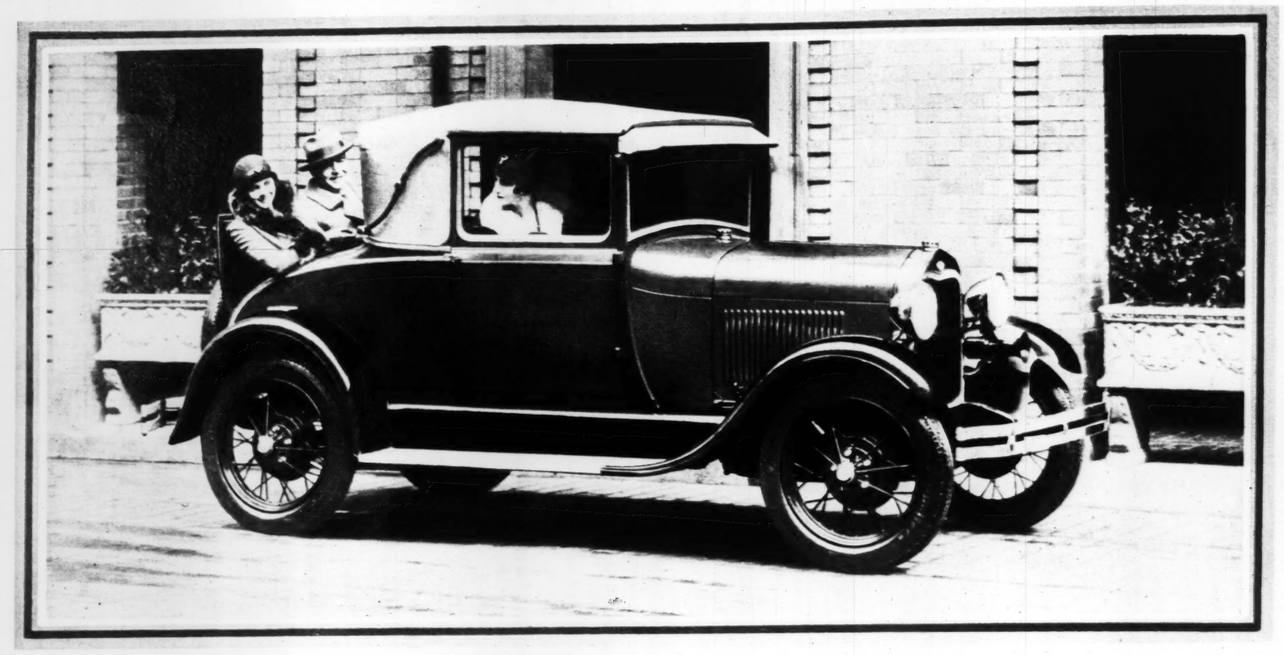
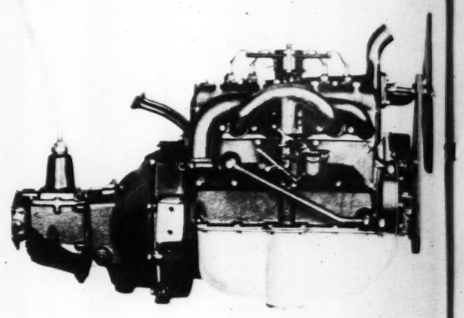
All the features of the new Ford cars are brought to you in this new Sport Coupe . . . beautiful low body lines and choice of colors . . . Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield . . . 55 to 65 miles an hour . . . 40-horse-power engine . . . remarkable acceleration . . . 20 to 30 miles per gallon of gasoline . . . Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers . . . four-wheel brakes . . . typical Ford reliability and long life . . . low first cost and low up-keep cost.



Make it a point to see and examine this new Ford engine. Many features of it are exclusive Ford developments.



The new Ford has a remarkable engine

Development of 40 horse-power at only 2200 revolutions per minute an example of fine automobile engineering

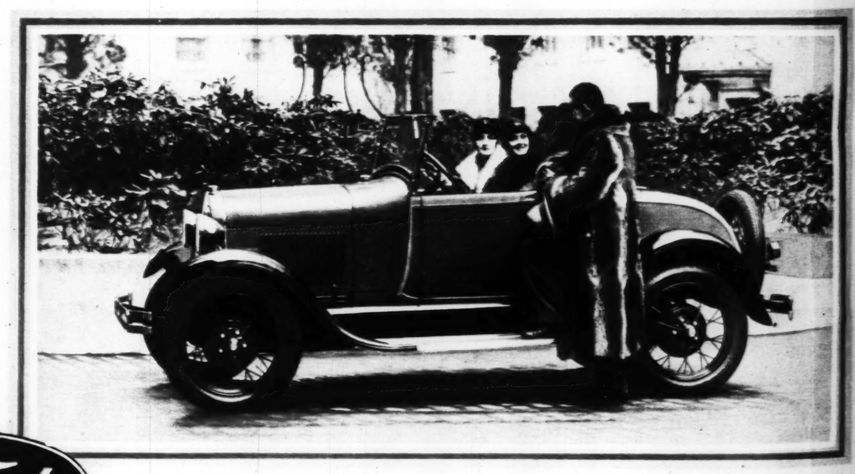
THE four-cylinder engine in the new Ford represents a new development in modern automobile engineering. It is unique in design and performance because it develops 40-brake-horse-power at only 2200 revolutions per minute.

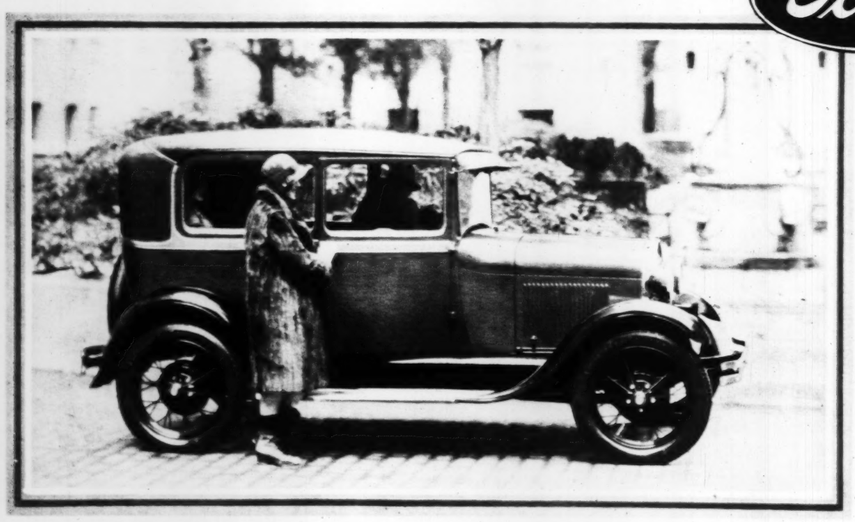
This means you can do 55 to 65 miles an hour in the new Ford and yet you do not have a high-speed motor.

The low r.p.m., or revolution speed, also means greater efficiency and longer life because the lower the speed of your engine, the less the wear on its parts.

Some of the factors which have contributed to this power are the specially designed carburetor, the new hot spot manifold, larger valve diameter, the carbon chrome nickel alloy valves which resist the oxidizing and scaling effect of hot gases, the shape of the combustion chamber which helps to insure higher compression and complete explosion of the gas, the aluminum pistons, the 63-pound fly-wheel, the heavy crankshaft which is statically and dynamically balanced, and built to withstand a twisting stress up to 60,000 inch-pounds, the five-bearing camshaft, and the newly designed exhaust system which minimizes back pressure.

The fine limits of measurement in the new Ford cars are shown in the diameter of the piston pin, which is held within three ten-thousandths of an inch (.0003). An even closer limit is maintained in the diameter of the hole into which the piston pin is fitted. Here the limit of tolerance is two ten-thousandths of an inch (.0002).





The new Ford is the complete car, giving you everything you want or need in a modern automobile. Standard equipment includes five steel-spoke wheels, four 30 x 4.50 balloon tires, windshield wiper, speedometer, cowl gasoline gauge, dashlight, mirror, combination stop and tail light, oil indicator rod, complete tool set, theft-proof coincidental lock, pressure grease gun lubrication, and Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield.

Ford

All of this may sound a bit technical, but there is nothing complicated about the engine in the new Ford. It has been designed for reliability and long life as well as speed and power. There is, in fact, no automobile engine so simple in construction as the engine in the new Ford, yet so capable and efficient in operation. "Make it better—make it simpler" has always been the policy of the Ford Motor Company. This policy has been carried forward to new heights in this new car.

A further indication of the efficiency of the engine in the new Ford is shown in its smooth, quiet running at all speeds. It is practically vibrationless, because of its low r.p.m. and the many mechanical improvements that have been built into it. To insure quiet, the timing gears are made of bakelized fabric instead of metal and the cams on the camshaft are so designed that the valve push rods follow closely, preventing valve clicking.

Low, smart and fleet is the new Ford Roadster—a car for Youth and the Country Club. Your choice of a number of beautiful two-tone color harmonies.

These are but a few of the many reasons for the speed and power of the new Ford—for its quick acceleration—for its reliability, low up-keep cost and long life—for its alert, capable performance under all conditions.

Arrange now to see this new Ford and know the thrill of driving it. You will know then that it is not just a new automobile—not just a new model—but the advanced expression of a wholly new idea in modern, economical transportation.

The Roadster sells for $385; the Phaeton for $395; the Coupe for $495; the Tudor Sedan for $495; the Sport Coupe for $550; the Fordor Sedan for $570. (Prices F.O.B. Detroit.)
